The Man Who Came to Dinner features a popular radio personality named Sheridan Whiteside, Avery explained, who, while dining at the home of the Stanleys, a prestigious family from a small town in Ohio, slips on the doorstep and breaks his hip. He is then confined to the family's living room for six weeks, during which time ex-convicts are invited to meals, phone bills escalate, and the house is infested by penguins and cockroaches. All of these events, along with Whiteside's secretary's developing crush on a local reporter, the arrival of numerous unusual gifts, and a visit by a Hollywood vamp, make the show enjoyable for a diversified audience, Avery said.

The play includes four to five major roles, four to five supporting roles, and numerous minor roles (some of which will be dual cast).

Persons cast in major roles will usually rehearse four or five times per week, Avery said, and supporting role-players will average three to four rehearsals per week. Those in minor roles will generally rehearse one to two times per week. Avery said the last 10 days of rehearsal will most likely involve "run-throughs" on each night for the entire cast.

The Man Who Came to Dinner is produced by special permission from the Dramatist's Play Publishing Co. and is sponsored in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Reservations can be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640, beginning on Feb. 15.

ORANGE COUNTY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:23 - Released 1/11/02

Although the trailers for Orange County make it look like it's another wacky Jack Black movie, Black is really little more than a side character in a depressing story about a young beach bum who tries to better himself, is thwarted by his entire dysfunctional family, and finally decides that it doesn't really matter that much. Unfortunately, it's supposed to be a comedy.

Written by Mike White and directed by Jake Kasdan, Orange County is one of those comedies that is built on a simple misunderstanding that, if someone would simply take 5 minutes to explain it to the right person, could be cleared up. But then you wouldn't have a movie. Shaun Brumder (Colin Hanks) is a high school senior from Orange County, California, who has never had a lot of trouble with school. His grades are impeccable, and when he finds a book buried in the sand at his local surfing hangout, it changes his life. He decides that he wants to be a writer, and not only that, he wants to go to Stanford University, where the writer of the book teaches.

Now for the misunderstanding: Shaun's guidance counselor (Lily Tomlin), who doesn't appear to have any idea who he is, mistakely sends the wrong transcripts to Stanford under his name. The ones she sends, of course, belong to a stoner with terrible grades. Although in the real world this could surely be cleared up with a phone call, Shaun is rejected, and therefore forced to adopt other methods to convince the Stanford admissions staff to change their minds, from attempting to schmooze a high-placed board member (Garry Marshall) to driving to the university and appealing to the dean of admissions (Harold Ramis). But since Shaun's friends and family either a) don't really want him to go or b) are too caught up in their own stupid problems to help him out, his every attempt at impressing the necessary people is wrecked by some inane mixup or slapsticky event.

In addition to twentysomethings Hanks, Black, and Schuyler Fisk, who plays Shaun's almost intelligent girlfriend, there are a surprising number of older and more distinguished actors making appearances in this second-rate teen comedy, including Catherine O'Hara and John Lithgow as Shaun's irresponsible divorced parents, Chevy Chase and Ben Stiller in what amount to two-line cameos, and Kevin Kline as the author whose book fires Shaun's imagination. If one simply saw the cast list, one would expect a much better film, but few of them have more than 5 minutes of screen time. Hanks shows signs of having inherited his father Tom's genial charm and ability to deliver the occasional sly wit with the same ease as his better-known co-star Black, and Fisk (daughter of Sissy Spacek) comports herself admirably, too, but this film doesn't really give them all that much to work with. But, I suppose you have to start somewhere. I mean, after all, Hanks's dad got his start on Bosom Buddies. ★★

BLACK HAWK DOWN

Rated R - Running Time: 2:24 - Released 12/28/01

I saw a TV documentary recently about the real story behind Black Hawk Down, and I said to myself, "I can't imagine how the movie can be any more intense than this." But I forgot about Ridley Scott. The Oscar-winning director of Alien, Thelma And Louise, and last year's Gladiator (which I don't consider one of his best), Scott and his cinematographer, Slavomir Idziak, take an already incredible true story and imbue it with a global view and an aesthetic sense that even the soldiers who were there didn't enjoy. This is to say nothing of the brutally honest screenplay by Ken Nolan and Steven Zaillian, based on the book by Philadelphia Inquirer writer Mark Bowden. Although it is not without its faults (its overlong running time of 144 minutes, almost completely filled with high-intensity battle footage, results in a slight case of oversaturation), the film is a riveting account of the longest and most devastating battle engaged in by the U.S. armed forces since Vietnam.

With a diverse, all-male cast, Black Hawk Down recounts the story of the battle which occurred on Oct. 3-4, 1993, in Mogadishu, Somalia, in which American soldiers attempted to apprehend highly placed advisors to warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid. A mission which was supposed to be a quick raid took on tragic proportions when the elite Army Rangers and Delta Force personnel were pinned down in the city for 15 hours after two of their Black Hawk helicopters were shot down by the well-armed and deeply entrenched Somali militia. Beginning with a short introductory sequence before the action hits high gear, the soldiers from the two units engage in good-natured one-upsmanship in their preparations for the mission. We meet Staff Sergeant Matt Eversmann (Josh Hartnett), who will be in command for the first time, Company Clerk John Grimes (Ewan McGregor), an expert at coffeemaking who has never seen action, and gritty Captain Mike Steele (Jason Isaacs), among many others. After this short prologue, the film plunges headlong into the fight, with Major General William Garrison (Sam Shepard) watching the horrific events unfold on TV monitors from his command post at the military base.

The following nearly 2 hours of action is full of bullet-whizzing, rocket-launching, chopper-thumping action, with numerous sub-plots recounting the various problems encountered by the over 100 soldiers involved, and generally good performances all around. Also featured are Tom Sizemore, who does an admirable job of recreating his role from Saving Private Ryan, Ron Eldard as pilot Mike Durant, the only American prisoner taken in the struggle, and Charlie Hofheimer as a young corporal who endures a gruesome death.

The battle of Mogadishu, whose death toll reached 19 on the American side and hundreds of Somalis, emerged as a highly controversial event, as its resolution (including Durant's 11-day imprisonment and the unforgettable news footage in which the bodies of dead American soldiers were dragged through the streets), led then President Bill Clinton, in his first year in office, to pull U.S. forces out of Somalia before Aidid had been apprehended. This is especially relevant given the recent unpleasantness involving Osama bin Laden. But whether you're among those who feel the Americans should have been allowed to "get the job done" in Somalia or that our government had no business meddling in that country's internal affairs in the first place, the film is a riveting, emotional, and brutal account of the heroism human beings are capable of, told by a talented filmmaker from a distinctly American point of view. ★★★★½

Rams Roll To Record 16th Straight Over Beall, NHS

The current Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad has assured itself a spot in SHS annals by securing its 16th straight win last night in a 63-31 victory over Northern. The record-breaking triumph came on the heels of Monday night's 76-38 romp over fifth-ranked Beall.

Last night's win put the Rams over the top of the 15-straight victory mark set by the 1996 SHS squad, which finished that season at 21-4. Southern has won its last 19 WMIL games as well. "We're just taking one game at a time," Ram coach Don Stemple remarked. "The girls are not letting their success go to their heads, and are very business-like about what they have to do to win." The Rams have one goal in mind, their guru reiterated: to bring a state title back to Garrett County.

Southern took another rung in the ladder toward that lofty goal in handing a fine Beall squad (now 12-2) its first WMIL loss Monday night to take sole possession of the league's top spot. The Mountaineers came into the night looking for an upset, having bested powerful Frankfort squad last Wednesday in a come-from-behind 51-48 victory. Beall had been down by as many as 12 points in the third quarter of that battle, but in roaring back clinched its eighth straight win.

The Rams, however, were not intimidated. Corresponding with their uniform color, they hit the floor like a white tornado and vaulted to a 24-2 first-quarter lead to set the tone for the rest of the night. By halftime SHS was up 40-12, and as the fourth quarter got under way the Rams held a 59-29 advantage.

Four Southern players, two from the backcourt and two from the frontcourt, peppered the backboard to score in double figures. Liller connected for 18 points, Flanagan recorded 17, Pagenhardt contributed 12, and Bosley had 11. Flanagan ripped down eight rebounds while Liller and Gregg each dished out nine assists. As a team, the Rams sank 10 of 13 free throws.

"I think in the first quarter we just jumped on them so quickly because of our intensity," Stemple commented. "Our girls were fired up and ready to play. We had a nice crowd and the kids were anxious to get going."

Stemple was delighted with the Rams' near-perfect defensive play, as the Mounties, who had brought some of the area's better scorers into the contest, were all but shut down on offense. Flanagan and Gregg held Whitney Wilson and Kacey Kahl, respectively, to 10 points each, Liller limited Angie Johnson to six points, Pagenhardt stymied Jackie Aylor for four points, and Bosley surrendered just two points to Jessica Conway.

"Becca, Robbin, and Justine played some great hustling, man-to-man defense, and Ashley and Jennifer were kind of free to roam to the ballhandler on their side when they saw the opportunity," the coach said. "We got the Mountaineers into a lot of double team situations by doing that, and they were forced to take a number of low-percentage shots from beyond the perimeter. We really didn't give them any open looks, and that's exactly what we need to be doing."

The Rams' junior varsity unit whipped the Oakland crowd into a frenzy earlier during the evening by throttling their Mountie counterparts 45-16. Danielle Hickman paced a balanced SHS offense with 13 points.

Last night's match-up with Northern was another rout, as the Rams were up by more than double what the Huskies had scored at the end of each of the four qnarters. SHS jumped out to a 14-6 first-quarter lead, was up 28-10 at the half, and had rolled up a 48-21 advantage as the fourth stanza got under way.

Liller paced all scorers with 18 points, slightly below her 21-ppg area-leading tally, by hitting five field goals and eight of nine free throws. The guard also snagged seven rebounds and dished out six assists. Flanagan tallied a double-double with 11 points and a game-high 13 rebounds, Gregg netted 12 points, and Pagenhardt scored eight points and had seven rebounds.

The win was not a picture-perfect affair, however, as the Rams committed an uncharacteristic 17 fouls. They also hit just 13 of 22 foul shots, far below the area-high 70-plus free-throw shooting percentage they had brought into the game.

Heather Lander's nine points led the Huskies (now 5-9), Bridget Frazee tallied eight points, and Jolene Brenneman contributed six. Amanda Frantz, the area's tenth leading scorer with a 16-ppg average, was forced to watch the game from sidelines after sustaining an ankle injury Monday night against Frankfort.

Southern took the JV contest 33-20 as Jasmine Scheffel scored a game-high nine points. Kayla Kamp paced the Huskies with six points.

The Rams travel to Preston Monday night for a 7:30 p.m. match-up, which will follow a 5:45 p.m. jayvee contest. On Thursday Southern hosts Fort Hill in a 6 p.m. JV battle and a 7:30 p.m. varsity showdown.

THE SHS-NHS BATTLE last night was a one-sided affair, as the Rams did what they do best — win big, by 32 points — while the Huskies were hampered by the absence of their top scorer. Undefeated Southern rolled to a school record 16th straight victory, and the above photo captures the work of reserve guard Sabrina Scheffel (#11) as the sophomore works for a lay-up against the stiff defense of the Huskies' Lyndsl Butler (#34), while NHS's Bridget Frazee (#44) follows the action. The Rams' defense in turn gave the Huskies fits all night, as is pictured above right with towering SHS forward Becca Flanagan (#20) making Frazee's close-in shot attempt as about as difficult as it can get. Northern's Molly Wolf (#3), center, is in the thick of that battle. Flanagan is pictured below about to go up for two of her 11 points after getting behind the Husky defense. Also in the photo, from the left, are: Northern's Kelly Stein (#10) and Butler, SHS's Ashley Liller (#21), NHS's Heather Lander (#4), Southern's Justine Pagenhardt (#10), the Huskies' Frazee, and the Rams' Jennifer Bosley (#13). SHS travels to Preston Monday, while the Huskies (5-9) host Allegany the same evening. Both of those varsity contests tip off at 7:30 p.m. Photos by John McEwen.

Huskies Fall To Frankfort, Ram Powers

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team took on two of the area's toughest squads this week, and were downed by fifth-ranked Frankfort 55-47 Monday before dropping a 63-31 contest to undefeated Southern last night. (See separate story.) The action leaves the Huskies with a 5-9 record.

The biggest blow of the week, and of Northern's season, came when top scorer Amanda Frantz went out with a serious ankle injury. The area's 10th-leading scorer with a 16-ppg average, Frantz is likely to be sidelined for at least two weeks, perhaps more.

NHS fell behind early against Frankfort and were never able to catch the Falcons, who flew out to a 15-6 first-quarter lead and a 30-19 halftime advantage. The visitors upped the margin to 42-28 by the third quarter's closing buzzer.

Sophomore guard Lyndsi Butler and junior guard Heather Lander each recorded a team-high 13 points for the Huskies. Both players had a three-pointer among their respective six field goal tallies. Senior forward Bridget Frazee recorded a double-double the hard way, ripping down an amazing 20 rebounds while netting 10 points, and fellow senior frontcourt player Jolene Brenneman hauled in 11 rebounds. Frantz recorded five points before her injury. Frankfort's Jnlie Cessna took game-high scoring honors with 23 points.

The Huskies' junior varsity squad lost a 36-34 squeaker in overtime, despite a game-high 16-point performance by Jeseca Gibson. Jennifer Parksons and Amanda Phares had 10 points apiece for Frankfort.

Northern's only scheduled contest for this week takes place Monday, when the Huskies host Allegany. JV tip-off is 6 p.m., and the varsity units square off at 7:30 p.m.

Wisp Ski Club Is Reactivated; Officers Elected

An effort to reactivate the Wisp Ski Club took a major step forward recently, as over 40 persons attended an organizational meeting at the Wisp. Reeruitment at the meeting resulted in 51 members, who then eleeted interim officers to serve until the 2002-03 ski season.

Elected president was Ruth Umbel, who spearheaded the club reactivation effort. Anna Myers was elected vice president, Linda Freyman, secretary, and Shawn Hamilton, treasurer. Paige Quigley accepted the position of children's coordinator, and Tonya Vernon is in charge of fund-raising.

Also present was William Quigley, chief executive officer of Wisp, who said that the resort is "very interested" in the success and growth of the ski club and the addition of children's activities. A number of members also expressed an interest in racing clinics and practice sessions.

The next executive meeting will be held Saturday, Feb. 2, at 3:30 p.m. in the Embers Room, which will be followed by a social function at 4 p.m. Persons desiring more information about this event or the club in general are invited to telephone 301-387-5035.

Rams Get By Campers In Overtime, Deflate Tornados

For the second time this season, the Southern High School boys' varsity faced a serious challenge from Allegany High School, but held on for another Western Maryland Interscholastic League win over the Campers last Friday night in Oakland, 55-42, in overtime. The Rams had edged Alco in Cumberland on January 8 by a two-point spread, 37-35.

Coach Tom Bosley's team then upped its record to 10-3 Tuesday evening with an easy 51-26 victory over host Keyser. Southern's WMIL mark is a perfect 5-0.

Friday's game with Allegany was close throughout most of the four regulation quarters, as the Rams were up by just one point, 11-10, at the end of the first quarter, held a 22-16 advantage at halftime, and took a 31-24 lead into the fourth stanza. But the Campers' zone defense continued to make scoring difficult for the Rams, and they out-scored Southern in the fourth by a 12-5 margin to knot the score at 36-36.

A pair of free throws by Chad Panther with just 1:04 remaining in the game rallied the Rams from a two-point deficit and tied the score at 36-36. The Campers set up for a final shot, but missed the attempt with 7.7 seconds left. Panther got the rebound and was fouled on the play, but missed the front end of a one-and-one. Alco had the ball with 1.1 seconds left, but the Rams stole the inbounds pass right under Allegany's basket to send the game into extra minutes.

The Rams finally took control of the game in the overtime period, outscoring their opponents by a 19-6 margin. Ten of those points were scored on 13 attempts from the foul line, as the Campers were forced to foul down the stretch. Panther was 4-for-4 in the overtime period.

Panther and Ricky Reams led Southern's offensive effort, as each recorded 13 points and five assists. Bryson Meyers was right behind with 12 points and also grabbed a team-high seven rebounds.

The Campers, who dropped to 3-10 overall and 2-4 in the WMIL, were paced by Aaron Laffey with 13 points, and Jonathan Rebuck with a game-high nine rebounds and seven points. Dan Diehl added eight points.

The Southern junior varsity had problems converting free throws in the preliminary game and lost by three, 54-51. Karl Hillen and Anthony Ablonczy each scored 11 points for the Rams, while Jeff Parks led the Alco jayvees with 14 points.

Tuesday's game at Keyser was never in jeopardy for the Rams, as they jumped out to an 8-2 lead by the end of the first quarter, were up by a 20-12 margin at intermission, and outscored the Golden Tornados in the third stanza by a 20-4 spread to take a commanding 40-16 advantage into the final period. Keyser (4-7) failed to score in the first five minutes of the third quarter, and did not record a point in the fourth period until the 2:29 mark.

Dennis Tressler hit eight of nine free throws and finished with a game-high 16 points to lead the Rams, while Meyers netted nine points and Panther scored eight. Brian Wilson and Adam Pritts paced Keyser in scoring with 10 and eight points, respectively.

The Southern junior varsity got back on the winning track with a 44-38 victory in the preliminary game behind a 16-point effort by Anthony Ablonczy. Ryan Spotts led the Keyser jayvees with nine points.

The area's first-place varsity Rams will be gunning for their ninth win in a row this Friday evening when they host county rival Northern. They will entertain Westmar next Tuesday.

Hall Paces Lakers To Win Over So. Maryland

A 33-point performance by Kortaa Hall highlighted a 95-82 victory by the Garrett Community College Lakers last night against visiting College of Southern Maryland. It was the 13th win in 17 starts for the Lakers.

Having double-double nights for Coach Dennis Gibson and the Lakers were Jontae Harrington and Duke Cooper, with Harrington recording 13 points and 11 rebounds and Cooper finishing with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Cooper also had nine assists.

Also reaching double figures in scoring was Darvus Gray with 10 points.

The Lakers held a 40-35 advantage at halftime.

Pacing the Hawks' scoring effort was Wayne Gibson, who poured in 29 points and also grabbed a team-high 10 rebounds. Chris Rhone and J'vaughn Hawkins also reached double figures with 15 and 11 points, respectively.

Coach Gibson was pleased with the efforts of several Lakers coming off the bench. "Antuon Townsend did a great job handling the ball, and Jason Williams really stepped up on defense," he said. "Kortaa, Jontae, and Duke also played very well for us."

The Lakers will host Chesapeake this Saturday, travel to Prince George's CC on Monday, and play at Germantown next Wednesday.

Laker Women Defeat Host Essex By Six

Sparked by a big first half, the Garrett Community College women's basketball team took a six-point victory over host CCBC-Essex Monday in Essex. The Lakers improved their record to 5-8 with the 65-59 triumph."It was a good win," GCC coach Steve Willison remarked. "The team finally came together and really played well."

Garrett jumped out early en route to a 32-21 halftime lead, and for the night connected on 23 field goals to Essex's 26. The difference was more than made up at the foul line, however, as GCC sank 19 of 24 from the charity stripe while the hosts sank three out of a mere four attempts. The Lakers finessed Essex on the court, committing just seven fouls of their own while the hosts hacked away for 25 infractions.

Freshman guard Angel Kendal paced Garrett with 13 points, and backcourt teammate Christi Edgell netted 10 points. Lyndsey Miller and Crystal Kimble each scored nine points, and Charlena Reeves contributed eight. Essex was led by Bailey's 17 points.

After being on the road for all but two of their outings up to this point, the Lakers move into a second-half season schedule heavily weighted with homecourt appearances. Tomorrow night they host Harford at 6 p.m.; on Saturday Chesapeake pays a 5 p.m. visit; and on Monday Garrett's arch-rival Allegany Trojans come to McHenry for a 7 p.m. showdown. GCC travels to Anne Arundel on Wednesday before resuming another three-game homestand the following week.

Husky Fouls Help Panthers, Pirates Take Sizable Wins

Northern High School's boys' varsity basketball team fell prey to foul trouble in outings against Hancock and Paw Paw this week, and the miscues contributed to the Panthers' 70-52 triumph Friday and the Pirates' 82-51 runaway win Monday. The second loss came in spite of a fine offensive performance by NHS sophomore Jason Rice, who sank four three-pointers en route to a game-high 25 points.

Northern had gotten off to a 22-18 advantage after one quarter of play against Hancock, but the Panthers roared back to take a 31-27 halftime lead. The visitors widened the gap to seven points, 42-35 as the third stanza closed, before the Huskies' foul woes benched center Jensen Long and Hancock embarked on a 28-17 fourth-quarter run.

Senior forward Josh Swandol led NHS with 11 points, while sophomore center Rico Alston recorded 10 points and Rice and junior forward Aaron Mitchell contributed nine points each. The Panthers' Chris Wills tallied 24 points. The referees blew their whistles on 23 Northern fouls, while Hancock committed just 14.

Paw Paw mounted a powerful one-two punch Monday as two Pirates, Matt Delawder and W.C. Wilson, combined for 49 points. They helped spark the Pirates to a 20-9 first-quarter lead, a 43-29 halftime advantage, and a 66-42 third-quarter margin.

Rice's Husky-high 25 points came mainly from long distance and the charity stripe, as he added a 9-for-10 free-throw tally to his total. Alston contributed 10 points for the second straight game, and Mitchell had 8. The hosts' Wilson and Delawder had 27 and 22 points, respectively.

The Huskies committed 24 fouls as Long was again forced to the bench with five infractions, while the Pirates were feted with 15 fouls.

NHS took the junior varsity contest, 52-44, as Eric Johnson paved the way to victory.

Now 5-8, the Huskies are slated to travel to Oakland tomorrow night to take on high-flying Southern, then visit Allegany on Tuesday. Both outings feature 6 p.m. JV contests, followed by 7:30 p.m. varsity tip-offs.

Quality, Mettiki, Markwood Hoops League Winners

In Recreational Basketball League action Sunday, Quality Machine downed Garrett Mine Supply, 78-74; Mettiki Coal throttled Patterson Boat Company 66-50, and Markwood Citgo topped Monumental Insurance 62-56.

Quality Machine was led by Oliver Jones's 20 points, while teammate George Daily contributed 18. Garrett Mine's Jason Shreve took league-high scoring honors for the day with 28 points in the losing effort, and teammate Doug Copeland netted 18 points. Mettiki was paced by Justin Liller and Brian White, who tallied 19 and 15 points, respectively, while Mike Fazenbaker hit for 22 points for Patterson Boat. Markwood's Tom Stem led his squad with 22 points and was aided by 16 points from Scott Shahan, and Billy Braithwaite netted 20 points for Monumental.

Action slated for this Sunday matches Mettiki vs. Garrett Mine at 6 p.m.; Monumental vs. Quality Machine at 7 p.m.; and Markwood vs. Patterson Boat at 8 p.m.

Mountaintop's Condoerr Back In Win Column

Condoerr rebounded from last week's loss in Mountaintop Basketball League action by defeating Plaza Hobby, 82-73, in the first of three games played Sunday. Copeland edged Midas in the second game, 54-51, and Skiles' Bunch defeated upset-minded 84 Lumber, 78-67.

Condoerr's Poke Winters finished with 19 points, 12 from three-point range, to break open a game that remained close through three quarters. Tony Doerr and Mike Saturday Jr. each scored 14 for Condoerr. Hitting a game-high 24 points for Plaza Hobby was Mike Browning, while Mike Fazenbaker, Jason Finch, and Bill Martin each netted 11.

Jeremy DeWitt hit a season-high 26 points to pace Copeland's in the second game, but it was a three-point play by Doug Copeland with less than two minutes remaining that ultimately gave his team the victory over Midas. Copeland's bucket and free throw put Midas down by five points. A shot by Greg Inglese cut the lead back to three, but DeWitt answered with a goal as Copeland's beat the Midas full-court press. Midas was led in scoring by Joe DiSimone with 22 points and Greg Inglese with 13. Copeland and Jason Shreve also reached double figures for Copeland's with 10 each.

The best scoring effort of the year was recorded by Greg Mortimer of 84 Lumber in the third game, as he ripped the nets for 43 points. Skiles' Bunch trailed by two, 38-36, at halftime, but then out-scored 84 Lumber by a 25-9 spread in the third stanza. Mortimer scored 14 of his total in the fourth quarter, but it was not enough. J.C. Whitehair also finished in double figures for 84 Lumber with 10 points. Leading Skiles was Nathan Long with 25 points, with Bryan Panther adding 14.

Games this Sunday, Jan. 27, will pit Copeland's against Condoerr at 1 p.m., Plaza Hobby vs. Skiles at 2 p.m., and Midas against Smiley's at 3 p.m. Respective scorekeepers are Plaza Hobby, Condoerr, and Skiles.

Elks Hoop Shoot Winners Noted

The annual Elks Hoop Shoot free-throw contest was held at Southern High School recently. Approximately 30 young people, ages 8-13, turned out to compete for the right to advance to the district contest in Hagerstown next month.

The winners of the local competition were: Jeremy Sharpless, 8- and 9-year-old boys (Kurt Gangler, runner-up); Jordyn Livengood, 8-9 girls; Alex Stuck, 10-11 boys (Jeff Stem, runner-up); Shayna Sweitzer, 10-11 girls (Torie Bosley, runner-up); Evan Lantz, 12-13 boys (Zak Brosnihan, runner-up); and Caitlyn Brown, 12-13 girls (Emma Ringer, runner-up). The highest score of the day went to Jeremy Sharpless, who totaled 18 free throws out of an attempted 25 shots.

All participants were given certificates, and trophies were awarded to the first, second, and third place winners. The winners of each category may advance to the district contest in Hagerstown on Saturday, Feb. 2. The Elks will provide transportation to any winner who wishes to compete and one parent. If the winner of any category cannot compete at districts, then the runner-up in that category may take his or her place.

Persons interested in traveling to Hagerstown to attend the district competition may call 301-334-4669 or 301-387-5861 for times and directions.

Ozias, Scheffel Lead Southern Mat Club Group At Nationals

Nine members of the Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team traveled to Tulsa, Okla., this past weekend to compete in the 2002 Tulsa National Wrestling Tournament, an event that is widely regarded as the "toughest tournament in the world." For the second straight year, an SMC wrestler finished this prestigious tournament as champion.

Lex Ozias, a third grade student at Broad Ford Elementary School, was crowned champion, winning his division by dominating all of his 44 competitors. Ozias competed in Tulsa two years ago, placing second in the 2000 event.

"Lex was a machine in Tulsa this year" commented Coach George Scheffel. "He was all business, he made no mistakes, and proved to everyone he is the best in the country in his division."

Last season, Jacob "Bubba" Scheffel was SMC's Tulsa national champion, dominating his competition just as Ozias did this year. Scheffel, wrestling in an older age bracket this time around, was able to reach the finals for the second consecutive year. He lost a heartbreaking 2-1 decision in the title match to finish the tournament in second place.

"As the youngest in his division, Bubba was competing against kids up to 18 months older and still was unbeatable until the final match. This is quite an accomplishment," Coach Dave Taylor said.

The other SMC wrestlers who competed each had some success in individnal matches, but fell short of placing in the top six in their divisions. They were Jeremy Gregory, Dillon Bennett, Ryan Bennett, Gavin Murphy, Jason Warbick, George "Brutus" Scheffel, and Justin Ratliff.

"This is an amazing experience for these kids. They were able to travel together across the country and experience things a lot of local kids will never get to experience," Coach Scheffel stated. "It was more than just another wrestling tournament, it was a life experience. As for the wrestling, it is the best there is, and Lex and Bubba, and the entire Southern Mat Club, proved they belong on the top."

"To place in the top six in Tulsa is an amazing accomplishment, and even winning one match is challenging," stated Coach Dan Clark. "The best wrestlers in the country make the trip to Oklahoma every winter in an effort to be crowned wrestling's very best. We are very proud of all nine of our wrestlers who competed."

This Saturday, the Southern Mat Club will host its own youth wrestling tournament at the Southern High School gym. Wrestling will begin at 9:30 a.m., and there will be over 300 young wrestlers competing.

"This is the perfect opportunity for this community to come out and see Lex, Bubba, and the rest of the Southern Mat Club compete in their home town. We would love to see our community fill the gym, cheering on the local wrestlers as they compete against kids from several surrounding states," Coach Taylor commented.

JUST MISSING A SECOND NATIONAL TITLE In the Tulsa National Wrestling Tournament, held this past weekend in Tulsa, Okla., was Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, pictured above, who was the runner-up among 40 wrestlers in the 61-pound, 8-and-under division. A third grade student at Broad Ford Elementary School and a member of the Southern Mat Club, Bubba competed against opponents who were as much as 18 months older than he. He was nipped by a 2-1 decision in the championship round. One of his teammates, Lex Ozias (pictured on the front page), won a national title in his division. Scheffel is the son of George and Anita Scheffel, Oakland. Pictured at left is the entire SMC representation. From left, front, are: Gavin Murphy, Lex Ozias, and Dillon Bennett. In the second row are: George "Brutus" Scheffel and Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel. In the back are Jason Warnick, Jeremy Gregory, and Ryan Bennett. Not present for the photo was Justin Ratliff. See story for details.

Husky Matmen Crush Rams, But Then Lose Two Straight

After handing the Southern High Rams a 59-10 thumping on their own mats in Oakland last Thursday evening, the Northern High wrestling team experienced something extremely uncommon for that program — two consecutive losses in regular-season action.

The Huskies dropped a 37-24 decision to powerful Laurel Highlands, Pa., on Friday, and then fell to visiting Meyersdale on Tuesday, 42-33. The results left Coach Scott Stough and his team with an overall regular meet record of 10-2.

Recording pins for the Huskies against county rival Southern last Thursday were Randall Frantz in the 103-pound division, Michael Pickrel at 112 pounds, Pete Stein at 125, Dan Ganoe at 135, Jordan Brenneman at 152, Lee Yoder at 171, John Beachy at 189, and Trey Brenneman at 275. Kris Knox won via a technical fall in the 160-pound class and Darric Kamp (145) was awarded a forfeit.

Winning for the Rams were Chris Hayhurst by major decision in the 140-pound clash, and Justin Gregory (119) and Joe Ashby (130) by decision.

The loss dropped the Rams to 2-8.

In Friday's match at Laurel Highlands, Pete Stein, Mitchell Guard (140), and Darric Kamp were the only pin winners for the Huskies, while Jordan Brenneman (152) and Trey Brenneman won on points.

Gaining pins for Laurel Highlands were Greg Hogan (103) and N... (130).

The Red Raiders of Meyersdale won seven of the 13 matches against the Huskies on Tuesday, and all seven victories were on pins.

Getting pins for the Huskies were Kamp, Jordan Brenneman, Knox, and Trey Brenneman, while Meyersdale's pins were recorded by Ryan Murray (103), Don Sanner (112), Mike Phillips (119), Dan Ackerman (130), Steve Zorn (140), Steve ... and Matt Smith (189).

Recording a decision victory for the Huskies was Mitchell Guard, and Stein won via a forfeit.

This weekend will be yet another major test for the Huskies, as they will be among many talented Pennsylvania teams competing in the annual Thomas Chevrolet Tournament at Bedford High School. They will travel to Westmar next Wednesday and to Fort Hill next Thursday.

RUNNERS-UP In the Musselman Wrestling Tournament, held this past weekend, included two members of the Southern High School team. Pictured above right is Southern's Riff Browning, who placed second in the 171-pound division and just missed winning the division title, as he was edged on points, 6-6, by Mike McKinney of Hedgesville (center) in overtime. Below right is Ram Scott Wildesen, a freshman, who was the runner-up in the 130-pound division. Wildesen fell to Keith Lichliter of Clarke County of Virginia (pictured center) by a 10-6 margin in the title bout. Southern's Joe Ashby (125) and Nick Rush (152) placed fourth. Earning fifth places for the Rams were Justin Gregory (119), Chris Hayhurst (140), Geoff Tressler (160), and Anthony Oliverio (275), while Joe Williams (135) placed sixth. As a team, the Rams finished seventh. Clarke County finished first, followed by Hedgesville and Jefferson. The Rams will wrestle at Beall this evening and travel to Meyersdale on Monday.

Arsenal Team Captures Title In Bridgeport

One of several Arsenal Football Associates soccer teams that participated in the Bridgeport Tournament on Sunday returned to Garrett County with a divisional title. A local under-16 girls' team won all four of its matches to claim the title in that division.

The Arsenal U-16 Green team, which consisted of Kailee Craig, Laura Bonser, Sarah Mullenax, Shar Hollingsworth, and Sarah Anderson, defeated Bridgeport White in the first match, 2-0, with goals by Bonser and Hollingsworth. Craig had 15 stops in goal.

The team topped Fairmont, 3-1, in the second game, as Anderson recorded two goals and Hollingsworth scored one, while Craig gained eight saves.

In the divisional semifinals, the Arsenal Green met its sister squad, Arsenal White, and recorded a hard-fought 3-2 win. Bonser scored two goals and Hollingsworth recorded one. Craig had seven saves.

Arsenal Green won the title with a 2-1 overtime win over the Godivas of East Fairmont. Anderson and Hollingsworth each had a goal, and Craig recorded seven saves.

The Arsenal White U-16 girls included Alasha Rush, Erin Rhodes, Vanessa Logan, Melissa Rohrbaugh, and Emily Bowman, who finished in a scoreless tie with Bridgeport White in their first match. They dropped their second match, 2-1, to Bridgeport Red, with Bowman scoring the only goal and Rush earning 15 saves. In the loss to Arsenal Green, Rohrbaugh and Rush each scored a goal, and Rush had six saves.

Arsenal's under-18 girls' team also fared well in the tourney, finishing with a 2-1-1 record and falling in a semifinal match by just one goal, 4-3.

The team, consisting of Alasha Rush, Megan Burner, Laura Hollingsworth, Allison Ulino, Jenny Hickman, and Brittany Naylor, topped Traxxon of West Virginia in the first match, 4-1, with two-goal efforts by both Burner and Naylor, an assist by Hollingsworth, and four saves by Rush.

The team tied with Sweet Tunes of West Virginia, 2-2, in the second match, with Naylor scoring off an assist by Ulino, and Ulino scoring off a feed by Hickman.

In the third match, Arsenal blanked the PW Football Club, 4-0, on goals by Burner (2), Naylor, and Ulino, with assist by Hollingsworth (2) and Hickman.

The 4-3 semifinal loss featured a hat trick by Naylor, an assist by Hickman, and three saves by Rush.

In the U-18 boys' division, the Arsenal White team of Ben Friend, Bryan Schwalm, Riff Browning, Chris Lantz, and Tray Rives finished with a 2-2 mark and was eliminated in the quarterfinal round. The team edged Hazmat of West Virginia in the first match, 2-1, as Browning and Lantz each scored goals off assists by Lantz and Rives. Friend collected five saves.

Arsenal was crushed in the second match by a 10-1 margin, with Browning getting the only goal and Friend earning 13 saves.

Arsenal then topped East Fairmont, 6-3, behind four goals by Schwalm and one each by Browning and Lantz. Friend had an assist and made six saves.

The home team was then crushed by Bridgeport United, 11-4. Lantz and Schwalm accounted for all four goals and Friend had 14 saves.

The U-18 Arsenal Green team, consisting of Sean Buckle, Peter Sachnik, Tray Rives, and Chris Lantz, finished the day with a 2-2 mark, defeating Brink by a 3-2 margin and the Arsenal U-16 team, 8-3. Rives had two goals and Lantz, one, against Brink. Against Arsenal U-16, Sachnik had three goals, Lantz and Rives each recorded two, and Buckle had one. Arsenal Green was then shut out, 9-0, by Team United.

Members of the Arsenal U-16 boys' squad were Ryan Heselbach, Michael Mosser, Sean Buckle, Bobby Bonser, Andrew Goad, and Peter Sachnik. The team lost to Aero Zeppelin, 2-0, with Heselbach collecting eight saves. They then dropped a 3-0 decision to Hazmat, with Heselbach recording 10 saves. In the 8-3 loss to Arsenal Green, Mosser, Bonser, and Heselbach each scored a goal.

Both Arsenal U-12 boys' teams earned spots in the semifinals. Arsenal White (Alan Gnegy, Michael Rosecky, Royce Warnick, Chris Coddington, and Evan Savopoulos) dropped its first match, 3-1, to the Frostburg Flames, with Rosecky scoring off an assist by Coddington and Warnick gaining 17 saves.

Arsenal White then lost to the Charleston Hotshots, 4-0, before defeating Arsenal Green, 2-1, with goals by Coddington and Rosecky, and 13 saves by Warnick. Arsenal then lost to the Hotshots again, 3-1. Gnegy had the only Arsenal goal.

Arsenal Green, consisting of Tanner Polce, A.J. Storck, Frank Moravetz, Mike Kozier, and Andrew McCreery, fell to a Charleston team, 4-0, despite 13 saves by Kozier. They won their second match, 2-0, over W.Va. United on goals by McCreery and Moravetz, and seven saves by Kozier.

In the 2-1 loss to Arsenal White, McCreery scored the only goal.

Final results of the Arsenal U-12 and U-14 girls were unavailable and will appear in the next issue of The Republican.

Miss Schofield, Mr. Bernard Exchange Vows In July Event

Ellida Jean Schofield and Jamie Alexander Bernard were united in marriage on Saturday, July 7, 2001, at Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church, Swanton.

The bride is the daughter of Brian and Sandy Schofield, Bittinger. A 1995 graduate of Northern High School and a 1999 graduate of Frostburg State University, she was employed by the Frederick County public school system for two years and is currently employed by the Prince William County (Va.) public school system. She teaches eighth grade mathematics at Fred Lynn Middle School in Woodbridge, Va.

The groom is the son of Alvin and Nancy Bernard, Swanton. A 1996 graduate of Southern High School and a 1999 graduate of the DeVry Institute of Technology, Columbus, Ohio, he currently works as an electrical engineer for BAE Systems in Manassas, Va.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her gown was designed by Alfred Angelo and supported a chapel length train. Her headpiece was a pillbox hat with embroidered flowers and a veil that was handmade by her grandmother and great-grandmother nearly 35 years earlier for her mother's wedding day. The bride carried a bouquet of three gardenias placed on a white Bible.

Serving as the matron of honor was Ellisa Woodbrey, sister of the bride, and serving as the bridesmaids were Mary McKennett, friend of the bride, Amy Roth, sister of the groom, and Emily Woodbrey, niece of the bride. Serving as best man was Alvin Bernard, father of the groom, and serving as groomsmen and ushers were Jason Bernard, brother of the groom, and Dave Schofield, brother of the bride. Also serving as an usher was Rich Schofield, brother of the bride. The flower girls were Michaela Woodbrey, niece of the bride, and Taylor Roth, niece of the groom, and the ringbearer was Tyler Roth, nephew of the groom. Renee Schofield, sister-in-law of the bride, and Ashley Hardesty, cousin of the groom, greeted guests and handed out programs.

Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Berlin Wilhelm, founder of the Aldersgate Evangelical Center, Cranesville, W.Va. Rev. William Skipper read scriptures during the ceremony and Rev. Alvin Kyle said a special blessing over the couple. The pianist was Barbara Farmer, and vocalists were Ellisa and Mike Woodbrey. Flowers were provided by Green Acres, Oakland. Photography services were provided by Pam Glotfelty, and Rich Schofield videotaped the ceremony. Mike Woodbrey made the dresses worn by the matron of honor and the flower girls. The women of the Swanton Community Center for provided the rehearsal dinner, and Joni and Dottie Beckman provided the decorations.

A reception was held at Wisp Resort, where the hall was decorated in a patriotic red, white, and blue theme. The wedding cake was made by Rita Savage, Swanton, and was topped with the cake top from the wedding of the bride's parents. The cake was served by Betty Harvey and Karen Schofield, both aunts of the bride. Ice cream was furnished compliments of the Lakeside Creamery as a gift for the couple. Sounds Fun Entertainment provided disc jockey services. The couple honeymooned in Cancun, Mexico, and now reside in Manassas.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Four couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Wesley Gene Leggett, 31, and Terrie Ruth Sapp, 21, both of Albright, W.Va.

Joseph Wade Clark, 24, and Geraldine Louise Neff, 29, both of Millersville.

Clyde Jay Custer, 30, and Shannon Renee Wilson, 27, both of Salisbury, Pa.

Miss Bender To Wed Mr. Yoder

Ray and Jody Bender of Kalona, Iowa, announce the engagement of their daughter Jenelle to Dwight Yoder of Grantsville.

The bride-elect is a 1995 graduate of Iowa Mennonite School and completed her B.A. at the University of Northern Iowa. She is currently the community services coordinator at Jubilee Housing, located in Washington, D.C.

The prospective groom is the son of Kenneth and Ruth Yoder of Grantsville. He is currently employed as a glass blower at Simon Pearce, Mtn. Lake Park.

A June 1 wedding is being planned.

Dalton-Sines Couple To Wed

Dale and Brenda Sines of Oakland have announced the engagement of their son, Dale (Scot) Sines Jr., to Lindsay Rae Dalton, daughter of Ray and Jan Dalton of Hudson, Ohio.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School. He is scheduled to graduate from Mount Vernon Nazarene College, Mount Vernon, Ohio, this spring with a bachelor of arts degree in business management. He intends to pursue a career in the human resources field.

The bride-elect is a 2000 graduate of Cuyahoga Valley Christian Academy. She is also slated to graduate from Mount Vernon Nazarene College this spring with an associate's degree in business administration.

The wedding ceremony will take place Saturday, Sept. 14, in Hudson, Ohio.

4-H Club News

OAK HILL
by Nicole Bender

The Oak Hill 4-H Club met January 18 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident. There were 22 members and four new members present. The members worked on their 4-H record books for 2001.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Travis Sines, reporter

The January 17 meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held at Yough Glades Elementary School.

Emily Cosner, vice president, reminded members about the upcoming 4-H Ski Day. Holly Blamble reported about the 4-H and FFA trip to the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, Pa.

The meeting was followed with the election of the club's 2002 officers. The following were elected: Emily Cosner, president; Jenna Rush, vice president; Carey Rush, treasurer; Emily Green, secretary; and Travis Sines, reporter. Refreshments were provided by the Cosner family.

The next regular meeting of the Trailblazers Club will be held Thursday, Feb. 21, at the Yough Glades Elementary School.

SWANTON NEWS

COMMUNITY CENTER

The January regular meeting of the Swanton Community Center Inc. was held Monday night at the center. President John Livengood presided.

The February and March fund-raisers will be buckwheat cake and sausage suppers. They are scheduled for the second Saturday of each month, Feb. 9 and Mar. 9. The chairman is Carolyn Livengood.

SENIOR MEALS

Donna Smith and Bonita Rodeheaver, with the help of volunteers, operate the hot meals at the Swanton center. Donna has been the cook for a year, and Bonita has been the site manager for two years. Senior citizens are invited to come for hot meals every Monday and Tuesday by calling Bonita at the center, 301-387-9191.

Health nurse Sandy Sulton will be at the center on Feb. 11 to give blood pressure checks to anyone who wants them. Funds are available for her to come once every two months, instead of once each month.

Bingo will be Tuesday, Jan. 29.

OTTERBEIN CHURCH

The church board meeting was held January 15 in the sanctuary. George Rexroad, the new administrative council chairman, presided. Orval Teets will continue as the devotional leader. Pastor Meredith Ball announced his full retirement for June 2002. He challenged the congregation to help raise money for the new chapel on the grounds of the Burlington Children's Home.

January is House of Hope month. This is the last Sunday persons may bring donations of groceries and household goods to help replenish the shelves at the House of Hope in Oakland.

RAY BOLTZ CONCERT

At the Craig Civic Center in Kingwood, W.Va., a Christian music concert will be held, featuring singer Ray Boltz. The concert is scheduled for Mar. 14 at 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from Lucinda and Steve Davis at 304-329-2566.

PERSONALS

An engagement party for Lorrie Filsmger and Jason Miller was held at the Swanton community center on Saturday evening. There were approximately 45 in attendance. The party was given by their mothers, Mrs. Lona Filsinger and Mrs. Carolyn Livengood. The young couple plan to wed in July of tnis year.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Amy Sweitzer were her son and his wife, Ray and Carol Sweitzer, and her neighbors, Audrey and Brenda Friend. Pastor Meredith Ball and Maxine visited her Sunday evening.

Bob and Fannie Rizer visited Orval and Mareva Teets on Friday. They visited their daughter and her husband, Wandell and Steve Feaster of New Creek, W.Va., on Sunday afternoon, and had supper with them. They also spent some time with their granddaughter Steffannie.

Mrs. Glenna Sweitzer helped to celebrate her great-granddaughterShayna Sweitzer's 11th birthday at the home of Bob and Kim Sweitzer of Deer Park on Sunday. Shayna had a "Tweetie Bird" cake. Other guests were Denver and Alverta Sweitzer, Kendra Biser, Barbie, Beth, Mandy, and Billy Sweitzer, and Debbie, Mike, and Laken Sweitzer.

Dinner guests of Mrs. Luella Baker were her brother and his wife, Ron and Beth Friend.

The Republican

newspaper's Warm the Children campaign for 2001 was another success, with over $23,000 donated for the cause and more than 215 area children provided with new winter clothing and footwear. As always, the program would never work if not for the generous donations from our readers, combined with the help of our dedicated, cheerful volunteers. Linda Thomas served as the coordinator this year, working with Mary McEwen, director, Bobby Andersen and Bobbie Henderson, volunteer managers, and Lisa Broadwater, assistant director. Dora Hanlin at the Department of Social Services once again provided invaluable assistance, as did the staffs of the county's public schools. Our participating stores, Wal-Mart in Oakland and Ames in Frostburg, worked well with our volunteers to help serve our neighbors in need, and First United Bank & Trust continues to serve the Warm the Children banking needs fee-free. Another "movie day" at Garrett 8 Cinemas was offered to the recipients this year, too, and a separate advertisement will list the contributors to that event.

Thanks to all of you who helped "warm the children" this year.

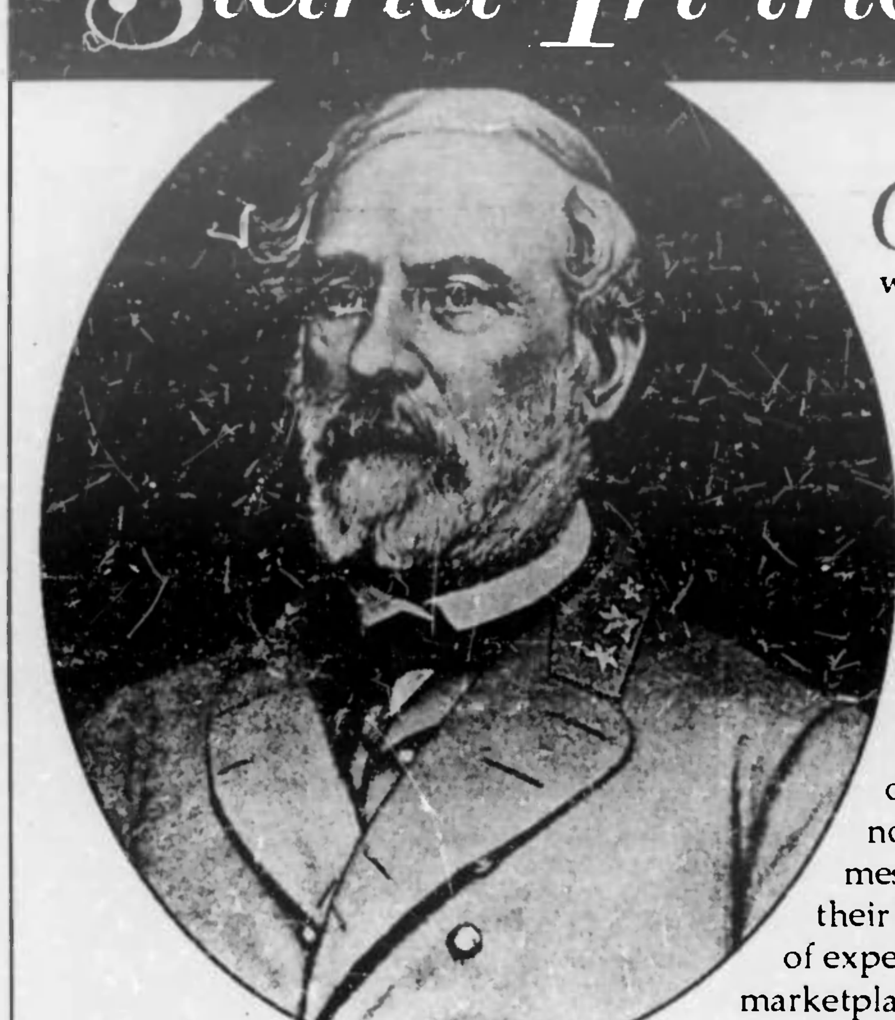
Stand In the Gap



God told Ezekiel: "I sought for a man... who should build up the wall and stand in the gap before me and for the land... but I found none." (Ezekiel 22:30)

And God still looks or people who will "stand in the gap" and build up the wall on which He can build His kingdom. He looks for good people, people of vision, those who will not sell their souls for a mess of potage, nor sacrifice their birthrights on the altar of expedience in the marketplace.

Pompeii, Roman general and statesman, put it: "It is a small matter that I should move forward and die. It is too great a matter that I should take one step backward and live."

Following the bloody years of the Civil War, the name and character of General Robert E. Lee never faltered nor wavered. This great general stood taller in defeat than most generals ever stood in victory.

One day a group of men approached him about heading a business enterprise of questionable nature. They offered him $50,000. "You will have to do nothing. All we want is the use of your name," they told him.

General Lee stood tall behind his desk. "Sirs, my name is the heritage of my parents. It is all I have, and it is not for sale."

The gaps are all around us. People, men and women, go and stand!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS GOD LISTENING?

January 27, 2002

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 65:17-25.
Devotional Reading:
Revelation 21:1-7,4-9.

When terrorists crashed two domestic airliners into New York's World Trade Center and another into the Pentagon in Washington DC, there were people who publicly demanded to know where God was in all of this evil tragedy. Writing to our local newspaper, a man said, "I've been praying for peace for longer than I can remember; hasn't God been listening?"

Some people were shocked and outraged by this question, but not I. Better to honestly express our honest reactions, than bury them. When people honestly take their protests to God, he can much better answer them. In Isaiah 63 and 64, the people of Israel have been asking questions such as this. Why does the Lord God of Israel remain silent?

Isaiah 65 begins with God's response to these complaints: "I was ready to be sought by those who did not ask for me; I was ready to be found by those who did not seek me. I said, 'Here am I, Here am I.'" (65:1). It was not God who was unresponsive, but the people of Israel. He answered them, but they didn't like or heed his answer

That isn't too difficult for us to understand is it? We, too, pray for this and that, but we do not expect any answers and so we do not hear the answers he gives us

Prayer's Dominant Desire

One of the most influential books on prayer in my young life—and even today—was Harry Emerson Fosdick's The Meaning of Prayer (Association Press) Fosdick wrote a whole chapter on "Prayer As Prominent Desire." Fifty years ago I underlined some of his most cogent arguments and still am guided by them today: "...many of the speeches addressed to God that we have called our prayers are not real prayers at all." Why? Because "They are not our dominant desires. They do not express the inward set and determination of our lives....Prayer that is not dominant desire is too weak to achieve anything."

I am not suggesting that our prayers will be answered by the power of our words or even our desire. God is not overcome by the power of our praying. We do not persuade him to change his mind because we are so intent. But our dominant desire opens our lives so that we may receive his power. We pray about a lot of things because we feel we ought to, not because we have an overwhelming passion for this or that cause. When we do have that dominant desire we give God the opportunity to work through us

Fosdick also says that "Men are given to complaining of unanswered prayer, but the great disasters are due to answered prayers." Isn't that what God is saying through the prophet in 65:12: "...because when I called, you did not answer, when I spoke, you did not listen, but you did what was evil in my eyes, and chose what I did not delight in" (v. 12 a,b). Israel's doing "what was evil in my eyes" is evidence, not that God didn't speak, but that he did and they refused to hear him

Anyone Else?

Someone once told a parable about a man who fell over a cliff in the dark and, after falling some distance, caught hold of a bush that broke his fall. Hanging on for dear life, the man called out. "Is there anyone up there?" Back came a voice saying, "Yes, this is God. Let go of the bush, you're close to the bottom" There was silence for a few moments until the man called out "Uh. Is there anyone else up there?"

For those who listen and respond to God's word, Isaiah sees a new creation by God "For behold I create new heavens and a new earth. I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and be glad in my people. no more shall be heard in it the sound of weeping and the cry of distress" (65:17,19) As much as we want world peace, universal justice and the fulfillment of the destiny for which God has created us, so much more does God will it

God has not, is not and will not be unresponsive when his children truly seek him "Before they call, I will answer while they are yet speaking I will hear" (65:24) is God listening? YES! Are you?

Bilberry Leaf May Help Diabetes

The bilberry (also called bogberry) is a black, wrinkled fruit that comes from a plant in the same family as the plant that produces blueberries. According to The Review of Natural Drug Products, it was a common practice for World War II British pilots to eat bilberry preserves to improve their night vision. After the war, studies were conducted that confirmed the effectiveness of bilberries to improve visual acuity and facilitate faster visual adjustments between light and darkness.

There is an increasing use of the bilberry leaf in persons with diabetes mellitus. The leaf contains high levels of chromium, a mineral that helps maintain appropriate blood glucose (sugar levels). In addition, the leaf appears to improve the ulcerative dermatitis - a skin condition that may occur in persons with diabetes due to lack of movement in the lower limbs. A significant improvement has been observed in individuals who took products containing bilberry leaf. Studies have demonstrated that capillary fragility (leakage from small blood vessel) due to diabetes or other conditions is benefited from the use of bilberry.

Newbern a familiar face in Mistletoe

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

George Newbern

Q: Who was the leading man in the recent CBS movie The Sons of Mistletoe? All the hype spotlighted Roma Downey and Doris Roberts, but this charming young man has been around for years. What can you tell me about him? –Joan M. Nielander, Flora, Ind.

A: One of the nicest guys in Hollywood, George Newbern, 37, has indeed been plying his trade as an "almost-star" for a number of years now. A graduate of the prestigious theater program at Northwestern University – where he met his wife, The Hughleys cast member Marietta DePrima – Newbern got one of his first big breaks in a recurring TV role as Payne Mellroy, the son of Julia Sugarbaker (Dixie Carter) on Designing Women.

Subsequent series credits include Working Girl, The Boys Are Back and Chicago Hope, as well as extensive voice work in animation, but Newbern is probably best known to many viewers for the witty Hallmark card commercials he did with actress Kimberly Williams, his co-star in the big-screen Father of the Bride and its sequel.

More recently, Newbern had one of the best roles of his career as the star of TNT's Wall Street drama Bull, only to see that show scuttled by real-life stock market woes that made its basic premise seem too unbelievable. Off-camera, Newbern and DePrima have two young daughters.

Q: My husband and I have a bet. I say Lyle Waggoner was on The Carol Burnett Show for its entire run. My husband says he was only on the last two or three seasons. Who is correct? And why was Lyle not included in the November reunion special? –L.G. in Lakewood, Calif.

A: Actually, you are both wrong, and that has a direct bearing on your second question as well. The Carol Burnett Show ran on CBS from 1967 to 1979, but Waggoner left the show at the end of the 1973-74 season.

"They didn't really start saving bloopers and outtakes until the last five seasons," explains CBS publicist Kate Fisher. "When they reviewed footage for this special, there was just very, very little of it that included Lyle."

Incidentally, for the many readers who requested the toll-free number to order the recent CBS special on home video, it's 1-800-980-4646.

Q: As a Mission: Impossible fan, I'd like to know when Greg Morris died. Also, do Barbara Bain and Martin Landau have any children in show business? –S. Adams, Gastonia, N.C.

A: Morris died of cancer on Aug. 27, 1996. Juliet Landau, Bain and Landau's daughter, had a featured role with her father in Ed Wood but is better known as the vampire Drusilla on Buffy the Vampire Slayer and Angel.

PARTICIPATING IN "OPERATION LOVEPAK" — Students of Southern Middle School, under the direction of the student council and Linda Alkire, recently participated in "Tri-State Operation LovePak." Students donated food, homemade Valentine cards, stuffed animals, small board games, writing supplies, health and beauty aids, plus many other items. The donated items will be sent to the U.S. soldiers in foreign countries for Valentine's Day. Sis Hardesty, a cafeteria worker, will take the items to the American Red Cross office in Cumberland. Some of the students who helped with this campaign are pictured above with the donated items.

Bill Introduced To Ban Smoking In Restaurants, Bars, And Clubs

by Kelley Benham
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Smokers may find fewer restaurants and bars to light up in under a bill in the General Assembly designed to protect workers from secondhand smoke.

Restaurants, bars, and clubs have been exempt from a law against smoking in the workplace since it took effect in 1995. The proposal would end that exemption, allowing smoking in restaurants only in separate, enclosed rooms.

"There is a small group of workers who are not covered because of a deal made with the restaurant owners," said Delegate Barbara Frush, D-Prince George's. "That's not fair."

Those workers tend to be young and vulnerable to health problems related to secondhand smoke, Frush said.

"It's a killer, and young people don't understand that," said Frush, whose husband died at 52 of cancer she said was exacerbated by tobacco. "They decide they are Teflon-coated; it'll never happen to them."

But those workers don't want protection, said tobacco lobbyist Bruce Bereano, who has testified against the bill in the past. At past hearings, restaurant workers have not lobbied for the bill, he said.

"Not bartenders, not barmaids, not customers," he said. "There just hasn't been any support for it."

Those workers often want to work in the smoking sections, said Tom Stone, a lobbyist for the Restaurant Association of America, which opposes the bill.

"If people are smoking they tend to drink more, and the workers tend to get more tips," he said.

That's no reason to let them ruin their lungs, Frush said.

"They need the money," she said. "They don't consider the fact that their health may be compromised."

Establishments without separate rooms for smokers would likely ban smoking altogether, according to legislative analysts. Smoke-free bars and restaurants would lose business, opponents said. Supporters argue business would improve.

Both sides have studies to support their positions, Stone said.

"In all fairness," he said, "we definitely have seen a substantial impact."

In areas with similar laws such as California and Howard County (Md.), sales receipts have gone up and bartenders' lung function has improved, said Debra Southerland, a lobbyist for the American Lung Association.

"This is an important bill," Southerland said. But the bill doesn't go far enough because workers might still have to enter enclosed smoky rooms and because it does not require separate ventilation systems, she said. Her organization has asked Frush to amend the bill to ban smoking in those establishments outright, no exceptions.

The bill died in the Environmental Matters committee the past two years, but Frush said she hopes the new, nonsmoking committee chairman, John A. Hurson, D-Montgomery, will make a difference.

Bereano doubts it. Besides, he said, smoke and bars go together.

"A bar has a distinct characteristic," he said. "It may be loud, it may be rude, it may get vulgar.

"If you go into a bar there's going to be people smoking. If you don't like it, don't go into bars."

Applications Available For Energy Help

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. Office of Home Energy Programs (formerly known as Maryland Energy Assistance Program) is accepting applications for heating assistance and the new Electrical Assistance Program. The program year will end April 30.

The income guidelines are as follows: for a household of one, a gross monthly income of $1,074; household of two, $1,451; household of three, $1,829; household four, $2,206; household of five, $2,584; and for a household of six, $2,961.

Persons who have not applied within the program year July 1, 2001, to the present may call 301-334-9431 or toll free 1-888-877-8403.

Independence Day Photo Contest Set In Accident

A photography exhibition, competition, and sale will take place the week of July 4th in Accident. This show, called non-ACCIDENTal Images, will replace the IDEA (Independence Day Exhibition of Art) Show that ran for 12 seasons "with great success" under the direction of Edna Bender, according to a spokesperson.

Because of space considerations, the new director, Barrie Gregory, has chosen photography as the focus for the 2002 show. A different medium may be represented each year or several in combination, depending upon the extent of participation and space availability.

Non-ACCIDENTal Images will be held at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident from June 30 through July 4. For additional details, persons may contact Gregory at 301-746-6115. Brochures and application forms will be made available in May. Those definitely interested may call now to be put on a mailing list.

GED Exam, Prep Classes Slated

The new Maryland High School Diploma GED exam will be offered in Garrett County in April at Garrett Community College's McHenry campus. The GED exam is also offered each month in Frostburg. Only individuals 16 years of age and older who are not currently enrolled in the public school system may apply to take the exam.

The application deadline is Friday, March 1, and the cost is $45, payable at the time of application. The new exam is given in two separate sessions. The first session is set for Thursday, April 4, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m.; the second session will take place Saturday, April 6, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Applicants must attend both sessions.

Free GED exam preparation classes are currently being offered on a continuing basis at the following locations: the Oakland National Guard Armory, Mondays and Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 2:45 p.m., and Mondays, 6 to 9:15 p.m.; GCC's Grantsville Outreach Center, Mondays from 10 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.; Friendsville Elementary School, Tuesdays from 5 to 8:15 p.m.; and Yough Glades Elementary School, Thursdays from 6 to 9:15 p.m. In addition, the class will also get under way at Bloomington Elementary School on Wednesday, March 6, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., and continue each Wednesday evening thereafter.

Persons preparing for the GED exam are required to take an official GED practice exam. To schedule a practice exam, obtain more information on the preparation classes, or apply for the exam, persons may contact Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304.

DCL Snowmobile Regulations Set For Board Review

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board has slated its next meeting for 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 4, at the Discovery Center at DCL State Park. Policy and Review Board meetings are open to the public, and the board will accept input and public comment during this upcoming session.

Slated for the agenda is a PRB review of a Department of Natural Resources proposal to update the State Forest and Park Service regulations to permit snowmobiling on the frozen lake surface. The Pennsylvania Electric Company, which owned the lake before the state purchased it, had allowed snowmobiling at the user's own risk. The DCL Management and Recreation Use Plan calls for the state's regulations to be updated to continue to allow snowmobiles on the frozen lake.

In other agenda items, lake manager Paul Durham will present a report concerning the status of the pending lake boating and commercial use carrying capacity study. The board provided input to DNR on the study at a previous meeting.

Further information on this PRB meeting can be obtained from Durham by calling 301-387-4111.

Local Students Receive EMU Scholarships

AMY UMBEL

Two area students have received academic scholarships to attend Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, Va.

Amy Umbel, a senior at Northern High School, received a $2,250 Academic Achievement Scholarship. She is the daughter of Ernest and Julia Umbel of Friendsville and a member of Markleysburg Union Church, Pa.

Benjamin Heatwole was also awarded a $4,500 Academic Achievement Scholarship. He is a senior at Salisbury Elk-Lick High School and plans to major in pre-professional health sciences at EMU. A member of Springs Mennonite Church, Heatwole is the son of Steven and Bonnie Heatwole, Springs, Pa.

Local Students To "Shadow" State Department

Garrett's Promise has been invited by America's Promise to send area youth to participate in the job shadowing activities planned at the U.S. State Department. Five local teens will join their peers from around the country at the State Department on Friday, Feb. 1, to kickoff National Groundhog Job Shadow Day. During the event, youth will tour the department's facilities, speak with invited national leaders, and "shadow" State Department employees.

According to a spokesperson for Garrett's Promise, Job Shadow Day is a yearlong national effort to enrich the lives of youth by acquainting them with the world of work through on-the-job experiences. Job Shadow Day also demonstrates the connection between academics and careers, builds partnerships among youth serving organizations and businesses, provides youth with the requirements of professions so they can prepare to join the workforce, and encourages an ongoing relationship between young people and caring adults.

The National Job Shadow Coalition encourages young people across the country to explore their futures through career awareness and mentoring opportunities. The coalition does this through two initiatives — Job Shadow Day and "What I Want to Be When I Grow Up." Formed in 1998, the coalition includes America's Promise — the Alliance for Youth — Junior Achievement, and the Society for Human Resource Management, said the spokesperson.

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families hosts Garrett's Promise, an inter-organizational alliance for youth, whose mission is to build the character and competence of area youth by fulfilling "The Five Promises" — caring adults, safe places, healthy start, marketable skills, and opportunities to serve. The local Promise team members include staff from the major child-serving agencies — Community Action, the Health Department, and the Board of Education.

To build the yearlong schedule of mentoring activities, Garrett's Promise is working with the county's economic development department and local businesses to cultivate ongoing job shadowing and mentoring activities for area teens.

Currently, safe and structured activities are provided to more than 500 area youth in elementary and middle schools with Maryland After-School Opportunity Funds (DHR) and other Local Management Board (LMB) administered funds. Additionally, providing high school-age youth with access to meaningful mentoring opportunities will serve as one of the many youth development strategies utilized by the Partnership for Children and Families and LMB, said the spokesperson.

Drug Discount For Seniors Not Perfect, But Better Than Nothing

by Shannon Canton
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland activists for the elderly welcome Pfizer's new prescription drug card for low-income senior citizens, but say it will only help a fraction of those who need pharmacy coverage.

"This continues to be a Band-Aid approach to a real problem," said Michael Lachance, legislative liaison for the Maryland Department of Aging. "What we really need is a meaningful Medicare pharmacy benefit plan."

Until then, however, Lachance and others said they will recommend discount card programs like Pfizer's to seniors who can benefit from such plans.

The Pfizer Share Card Program, introduced by the pharmaceutical giant recently, will offer low-income senior citizens monthly prescriptions for any of nine Pfizer drugs at a cost of $15 each.

Anyone 65 or older, or otherwise enrolled in Medicare, with no prescription drug coverage and an income below $18,000, or joint income below $24,000, can qualify for the card. Pfizer said more than 85,000 Maryland seniors will be eligible for the plan. Pfizer will make the card available from March 1 until Congress establishes drug benefits through Medicare.

Other drug companies recently introduced similar programs for the elderly. Both GlaxoSmithKline and Novartis A.G. offer 25 percent discounts on their drugs to people in their programs. According to published reports, Glaxo has enrolled 20,000 people for its Orange Card and Novartis has received 2,500 applications.

Pfizer's program has stricter income requirements, but offers the drugs at about 75 percent of the average retail price.

Frank Bailey, director of AARP Maryland, said seniors who meet Pfizer's criteria will probably take advantage of the program. But only if they are aware of it.

"Not everyone who is eligible will hear about it and not everyone who hears about it will apply," he said.

Bailey said only low-income seniors in Maryland who choose to get into the program and use the Pfizer drugs available can benefit from the card. For $15 per drug each month, Pfizer plans to offer nine of the 50 most-prescribed medicines for Medicare enrollees, including Lipitor, Norvasc, Zoloft, and Zyrtec.

Cass Naugle, the executive director of the Alzheimer's Association Central Maryland Chapter, said she will announce the plan in the next Alzheimer's Association newsletter. The plan will include Aricept, a drug for people with Alzheimer's disease that usually costs about $120.

While Pfizer's discount card would make available one of four prescription drugs approved by the Food and Drug Administration for people with Alzheimer's disease, Naugle said the card will really only help some of the most needy in Maryland.

Insurance does not cover many services needed by people with Alzheimer's, and Naugle said families without prescription coverage often have to choose between getting relief from 24-hour care or getting a drug that makes those with the disease "a little bit better, a little bit longer."

The Alzheimer's Association continues to encourage its advocates to call Congress and the president to promote a Medicare prescription drug plan, Naugle said.

Craig Williams, spokesman for Rep. Bob Ehrlich, R-Timonium, predicts Congress will act on a Medicare prescription plan this year. He called Pfizer's plan a "corporate solution to a public problem," and a step in the right direction.

As the cost of prescription drugs continues to rise three times faster than the annual inflation rate, Bailey said, "the burden of low-cost drugs falls on all people. This is not a substitute for real prescription drug coverage through Medicare."

The state began offering its own prescription discount program for low-income seniors last year and has already enrolled 25,000 people, said Pamela Causey, a spokeswoman for the Maryland Department of Aging. The program will be capped at 30,000 members.

Recipients of the Maryland pharmacy discount, who would not be eligible for the Pfizer Share Card, pay a $10 monthly premium and $10 to $35 co-payments depending on the drug.

CVS, with 172 locations in Maryland, and Wal-Mart, with 32, both agreed to honor the Pfizer Share Card. Pfizer intends to sign up more drug stores and independent pharmacies.

Pfizer estimates 7 million people in the country will be eligible for the card and plans to enroll 1 million this year.

Local Students Among ACM Fall Graduates

• The formula for Coca-Cola is one of the most closely guarded secrets in the world. It is known to only two or three people, and they never travel on the same plane together.

• An ostrich can't fly, but it can outrun a racehorse.

• The geodesic dome, designed by architect, engineer and inventor R. Buckminster Fuller, is the only structure yet devised whose strength increases with size.

• If you're like me and countless other people around the world, you grew up reading the series of Nancy Drew mystery stories. Despite the huge success of the books, the writers earned only $100-$150 per title.

• When John Lennon was in high school, his headmaster wrote of him, "Boy is bound to fail."

• Mihailo Tolotos, a Greek monk who died at the age of 82, never saw a woman. His mother died when he was born, and he was promptly taken to a monastery on top of Mount Athos, where he lived until his death in 1938. Women — and even female animals — are strictly forbidden from entering the monastery.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 2, 1912, the world's first movie stuntman performs for a newsreel. Stuntman Frederick Rodman Law jumped off the Statue of Liberty with a parachute. Later that year, he performed a similar stunt off the Brooklyn Bridge.

• On Jan. 31, 1949, "These Are My Children," the first daytime soap opera, debuts on NBC. The show, only 15 minutes long, aired weekdays at 5 p.m.

• On Jan. 30, 1969, the Beatles, perhaps the most influential musical group of all time, make their last public performance, giving an impromptu concert on the roof of their London recording studio. Neighbors complained about noise, and police broke up the concert. In April 1970, Paul McCartney formally announced the band's breakup.

• On Feb. 1, 1974, University of Washington student Lynda Ann Healy disappears from her apartment and is murdered by serial killer Ted Bundy. In the summer of 1974, Bundy attacked at least seven young women in Washington. Ironically, he was working as the assistant director of the Crime Commission in Seattle at the time.

• On Jan. 29, 1979, Deng Xiaoping, deputy premier of China, meets President Jimmy Carter, and together they sign historic new accords that reverse decades of U.S. opposition to the People's Republic of China.

• On Jan. 28, 1986, at 11:38 a.m. EST, the space shuttle Challenger with seven crewmembers aboard lifts off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., but 73 seconds later, the shuttle explodes in a forking plume of smoke and fire. There were no survivors.

• On Feb. 3, 1994, nearly two decades after the fall of Saigon, U.S. President Clinton announces the lifting of the 19-year-old trade embargo against Vietnam, citing the cooperation of Vietnam's communist government in helping the United States to locate the 2,238 Americans still listed as missing in the Vietnam War.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I am in the process of liquidating an estate that includes several closets of vintage clothing. In addition to designer dresses from the 1940s and '50s, there are dozens of hats, purses and gloves. Since most everything is of the highest quality, I suspect that this collection might be quite valuable. — Judy in Phoenix

A. You're absolutely correct. There could, indeed, be gold in your closets.

Like most collectibles, the value of vintage clothing is based on several factors, including condition, rarity and desirability. For example, a dress by a famous designer is worth much more than one mass-produced and bought off the rack. According to the Official Price Guide to Vintage Fashion and Fabrics by Pamela Smith (House of Collectibles, $17), serious collectors are often attracted to vintage clothing because of the fine workmanship and quality of materials often evident in older garments.

With designer garments, the label is its pedigree, and that pedigree can determine if a dress is valuable or just another piece of older clothing. Provenance is also an important factor. Clothing originally owned by celebrities is extremely desirable. For example, if a dress was owned by Jackie Kennedy, it will be worth much more than one with an unknown history.

A piece of clothing doesn't necessarily have to be extremely old to attract the attention of serious collectors. Online auction activity on eBay reflects a great deal of interest in designer clothing from even the 1990s. Important designers and manufacturers from that decade include Giorgio Armani, Jimmy Choo, Ann Demeulemeester, Jean-Paul Gaultier, Tommy Hilfiger, Ralph Lauren and Calvin Klein. Values of '90s clothing from recent auctions include a Geoffrey Beene cocktail dress ($355); a Yves Saint Laurent suit ($795); and an Oscar de la Renta ball gown ($750).

Pet-Sitting 101

Q. In several of your columns, you recommend bonded or insured pet sitters for people who travel or work long days. Is there really such a thing as a professional pet sitter?

A. There sure is, and I had the good fortune to meet the president of Pet Sitters International, Patti Moran, at the recent AKC/Eukanuba American Dog Classic in Orlando, Fla.

Patti is not just the head of PSI; she was responsible for spearheading pet-sitting at a professional level.

"I wrote a book about how to start a pet-sitting service in 1989," she explains. As it turned out, Patti was one of the few full-time sitters in the country at that time. After "Pet Sitting for Profit" was published, "I got many calls about starting a business ... in fact, I began doing more consulting than sitting!"

The response to her book was so great that Patti started thinking about organizing these fledgling professionals. A driving factor was that as a group, pet sitters could be insured at better rates than if they tried to go it alone.

Pet sitters, Patti explains, do more than just feed your pets. They take the dog for walks, play with the cat and give specific attention to each of an owner's small creatures. They also bring in the mail and newspaper, take out the trash and water plants. Best of all, pets are spared from the trauma of long trips or days at a kennel.

Costs vary depending on the sitter, the service and the area. However, Patti says, "People who love their pets don't mind paying for peace of mind."

To find a pet sitter in your area, go to www.petsit.com and click on "Locate a Professional Pet Sitter."

"Look Good, Feel Better" Workshops Set

Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the American Cancer Society recently sponsored a "Look Good... Feel Better" workshop, geared for individuals undergoing cancer treatment. Katherine Ashby and Carolyn Johnson of Hair n' Phernalia Too, along with Judy Stackpole, an American Cancer Society Look Good...Feel Better trainer, assisted four cancer patients with various techniques to help them restore their appearances and self images.

Look Good...Feel Better is a free, national public service program that teaches women and teenage girls with cancer how to deal with the sociological side effects they experience during treatment.

Cosmetics for the classes are provided free of charge, courtesy of the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetics, Toiletry and Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetics Association.

The next Look Good... Feel Better workshop will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 27, from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services Center. Any individual who is currently receiving or has recently completed cancer treatments is invited to attend this free workshop.

There will also be a free training session for any licensed cosmetologist who would like to become a certified instructor for the Look Good...Feel Better program. The workshop for cosmetologists will be held from 12 to 4 p.m. on Feb. 27 in the Community Services Center.

To register for either of these workshops, persons may contact Deana Clester, GCMH Wellness coordinator, at 301-533-4295.

LOOKING GOOD, FEELING BETTER — Garrett County Memorial Hospital will sponsor two free "Look Good...Feal Better" workshops in the hospital's Community Services Center on Wednesday, Feb. 27. The first workshop will be held from 12 to 4 p.m. for cosmetologists who would like to learn how to help cancer patients enhance their appearance. The second workshop will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. for women and teenage girls currently undergoing, or have recently undergone, cancer treatment who would like to learn techniques to help them cosmetically restore their appearance (see story). Instructor Carolyn Johnson of Hair n' Phernalia Too is shown above at a recent workshop assisting participant Doris Wampler with makeup techniques that can be used to enhance her appearance. For more information, persons may contact Deana Clester, GCMH Wellness coordinator, at 301-533-4295.

Mentors Sought For Two After-School Programs

The Garrett County Health Department is seeking individuals interested in volunteering as mentors for youth who are participating in the after-school programs at Southern Middle School and Accident Elementary School. While the after-school programs are offered to students at those schools five evenings a week, the mentors would be asked to contribute one evening a week at the school of their choice.

The adult volunteers will be expected to provide homework assistance, goal-setting activities, one-on-one attention, and friendship while serving as positive roles model for the after-school program participants. Those interested in becoming mentors will receive training and pertinent information from the Health Department. Persons interested in becoming a mentor are asked to contact GCHD's Sam Moon at 301-334-7730, ext. 6523.

Local Soldier Associate Dean Of Marshall Center In Germany

Army & Air Force Hometown News Service

As legend goes, King Arthur and his court sought the Holy Grail to heal their land. In the real world, many countries still trying to climb out of the ruins of the Cold War are seeking the Holy Grail of the 21st century — peace and freedom.

And that's exactly what a 1977 graduate of Southern High School is working to bring to millions of people in Central and Eastern Europe and Eurasia through his work with the George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany.

Army Lt. Col. Jack C. Riley, formerly of Oakland, pursues a quest of promoting democracy and preventing conflicts in the regions through his efforts at the center located on a small U.S. Army post tucked in between the mountains of the Bavarian Alps. Named after Army Gen. George C. Marshall, whose Marshall Plan rebuilt Europe out of the ashes of World War II, the center seeks to assist countries seeking a better way of life for their people who are recovering from more than 40 years of living behind the Iron Curtain of the Soviet Union.

Riley, who holds a bachelor's degree from Frostburg State University, serves at the Marshall Center as the associate dean for administration and resources.

"I run all of the operations at the College of International Security Studies," said Riley. "I oversee budget matters, contracts, curriculum development support, interpreter support, translations, personnel actions, and classroom support."

A joint German and American-funded project, the Marshall Center brings together military and civilian leaders — and those who will be leaders in the future — from countries such as Albania, Bosnia, the Czech Republic, Kyrgyzstan, Russia, and Azerbaijan, among others. These leaders attend various courses to discuss the challenges of creating and maintaining fledgling democracies where authoritarian rule has been the norm for years. All courses are taught in English, German, and Russian.

The center also hosts a conference center where leaders from their respective countries meet to discuss matters such as combating terrorism, confronting organized crime, and preventing ethnic conflict.

"Our mission is important because we bring people from different countries together for discussions on regional security issues, globalization issues, and democratic issues in an open, non-threatening environment," Riley said. "Through this dialogue can come meaningful change, resulting in increased stability and peace throughout the regions."

What the Marshall Center isn't is a propaganda machine telling students to do it "the American way." The center faculty and staff stimulate discussion among the students to promote freedom of thought — something not necessarily appreciated either in the past or even now in their native lands — while on neutral ground.

Since its first class in 1994, the center has graduated 1,679 students from 47 countries. Seven of these alumni have gone on to serve as ministers of defense for their countries, seven others have gone on to be cabinet members in their governments, and eight became military chiefs of staff.

Not stopping at helping out foreign governments, the center educates and prepares U.S. military officers and Department of Defense civilians for key assignments in countries of the former Soviet Union, and hosts training for military linguists to brush up on their translation skills.

But students aren't the only ones who come away enriched during their stay in Garmisch, said Riley.

"I'll take away from my assignment here the knowledge that through my efforts I contributed to making this world a better, more stable place for my children and the children of millions of others to live in," he said. "And personally, this has been a great place for my family — The community activities, schools, housing, and people are just fantastic."

And while taking a look at the evening news provides all the proof needed that there's much more work to do, the efforts of Riley and the rest of the Marshall Center staff bring the quest of getting a hold of that 21st century "grail" a little closer to reality for millions of people.

Mom & Dad

Our parents loved us, taught us, instilled in us the value of life.
Our tree of life.
Dad & Mom - The base of that tree.
Children were the branches.
Pruned and nurtured us to mature in a way that pleased God.
They loved us in their own special way.
Oh! how we long to have them back.
To get a hug, knowing that it could never be.
God needed them to fulfill His plan.
Never forget their guidance and instructions.
God was always first in their lives.
They left a legacy of memories and treasures that we can keep.
Take the time to: Renew - Restore - Reflect all the God given values.
Maybe we too can make a difference in our families.
One day God will call us home.
Will we leave a legacy to our loved ones?
Let us prepare and be ready, to see our Mom & Dad on that day.
Sadly missed and loved,
From Children, Grandchildren, Relatives & Friends

USDA Awards Mortgage Funds To Partnership

The United States Department of Agriculture announced last week that it has awarded $480,000 in home mortgage funds to the Garrett County Rural Housing Loan Partnership. The partnership is composed of the local USDA Rural Development, M&T Bank, and Garrett County Community Action (GCCAC).

"The program is designed to leverage the funds available to the greatest benefit possible for the low- to very low-income families of Garrett County," said Deb Swiger of GCCAC. The partnership, thus far, has processed more than 50 loans to help low-income working families in the county obtain the "American dream" of owning a home, according to Swiger.

Tim Taylor, local USDA Community Development manager, pointed out that the partnership's goal is to leverage 40 percent of funding from other sources, which means that the mortgage benefit to low-income wage earners could be more than $800,000, which can help 10 low-income households obtain a home of their own. The interest rate on the mortgages is based upon the income of the borrower and can range from 6.13 percent to as low as 1 percent. Therefore, by leveraging the USDA funds with M&T and GCCAC monies, the low-income borrower can obtain an affordable mortgage, according to Taylor.

"The additional money from USDA should translate into 10 new affordable home purchase loans in Garrett County this year," Taylor added.

Persons interested in more information on the Garrett County Rural Housing Loan Partnership may contact Taylor at 301-334-6970, Linda Brack with M&T Bank at 301-334-6030, or Swiger with GCCAC at 301-334-9431, ext. 150.

Thank You

I am overwhelmed by the affection shown to me by the great people in Garrett County after my accident while caring for abused and abandoned animals.

The cards (nearly a basket full), the visits, the prayers, calls, religious material, gifts, 13 bunches and baskets of flowers—including the silk lavender flower from my little great niece, Madison Ann Gallagher, who had sadness in her eyes because she knew her aunt was hurt. "I love you, Maddie" —and food, including hot meals.

So many caring people, postal service workers, county government, health department county office personnel, clergy, my own pastor, Randy Nairn, who visited everyday during the week I was hospitalized, Pasor Bob Millerin, our Methodist minister, Pastor Charles Teets, law enforcement, Garrett Memorial Hospital staff, Dr. Dona Alvarez, Dr. Dan Miller, Dr. Robert Coughlin, Dr. Patty Gotsch, all were so great.

The wonderful people in my church, Grace Lutheran, whose care has not stopped.

Marina, Shirley, Clara, and Jeannie from Home Health, who were so great.

Phyllis Kahl, who cares for our home, who comes twice daily to care for the animals. What would I do without her?

The Rescue Squad, Mary and Wayne Friend, and Burton Lytle, who were at my home in minutes and who had me in the ER in an hour's time.

What would have happened if our ambulance would have been taken from our town? It would have taken hours.

The girls from the Animal Shelter, the best (the little white bunny in the basket of flowers spent Christmas on our Christmas tree and will always spend it there).

My wonderful husband, children and grandchildren for their great love and care.

Being an only child, with my parents gone, my in-laws filled a void, especially Joyce and Dale who came, called, brought food and did errands. Dawn and Audie, who helped with the animals.

To all of you and for those I have missed and to my Lord God, the Greatest Healer, I am humble and grateful.

Md. SAR Group Extends Charter To Area Chapter

The Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution extended official recognition to the Little Meadows SAR chapter in a charter presentation ceremony held recently at Penn Alps in Grantsville. The state's 15th chapter and the first located in western Maryland, Little Meadows holds several meetings at Penn Alps each year, and a framed copy of the SAR charter was presented to the establishment for permanent display. The original charter was recently presented to the Garrett County Historical Society as well. (See photos.)

"The charter copy will be displayed in Penn Alps to honor the historical significance of the area," said chapter secretary/treasurer Kenneth Legge Hardesty. "Little Meadows, located about two miles east of Penn Alps, is where George Washington camped during the French and Indian War and numerous times thereafter."

The old tavern and stagecoach stop at "Little Crossings," the site of the present-day Penn Alps restaurant and gift shop, was established about 1814. The Little Meadows SAR chapter meets in Penn Alps' Dunbar Room, which was part of the original stagecoach-tavern stop. Located directly behind Penn Alps is an old grist mill which dates back to 1797, and the historic Casselman River Bridge, a stone arch structure built in 1813. "Penn Alps is truly a proper site for our SAR chapter to hold its meetings," Hardesty remarked of the historical significance of the area.

LITTLE MEADOWS SAR CHAPTER CHARTERED — The Little Meadows chapter of the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was charte ed recently by the state SAR organization. A framed copy of the charter was presented by the Little Meadows chapter to Penn Alps in Grantsville, where the area SAR chapter meets several times annually. Shown from the left are Little Meadows secretary/treasurer Kenneth Legge Hardesty, left, and chapter president Paul R. Shockey, right, as they present the charter to Penn Alps staff member Roberta Parisi. Pictured below is the recent presentation of the original Little Meadows SAR charter to the Garrett County Historical Society. GCHS president Robert Boal, left, is shown receiving the charter from Hardesty.

Thank You

Edna (Dolly) Livengood and the family of Ward Livengood would like to express their sincerest thanks to all the family and friends for their support and most generous acts of kindness, prayers, food, cards, flowers and memorials during our time of loss.

We would like special thanks to go to Drs. Byer and Chappell, the staff of the emergency room, and the hospice workers of Sacred Heart Hospital of Cumberland. We are so very grateful for the care and kindness you all showed to Ward and the family during his stay there.

We would like to personally thank Mrs. Jane Fox for playing the organ for the service, James and Fred Fox for singing, Pastor Philip Smith for playing his guitar and singing.

A special thank you goes to the area veterans who conducted the military graveside services for Ward at the Blooming Rose Cemetery.

The family also thanks Pastor Nairn of the Grace Lutheran Church of Friendsville and his seminary intern, Justin Padgett for the support and the words of kindness and tribute to Ward during his time in the hospital and at his funeral. Thank you to the staff of Newman Funeral Homes for the professional care and services they rendered in Ward's behalf.

A personal thank you goes to the women of WELCA for the delicious meal they most graciously provided after the services.

May God Bless You ALL
With our most heartfelt appreciation,
Dolly, Sons, and families

Eastern Star Meeting Held

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Jan. 15 at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple. Worthy Matron Bette L. Welch and Associate Patron Theodore Raynovich presided.

The Worthy Matron's opening thought was "Make Life a Little Sweeter." She welcomed guests Joan Morris, Deputy Grand Lecturer of the Grand Chapter of Maryland; Joy Lou Fogle, Worthy Matron of McKinley Chapter No. 12, Cumberland; and Keith Morris, Past Patron of Martha Washington Chapter No. 10, Lonaconing.

She recognized Grand Representatives Joan Morris of the state of Nevada; Joy Lou Fogle of the state of Oregon; and officers and members. The chapter held a memorial service for Brother Russell W. Beall, Past Worthy Matron of the Grand Chapter of Maryland, who passed away on Jan. 5.

The Worthy Matron reported that she and Betty Foy successfully delivered 14 gift baskets to members who are shut-ins. Those members indicated they were very appreciative and enjoyed their visit.

The Worthy Matron announced the Rainbow Tea will be held on Sunday, Jan. 27, at 2 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple. This tea is sponsored by Oakland Chapter No. 67 and Oakland Lodge No. 192. This is an effort to return the Rainbow Charter to Oakland. Those young girls and women ages 11 through 20 who are interested in learning more about Rainbow may contact Charee Reckner or Bette Welch to make their reservations. Tiffany Kisner, Worthy Grand Advisor, will be present to meet with the guests.

The Worthy Matron further announced that Oakland Chapter No. 67 was invited by the Worshipful Master of Oakland Lodge No. 192 to attend its meeting scheduled for Jan. 22 at 7:30 p.m. She thanked the Worshipful Master for the privilege of preparing his Installation Luncheon on Saturday, Jan. 12. The chapter served 82, including Grand Line Officers of the state of Maryland.

Chapter members sang "Happy Birthday" to Lillian Reckner and Cheryl Miller. Nancy Harsh won the door prize by correctly answering the OES questions of the evening. The Worthy Matron thanked Reckner, organist, for the music during the meeting, all substitutes, and the refreshment committee of Lillian and Charee Reckner.

Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer, sent greetings from Florida and said she would be returning in February. The Worthy Matron's closing thought was "Out With the Old." A social hour followed the meeting.

The next meeting will be Feb. 5 at 7:30 p.m. Election of officers for the coming year will be held, and there will be a Valentine program.

GCC Sets Career Workshop Series

A new series of workshops to help students get on the right track toward a career has been scheduled during spring semester in the Career Services Office of Garrett Community College. These workshops are offered free of charge to all GCC students, according to Stacie Upole.

The first workshop in the series, "Don't Wait Until You Graduate!" is set for 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30. This session will help students begin planning toward a career long before they finish college, Upole said.

Two workshops are scheduled for February. "The Importance of Goals" is slated for noon Monday, Feb. 11, and "How to Say It in Your Job Search" will be offered at 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 23. "Exceptional Interviewing Tips" is scheduled for 11:40 a.m. Wednesday, March 13, and "Get Your Foot in the Door" is set for 4 p.m. Thursday, March 21. The last two workshops in the series will be "Resume Ready," set for 4 p.m. Monday, April 8, and "E.M.P.L.O.Y. ability," which will begin at noon on Wednesday, April 24.

Persons interested in further information about the workshops may call Upole at 301-387-3132.

Farm Community Wants Run-Off Control Plan Delayed Two Years

by Hanah Cho
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland's farm community wants a two-year delay to carry out nutrient management plans, according to a proposal submitted Friday.

But Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister told lawmakers at a Rural Delegation meeting that the Department of Agriculture can get the job done by the Dec. 31 deadline because of increased resources from the state and broad discretion under the law.

Gov. Parris N. Glendening appropriated $1.3 million in the 2003 budget to help farmers develop nutrient management plans, which must be completed with the department's help. Still, Valerie Connelly, Maryland Farm Bureau's lobbyist, said the regulations are inadequate for state farmers to comply with the year-end deadline.

"The farm community feels that there should be some changes to make it easier to meet the deadlines," said Connelly, who presented a proposal on behalf of the 11-member Coalition to Improve Nutrient Management.

Under the Maryland Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998, farmers have until the end of this year to implement phosphorous and nitrogen run-off management plans. The act was passed after a 1997 outbreak of toxic pfiesteria piscicida, a microbe that blossoms in nutrient-rich waters in the Chesapeake Bay. The microbe was linked to thousands of fish deaths in the Eastern Shore tributaries. However, the required run-off control plans angered many farmers, who already participated in a voluntary nutrient-management program.

"The department has gone from a partnership agency to a police agency," said Senate Minority Leader J. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset, a supporter of the delay.

Of the 9,000 farms under the law, only 24 percent, or 2,152, submitted plans to the Department of Agriculture by the Dec. 31, 2001, deadline. Another 2,993 farms applied for a "justification for delay," which excused them from the deadline while they continue to work on the plans.

Farmers who failed to meet the deadline face fines up to $250. The department said it would not enforce fines if farmers make good-faith efforts to devise a plan.

Under the two-year delay, the Department of Agriculture would not be able to inspect farms for compliance until after the new deadline. Farmers who have submitted nutrient-management plans would be expected to carry out their plans, Connelly said.

Delegates Paul Stull, R-Frederick, and Kenneth Schisler, R-Talbot, said they plan to draft legislation along the lines of the coalition's recommendations and asked for the support of the rural delegates.

During his meetings with several farm groups, Stull said farmers complained there were not enough funds or expertise available in the state to help them with their plans. The law requires farmers to develop plans in conjunction with certified and licensed nutrient management consultants.

Another complaint was the lack of sufficient information by the Department of Agriculture on the program, Stull said.

"I told everyone that [repealing the bill] was not an option and that they should come up with something else," Stull said.

Another key recommendation in the proposal calls for the removal of a provision which requires farmers to give officials permission to enter their property for inspection. The "right of entry" has become a point of major contention between farmers and the state, Stoltzfus said.

The department would be willing to explore the "right of entry" issue with the farm community, Mister told the lawmakers.

Delaying the plan deadline is not the solution, said Theresa Pierno, Maryland executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. The more reasonable path would be to push farmers who haven't complied to sign up for plans, she said.

Preston Agency Training Meeting Set For Feb. 12

The Preston County Farm Service Agency announces that a training meeting in recordkeeping and financial management will soon be getting under way. The meeting is open to the public; however, producers who receive any type of an FSA farm loan are required to attend to maintain their loan eligibility.

The meeting will cover maintaining records on income, expenses, plantings, harvesting, livestock, etc., and the importance of these records to the farmer.

The training meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at Preston County's WVU Extension Service Office, located behind the Sheriff's Office at 115 West Court Street in Kingwood.

All persons planning to attend are asked to contact the Farm Service Agency at 304-329-1923 by the close of business on Friday, Feb. 8.

Medicines Available for Allergy Sufferers

Allergic reactions may produce mild annoyances including watery eyes, sniffling, and sneezing. At the other extreme such reactions can be life threatening and may involve anaphylactic response (drop in blood pressure, heart problems, shock, and sometimes death). In some persons dust particles, plant pollen, molds, foods, and/or animal dander, and even food cause certain body cells to release chemicals that can injure surrounding tissues.

During the hayfever season, staying indoors as much as possible and changing heating/cooling system air filters regularly may help. Allergy shots may improve the body's allergy defense system. Cromolyn (Intal Inhaler) and numerous prescription-only steroid-type nasal sprays may be used to fight allergies. Prescription and nonprescription antihistamines are used routinely in allergies. The antihistamines loratidine (Claritin) and cetirizine (Zyrtec) are promoted as causing less drowsiness than their nonprescription counterparts. Decongestants such as pseudoephedrine may dry runny noses and frequently are combined with antihistamines. When an antihistamine has the letter "D" after its name, it typically contains a decongestant.

Environmental Issues Forum Set In Frostburg

Members of the Citizens Campaign for the Environment, a statewide coalition of environmental organizations, will host 15 issue forums throughout Maryland over the next several weeks. The Frostburg forum will be held next Wednesday, Jan. 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Frostburg Public Library, 65 E. Main Street, Frostburg. Environmental leaders will discuss top issues facing this year's Maryland General Assembly with citizens throughout Maryland. Citizens concerned about the state's environment and protection of natural resources are encouraged to attend and learn how they can become involved.

Key discussion issues will include:

- enforcement of environmental laws and regulations aud creation/increase of permit fees and penalties;
- protection of coastal bays on Maryland's Lower Eastern Shore and Critical Areas along Chesapeake shorelines;
- energy efficiency;
- water conservation and best management practices for water suppliers and wastewater facilities;
- reduction of the potential misuse of toxics and pesticides to ensure public health and safety; and
- protecting Maryland wildlife and supporting Wildland candidate areas within Savage River State Forest.

For more information about the forum, persons may contact Sam White at 301-264-4162 (e-mail samiam@hereintown.net) or Mark Diehl at 301-724-6238 (e-mail markdiehl@mindspring.com).

GCC's Upcoming Massage Therapy Offerings Noted

Garrett Community College has scheduled three separate one-day massage therapy seminars this coming month. The first course may be of interest to the general public, while the other two are offered for massage therapy students and practitioners in the field, who ean earn Continuing Education Units (CEUs) for any or all of the three courses.

"Touch and the Elderly" will be presented from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday Feb. 2. This course will present information on the physical and emotional challenges and concerns regarding the elderly (both senior citizens and the aged and infirm). The focus will be on the benefits of supportive physical touch as compassionate care.

"Posture and Stance for Injury Prevention II" will be offered from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 9. This course will focus on appropriate use of the practitioner's body in deep tissue massage practice, with attention to stance, movement, and breath. The student will learn how to create depth in the work using the full body. Instruction on assisting clients on and off the massage table will also be provided. The course is open to students who have completed "Posture and Stance for Injury Prevention I," and practicing massage therapists.

A "Synovial Joint" course is slated for 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 23, for massage therapists and related health care providers. Students in this course will review types of body joints including the description of joints, their anatomy and mechanics, pathology, scope of practice, and include clinical observation with manual possibilities for treatment.

GCC is approved by the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork as a continuing education provider under Category A. Participating massage therapists will earn six Category A CEUs, and must provide proof of licensure/certification at the time of registration. For additional information, persons may phone 301-387-3088 or visit the Continuing Education and Training Division office, located in Room 300 on the McHenry campus.

Man Sentenced For Domestic-Related Offenses

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to a variety of charges in Garrett County District Court recently stemming from a domestic-related dispute with his estranged wife that took place during the month of June 2000.

William Joseph Murphy Jr., 51, Oakland, pleaded guilty to felony theft, failure to return a rented vehicle, abandoning a rented vehicle, and violating an ex parte order. The total sum of the consecutive sentences Murphy received amounted to seven years, three months, although all but 52 days was suspended and time already served was credited for that amount. He was also placed on three years of unsupervised probation.

Additional charges of four counts of misdemeanor theft and one count each of felony theft scheme and stealing a credit card were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Murphy in December 2000. He was accused of felony theft for removing a refrigerator, washing machine, and clothes dryer from the Swanton trailer he and his wife had been renting for a six-month period prior to their separation. The appliances belonged to the landlord. He also was charged with abandoning a rented vehicle, which was located by authorities several days afterward along Rt. 495, and with attempting to enter his wife's residence, while she was inside, while a court protective order was on file.

The charging statements also alleged that Murphy used a key to the residence while no one was home, and took his wife's debit card and a blank check, both of which he was accused of using to fraudulently withdraw monies from her accounts. He was also charged with borrowing a tool set and a quantity of assorted tools from the Grantsville residence of another person and not making any effort to return them.

In other District Court news, Daniel Corey Rowland, 23, Hobbsville, N.C., pleaded guilty to a felony charge of malicious destruction of property and driving while under the influence (DUI). He was handed a 30-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, fined $400, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Rowland's September arrest by Maryland State Police troopers came after he drove a truck through the front yard of a Grantsville resident at 11 p.m. The judge ordered him to compensate the victim for the $1,000 required to repair the damage he caused to the yard.

Randolph Lee Harvey Sr., 43, Swanton, was handed a PBJ on a DUI charge and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $355, placed on six months' supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Harvey's arrest resulted from an October traffic stop along Maryland Highway. After the DUI charge was filed, a routine search incident to the arrest uncovered a bag of suspected marijuana and a pipe bowl filled with suspected burnt marijuana. Both items were found under the driver's seat of Harvey's car.

Gordon Ernest Kisner, 35, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana, while an additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted. He was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) and a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $155, placed on six months' supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

A June traffic stop led to Kisner's arrest when deputies located a smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue under the front seat of his car, and a small bag of marijuana was discovered lying in the grass less than three feet from his passenger side door.

Aaron Marcus Morris, 30, Washington, Pa., pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service. He was also ordered to pay $140 in restitution to his victim to defray medical expenses.

Morris was arrested by state troopers in September after a dispute stemming from a traffic altercation led to the McHenry area assault. After the conclusion of a short verbal dispute with another motorist who had turned his back and was walking away, Morris jumped on the victim's back, knocked him down, and began striking him repeatedly.

Xuan San Sayles, 24, Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ along with a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $70, placed on six months' unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Sayles's September arrest stemmed from a traffic stop along Interstate 68. During a search state troopers found a bag of marijuana located inside an open potato chip bag, and a burnt marijuana cigarette under a floor mat.

DWI/DUI Hearings

A number of DWI and DUI hearings have taken place in district court recently.

Neil Joseph Lesner, 47, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a one-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended by Judge Burnett, who also levied a $500 fine and placed the defendant on two years of supervised probation.

Paul Steven Bermanski, 37, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a one-year sentence, nine months of which was suspended, and was placed on three years of supervised probation.

James Oliver Ravenscroft, 48, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a one-year sentence, all but one month of which was suspended by visiting Judge Paul Stakem, who also levied a $805 fine and placed the defendant on two years of supervised probation.

Robert Vaughn Winters, 31, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a one-year sentence, 11 months of which were suspended by Judge Stakem, who fined Winters for $805 fine and placed him on supervised probation for a two-year period.

George Edward Stevenson Jr., 40, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a six month sentence by Judge Burnett, who suspended all but 30 days, imposed a $555 fine, and placed Stevenson on one year of supervised probation.

Robin Leonard Moyer, 46, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but 10 days of which was suspended, fined $500, and handed a two year suspended sentence.

Frederick Edward Helbig Jr., 21, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but seven days of which was suspended, fined $200, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Robert Haines Mayle Jr., 33, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but six days of which was suspended, fined $455, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Ricky DeWayne Wilburn, 43, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but five days of which was suspended by Judge Burnett, who also levied a $500 fine and placed the defendant on two years of supervised probation.

GOP WOMEN RECEIVE AWARD — The Southern Garratt County Republican Woman's Club earned a New Membership Award for 2001. The Maryland State Federation presented SGCRWC with a New Membership Certificate Award, plus a $25 cash award, in recognition of the club's achievement of a 25 percent increase in membership. The club gained six new members in 2001. To learn more about the organization, persons may contact Bea Crosco at 301-334-3153. Shown above in the forefront is Ruth Umbel, Western Regional chairperson, presenting the certificate to SGCRWC vice president Ann Rebele. Also in the front row are Wilma Calhoun and Arzella Parsons. In the back row are Bea Crosco, SGCRWC president, and members Judy Wilt, Nita Roberts, Carol Riley, Joanne Glotfelty, and Clara Anderson.

TEAM ONE HELPS MAKE-A-WISH FOR CHILDREN — Oakland auto dealer Team One participated in the recent holiday campaign of the local Make-A-Wish chapter. As a GM dealer, a "Wish Match" was made by UAW-GM for each donation given by Team One. By enrolling in this campaign, Team One was able to help grant wishes for area children with life-threatening illnesses. Pictured as the donation was being presented, from the left, are Team One general manager Greg Shockey; Western Maryland Make-A-Wish Foundation chapter coordinator Cathy Roman; Team One sales manager Rick Livengood; and sales specialists Greta Edgar, Lewis Marks, Wayne Scott, and Dale Sines.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetorium

THE SUN — In early February, the sun shines for 10.2 hours each day, which grows to 11.3 hours in late February. The month begins with 7:26 a.m. sunrises and ends with 6:53 a.m. sunrises. During February the sun's peak height rises from 33 degrees to 42 degrees. (45 degrees is one-half of the way up from the horizon to top of sky.) During February sunsets advance from 5:38 p.m. to 6:09 p.m.

On Feb. 2 (Groundhog Day), we are at the midpoint of winter. February is usually the coldest month although we get the least amount of solar radiation in late December. This is because the Earth is such a huge system that its temperatures lag 6-8 weeks behind the incoming solar radiation.

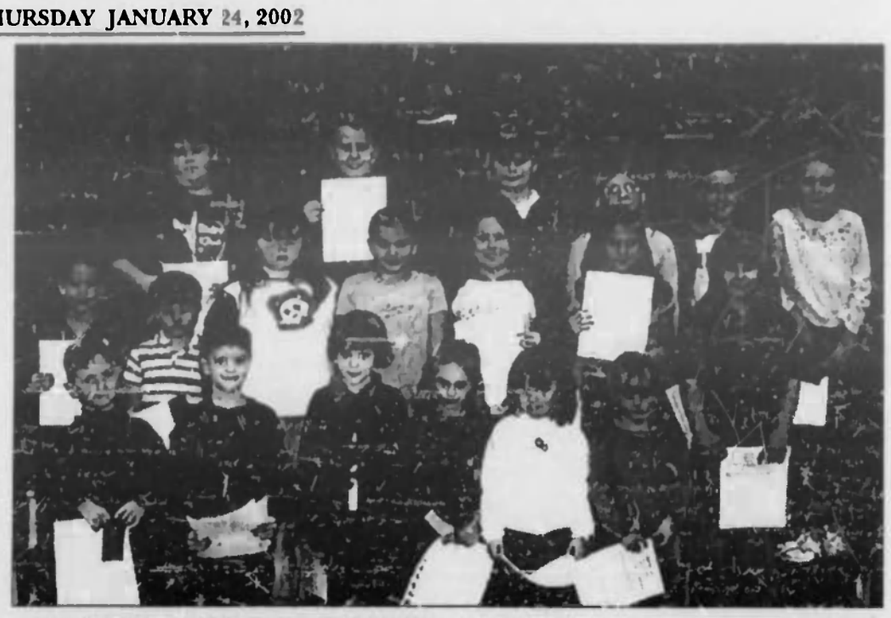
THE MOON — February's evening moon quickly slides into the morning sky in the month's first week. The moon is last seen in the eastern dawn on the 9th, and returns to the western dusk on the 14th. The crescent moon appears near the planet Mars on the 16th. The moon will also appear close to the planet Saturn on the 20th and Jupiter on the 22nd. The best time of the month to observe the moon's craters and mountains will be within a few days of Feb. 19 when the moon will be about half full (like a letter "D") with the maximum amount of shadows. The moon is fullest on the evening of Feb. 26

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars, but if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even a planet's light may flicker. February evenings feature the very bright planet Jupiter high in the Southeast. To the right of Jupiter is the planet Saturn, appearing near the bright star Aldeberan (of Taurus). The planet Mars shines low in the western dusk. In February both inner planets Venus and Mercury are at too small an angle to the sun to be seen.

FEBRUARY'S BEST SIGHTS — Jupiter and the bright star group Orion dominate the evening sky. Jupiter appears as a shining point of light, outshining all the night stars. Binoculars held steadily will reveal a few of Jupiter's giant moons as tiny stars astride the planet. To the right of Jupiter is an hourglass-shaped star group. In the middle of the group is a line of three stars in a row — This is Orion's belt. Orion was the greatest mortal hunter in Greek mythology. Above the belt is the pinkish star Betelgeuse, marking one of Orion's shoulders. Orion's belt points down and left to Sirius, the night's brightest star.

FEBRUARY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — Each Sunday in February, the Frostburg State Planetarium will present "Sky Gazers of Ancient Europe," with free public showings at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Also featured is a beginner's tour of the evening sky using our planetarium projector. The Frostburg State Planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes Hall. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 15, at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers from the tri-state area are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure/map, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and "Sky Sights," which airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.



DECEMBER STUDENTS OF THE MONTH were recently selected at Dennett Road Elementary School. The students were chosen for their exceptional demonstration of caring and kindness. MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 00-DP-2723, NPDES Permit MD0064505:

Franklin W. Peters Trust, t/a Peters Fuel Corporation, P.O. Box 119, Oakland, MD 21550, submitted an application for renewal of a permit to discharge less than 100 gallons per day garage floor drainage and variable volumes of storm water from a truck repair shop and fuel storage facility, located at 8 West Liberty St., Oakland, MD, to the Little Youghiogheny River. (a Use III-P Water).

The Department proposes to issue the permit with the following discharge limitation: oil and grease (15mg/l daily maximum) and pH (range 6 minimum and 9 maximum), at Out fall 001. Implementation of a stormwater pollution prevention plan will also be required.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by February 13, 2002. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224, Attn.: Edwal Stone, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by February 13, 2002, will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Stone at the above address, on or before February 25, 2002. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Stone at 410-631-3323 or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Stone at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Stone at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE DWELLING
8 EAST PENNINGTON STREET
(ALSO KNOWN AS 8 PENNINGTON STREET)
OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21550

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Cynthia L. Rush and Dana J. Rush unto Mitchell L. Heffernan, Trustee, dated January 25, 2001, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 828, page 840, the holder of the indebtedness having evidenced the debt by a "Note" signed at even dated therewith; said "Note," was payable to Mortgage Lenders Network USA Inc. The present noteholder is Bank One, National Association, as Trustee for Residential Funding Corporation. The holder of the indebtedness having appointed Wayne T. Prem Substitute Trustee by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms of the aforesaid Deed of Trust, the undersigned Substitute Trustee will offer for sale at courthouse steps of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, 203 4th Street, Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on at 12:30 p.m.

ALL THAT FEE SIMPLE DWELLING situated in District No. 17, Garrett County, Maryland and described as follows:

Beginning for the same on the north side of Pennington Street in the Town of Oakland, being known as and designated as Lots No. 7 and 8 of Wilson's First Addition to the Town of Oakland, a subdivision of Lot No. 57.

The property is improved by a single family dwelling. The improvements thereon being known as 8 East Pennington Street (also known as 8 Pennington Street), Oakland, Maryland 21550.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements. In addition the property will be sold subject to all existing housing, building and zoning code violations and subject to all environmental problems and violations which may exist or or with respect to the property.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $10,000.00 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustee may determine, in his sole discretion. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten (10) business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substituted Trustee, with no abatement of interest for any reason, in the event the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder. Taxes and water rent to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Should the Substitute Trustee be unable to convey good and marketable title, then the Substitute Trustee and purchaser or purchasers mutually agree that the purchaser, or purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser or purchasers only. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser or purchasers shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustee herein.

Named Student Ambassador; To Visit Australia

Southern Middle School student Marlena Kelly has been named to a delegation of western Maryland middle school students that will be visiting Australia this summer. The sixth grader was selected to represent Garrett County by the People to People Student Ambassador Program.

Kelly and her fellow western Maryland student ambassadors will spend approximately three weeks learning about the government, economy, and culture of Australia. They will take part in briefings at embassies and ministries, discussions with industry and trade officials, site visits to the headquarters of international organizations, and meetings with youth clubs.

The delegation will also receive on-site overviews of Australia's cultural heritage during visits to major historical sites and ethnic music and dance performances. The group's travel itinerary includes visits to Cairns, the Great Barrier Reef, Townsville, Charter Towers (outback), Whitsunday Islands, Yeppoon, Sunshine Coast, Coffs Harbor, and Sydney.

As part of their overseas experience, student ambassadors will have home visits with host families. Host families include their American guests in everyday activities, enabling the student ambassadors to gain a first-hand understanding of the ways people live and work in other cultures.

Each student ambassador is selected on the basis of recommendations that include school references and personal interviews with members of a screening committee. Once students are accepted into the program they prepare for their overseas project by attending orientation meetings in Hagerstown and studying background material on the countries and organizations they will visit. Students can obtain high school and university credit through participation in the program.

Young Americans have served as student ambassadors since 1963, and many program participants have gone on to pursue international careers in business, law, government service, and teaching. Outstanding student ambassadors are also eligible to apply for future service as interns.

The Student Ambassador Program is operated by People to People International, a non-political, private-sector organization founded by President Eisenhower in 1956 to further international good will and understanding. An international network of People to People chapters in nearly 60 American cities and 35 countries assists program administrators in arranging homestays and educational activities.

Kelly is the daughter of Melissa and Pat Kelly of McHenry.

AARP TAX-AIDE PROGRAM SET — The AARP Tax-Aide service in cooperation with the IRS will begin its 10th year in providing free tax service to Garrett County taxpayers. This service is a free nationwide confidential service that assists in the preparation of tax returns and also answers tax questions. It is available to all ages, with special attention given to those age 60 and over. Approximately 30,000 nationwide IRS-certified volunteers provide high quality service through intensive training. All types of tax returns are handled, including earned income credit, education credit, child care credit, dependent care credit, and state returns. These volunteers have the highest percentage of accuracy of any group passing through IRS quality review, a spokesperson said. The trained counselors travel to special locations, including nursing homes, hospitals, and homes of shut-ins, to provide service to those unable to come to the site. The tax-aide program site is located locally at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland, co-sponsored by the Community Action Area Agency on Aging. The program starts on Tuesday, Jan. 29, from noon to 4 p.m., and continues every Tuesday and Thursday, noon to 4 p.m., and Wednesdays, 5 to 7 p.m., through April 11. Taxpayers should bring a copy of their last years return's and all federal and state tax packages received this year. Tax-Aide will be canceled at times during extreme weather conditions. Pictured above being instructed in the new updated changes in e-filing returns, from the left, are Al Whitmer, Stan Coulter, Marion Boehmer, and Pete Turney. Standing are Bill Boehmer and IRS-certified instructor Bob Hughes. Other tax counselors this year are Carl Roberts, Jane Hughes, Arzella Parsons, Ethel Coulter, Nita Roberts, Gerald Gank, and program coordinator Bea Crosco.

Local Student Named To FSU Dean's List

Audrey Shipe, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester.

Pa. Man Faces Additional Bank Robbery Charges

Somerset County resident Corbin J. Will, 29, faces additional charges filed by federal and Pennsylvania authorities this week as their investigation of a rash of bank robberies located in and around the Route 40 corridor widened.

Will's arrest this week by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Pennsylvania State Police came in the wake of his Jan. 3 arrest in connection with that day's robbery of the First United Bank branch located in Friendsville. The Berlin, Pa., resident, who had been incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail since that initial arrest, has been transferred to the Pennsylvania State Correctional Institution in Somerset.

The most recent charges stem from robberies in Pennsylvania of Promistar Bank of Markleysburg in Henry Clay, Aug. 31; National City Bank's New Salem Branch in Menallen, Oct. 10; Promistar Bank of Indian Head in Saltlick, Oct. 26; and Second National Bank Cherry Tree office in South Union, Nov. 6.

No weapon was displayed in any of the robberies, as the perpetrator handed a note specifically demanding cash to the teller on duty. Investigators said that Wills, who is not married, may have been seeking money to fund a possible drug habit, according to the PSP. He is believed to have stolen a combined total in excess of $10,000.

FBI agents said that additional charges may be forthcoming against Will, whom they identified as a possible suspect in six other robberies of banks located in three states. He is believed to be connected with the following robberies: Farmers & Merchants Bank in LaVale, Aug. 16; PNC Bank in Donegal, Pa., Sept. 12; National City Bank in Hopwood, Pa., Oct. 17; First Peoples Federal Credit Union in Grantsville, Nov. 14; Chessie Federal Credit Union in Grafton, W.Va., Dec. 5; and First United Bank & Trust in Friendship, shortly before the Friendsville robbery.

Pennsylvania sources reported that Wills had been FLYING FROM RUTH ENLOW TO FINLAND — Youngsters who are taking part in Ruth Enlow Library's monthly Children's Hour "traveled" to Finland this week with the help of guest Riitta Routhier, a native of Forssa, Finland. Riitta is pictured above as she guides the little ones on their airplanes to her homeland, which is located in the south central portion of Finland. She showed the children Finnish art, magazines, and books, and helped each of them build a "viippera," or a pinwheel. They also shared Finnish snacks of pulla and mehu, or, in English, cinnamon buns and juice. Riitta left her native country about 30 years ago and began teaching school in the Baltimore area. Five years later she and her family moved to Garrett County, where they established a ski shop now in its 21st year of operation. The children at Ruth Enlow will travel (in their imaginations) to England on March 27 and to Australia on April 24. For more information on the Children's Hour, persons may contact the library at 301-334-3996.

County Receives Funds For Auto. Defibrillator

Jon Burrell, executive director of Local Governmem Insurance Trust, presented the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday with a $4,999 check for the purchase of an automated external defibrillator. Brad Frantz, director of Emergency Management, Phil Rook, assistant director of Emergency Management, and Linda Gnegy, General Services' risk manager, accepted the check on behalf of the county.

The trust awards grants to counties with "innovative projects" that focus on safety equipment and risk management, said Burrell. During the first two years of its existence, the trust awarded $100,000 to various counties. However, according to the executive director, grants awarded this year alone will total $75,000, with no matching fund stipulations, as was previously required.

Gnegy had submitted a grant proposal to the trust

Contractors, County Officials Discuss New Building Ordinance

More than 20 people attended a public hearing on Tuesday to discuss the county's new building code with the Garrett County commissioners and Planning and Zoning officials. The current code will be replaced by the International Building Code (IBC), version 2000, the International Residential Code 2000, and new local admendments.

"The trend across the country is to standardize building codes," explained Jim Torrington, permits and inspection coordinator with planning and zoning, about the change. The IBC only suggests minimum standards. Counties may adopt tougher ones, if they wish, he said.

Torrington added that the only difference in the county's current code and the proposed new draft is that crawl spaces must be waterproofed and dampproofed. The reasoning behind the addition is to increase the life of buildings, he said.

However, there are no changes to procedures, inspection schedules, or fees drafted in the new ordinance, Torrington added.

The only issue that sparked comment from builders at the meeting was the square-foot standard for accessory outbuildings that the county adopted in 1997. Currently, the construction of outbuildings more than 150 square feet requires that permits be obtained by builders and that the county inspect the structures.

Suspicious Fire Destroys Boat

A fire of suspicious origin destroyed a 1992, 22-foot Bayliner boat, owned by David and Cathy Murphy, Friendsville, late Tuesday evening.

Volunteer firefighters from Friendsville and Addison, Pa., VFDs were summoned to the Murphy residence, 637 Mill Run Road, at 10:55 p.m. after Mrs. Murphy discovered the fire. According to Ryan Chapman, fire investigator for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, Mrs. Murphy was at the residence, heard a noise outside, went out and saw the boat in flames, and then dialed 911. The blaze was brought under control in about 15 minutes, but the damage was estimated to be $19,000.

Chapman said that the cause of the fire is under investigation, and requests that persons with any information contact the fire marshal's office at 877-890-0199.

Bear Task Force Reviews Data, Names Chairman

The first meeting of the citizen task force appointed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to provide input on ways the agency can manage the state's black bear population took place yesterday afternoon at Rocky Gap State Park. Nine of the 12 members of the group, which undertook a discussion that encompassed a wide range of views, were on hand for the public session.

Cumberland resident Tom Mathews, a retired DNR wildlife biologist, was elected to serve as the task force's chairman yesterday. Also in attendance were three of the group's Garrett County members—private citizens Peggy Gosnell, Accident, and George Falter, McHenry, and Brad Frantz, director of the county's Emergency Management office, also a McHenry resident. The fourth Garrett County member, Nancy Railey of McHenry, did not

CDS, Gambling Charges Incurred By Local Couple

Two Oakland residents were arrested by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force Saturday on drug violations and gambling charges. Michael A. Inglese, 52, and Phyllis M. Inglese, 51, were charged following the execution of search warrants at their home and their business establishment, according to the report.

In regard to a suspicion of gambling violations, members of the task force assisted by uniformed members from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, searched the defendants' private residence along George Washington Highway, as well as the Backbone Mountain Inn, also located along George Washington Highway.

In the course of the searches, according to the report, investigators located suspected cocaine. Additional search warrants were subsequently obtained for drugs. Officers then located a quantity of suspected cocaine, suspected marijuana, and drug paraphernalia.

The Ingleses were both charged with three counts of gambling violations, possession with intent to distribute cocaine, possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

In the course of the investigation, officers seized one vehicle and a quantity of cash, according to the report. The search warrants were executed after approximately a one-month investigation, and the probe is continuing, police said.

Investigators were assisted by members of the C31 Narcotics Unit.

Charges Of Child Abuse Dismissed Prior To Trial

Charges of child abuse and related offenses faced by a Swanton man were dismissed last week before the case came to trial. The action was taken with the agreement of the state's attorney's office, which cited the lengthy time period—nearly 30 years—that had elapsed before the accusations were reported to authorities.

Ronald LeRoy Sunny, 60, had been arrested in November after allegations were made concerning suspected offenses that had occurred in 1972. The resulting Garrett Bureau of Investigation probe led to Sunny's arrest on charges of child abuse, second- and third-degree sex offenses,

Leaders Provide Monthly Reports: MSPAP Scores Down, Byron Visit

The Garrett County commissioners held their monthly staff meeting this week, hearing reports from 12 county departments and agencies. Staff members gave updates on items such as school test scores, tourism, emergency management, nutrient management, library funding, mental health programs, and internships.

Board of Education

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of the Board of Education, reported that Garrett County's 2001 Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP) scores declined from last year. The county's scores had been increasing for the past three years.

"No one is pleased with the results, but no one knows what's wrong," Teets said. "We have excellent teachers."

The superintendent noted, however, that he and the board were "working on correcting" the problem.

He said 20 of the state's 24 school systems had posted lower scores. Teets will go into more specifics about the results at the board's next regular, public meeting on Feb. 12 when it releases the Garrett County School Performance Report for 2001.

The Republican will have a more detailed report on the test scores following the board's meeting.

Teets noted county students continue to meet all functional test and attendance standards.

Chamber of Commerce

Ken Wishnick, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, reported Appalachian Crossroads had been contracted to become a data center to process information requests that the chamber receives from its web site, advertisements, vacation guide, and through various other avenues.

All the information will be compiled into a data base each month and will be available to chamber members by subscription, said Wishnick. The members will then be able to coordinate their marketing efforts, using the data.

According to the president, the chamber expects that 50,000 information re-

First Rabies Case Noted By Health Dept.

The first confirmed positive rabies case of the year has been reported by the Garrett County Health Department. The incident occurred in the northeastern section of the county along Sam Crow Road Wednesday, Jan. 16.

A skunk fought with a kenneled dog at that location, and later tested positive for the rabies virus at the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygine laboratory in Baltimore. The currently vaccinated dog was given a rabies booster and will be monitored for a 45-day period. The dog's owners avoided human exposure by using gloves and not handling the dog immediately after the exposure.

The incident underscores the need for pet owners to keep the rabies vaccination of their dogs, cats, and ferrets up-to-date. Low-cost rabies clinics will be offered by the health department in May. Owners with pets not currently vaccinated against the rabies virus at this time should contact a veterinarian to obtain the proper vaccination.

Local Resident Will Work At Winter Olympics

William (Bill) Freyman, a certified national ski patroller, former Wisp Ski Patrol leader, and current assistant ski patrol leader at Canaan Valley, W.Va., will travel to Salt Lake City, Utah, for training prior to his volunteer assignment at the 2002 Winter Olympic Games, which begin Feb. 8.

He will be at Snowbasin Resort, where he will be a runner at the women's downhill, super giant slalom, and combined (downhill/slalom) events. Runners are a crew of strong skiers who shuttle tools and other miscellaneous equipment during course preparation, training runs, and actual races.

During the races, runners repair any gate damage. Speed is essential because racers are started at 30-second intervals. Work shifts begin as early as 5:45 a.m. on race days, and shifts are concluded at 4 p.m. Runners and other course crew

SEE A LITTER BUG and you just might end up being a member of a Garrett County work release crew that spends many hours picking up hundreds of bags of trash along local roadways each year. So says local law enforcement officials who have had discussions with local judges about the problem. The judges agree that a community service sentence for offenders could certainly include the donning an orange jumpsuit and temporary assignment on the road crew. Pictured above with a member of the crew is officer Tom Bittinger. "It's just unbelievable how much trash we find along our roads, which shows how little respect some people have for the environment," Bittinger said. "It would be great to catch a few of these folks and have them pay their debt to society by cleaning up the mess that they and others like them create." He said that in just one small area in Mtn. Lake Park the work release crew recently picked up several 55-gallon bags full of trash. Persons observing littering and the illegal dumping of trash are encouraged to contact the police and, if possible, obtain a license plate numbers and description of vehicles being driven by the offenders. Littering is also punishable by fines of up to $1,000.

A NEW THRILL available at Wisp Mountain Resort is snow tubing, and some special guests of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club experienced that fun Monday evening following dinner. Blind persons who are learning to ski via the Lions' Blind Skier Program were accompanied down Marsh Mountain on snow tubes by club members and volunteers. Robert Pollard, 20, of Forestville had not one, not two, but three female comoanions on this run. From left are Barbara Ann Reed, Mary Ann Fink, Pollard, and Bea Crosco. The Deep Creek Lions Club has sponsored the Blind Skier Program for many years at the Wisp. Other guests Monday evening included the governor and district governor of Lion District 22-W. MLP Man Serves Thirty Days For Drug Possession

A Mtn. Lake Park man arrested in August when sheriff's deputies located marijuana at an underage drinking party received a 30-day jail term after a recent Garrett County District Court hearing. Judge Ralph Burnett handed down the sentence.

Daniel James Smith, 19, was at a Pleasant View Lane residence in Oakland when deputies arrived to investigate reports of underage consumption of alcohol. Upon questioning, Smith volunteered that he was carrying a bag of marijuana and turned it over to the police, who filed a marijuana possession charge. At the time of his subsequent court hearing, he had already spent a month in jail. The time he served was credited, and he was released with no other penalties.

In other District Court news, a Preston County man completed a six-day jail term recently incurred after a hearing in Garrett County District Court earlier this month. The Bruceton Mills resident had pleaded guilty to a charge of making a false statement to a police officer during the course of an investigation.

Randy Leo Loughery, 38, was handed a 60-day sentence, 54 days of which were suspended, fined $200, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 50 hours of community service. An additional charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI) was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Loughery's August arrest came after a sheriff's deputy stopped to render assistance to the occupants of a vehicle stopped along Hutton Road. Two men were in the passenger seats of the car, and a third subject was standing outside the vehicle. Loughery, who was one of the two occupants, appeared to be intoxicated, and during questioning told the deputy that the third subject had been the vehicle's driver.

Based in large part on that information, the third man was arrested and charged with DWI. Later, while under oath during a subsequent court hearing, Loughery admitted that his statement was false and that he had been the driver the night of the incident.

Matthew Paul Bellamy, 21, Sandusky, Ohio, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on six months' unsupervised probation. Bellamy's October arrest by Maryland State Police troopers stemmed from a traffic stop along Friendsville Road. A vehicle search uncovered a marijuana roach and a smoking device bearing marijuana residue. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia and several traffic charges were not prosecuted.

Marquis D. Brown, 20, Glen Burnie, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, while additional charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia, and making a false statement were not prosecuted.

Sheriff's deputies jailed Brown after a canine drug detection scan of a vehicle stopped in Oakland resulted in the recovery of contraband material. While being booked at the Garrett County Jail, Brown allegedly falsified his identity. A short time later it was learned that the Maryland Department of Corrections had previously issued a warrant for Brown's arrest.

Jesse Lee Friend, 20, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), and was fined $100 and placed on six months of supervised probation. Friend was the passenger in a van stopped at an unspecified location by state troopers, who then initiated a canine drug detection scan of the vehicle. The positive scan led to a search that revealed an Altoids can on the front seat containing marijuana, tweezers, a small knife, and a set of rolling papers. An additional charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted.

The driver of the same van, Lawrence Mervin Bernard Jr., 20, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling stemming from his arrest on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

A second subject jailed at the same time of the Daniel Smith arrest (see above) faced a marijuana possession charge, which was placed onto the stet docket. Justin Luther Edge, 19, Oakland, was charged in connection with a burnt marijuana roach located on a coffee table in the residence. Edge was ordered to complete 20 hours of community service as a condition of the stet ruling.

Jonathan Michael Lucas, 19, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling on a charge of obstructing and hindering a police officer's investigation. His October arrest by state troopers stemmed from an incident involving the theft of a carved wooden bear, valued at $1,000, from the miniature golf course at the Fort in McHenry.

A number of persons at a party which took place following the theft reported that Lucas had bragged about taking the bear and disposing of it in an unspecified location. During an investigative interview, Lucas initially refused to talk to the trooper, then went on to make contradictory statements that indicated to the officer that he knew more detailed information which he appeared to be withholding.

Joshua Daniel Moyer, 19, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of attempted felony theft. Garrett Bureau of Investigation detectives arrested Moyer in November in the wake of their probe of an October theft that occurred during a party at a Sang Run Road residence. Moyer had been accused of taking a Sony Playstation video game and accompanying remote control equipment from the home and putting the items in and near his car.

DUI Hearings

Judge Burnett handed down verdicts after a pair of recent driving while under the influence (DUI) hearings.

Timothy Joe Beachy, 36, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, fined $455, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Timothy Sherrod Eure, 37, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $300, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

VFDs Notified Of Proposed Funding Cut

Local fire departments and rescue squads received a letter this week from Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer informing them that the proposed state budget of Governor Parris Glendening calls for "the transfer of $5 million" from the Emergency Medical Systems Operations Fund into the state's general fund.

The fund, which is supported by vehicle registration fees and is known among emergency service personnel as the "508 money," is used to provide numerous grants to volunteer fire and rescue departments. It also serves as a funding source for the Maryland State Police aviation division, the R. Cowley Shock Trauma Center in Baltimore, and the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute, which is the primary training facility for fire and EMS personnel.

"We believe this action by the Glendening-Townsend administration is misguided," Edwards and Hafer state in the letter. "If the events of September 11 taught us one lesson, it was the need for a strong, well-equipped, and coordinated fire and rescue system. To take funding away from this purpose in Maryland is inappropriate."

The letter then requests members of the aforementioned organizations to contact these elected officials to let them know of support, or non-support, of their efforts to restore this funding in the state budget. A petition was included with the letter, with the request that the petition be copied and circulated "so that we can present them to the legislature to support your position."

Persons wishing to make comment to Edwards and/or Hafer on this issue may contact them by telephone at 1-800-492-7122, extension 3565 or 3435.

Night At The Y Set For Middle School Students

Middle school students who live in the 21536 (Grantsville) zip code area are invited to attend the second "Night at the Y" on Saturday, Feb. 16, and parents and community members are invited to attend a presentation titled "What You Need to Know about Designer and Other Drugs Available in Your Community" that same night.

Funding for the free events is being provided through the Community Mobilization element grant, part of the HotSpot Communities Initiative of the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention.

A chartered school bus will leave the Grantsville Senior Center at 6 p.m. to travel to the YMCA in Cumberland. At the YMCA, the youth will participate in ice skating from 7 to 9 p.m., and swimming from 9 to 10 p.m. Refreshments will also be served. The bus should return to the senior center around 10:30 p.m.

As with the trip in December, chaperons will include representatives of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Maryland State Police, the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Community Action, and the State's Attorney's Office. A limited number of parents or other community representatives may also volunteer.

Information and permission slips are available at the After-School Program at the Grantsville Senior Center, the guidance office at Northern Middle School, and the Grantsville Library. Interested persons may contact Linda Green at Community Action at 1-888-877-8403 for more information.

That same night, parents and other concerned community members are invited to attend a presentation of the designer drugs and other substances available to the youth in the community. This session will be held inside the senior center, beginning at 6 p.m., so parents who bring their children for the trip to the YMCA can stay for refreshments and information.

Dfc. Rob Corley of the sheriff's department will explain the newest trends in drug usage among youth, including the effects of the various drugs and the signs parents can look for. Corley, also a DARE instructor in the Garrett County schools, has shared this information with community groups and educators over the past year.

"Although Garrett County is isolated from many problems, a variety of drugs find their way into Garrett County communities," said Sheriff P.R. "Dick" Sanders. "Officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force seized marijuana, cocaine, opium, heroine, ketamine, LSD, mushrooms, and ecstasy this past year. Every citizen should be aware of and alert to signs of drug usage and drug dealing. Deputy Corley's presentation is invaluable if one person leaves with knowledge he uses to help one young person avoid the dangerous and potentially fatal consequences of these drugs."

Afternoon Traffic Stop Leads To Several Charges

A traffic stop along Alderson Street in Loch Lynn Saturday afternoon led to numerous charges against the driver, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Charles Lee Paugh, 44, Point Marion, Pa., was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), speed greater than reasonable, seat belt violation, driving on a revoked license, driving on a suspended license, and driving on a suspended out-of-state license.

A check also revealed an outstanding bench warrant for Paugh. He is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $6,000 bond.

In another incident Saturday evening, two men were arrested for DUI when deputies responded to a motor vehicle accident at Kitzmiller Road and Vindex Road.

Deputies found a pickup truck down over an embankment, and the driver had fled the scene. Deputies found the driver, Randy Robert Paugh, 37, Oakland, at a residence along Vindex Road. He was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Paugh was charged with DUI and 10 other various traffic citations.

While looking for Paugh, deputies stopped a vehicle along Vindex Road. The driver of that vehicle, Johnny Ray Paugh, 42, Kitzmiller, was arrested and charged with DUI.

Both were released on their own recognizance.

In other police news, an Oakland man was arrested Sunday evening when sheriff's deputies and Maryland State Police responded to a residence along Garrett Highway in Mountain Lake Park in response to a disorderly subject.

Investigation revealed that Barry Ray Livengood, 35, was in violation of a protective order. He is was released from jail on his own recognizance.

Call To Police Leads To Arrest Of Local Man

A traffic complaint call in reference to a possible drunk driver led to the arrest of a Mtn. Lake Park man early Wednesday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The driver, Douglas Keith Warnick, 41, was stopped along Dennett Road near 11th Street. He was arrested and charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), failure to drive right of center, and negligent driving.

Warnick was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $5,000 unsecured bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

Earlier that morning, an Oakland woman was also arrested for drunk driving.

Melody Linda Calderon, 38, was stopped along Sand Flat Road and was placed under arrest after not performing field sobriety tests to the deputy's satisfaction.

She was charged with DUI and DWI, and was later released.

In other police news, Abigail Elizabeth Getty, 16, Oakland, was treated for injuries she sustained in a single-vehicle accident early Friday morning.

She was operating a 1996 Chevy on Turkey Neck Road near Maryland Highway when she lost control of her vehicle on the loose gravel and hit a tree, police said.

In another incident, Toby William Upton, 21, Oakland, lost control of his 1995 Pontiac when he swerved to miss a deer and hit a tree, according to the report.

He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for his injuries.

In another accident, which was not reported to police until 12 hours later, Troy Allen Ashby, 31, Corinth, W.Va., was injured when he was ejected from the four-wheeler he was operating.

According to the report, he was riding the ATV in a yard, was unfamiliar with the vehicle, made a sharp turn, and was thrown off the vehicle.

He was treated and released.

Mead, Westvaco Complete Merger

The Mead Corporation and Westvaco Corporation announced Wednesday the completion of a merger of equals. MeadWestvaco Corporation will trade under the ticker symbol MWV on the New York Stock Exchange. The merger was announced on August 29, 2001, and was approved by the shareholders of both companies on Monday.

"With MeadWestvaco, we are creating an exceptional new company," said Jerry Tatar, chairman. "We have leading positions in our core businesses, a value-added orientation for our business portfolio, world-class assets, and a highly modern and efficient infrastructure."

John A. Luke Jr., president and chief executive officer, added, "With this combination and the powerful businesses it creates, we are well positioned to deliver higher returns to shareholders. Our plan to achieve $325 million in synergies is just the first step toward this goal."

The board of directors of MeadWestvaco consists of equal representation from Mead and Westvaco.

MeadWestvaco Corporation, headquartered in Stamford, Conn., has annual sales of $8 billion and is a leading global producer of packaging, coated and specialty papers, consumer and office products, and specialty chemicals. Panel Envisions Future Schools With Top Teachers, Student Parity

by Kelley Benham
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The state's vision for schools in the next decade is ambitious, likely expensive, and centered on classroom teaching.

In it, statewide curriculum flows seamlessly into a coordinated testing program. Every school answers for the progress of every student. Poor and minority students perform just as well as their affluent classmates. Teachers are better trained, and the best teachers and principals work in the most troubled schools. Principals can focus on teaching, not administrative details. And the state finds all the money to pay for its expensive ideas.

The Visionary Panel for Better Schools presented the results of its yearlong study, conducted by its 40-member team, to the Maryland State Board of Education Tuesday. The panel's recommendations are a master plan for long-term goals and reform.

"This report is profound," said State School Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick. "It will provide enormous guidance to us."

Grasmick asked the panel to look at the policy of the past 10 years and map out the next 10. Policies of the 1990s focused on standards and accountability. Recent studies have ranked Maryland at the top of the nation in those areas. The next step is to bring curriculum and instruction in line, the panel said.

"All our recommendations come down to one," said panel co-chairman John F. Jennings, director of the Center on Education Policy in Washington, D.C. "We have to focus on the classroom."

Panel members said their recommendations fit with the state's other comprehensive reform plan, the so-called Thornton Commission's school funding proposal.

The plan created by the Commission on Education Finance, Equity and Excellence calls for a $1.1 billion increase in state spending for schools over the next five years. Gov. Parris N. Glendening has said the state can't afford to begin those reforms this year, but many lawmakers are hopeful that the General Assembly can find at least some money before the budget is finalized.

Glendening's $22 billion budget was designed to close a projected $1 billion deficit by postponing the last 2 percent of a planned 10 percent tax cut and using up rainy day funds. Although he increased education spending by $161 million, he did not provide any money for Thornton Commission proposals.

The Visionary Panel's proposal calls for full funding of the Thornton Commission's recommendations, and would guide how some of that money might be spent.

"This is a complement to the Thornton Commission," Jennings said. "The state is not only being asked to spend more money, they're being asked to spend the money well."

Several board members said the plan could suffer for lack of funding.

"The content is essential," said board member Karabelle A.L. Pizzigati. "But we can't do this on the cheap."

It is not yet clear how much the recommendations will cost to institute. The state will seek input from regional briefings and from the General Assembly, then develop a way to bring the recommendations to fruition. The board will look at the plan again in May, when state lawmakers likely will be finished with the budget.

Putting the plan to work will be an ambitious task, said board member Edward L. Root.

Some recommendations can be carried out locally, some by the state, and some could mean restructuring at several levels, he said.

"The next part is even more difficult. This is not a one-year job," Root said. "If we can do these in the next several years, Maryland is going to be a lot better off."

Panel members warned against picking the plan apart or delaying it for lack of funds.

"Not only are there things we must do to improve schools, there are things we must do now," said Sister Helen Amos, panel chairwoman and executive chairwoman of the board of trustees of Mercy Health Services in Baltimore.

The state's achievement gap needs immediate attention, she said, as the state's minority population grows at four times the rate of its white population.

A panel assigned to dream big for the state's schools made its report to the Maryland State Board of Education Tuesday. The recommendations of the Visionary Panel for Better Schools are:

1. Develop a statewide curriculum.
2. Align curriculum with testing.
3. Require all schools to be accountable, not just low-performing ones.
4. Make every school accountable for the performance of every child.
5. Certify only teachers who can demonstrate high-level knowledge and skills.
6. Place the best teachers and principals in the lowest performing schools.
7. Shift the focus of the principal from administration to instruction.
8. Demand full funding of the Commission on Education Finance, Equity and Excellence school reform proposals.

"Every day we don't resolve it is a day we are digging a deeper hole that will cost us more to get out of."

ReNew Group Sets Tubing Night

The ReNew Committee of the Ruth Enlow Library will sponsor a "Snow-Tubing Night" at Wisp Resort on Sunday, Feb. 10, from 6 until 8 p.m.

The cost is $14, and a portion of the proceeds will benefit the new Grantsville Library. Tickets are available at Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville. For reservations, persons may call Rosie Cupler at 301-895-3345, Carolyn Collen-DuBose at 301-895-5005, or Cindy McKenzie at 301-895-3792, ext. 1236, or 301-689-3732.

McHenry Man Indicted By AC Grand Jury

A McHenry man has been indicted by the Allegany Grand Jury on the charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle. Chad L. Montgomery, 22, has been charged in connection with a car wreck in which Caitlyn O. Fitzgerald, 19, Potomac, lost her life.

The crash took place on Aug. 17, 2001, along Interstate 68 just west of Rocky Gap State Park. Montgomery was driving a 1996 Toyota 4-Runner in which Fitzgerald was a passenger. For unknown reasons, Montgomery lost control of the vehicle and it traveled onto the right shoulder. It then came back across the roadway, rolling several times and ejecting both occupants before coming to rest on its roof.

The victim was thrown into the westbound lane of I-68 and was hit by an oncoming tractor-trailer, according to the report. She was pronounced dead at the scene. Montgomery was critically injured in the accident and was a patient in Cumberland Memorial Hospital for several days.

Following a bond hearing in Allegany Circuit Court this week, Montgomery was released with the special condition that he not transport anyone while operating a motor vehicle until the disposition of the charges, according to reports.

Speeding Stops, Car Wreck Lead To MSP Arrests

Maryland State Police officers of the McHenry Barrack logged several arrests this week following three vehicle stops for speeding and one minor car accident.

Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle stopped a vehicle for speeding on Friday at about 10:30 p.m. The stop took place along Mosser Road in McHenry. Driver Norman Edward Burns, 65, McHenry, was asked to perform field sobriety tests, which he reportedly failed to do satisfactorily. He was then arrested and charged with DUI (driving while under the influence), speeding, and other related traffic charges.

In another incident Friday, three young men from Baltimore were arrested following a traffic stop along Interstate 68 near Grantsville. According to the police report, a 1994 Chevrolet Blazer was clocked traveling 84 miles per hour in a posted 65 mph zone. Cpl. J. LeMay stopped the vehicle and in the process saw a case of beer located in the back of the Blazer. He then searched the vehicle and reportedly found various types and quantities of alcoholic beverages as well as two plastic baggies of marijuana.

John Francis Richardson, 18, and Russell Joseph Fitzgerald Jr., 20, were charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, and were cited for alcohol violations. A third individual, Scott Garrett Kram, 18, was charged only with an alcohol violation and was released, according to the report.

A Hedgesville, W.Va., man was arrested Sunday following a traffic stop at about 11 a.m. Jeremy Todd Jenkins, 26, was a passenger in a vehicle traveling along Amish Road in Grantsville when it was stopped for speeding. Tfc. J.P. Grinnan detected the odor of burned marijuana, according to the report, and a search of the driver and other occupants was conducted. Suspected marijuana and paraphernalia were found, and Jenkins said the items were his.

Jenkins was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, the report stated. The driver was issued a citation and was released.

A single-vehicle mishap early this morning resulted in a DUI charge against a Friendsville man. According to the police report, Jason Lee Thomas, 30, crashed a 1999 Saturn car along Blooming Rose Road at about midnight. State police responded to the scene, as did the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. Thomas was charged and then was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital for the treatment of minor injuries. He was then released, according to the report.

NOT GIVING UP THE RACE TRACK FIGHT — The town council and several residents of Mountain Lake Park gathered together yesterday to discuss continuing concern over the establishment of a race track in Loch Lynn. Opposition to the track has been vigorous, with residents of the Park and Loch Lynn trying many avenues to halt its construction. Garrett County does not have many zoning ordinances to block the development of a race track, but residents say they are determined to find a way to fight it. A new tack was taken at last night's meeting, as two lawyers were present to offer their guidance, and two residents, Betty Whitelsey and Cynthia Witte, agreed to start a petition. Those opposed to the track are concerned about noise, pollution, and the destruction of the landscape, among other things. For more information, persons may call the MLP town hall at 301-334-2250. Driver Falls Asleep, Wrecks Car On I-68

A Pittsburgh woman crashed her vehicle Saturday afternoon, reportedly after she fell asleep at the wheel. The Maryland State Police responded to the crash, which occurred at the 10-mile marker along Interstate 68.

Kristen Lynn Milon, 21, was operating a 1994 Volvo sedan westbound on the highway when she fell asleep, according to the report. Her vehicle traveled off the roadway, striking the guardrail. It then went through the median area and overturned, coming to rest in the eastbound lane.

Milon was transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where she was treated for injuries and later released. Charges are pending, according to the police.

New Ordinance

pointed out that Allegany County's standard is 600 square feet, while the IBC suggests 400 square feet.

"Why make it more restrictive for our own people?" he said. "I can't see the reason for us to be that strict." Plauger indicated that he could not even build a simple 10-by-15-foot woodshed in Garrett County without having to going through the time-consuming and costly permitting and inspection process.

Keith Sines, building inspector, pointed out that one of the reasons for the stricter standard is that it is easier for people to get by using only 2-by-4 lumber in a 10-by-15-foot building. However, the bigger the building, the more chances there are for people to use the wrong materials, he said, and the more chance of the structure falling.

Bill Schefft, building code official, added that Garrett gets heavier snow loads on buildings than Allegany County. "We're here for their (Garrett County residents') safety," he said about the potential danger of structures collapsing from the weight of snow.

Architect Phil Silkey, however, suggested that the IBC standard of 400 square feet should be used. "We shouldn't second-guess the IBC," he said.

Home builder Hugh Umbel, McHenry, agreed with Silkey that the IBC standard seemed "satisfactory."

Commissioner Ernest Gregg noted that the strict-er standard has not seemed to hinder construction in the county. "Garrett has built more in one year than Allegany County has in four years," he said.

Gregg said the record would be left open on the building code draft for 10 days for additional public comment. A meeting for the adoption of the code will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 11 a.m. in the commissioners' office. Written comments may also be directed to the Planning and Zoning Office.

Torrington said contractors could order copies of the new building ordinance, which will be available in March, from his office.

How do They Sleep?...

There is often a chasm — sometimes justified, sometimes not — between the owners/management of a company and the rank and file employees of that company. The recent collapse of the Enron Corporation, the nation's seventh largest, and its aftermath simply reinforce that fat-cat owner/vulnerable employee scenario.

While there is much yet to be learned about just what transpired before and during this corporate crash, and whether or not there have been criminal acts by management and/or the company's auditing firm, there are certainly some preliminary, but clear, conclusions that can be drawn right now.

It is clear that thousands of the company's employees have lost approximately 95% of their retirement investments, most of which were valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars and some of which well over a million dollars. Conversely, it is clear that the majority of board members/management team members, who evidently saw the writing on the wall several months ago, kept quiet, and bailed out early by unloading their company stock for huge sums of money. Most walked away with millions — millions that really belonged to the employees.

If ever there were true justification for a lawsuit, then surely those filed by the employees of the company to try to reclaim some of these funds meet the standards. The ultimate justice in this case should include seizure of the funds secured by management and awarding them to the employees.

If Osama bin Laden were somehow able to wipe out an American company and seize all of its assets using computer technology, it would be a clear-cut act of terrorism. It seems that the actions of Enron management are not all that different.

Frankly, we wonder how any of the Enron management officials are able to sleep at night.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

For a couple of years now you have been running the column "Garrett County Skies" by Dr. Bob Doyle of Frostburg State University. I'm glad you have made it a regular feature and I appreciate Dr. Doyle providing the information.

Here in Garrett County we are fortunate to have such clear skies that we can view about a gazillion stars. In his column Dr. Doyle concisely points out the special celestial events we can look forward to in any given month, where we can see planets in the sky, and which stars are most visible. He also lets us know how many hours of daylight we can expect in the coming weeks.

If you're looking for something to do on a Sunday afternoon or evening, you might consider a visit to the Frostburg planetarium for Dr. Doyle's program. It's interesting, entertaining, and free.

Thanks for including this column in The Republican.

Accident

To the Editor:

I am really disturbed to read in your newspaper about the pros and cons of bear hunting, especially where other outstanding issues go unreported. To be frank, as a concerned citizen in the community, I have really become agitated to find nothing in your newspaper concerning the crisis within the mental health department in Oakland. The crisis I am speaking of is the situation of the bureaucratic cut backs with reference to the much needed funding to keep our MH offices open and fully staffed, ensuring the care for those in need, as well as protection for the community at large!

Mental health in this country affects one person in four. Yet funding for mental health programs is constantly being cut. These cuts cause much hardship among a very vulnerable group of people. Mentally ill people are reduced from the welfare rolls. This means that they lose their Medicaid, resulting in the loss of their much needed medications. Very few mentally ill people can afford to purchase their medication, and end up in medical crisis in the emergency rooms at our local hospitals. In the long run, these medical crisis situations cost far more than the original cost of mental health maintenance.

Since mental hospitals were closed in the '70s, little has been done for the mentally ill patient. Just remember how many homeless people there are; statistically, a great many are mentally ill. Agencies such as Garrett County Lighthouse Inc. do a wonderful job caring for people who are mentally ill by providing a caring environment, supervised medications, housing, and jobs. Still in all, because of funding cuts, many well educated and trained staff is being cut back or simply laid off. It has gone so far as to some mental health agencies being forced to close their doors. I ask you — why is it that money and funding can always be found for bombs, sports arenas, and even our local bear problems? Local mental health agencies are in crisis and need all of the support they can get, especially from your newspaper. Mentally ill people need care, support, protection, and most certainly their costly medications.

Please help by getting the word out on a much needed community crisis.

Thank you,
Margaret Beadle
Hoyes Sang Run Road

Dear Ms. Beadle,

Funding problems in many, many agencies are certainly nothing new, and undoubtedly we could have feature articles in our paper every single week about such problems. It has been only in the past few weeks that we have received any information at all about the crisis specifically involving local mental health services.

However, you will be pleased to see our coverage in next week's issue about Garrett County Lighthouse and the fact that its very future is in jeopardy because of funding cutbacks. Ironically, we had a meeting with a Lighthouse staff member just one day (Monday) before we received your letter to begin discussions for an article.

We have also, on several occasions, strongly advocated increased and improved funding/services for the mentally ill, noting the stigma that is unfairly and ignorantly attached to this special group of people by society. We will reiterate that advocacy on this page next week.

We sincerely appreciate your letter, though, and wish that everyone had the same awareness and concern about this issue as you obviously do.

Editor

To the Editor:

I have written letters in the past about the terrible things that have happened to animals advertised "Free to a Good Home." Maybe 10% of takers give a good home. How many "givers" check the "takers"? Apparently very few, because many animals that are abused have come from free.

Recently we had five puppies — free to a good home. A taker took all five, saying he wanted them for his farm. Later someone came to the giver wanting a puppy for their little girl. The giver called the taker asking for one of them back and was informed by the taker's wife that the puppies were going to the auction. The taker had a puppy mill.

Most of these takers are greedy people, too lazy to work, making big money through breeding animals to death.

Most of those breeders breed a female to the point where she is no longer throwing sellable puppies and then she goes to the shelter to be put to sleep.

I was informed that one breeder kept taking his animals to the shelter making the statement, "Put her down; she isn't making any money for me."

There must be a place in hell for people like this.

Many times when I get a call of abuse about these puppy mills and see the horrible conditions, I want to throw up.

Until recently our laws have been vague, but with new laws those people will either shape up or pay.

Also, when someone takes a litter of kittens free to a good home, we find that most times they are fed to the pet snakes. We know of cases like this. In fact, one man admitted to the act.

Please, if you have a female needing spaying, call the Humane Society for help or take them, the puppies/kittens, to the animal shelter. The people there are kind and compassionate, and find homes for as many animals as they can. Small animals go fairly quickly.

There is also the Animal Rescue, through which animals are placed in good homes.

The next time you advertise your animals "free to a good home," they may be picked up by a breeder and taken to auction. These greedy people pocket the money and you never know if the puppies are in a good home, sold to other breeders, or sold to people for experimental purposes.

Last, but not least, there is a law in Garrett County that all females in heat are to be kept in a building so they do not attract males, causing a nuisance problem. You can be fined for this.

When you advertise, we have your number and know you are breaking the law, unless you are a breeder and you must have license for breeding.

To the Editor:

Well, you've got to hand it to George Edwards and the G.C. commissioners. In this election year (just like the last time) they are talking about "the bear problem" instead of more important issues, knowing full well that their records on things like education, health and social services, recreational opportunities for the youth in the county, the atrocious pay scale throughout the county, etc., are not something to be very proud of.

Like many other people, I'll take the bait (pun intended) and weigh in on the issue.

I attended the hearing in Annapolis last Wednesday and one thing struck me about the people who testified. For the most part, the pro bear hunt people said their piece and left while many of the people (including myself) opposed to the bill stayed to the end.

The point is that the hunters don't seem to be very interested in our concerns. After I heard the testimony of the people backing the "Bear Kill Bill," I became even more convinced that reason must prevail on this issue if we are to avoid a real tragedy.

One of the spokespeople for the Maryland Sportsmen's Association made the ludicrous statement that hunting is safer than playing Ping-Pong. And still another individual stated that he straps on a pistol when he takes out the trash out. This is known as hype; nonetheless, I don't feel very safe in my woods knowing that these cowboys may be out there mistaking me for a bear.

Every hunting season it is the same; people traipsing through my woods carrying lethal weapons. And do you know what? They have never asked permission, written or otherwise.

The bullet hole in my satellite dish and the bullet holes in my garage and deck concern me more than any potential problem that I might have with bears. The fact is that there has never been an unprovoked bear attack on a human being in Maryland—ever!

On the other hand, there have been numerous accidents involving hunters shooting one another, as well as innocent people who just happened to be nearby. It is not unusual for them to fall out of tree stands, or drop their loaded weapons from same. And they have been known to shoot themselves while removing their weapons from their vehicles.

Having a bear hunt will only increase the chance that I, or my grandchildren, will be shot. I'll take my chances with a relatively harmless bear, thank you very much.

Sincerely,
George Falter

WORM BINS AND OTHER DELIGHTS

Imagine my delight, while browsing through seed catalogues, to discover an article on indoor composting and worm bins. I am one of those persons, still a minority in America, who believes that no kitchen is complete without a compost bucket.

For the past 22 years I have been carrying the full compost bucket outside to deposit on the compost pile. Here before me is a simple plan for creating compost indoors. The plan is part of what is called a "Reference Guide" put out by the Heirloom Seed Project of Landis Valley Museum in Lancaster, Pa. (2451 Kissel Hill Road, Lancaster, PA 17601, or www.landisvalleymuseum.org).

While "Resource Guide" sounds too cold and official for my liking, this 63-page booklet is certainly more than a seed catalogue and should be, to justify the $3.95 asked for it. It contains information, among other things, about what heirloom seeds are, and why in this age of bigger and (sometimes) better fruits and vegetables, heirloom varieties are still important.

An heirloom fruit or vegetable has two essential qualities. First, it must be an open-pollinated variety, which means the seeds produced in a crop, if planted, will produce other fruit and vegetables true to the fruits and vegetables from which the seeds were taken. Second, an heirloom variety is passed from generation to generation. The typical garden and farm crop today is grown from hybrid seed, which means that the new variety has two parents, and the seeds produced in the crop will, if planted, produce multiple varieties. Seeds from hybrid varieties are worthless, as a practical matter. A gardener or farmer can maintain a variety of fruit or vegetable from open pollinated seed, but not from hybrid seed. Not all open pollinated varieties are heirlooms.

The Landis Valley Heirloom Seed Project concentrates on heirloom fruits and vegetables with a Pennsylvania Dutch heritage, consistent with the museum's goal of interpreting the Germans who settled in southeastern Pennsylvania. Mrs. Neidigh's six-week bean and the Mull kidney bean both have long and personal associations in the Lancaster County area, as their names suggest. Similarly, there are four different Lancaster County pea varieties.

While focusing on the local traditions there are samples from other areas, too. Mosteller wild goose bean, for example, came "from the craw of a Canadian goose shot in Somerset County, Pa., in 1864 by John Mosteller." The

by Mary Sincell McEwen
PART THREE:

Dazzled, Dazed, and Dizzied at Disney

Okay, where were we? Oh, yeah. After 26 hours of train travel topped with the madcap taxi drive, we six weary travelers fell into the beds at the Port Orleans Riverside hotel, which were like soft satiny clouds. We were still as stones until about 7:30 the next morning, when we all opened our eyes and remembered that we were at Disney World and it was New Year's Eve. Yay!

Off we went to the cafeteria to have our first experience in Disney eating. Disney does have you in a food snare when you stay within the park. There are no refrigerators in the rooms, and there are no regular grocery stores nearby. You must either pack Nasa space sticks for the week, starve, or buy pricey meals. We opted for the third choice, but not without groaning a lot. I tried not to think about it, but when that first breakfast cost about $35, I fought the panic as I pictured an entire week of three meals a day. We learned quickly to purchase bagels instead of eggs, or a little box of cereal instead of pancakes. And we did agree to purchase the refillable hot cool mugs for us three adults. They cost 10 bucks, but you could then refill them at the beverage bar as often as you wanted, which we did feverishly to make up for the cost.

We ate our first breakfast in the dining area bright with sunshine. Then we got our "park-hopper" passes, which gave us four days to enjoy the following locations: the kingdoms Magic and Animal, Epcot, and MGM-Disney Studios. The ticket also covered our transportation to and from the hotel via buses from a stop not far from our rooms. Quite handy. The Magic Kingdom was to be our first adventure, and after a short wait at the stop, the bus pulled up and we piled on. Michael was impressed with the seating, as several of the benches faced sideways rather than forward. He thought that was the coolest. From then on, when we were waiting for the bus, he would get Mom's hand and say, "I wanna sit with you, Hannah, and let's sit sideways, okay?"

Soon we could see the landmarks of the Magic Kingdom — the peak of Space Mountain, the Monorail, and then the castle. This was my sixth trip to Disney, but my first with the boys, and I was so excited for them I could hardly stand it. When we disembarked and went toward the gate, we were all giddy. It was New Year's Eve, though, so security was tight. Along with everyone else, we were subjected to a thorough search of our backpack and purses, with every zipper unzipped and every pocket unpocked. No one seemed to mind at all — we certainly didn't. I was relieved by the precautions, and we all said "thanks" to the security guys who rooted through our stuff.

And in we went. Ah, Main Street USA. What a place. It was stunning, all decorated for Christmas and just swarming with people. Cheesh, was it ever swarming! Each of us adults clung to the hand of a kid, checking often to make sure he was still one of ours, and bustled along the street trying to take in the gazillion sights along the way. As we had carefully planned about five months previous, we headed to the Pirates of the Caribbean for our first stop, which as we thought brought the boys to a much fuller understanding of what awaited them for an entire week. They had no idea until we were swept into that dank, dark cave that then came alive with such spectacle — it was nothing like they had ever seen, and it was truly only the beginning. We climbed the Swiss Family Robinson treehouse and listened to the Tiki Birds. John and Michael flew on Aladdin's Carpet (no one else wanted to go in circles) and then we headed for Splash Mountain. Wow, that was a rush! The boys had only a vague idea about its final plunge, and when our boat dropped over that ledge we all were too breathless to scream. Then we all laughed our heads off, although the boys were not sure they wanted to do that one again. Mom did, though.

As the day wore on, more people seemed to squash into the park, and we found out that the doors were actually closed to the public at noon because the place was at capacity, which is somewhere around 65,000. The New Year was approaching, and after we took in more wonderful sights, like the ever-popular Haunted Mansion and the Hall of Presidents, we elbowed our way back toward the center of the park to witness the early onslaught of fireworks. They were initiated by something that utterly thrilled me: We looked up at the castle, as we were instructed to by a loud booming voice, and a girl dressed as Tinker Bell came out of the top-most spire, hundreds of feet up, and "flew" down on a wire, fireworks spraying from her feet. Wow! Then the sky lit up with fireworks, accompanied by holiday music filling our ears. Wonderful.

It was around this time, though, that Michael started fantasizing about going to sleep. "I want to go back to that hotel and get in that bed," he kept saying. We, however, wanted to hang on just long enough for the Electric Light Parade, which Mom and I both remembered as a fantastic show. So there I was, in the middle of Main Street, begging my exhausted 6-year-old to stay awake because soon the parade would come and he was gonna love it, I swear. Twisted, huh?

But we did stay, and the parade did come in all its glory, amazing and beautiful. As it ended, the time was about 10 p.m. and we were through. But it was New Year's Eve, you say, and you were in Disney World! Right. And back to the hotel we dragged ourselves, got the boys ready for bed, watched Dick Clark on television just like you did, and then dropped over backward into bed, not to move a muscle until the next morning. Happy . . .snore. . . New Year . . . ZZZZ . . .

GCC "Faces Of Cuba" Exhibition Sheds Light On Island Neighbor

"Faces of Cuba," a collection of 101 photographs by former Garrett Community College psychology professor Dr. Craig Abrahamson, is on exhibit in the GCC Art Gallery through Friday, March 8. The public is invited to an artist's reception and special presentation by Abrahamson, set for 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 15.

Abrahamson's photographs provide an insight into Cuban culture, with images of people on urban streets, in the country, working and playing, and children with the school setting. Pictures of old cars and people riding horses and bicycles help to create a clear portrait of current life in Cuba. Included in the display are political images, photographs of monuments and architecture, beautiful landseapes, and cartoons from the Cuban Museum of Humor.

During the gallery talk Abrahamson will share his perceptions of the Cuban people gained during his bicycle travels through the western regions of Cuba. These sojourns were organized by the International Bicycle Fund, which promotes bicycle tours in various regions of the "Third World." The goal of these tours is to provide American citizens with a better understanding of Third World societies.

Abrahamson, who has maintained a private practice in psychotherapy in Oakland for the past 22 years, is also employed as an associate professor with the College of Integrated Science and Technology at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, Va.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the GCC Arts Department at 301-387-3024.

After the GCC Gallery exhibition closes in March, Abrahamson's works will be displayed at JMU's Carrier Library through mid-April. Arrangements are being planned for the exhibition to be donated to a nonprofit global organization that will utilize it to provide the general public with exposure to the realities of the Cuban culture.

SOME "CARAS DE CUBA" — These "Faces of Cuba," both human and landscape, are among the 101 photographs taken by local resident Dr. Craig Abrahamson on display through Friday, March 8, at the Garrett Community College Art Gallery. The collection documents a bicycle tour the photographer took throughout the Caribbean nation this past summer, and provides a unique insight into a society situated just 90 miles off Florida's shores, but light-years away in the minds of some Americans. Tho varied images of Cuban culture prove that, although governments and institutions may have their differences, we have more in common than we often give ourselves credit for. Abrahamson will discuss his Third World pilgrimage during a special two-hour reception and program set for 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 15, in the GCC Art Gallery. Persons may call 301-387-3024 for more information.

workers are scheduled to be at work at least 16 days.

The process of being accepted as a volunteer began four years ago when the National Ski Patrol office sent information to all members. The national office forwarded completed applications to the Olympic Organizing Committee, and candidates completed further applications on-line.

After a long screening process, all volunteers were in place between December 2000 and December 2001. An estimated 26,000 volunteers will help stage the games. Volunteers are required to provide their own transportation and lodging and to be able to stay the length of competition at their venue. About 3,500 athletes and officials from up to 80 countries are expected to participate in the Winter 2002 Games.

Freyman, a high school teacher for 33 years and currently a teacher at Southern High School, said he expects this opportunity to be a "chance of a lifetime" and will relay his Olympic adventures to his students, colleagues, and family for years to come.

Freyman resides along Boy Scout Road with his wife Linda. They are the parents of a son and a daughter.

Faces Charges

sentenced to prison after an October 1998 conviction for conspiracy to commit theft. He served 2½ years of a 17 month- to 3 year-sentence before being paroled in March of last year.

While geographically widespread, the proximity of the majority of the robberies to the Rt. 40 area led the Pittsburgh media to dub the perpetrator "The Route 40 Robber."

quests will be handled by the agency this year.

Wishnick also reported that the state tourism director, Hannah Byron, and members of her executive staff were taking a "mini vacation" in the county this week. The chamber plans to take the director on various tours and to promote county tourism as much as possible.

Emergency Management

The Shallmar and Crellin projects have been completed, reported Brad Frantz, director of Emergency Management. An official with Maryland Emergency Management visited the sites and was "pleased with the work done," Frantz said.

The director also said he and other staff members will attend an anti-terrorism workshop next week, sponsored by the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Extension Service

Jim Simms of the Extension Service reported the state's new nutrient management program was still causing headaches for his office and local farmers. "I think the state has bit off more than it can handle," Simms said.

He noted 80 percent of county farmers were still not in compliance with the new system, due to the lack of available certification classes. Local classes at the Extension Service are booked until 2003. Simms estimated that more than 2,000 residents will need to be certified.

He also reported that an agricultural tourism conference is scheduled for March 23 at Garrett Community College. About 15 businesses will be set up for farmers to learn about alternative ways to expand their agricultural businesses.

Ruth Enlow Library

Ruth Enlow Library director Cathy Ashby attended two General Assembly bill hearings — House Bill 244 and Senate Bill 98 — in Annapolis this week to secure more funding for libraries, reported Jeannette Otto.

HB244 requests that the minimum allocation per resident that public libraries receive in funding be increased from $12 to $18, Otto said.

SB98 asks for clarification of the definition of real and personal property in the calculation of state aid to libraries, police departments, and schools. It also requests certain funding provisions be repealed in the library and police aid formulas, according to the General Assembly's web site.

Mtn. Top Mental Health

A human service professional has been hired as an officer and is working in conjunction with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, said Trish Yoder of Mtn. Top Mental Health. The employee has training in law enforcement and mental health and, therefore, will play a "dual role" at the jail. The officer will be able to escort inmates to court and have access to their mental health records, Yoder said.

A geriatric program has also been implemented with Community Action's Area Agency on Aging to provide home visits to residents.

Additionally, the Consumer Drop-In Center is now open four days a week, instead of two. The days have been increased in an effort to help those whose services have been reduced due to funding cutbacks, Yoder said.

Western Md. Consortium

A four-week office internships will be sponsored by the Western Maryland Consortium, reported director John Wynn, beginning Feb. 25. He said businesses, organizations, and agencies interested in participating in the program may call his office at 301-334-8136.

Wynn also noted enrollment at the consortium was up, and that the co-training program with GCC has expanded to include web master, welding, and medical transcription classes.

Resource Guide speculates that the bean had been grown long before by the Cornplanter Indians along the Upper Allegheny River.

The Landis Valley Museum is a special place to visit. When the gardens are in their full summer verdure, they complete the living history of farming, cooking, trades, and arts demonstrated there. Lancaster is the capital of farming in the mid-Atlantic region, and thus makes a worthy destination for anybody interested in agriculture.

Back to the indoor composting. The perfect indoor composting container, according to the Resource Guide, is the drawer of an old wooden dresser. This is clearly a cellar kind of indoor project because the guide instructs us to drill holes in the bottom of the drawer for good drainage.

Set the drawer on bricks to ensure good air circulation, with a tray underneath to catch moisture that drains out. Cover the bottom of the drawer with wet bedding (that's straw or shredded newspapers, not sheets). Put in the worms, and then add food scraps from the compost bucket in the kitchen. Food scraps include tea leaves, coffee grounds, egg shells, and fruit and vegetable peelings.

The guide cautions against citrus peelings because they can poison the worms. Meat scraps, dairy products, and fat should be dealt with otherwise, in part, because they may produce more mice than worms.

Red worms are deemed the best for this project, but I do not see why any old worm dug out of the ground would not do the trick. Perhaps the red worms have a better union. Whatever worm is chewing on a neighbor's compost or manure pile will work just fine. Throw in some sand, to improve the worms' digestion, some grass clippings and a bag of leaves, stir every now and again, and you'll have compost. Put the compost on the garden to grow lovely vegetables or flowers.

Hey, and in the meantime, be careful with those goose eraws. Who knows what treasure you might find there.

Miss Deskins, Mr. DeLauder United In September Ceremony

Mary Beth Deskins and Joseph Arthur DeLauder were married on Sept. 22, 2001, at St. Sebastian Catholic Church in Kingwood, W.Va., with Father Mark Ward officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Brenda Deskins of Roncerver, W.Va. She graduated from Greenbrier East High School in 1996, and earned a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Alderson Broaddus College in June 2000. She is employed as a registered nurse at Mercy Hospital of Charlotte, N.C.

The groom is the son of Patrick DeLauder of Terra Alta, W.Va., and Teresa and Mike Meaney of Gaithersburg. He graduated from Preston High School in 1996, and received a degree in marketing and business administration from Alderson Broaddus College in June 2000. He is employed as a Sear's store manager in Charlotte.

The bride, wearing a full-length white satin gown, was escorted to the altar by her father. The maid of honor was Stephanie Becken. The bridesmaids were Michelle Schadler, Jennifer Hastings, Julie Garner, Melissa Francis, and Stephanie Allen, all friends of the bride. The flower girl was Kaitlyn Deskins, niece of the bride.

The groom's best man was Anthony (A.J.) DeLauder, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Greg Vandetta, Daniel Runner, Shawn Kelley, and Erik Huffman, all friends of the groom. The ring bearer was Bobby DeLauder, cousin of the groom.

A reception was held in the Terra Alta community building immediately following the wedding.

After a honeymoon stay in Bermuda, the couple took up residence in Charlotte.

Deni Shaffer Marries Robert Lewis In October Ceremony

Deni Lynn Shaffer and Robert Lee Lewis were united in marriage on Oct. 20, 2001, at the Morgantown (W.Va.) Church of God, with Rev. Bill Mattox officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Dennie and Cheryl Shaffer, Oakland. She is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School and a 1999 graduate of the Morgantown Beauty College. She is a cosmetologist at Spa Roma in Morgantown.

The groom is the son of Ronnie and Diana McGilton, Independence, W.Va. He is a 1993 graduate of Morgantown High School and is a barge loader with Greer Limestone Inc. in Morgantown.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin lace and English net. The basque waist was trimmed with seed pearls and bugle beads that met at a full skirt and chapel-length train. Her headpiece was made of pearls, sequins, and an array of roses that held a veil trimmed in baby pearls.

The bride carried a round bouquet of ivory roses and pearl beaded stephanotis. She also wore Monet pearls, a gift from a longtime family friend.

The honor attendant was Renee Klier, sister of the bride, of Midland, Va. The bridesmaids were Renee Hawkins, sister of the groom, Independence, and Wendy Stein, sister of the bride, Bridgeport, W.Va. Serving as flower girls were Presley Stein, niece of the bride, Bridgeport, and Hannah Miller, nicce of the groom, Kingwood, W.Va.

The bridesmaids wore deep purple gowns of varying styles. The each carried an autumn assortment of flowers with a purple theme.

The flower girls were dressed in long white gowns with beads and sequins, complementing the bride's attire. They each carried a white basket trimmed in purple flowers filled with white and purple rose petals.

The groomsmen were Roger Hawkins, brother-in-law of the groom, of Independence, and Steve Stewart, Morgantown. Serving as ushers were Marvin Stein, brother-in-law of the bride, Bridgeport, and Calvin Blosser, brother-in-law of the groom, Morgantown. The ringbearer was Coleton Stein, nephew of the bride, Bridgeport.

The groomsmen wore black, short-tailed tuxedos with black and deep purple vests. The groom wore a black tuxedo with a white vest and tie. The ringbearer was dressed in a black tuxedo with a purple vest and purple boutonniere.

The pianist for the ceremony was Paula Reidenour. Soloist Corey Swanson, friend of the bride, sang "When You Say Nothing At All" by Alison Krauss. The guest book attendant was Alyssa Klier, niece of the bride, Midland.

The bride and groom were driven from the ceremony by limousine to the reception, which was held at Molla's Banquet Center. Lacy Neff was the DJ. The decoration theme of the event included hearts and roses with the colors of deep purple, white, and gold. The father of the bride danced with is daughter to the song "Butterfly Kisses," and the couple's first dance was to the song "I Cross My Heart."

The newlyweds plan to take a honeymoon trip in the spring. They currently live in Morgantown.

CHILDREN'S ART ON DISPLAY — The Garrett County Arts Council gallery is currently hosting a special winter exhibit featuring the artwork of local elementary school children. Titled Adventures in Art, the display consists of work by students from six local schools: Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, and Yough Glades. The centerpiece of the exhibit is "Family Story Quilts," a project by the students of Carolyn Collen-DuBose inspired by the artist Faith Ringgold, who makes quilts to tell family stories. The work pictured above was done by Corey Murphy, a fourth grader at Dennett Road. The one below is by J.P. Baier, who is in the third grade at Broad Ford. The public is invited to visit The Gallery, located at 206 E. Alder Street in Oakland, to view the students' work. Adventures in Art will be on display through Feb. 20.

OTT Announces Cast List For March Play

Our Town Theatre will produce the comedy The Man Who Came To Dinner March 13-24, and the cast for the show has been announced.

Players will be Judy Bertsch, Carol Peracchio, Derek Nutter, Colleen Watson, Lois White, Tiddle Wheeler, Carol Perez, Richard Stevens, David Wheeler, Richard Hill, Erin White, Deirdre Kildow, Lane Duda, David Bertsch, Susan Rushing Bell, David Callis, John White, Jon Armstrong, Anthony Oliverio, and Andrew Waligorski.

Jane Avery, director of the show, noted that a few parts remain for interested males.

The first read-through will be Sunday, Feb. 10, at 7 p.m. at the theatre.

Reservations for the show may be made starting Feb. 23 by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640.

Herman Brings Stories To Soup And Story Night

Nationally known storyteller Gail Herman will be bringing her stories to Soup and Story Night during the month of February, sponsored by the Savage River Lodge.

Dr. Herman has been telling folk stories since the early 1970s, and calls herself an "organic storyteller." She employs mime, chant, movement, and song to entice the audience's attention to the folk tales.

In addition to being a storyteller, she teaches storytelling, speech, and early childhood education courses at Garrett Community College, and has published both books and tapes on the art of organic storytelling.

The dates for the event are Thursday, Feb. 7, and Tuesday, Feb. 19. Dinner will begin at 6 p.m., with cocktails available beforehand. During dinner, flute and guitar music will be performed by Sally Stephenson of Frostburg State University. After dinner, guests will be invited to have dessert by the fireplace while Dr. Herman tells stories.

Dinner includes choice of homemade soup, dinner, salad, rolls, and dessert. Cost of the evening is $15.95, with a portion of the proceeds benefiting the Dove Center and AAUW Scholarship Fund. Reservations are required, and interested persons may call Savage River Lodge at 301-689-3200, or e-mail at www.savageriverlodge.com.

Simple Gifts To Perform Live At The FSU Loft

Simple Gifts, an award-winning duo from central Pennsylvania, will perform in an 8:15 p.m. concert on Friday, Feb. 8, at the Lane University Center Loft at Frostburg State University. Prior to the concert, the duo, Linda Littleton and Karen Hirshon, will offer a rhythm workshop beginning at 7 p.m.

Littleton and Hirshon perform on a total of 12 instruments during the course of their concert appearances: two fiddles, concertina, mandolin, banjolin, recorders, bowed psaltery, hammered dulcimer, baritone fiddle, guitar, piano, and percussion.

"Simple Gifts draws on an impressive variety of ethnic folk styles," said an FSU spokesperson, "performing a variety of musical styles from lively Irish jigs and down-home American reels to hard-driving klezmer frailachs and haunting Gypsy melodies, spicing the mix with the distinctive rhythms of Balkan dance music, the lush sounds of Scandinavian twin fiddling, and original compositions written in a traditional style.

"Combining tradition with innovation, Simple Gifts creates some of the finest arrangements in folk music today: Swing fiddle creeps into a Romanian dance, spoons show up in an Irish reel, and the concertina ventures far beyond styles considered traditional for that instrument. The duo are also frequently complimented on their stage presence, which is warm, personal, and accented with humor."

Before their concert, at 7 p.m. the performers will conduct an hour-long rhythm workshop, "Learn to Play in 7/8 Meter." Simple Gifts will teach participants how to count and feel a 7/8 rhythm and then will teach the Bulgarian tune "Minka."

The concert is presented by Live! at the Loft, Center Stage, and the FSU Department of Student and Community Involvement. Simple Gifts is partially supported by grants from Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment; the William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a stage agency; and the Pew Charitable Trust. The grant is administered by Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

For more information about any Center Stage or Department of Student and Community Involvement activities, persons may call the FSU Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

LILY CONCERT SLATED - Singer and guitarist John Lily, a solo artist from Charleston, W.Va., will present a concert at the Purple Fiddle Coffeehouse and Mountain Market in Thomas, W.Va., on Friday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. Lilly performs a unique blend of Americana, roots-oriented originals, traditional folk, and classic country songs, and is accompanied by his own acoustic guitar and mandolin playing. His CD recording Broken Moon has been described by Bluegrass Unlimited magazine as "one of the most unusual and interesting acoustic discs of the year,' and the Charleston Gazette called it "a winner." Lilly, a former Elkins resident and graduate of Davis & Elkins College, is former publicity director of D&E's Augusta Heritage Center. He is now the editor of Goldenseal magazine, West Virginia's journal of traditional life. Admission to the Feb. 8 concert is $5 per person. For more information, persons may telephone 304-463-4040.

BOGART THE WINTER BLUES with a sizzling night of boogie woogie music on Saturday, Feb. 16, when blueswoman Deenna Bogart performs at the Oakland Elks Lodge in a 7:30 p.m. benefit concert for the upcoming Little Yough Summer Music Festival. A talented musician and high-energy crowd pleaser, the vocalist/pianist/saxophone player and her band combine the driving rhythms of 1930s style boogie piano blues with contemporary blues sounds of New Orleans, Chicago, and Memphis to create a style all their own. Tickets are $10 each (children 12 and under admitted free), and may be purchased at Marvin's, Englander's, the Water Street Market, and The Republican office, as well as from Oakland postmaster Ken Perrin at the Oakland Post Office. Concession sales will be provided by Peppy's Place and BumBle G's restaurants, and adult beverages will be served on the premises. For further information persons may call 301-501-0201.

Anne Frank To Be Presented At Preston High

The Diary of Anne Frank will be presented by the Preston County High School Drama Department tonight, Jan. 31, this Friday, Feb. 1, and Saturday, Feb. 2, in the school's theatre. All three performances will begin at 8 p.m., according to Lynn Broderick, drama teacher and director. Persons may purchase tickets at the door or reserve them by telephone at 304-329-0400, extension 450.

Preston High School is located in Kingwood, W.Va.

"HARVEST OF DREAMS" READING SET — Professional storyteller Ilene Evans will present "Harvest of Dreams," an African-American poetry and prose reading, at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 5, at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland. In a program especially designed for older children and youth, Evans will speak, sing, and dance during her performance as she shares excerpts from the works of time-honored black authors, old and new. "General Moses, Stories from the Life of Harriet Tubman," is one of the features of the one-hour program. Evans has been performing her stories for 25 years, first in the Chicago area and now in Maryland and West Virginia. Her February visit is part of the library's observance of National Black History Month, and is funded by Western Maryland Public Libraries.

REACH TO RECOVERY COMING TO GARRETT COUNTY — There was a training session held recently to establish a Reach to Recovery program in Garrett County. Eight women who are breast cancer survivors and live in Garrett County attended the training given by the American Cancer Society. Jean Cope, the area trainer from Allegany County, led the training. Reach to Recovery offers a one-to-one visitation for women with breast cancer who will have, or have had, a lumpectomy or mastectomy. A breast cancer survivor who has been carefully chosen and trained makes the visit. A Reach "kit" is given to each patient, which includes a leisure bra, a soft prosthesis for mastectomy patients, exercise items, literature, and local resource information. The volunteer shares her experiences and offers support to patients at a time of need. "This program will be very beneficial for ladies in Garrett County, and I myself had a visit when I had my diagnosis and found it to be great support for me at a very critical time in my life," said Mary Lou Buckley, who has volunteered to coordinate the program for Garrett County. She will be working with Tonna Taylor, the American Cancer Society representative, to have this program up and running by February. Persons with questions may contact Taylor at 1-888-227-9979 or 301-722-2145. Women who would like a Reach to Recovery visit once the program is up and fully running may contact the resource center at 1-888-227-6333. Pictured above, from the left, are Lisa Parrack, Buckley, Madonna Pool, Caroline Lake, Rebecca Cogley, Mona Schultz, Pamela Eyler, Evelyn Davis, Patricia Bowser, and Cope.

On Dean's List

Daniel Rounds, a 2000 graduate of Northern High School, has been named to the dean's list at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.

He is the son of David and Sharon Rounds, Grantsville, and is double majoring in government and history, with plans to attend the University of Virginia Law School.

Rounds obtained a 3.91 grade point average for the fall semester. In order to be named to the dean's list, a student must maintain a 3.6 GPA and carry at least 12 credits.

Funding Proposed To Help Farmers' Nutrient Program

Governor Parris N. Glendening is requesting more than $2.5 million in environmental budget enhancements for Fiscal Year 2003 on behalf of Maryland's farmers. The funding will allow the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) to continue to provide financial assistance programs aimed at helping farmers develop required nutrient management plans, and to transport excess manure from areas with high soil phosphorus levels to places that can use it. The funding also will be used to extend a popular and environmentally beneficial Eastern Shore cover crop program.

The Water Quality Improvement Act (WQIA) of 1998 requires all Maryland farmers grossing $2,500 or more annually or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to have a nutrient management plan written and implemented by Dec. 31, 2002. In 1998, the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share (MACS) Program was authorized by the WQIA to provide farmers with cost-share assistance to hire a nutrient management consultant to develop the required plans.

During the past two years, with implententation deadlines nearing, funding for the program has been exhausted by farmers seeking to comply with the requirements. More than $1 million of the governor's budget enhancement will be used to support cost-share of nutrient management plans developed by the private sector. Approximately $250,000 will be used to enhance program implementation.

This year's budget enhancement also includes more than $700,000 to extend the Pilot Manure Transport Project beyond its scheduled sunset in 2002. Originally established as a four-year, $750,000 program. the transport project is a key feature in the state's efforts to help farmers with high soil phosphorus levels comply with the nutrient requirements of the WQIA, according to an MDA spokesperson.

The project provides animal operations with cost-share assistance of up to $20 per ton to transport excess manure to recipients who can use it. The funding request serves as a companion to legislation that would remove the project's pilot status and authorize it as an ongoing incentive program to assist with the implementation of nutrient management plans. As a final budgetary incentive for Maryland farmers, the governor is seeking to increase funding for the state's popular cover crop program by $500,000, bringing the FY-2003 budget appropriation to $3 million.

"Planted as a ground cover in the fall and winter to hold the soil in place and soak up residual fertilizer remaining in the soil following the harvest, cover crops are an important tool in Maryland's efforts to control erosion and protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries," the MDA spokesperson said.

Currently, MACS cost-share assistanee to plant cover crops is available only to farmers in the nine Eastern Shore counties. In FY 2002, Eastern Shore farmers used approximately $2.3 million out of $2.5 million in available cost-share funds. By combining unused funds with the $500,000 appropriation request, the program could be extended to farmers in other areas of the state, enhancing water quality of streams and rivers that flow into the Bay. These farmers could potentially receive up to $700,000 in cost-share assistance to plant cover crops in FY-2003.

Maryland's CREP May Be Worth A Second Look To Farmers, Landowners

by Michael Kozier
Garrett County Farm Service Agency

Maryland's Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) pays farmers and landowners attractive rental rates for 10- to 15-year contracts to remove environmentally sensitive cropland from production and plant streamside buffer, protect certain highly erodible land, or create wetlands. CREP also covers most of the costs of building best management practices such as stream crossings, stream fencing, and watering troughs to support set-aside acreage.

Free technical assistance is provided through the soil conservation district, and an easement option just became more attractive. Newly approved rates increase payments to farmers who permanently protect CREP land. They now range from approximately $800 to $6,000 per acre, depending on land value in individual counties. Although restrictions apply, easements may still be periodically mowed and harvested.

To be eligible for CREP, cropland must have been planted to an agricultural commodity for two of the last five years provided it is still physically and legally capable of being planted. Marginal pastureland suitable for uses as a riparian forest buffer may also be eligible for CREP enrollment.

Some of the attractive features of the CREP Program are:

- a $100 to $250 one-time sign-up bonus;
- rental rates 80-100 percent above soil rental rates
- up to 100 percent cost share for most practices, with an additional bonus payment up to 40 percent;
- new permanent easement rates ($800-$6,000 per acre)
- continuous, non-competitive sign-ups;
- up to 3 years' payment toward weed control; and
- the eligibility of increased buffer widths.

The CREP program is scheduled to be phased out at the end of 2002 unless it is reauthorized under new Farm Bill legislation.

For further information, persons may contact the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6950 or the Garrett County Soil Conservation District office at 301-334-6951.

Treatment of Children with Persistent Asthma

Asthma involves inflammation and narrowing of the major breathing passages (bronchioles) in the lungs. Recent reports indicate that the number of adults and children affected by asthma jumped 42% between 1982 and 1992. During these same 10 years the death rate related to asthma increased 35%. Typically, at the beginning of an asthma attack there is shortness of breath, coughing, and/or chest tightness. If the lungs are not properly ventilated, the victim may turn blue and become confused and lethargic. These are signs that emergency measures need to be taken.

A new study indicates that children who are not following or cannot follow recommended prevention and treatment guidelines are at highest risk for the effects of uncontrolled asthma.

Some families do not have action plans in the event of an asthma emergency. If there is a child in your family with asthma, talk with your doctor and pharmacist about things you can do to help.

Is your Culling Rate Making High Priced Dairy Heifers?

The days of the $1,000 to $1,200 dairy heifer may be gone. I was surprised to read in the DHI data that for 14,000 dairy herds each month, the cull rates for herds with 1,000 or more cows is 39 percent compared to 37 percent for herds with fewer than 100 cows. This high percentage of culling milk cows is putting a lot of pressure on heifer prices. Simply stated, "There are not enough heifers to go around".

For years we have known that it costs around $1,200 to raise a decent dairy heifer. The folks who are in the custom raising of dairy heifers now are looking at prices exceeding $500 for a 3-day-old Holstein calf. Add that on to the cost associated with raising the heifer and we are at $1,700. The person raising the heifer expects a little profit so we are looking at a $2,000 heifer.

Experts say you should be striving to have a cull rate between 25 to 28 percent. I think a good many of the Garrett County dairy farms may be below the suggested percentage. If your cull rate is high you are part of the reason heifers are so costly.

Clarification on the MDA Voucher

So far we have over 200 Garrett County people who have completed the training required to receive the Maryland Department of Agriculture Voucher to spread nutrients on 10 acres or more of land. There is one point that I would like to make clear. An individual does not need a voucher to purchase fertilizers.

Computer Classes Offered

Would you like to learn the Quicken and Microsoft Excel programs? We will be offering a two-session program on the Quicken Accounting program February 18 and 25 and a two-session program on Microsoft Excel February 19 and 26, 2002.

The sessions will be held in our new computer lab at the Extension office starting at 10 a.m. and concluding at 2:30 p.m. These classes are intended for beginners. These classes are limited to a small number of people. Reservations must be made by calling 301-334-6960.

Adorable Adoptables

NEED A FAITHFUL FRIEND? These two animals would fit the bill, no question about it. Oscar the cat is an adult male short-hair who has a reputation of getting along fine with dogs, but would prefer to be the only feline in a household. He is also known for being very friendly. Patches is a young adult Boston terrier mix dog. She recently gave birth to a litter of puppies and is recovering from nursing. She is affectionate and sweet and is in need of a loving home. To adopt either or both of these good animals, please call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553. The facility's operating hours are 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. It is closed on the weekends.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Gertrude M. Annarelli died last Thursday, January 24. Her funeral was held Monday at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. Dinner was served in St. Peter's Hall for her family and friends.

The home of Stanley and Beverly Rhodes and their 2-year-old son Travias in Loch Lynn burned on January 21. The young family are staying with Stanley's parents, Stan and Betty Rhodes, at 210 West Second Avenue, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. They may be reached at 301-334-8452. "Everything would be greatly appreciated," stated Stanley's mother, Betty.

June and Charlie McClosky and family visited June's mother, Barbara Donaldson, in Baltimore Jan. 18-21. They celebrated the birthday of June's 4-year-old nephew, Weston Donaldson. The party was held in the fire hall. A tour of the fire department and fire engine was given, and a "fire helmet" cake was served. Charlie's best friend, John Radisch, and his wife Karen and their four children visited them for a weekend of skiing this past weekend.

Nancy and Donald Smith traveled to BWI Airport and flew to Providence, R.I. last week to meet their 1-month-old grandson, Michael William Curtin. He is the son of their daughter and husband, Donna and Richard Curtin, Bridgewater, Mass.

Orval Teets had breakfast with the retired railroaders on Thursday, Jan. 17, at the Shrine Club in Cumberland. Sunday afternoon guests of Orval and Mareva were Pastor Meredith Ball and wife Maxine, Mary June Harvey, George and Freda Rexroad, and John and Linda Fleming.

Andrea Sweitzer, a new Frostburg State University graduate and newly settled in Reading, Pa., visited with her grandmother, Helen Winters, this weekend.

Ellida and Jamie Bernard were overnight guests of their grandmother, Mary June Harvey, Friday, Jan. 25.

Saturday evening guests of Pastor Meredith and Maxine Ball were their neighbors, Ray and Carol Sweitzer.

Kendra Sweitzer Biser, a new representative of the Homemaker's Idea Co., hosted a show at her home in Burlington, W.Va., Saturday evening. There were approximately 30 in attendance. Among those attending from the area were: her grandmother, Glenna Sweitzer, her mother, Alverta Sweitzer, Mary and Joni Wilson, Barbie, Beth, and Sara Sweitzer, Heidi Hauser Qualls of Oakland, Tammy Cropp of Mtn. Lake Park, Diana Cropp of Kitzmiller, Blondie Wilson of Kitzmiller, and Linda Simmons of Burlington. Others attending were family and friends from the Burlington and Keyser areas. Persons interested in hosting a show may contact Kendra at 304-289-3511.

Dale Sweitzer had Sunday dinner with his father and his wife, Ray and Carol Sweitzer. He stayed for afternoon music, as did his grandmother, Amy Sweitzer, Artie Sweitzer, Marty Duncan of Frostburg, and Jim Miller, also of Frostburg.

BUCKWHEAT CAKE SUPPERS

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the Swanton Community Center on Saturdays, Feb. 9, and Mar. 9. Buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and wholehog sausage will be served "all-you-can-eat" style beginning at 4 p.m. Chairman is Carolyn Livengood. The cost is $5 for adults, half-price for children, and free for those under age 5.

SENIOR MEALS

Valentine's Day dinner will be served on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at the Swanton site. Sweethearts Ray and Carol Sweitzer will provide special music. Persons may sign up by calling Bonita Rodeheaver at the center, 301-387-9191.

DIABETIC SUPPORT GROUP

A committee representing the Garrett County Diabetic Support Group — Mary Louise Shreve, Lilhan Beckman, and Kathy Skipper — met with Beverly Carvell of the Garrett County Extension Office on Tuesday. They discussed the seriousness of getting needed information to the people, and methods of distributing information to the people who are directly or indirectly affected by diabetes. Education and blood sugar control now may help to avoid complications later. They are working with the Garrett County Health Department in getting a diabetic educator for Garrett County.

The next regular meeting of the support group will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 6:30 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. (Use the back door off the parking lot.) The speaker will be Ann Sherrard of the Garrett Co. Extension Office. She will speak on the "Requirements, Duties, and Need For a Diabetic Educator in Garrett County."

OTTERBEIN CHURCH

The 2001 Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church Sunday School attendance awards were presented Sunday by Linda Fleming, superintendent, and secretaries Sandy Friend and Debbie Bolyard.

The donations for the House of Hope will be delivered after Feb. 3. Persons may contact Mrs. Mary June Harvey for needed information.

RAY BOLTZ CONCERT

Singer Ray Boltz will be featured at the Christian music concert on March 14 at 7 p.m. The concert will be held in Kingwood, W.Va., at the Craig Civic Center. For tickets, persons may contact Steve and Lucinda Davis at 304-329-2566.

DANIEL

Persons may also contact Steve and Lucinda Davis at 304-329-2566 for tickets to the theatrical performance of Daniel in Lancaster, Pa. Arrangements have been made to see the play on May 14.

CONTRIBUTING TO PRESIDENT'S SEPT. 11 QUILT — This group of Swan Meadow School students, pictured with parent and school custodian Elma Swartzentruber, center, and principal Linda Fleming, have contributed to a quilt-making project that memorializes the events of Sept. 11. The quilt patch pictured in the photo will be added to a quilt being assembled by students at Holy Angels Academy in Buffalo, N.Y., and will be presented to President George W. Bush this spring. Students from across the country are pooling their work to remember the victims, honor the heroes, and to show students' patriotism. Each patch is decorated with participating schools' names and locations. Swartzentruber spearheaded the Swan Meadow effort. The students shown, from the left in the front row, are Sharon Swartzentruber, Destiny Nazelrod, Michael Swartzentruber, and Regina Brenneman. In the back row are Michael Beachy, Marcus Kinsinger, Amanda Swartzentruber, Elma Swartzentruber, Amanda Yoder, Lavern Bender, and Fleming.

Swanton Center Slates Supper

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be served at the Swanton Community Center on Saturday, Feb. 9, with serving to begin at 4 p.m. The menu will consist of "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cakes and pancakes, as well as sausage and beverage. Tickets are $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 5 and older, and free for those under 5.

All proceeds of the dinner benefit the various service projects of the center.

Four-Wheel-Drive Trail Ride Set At Savage River

Maryland Forest and Park Service in cooperation with the Baltimore 4-Wheelers, 4 Wheel Drive Club will host a four-wheel-drive trail ride on Saturday, Feb. 16. The event will take place on the Negro Mountain Trail in Savage River State Forest. Participants should meet at the New Germany Lakehouse at 9 a.m. for a drivers' meeting and trail ride information.

"The trail ride will be mild to moderate, but four-wheel-drive is required," said Eric Savage, spokesman for the event. "No ATVs will be allowed on the trail." Tow hooks and skid plates are recommended. Participants may also want to bring a tire gauge, dry gas, warm clothes, and a CB radio.

The all-day event is family oriented, and no alcohol will be permitted. Participants should dress appropriately and bring a lunch. There is no charge for the event.

Those interested in the ride may call Savage at 301-895-5759 or 301-746-8359 to register. Spaces are limited, noted Savage.

Low-Interest Home Repair Loans Offered

Homeowners in rural areas who need repairs to their houses but can't afford regular loans may be eligible for a U.S. Department of Agriculture loan at only 1 percent interest, according to Timothy T. Taylor, local community development manager.

"These loans are only available to very low-income people," Taylor said. "In this area very low-income is defined as about $26,350 per year, depending on the number of people in the household and other factors."

Home repair loans can be used for such things as fixing or replacing a roof, replacing siding, installing insulation, storm windows and doors, replacing a heating system, repairing electrical wiring or plumbing, hooking up to sewer or water systems, or making a house more handicapped accessible.

"Even people who may have trouble repaying a 1 percent loan may be eligible if they have someone to co-sign the loan who could help repay if necessary," Taylor said. "Only a written promise to repay the loan is required on loans up to $7,500. Loans above that require a mortgage security. The maximum loan is $20,000.

Anyone interested in the program or wanting additional information may telephone Taylor, or Sylvia Guthrie, community development technician, at 301-334-6970, or stop by the Rural Development Office, located at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite D, Mountain Lake Park.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

- Linda Fike, chairperson for the local Relay for Life Program, met with the mayor and town council to update them on the annual Relay for Life walk. She explained the "Adopt a Banner" fund-raising activity and requested permission to solicit sponsors for the banners within the local community. This request was unanimously supported. The mayor and council will adopt a banner for two, four-week sessions.
- The Tree Maintenance Resolution, 2002-01, was read and approved.
- Adelphia Cable will be requested to provide the mayor and council with an update regarding the proposed fiber-optic system upgrade to the local cable television service.
- The continuation of the county's enforcement of the building code within the town was unanimously approved.

The next council meeting is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

Joins Mountain Properties Staff

Jerry McGee recently joined the staff at Mountain Properties, where he will manage Premier Homes, a new division of the firm. In his new position McGee will specialize in sales of waterfront and water access properties, along with those with a view and estate-setting homes, in the Deep Creek Lake area and countywide.

As a participating member of the Metropolitan Regional Information System, a computerized multiple listing service, McGee and his staff will have access to information on all properties listed by all Garrett County real estate firms. McGee has been responsible for initiating and installing "PhoneHome," the county's first telephone-coded real estate information system, providing drive-by buyers with a description of all the office's listings.

McGee is a resident of the Paradise Point area of Deep Creek Lake. In addition to his long-time teaching career, he has worked as a full-time real estate agent for 12 years, first in Seattle, Wash., and then at Deep Creek Lake. He remains active in the arts community, teaches music at Garrett Community College, and serves as the music director for both St. John's and St. Matthew's Episcopal churches. He is currently serving as coordinator of the board of directors of this summer's McHenry Highland Festival, sponsored by Humberson Homes and Mountain Properties.

Stock Market Class Offered

The Small Business Development Center of Garrett Community College will offer a three-session course called Stock Market Basics, taught by financial consultant Greg Cartrette. The class will meet from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on three consecutive Wednesdays, Feb. 13-27.

This entry-level course provides basic information for anyone interested in learning more about stocks, bonds, and mutual funds, including the components of a basic retirement plan.

Persons desiring more information and/or wishing to register for the class may telephone Cathy at 301-387-3080.

DC Fire Company Celebrates 35 Years Of Service

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and Ladies Auxiliary recently celebrated their 35th anniversary with a dinner at Uno's. Numerous fire department and auxiliary personnel received awards and gifts in appreciation for their volunteerism.

Door prizes were donated by Smiley's, the Christmas Chalet, Garrett 8 Cinemas, the Bunny Hop, Four All Seasons Gift Shoppe, Country Treasures, and Country Garden Expressions.

Lakers Record Three More Maryland JUCO Victories

It was a productive week on the basketball court for the Garrett Community College men's team, as the Lakers picked up three big Maryland JUCO victories, and one of them did not even require setting foot on the court. The Lakers defeated visiting Chesapeake Saturday, 80-70, topped Prince George's CC in 100-98 thriller in Largo on Monday, and were granted a forfeit over Montgomery Rockville Wednesday. The three wins upped the Lakers' overall record to 16-4 and their JUCO mark to 8-3.

Coach Dennis Gibson got a balanced effort from his squad in Saturday's victory over Chesapeake, as Jontae Harrington led five Lakers in double-figure scoring.

Harrington recorded 16 points, Kortaa Hall finished with 14, Duke Cooper netted 12, and Darren Stackhouse and Sam Brown each contributed 10 points.

The Lakers trailed by five at intermission, 36-31, but seized the momentum early in the second half, took the lead, and were ahead by as many as 15 before Chesapeake rallied to cut the margin to five with about five minutes to play.

Finishing with a game-high 19 points to lead the Skipjacks was Jermaine Saunders. He was the only member of his team to reach double figures.

The loss dropped Chesapeake to 11-6 overall and 3-6 in JUCO competition.

A key defensive play by Antuon Townsend, followed by a game-winning shot by Duke Cooper and a double-double effort by Jontae Harrington were the highlights of the evening for the Lakers in their big two-point win over Prince George's on Monday.

Cooper had his best game of the season, as he hit five three-point buckets, finished with 23 points, and dished out seven assists.

Meanwhile, Harrington led Garrett in four areas: scoring with a game-high 28 points, rebounding with 12, steals with six, and blocks with one.

The Lakers built a 10-point lead by halftime, 56-46, and led by as many as 19 points in the second half before the Owls rallied and took the lead, 98-97, in the final minute. Prince George's also had possession of the ball in the waning seconds, but defensive pressure by Townsend resulted in a five-second call against Brandon Davis to give Garrett the ball.

Cooper responded by hitting his fifth three-pointer of the evening with just three seconds left on the clock. A final, desperation shot by the Owls bounced off the rim and over the backboard.

"Jontae and Duke (both starters) made a lot of big plays," Gibson said, "and Antuon and Jamal Jacobs both played very well off the bench.

"I have a lot of confidence in our team right now, especially since we are getting a good effort from so many players," he added.

Also reaching double figures were Stackhouse with 16 points, Hall with 15, and Brown with 11.

Leading the Owls' balanced scoring effort was Marcus Collins with 24 points, including 18 from three-point range. Jason Southworth finished with 16 points, Warren Robinson scored 14, Brandon Davis netted 13, and Donnell Ellis hit 10. Robinson also had seven rebounds and four steals, Ellis had seven rebounds, and Davis was credited with six assists.

The Owls fell to 11-5 with the defeat and 6-4 in JUCO standings.

The Lakers will go for their 17th win of the season this Saturday when they host Hagerstown Junior College.

Umpires Group To Hold Meeting Next Thursday

The Appalachian Umpires Association will hold a meeting for all local baseball umpires on Thursday, Feb. 7. It will begin at 7 p.m. in the health classroom at Southern High School.

The association provides officiating services for Little League baseball, high school baseball and girls' softball, college women's softball, American Legion baseball, and men's Pen-Mar baseball in western Maryland and nearby West Virginia. All current umpires and all those interested in becoming National Federation certified umpires must attend.

For more information, persons may call Dave Bender at 301-334-4390.

Oakland Native Sinks Ace For Second Time

Lighting has struck yet again for Oakland native Cheston (Sonny) Browning, who connected for the second hole-in-one of his golfing avocation earlier this month on a Florida golf course.

The latest of the extremely rare shots took place Monday, Jan. 7, as Browning used a 5-iron to loft his golf ball 179 yards on Hole 11 of the Silverton Country Club in Spring Hill. The ball didn't stop until it found the bottom of the cup on the par-three hole. Witnesses to the ace were Don Kronwetter, Marshall McCarver, and Bill Wilkinson.

Browning resides in Brooksville, Fla.

Laker Women May Have Turned Tide Of Season After Big Week

It was a busy and productive week for the women's basketball team of Garrett Community College, as the Lakers won three games against just one loss. GCC started off on the wrong foot by falling to Harford Friday 86-73, then rebounded to crush Chesapeake the following day 81-37, thump Allegany Monday 73-40, and defeat Anne Arundel last night by a 58-45 margin.

"We've entered the second half of our schedule, and feel we are poised to make a move," GCC coach Steve Willison commented of his steadily improving 8-9 squad. "The first half of the season was loaded with road contests, and from here out we'll be playing most of our games at home. It's always a boost to play in front of your home crowd."

The week's opening misstep came largely at the hands of Harford's Kristen Jasper, who turned in a 36-point performance in a hard-fought contest. The Lakers were down by just four points, 37-33, at the half, but their rival shooters paced the guests to the 13-point win. Angel Kendal paced GCC with 16 points, including a three-pointer, and dished out seven assists, while teammate Donna Lyles amassed a Laker-high 14 rebounds. Christie Edgell contributed 13 points, nine of which came on a trio of three-poiuters, and Mindy Miller scored 12, including two treys.

The Lakers rebounded the following afternoon as they blew the doors off the McHenry gym for a 44-point thrashing of Chesapeake. GCC jumped out to a 46-17 first half lead, and romped through a 35-20 second stanza.

Edgell and Crystal Kimble led the Lakers with 16 points apiece, as Edgell sank four three-pointers and Kimble connected on a trey of her own. Miller had eight points and nine rebounds, Kendal handed out five assists and snagged four steals, and Juakeena Bell contributed 12 points, while Carrie Pardue accounted for 10 points, including two three-pointers. Keena Hawkins led all scorers with 24 points.

Garrett all but destroyed Allegany Monday with a balanced team performance on both ends of the floor. The game turned into a rout early on, as the Lakers had amassed a huge 41-10 lead by the intermission.

Edgell sank a trio of three-pointers on her way to a game-high 15 points, and Miller scored all 13 of her points, which included three treys of her own, in the first half. Pardue contributed 11 points, including one three-pointer, and Bell recorded 10 points and three steals. Lyles pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds, and Kendal dished out a Laker-high six assists. Shae Fox had 10 points to lead the visiting Trojans.

The Lakers brought home a 13-point win from Anne Arundel last night for their fourth win in five games. Garrett roared out to a 35-19 halftime lead before embarking on a 23-16 second half tally.

GCC's long-distance shooting streak continued, as Miller hit a trio of three-pointers en route to a game-high 15 points, and Edgell netted four three-point buckets as she scored 14 points. Maynard contributed eight points while ripping down a team-high 11 rebounds, Kimble handed out four assists, and Miller had six steals. Anne Arundel was led by Kara Watanachai's 13 points.

The Lakers return home for three contests this week, hosting Montgomery-Takoma Park Saturday in a 5 p.m. match-up, entertaining Rockingham in a 2 p.m. battle the following afternoon, and taking on Montgomery-Rockville Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

A LITTLE "PARQUET BALLET" AT GCC? — That's what it may look like, but there was no dancing around the fact that the Garrett Community College women's basketball team crushed visiting Allegany Monday night in a 73-40 runaway win. Freshman guard Carrie Pardue (#21) is the centerpiece of the above photo, just as she prepares to foil the Trojans' double-team defense by finding an open Laker teammate for a pass. Pardue had a fine night, scoring 11 points to help round out a balanced Garrett quartet of double-figure scorers. Crystal Kimble (#22) is pictured below after she got behind a pair of Allegany defenders to hit an easy lay-up. The streaking Lakers, winners of four of their last five outings, host Montgomery-Takoma Park in a 5 p.m. match-up Saturday evening in McHenry.

PAR-MATT YOUTH BOWLERS PLACE FIRST — Par-Matt Youth Bowlers placed first in Class B of the Western Maryland Championship Tournament held recently at the White Oaks Lanes, Cumberland. There were a total of 368 entries from the six bowling centers of western Maryland. The Par-Matt bowlers completed nine games in tournament play during the day. Pictured above are the members of Par-Matt Team #1, Class B division, who placed first. They are, from the left, David "Cane" Baker, Rodney Baker, Justin Dalton, and Timmy Storey. On the top right is Rodney Baker, who placed first in Class C Single Division. On the bottom are the second place winners in the Class A Double Division. They are Tiffany Wotring and Sarah Shaffer, who were sponsored by Shaffer Tours and Charters. The bowlers for Par-Matt Team #2, Class A Division, placing eighth, were Brianna Everidge, Zane Riggleman III, Jimbob Ford, and Corey Shuttleworth. The Par-Matt Team #3, Class A Division, placing fourth were Billy Norton, Nicole Sisler, Sean Sisler, and Kodie Dawson. Many of the Par-Matt bowlers in this year's league had never participated in a tournament. "I am very pleased with the way they finished for their first time away competition and with the support from the families and friends," said Janet Tichnell, coach.

Panther Paces Rams To Victory Over Huskies, Cats

Senior guard Chad Panther led the Southern High School boys' varsity to a pair of convincing Western Maryland Interscholastic League victories this past week, solidifying the Rams' grip on the area's #1 ranking.

Coach Tom Bosley and his team flattened visiting Northern last Friday, 51-28, and rolled over Westmar in similar fashion on Tuesday, 57-27, also in Oakland, as Panther led Southern's offensive effort in both games. The wins upped the Rams' overall record to 12-3 and their WMIL mark to a perfect 7-0. Winners of nine straight games, the Rams will meet the Northern Huskies again this Friday at the Cove.

Panther netted 18 points in Friday's win over the Huskies, and also recorded three steals and four assists, as the Rams broke open a relatively close game in the second quarter.

Southern led by just two points at the end of the first quarter, 7-5, as neither team had much success in hitting the basket. The Rams stretched their advantage to nine, 20-11, by halftime, outscored the Huskies in the third stanza by a 13-5 margin after a 9-2 initial scoring spurt, and took a 33-16 advantage into the final quarter.

Dennis Tressler grabbed a game-high nine rebounds and also scored nine points. Matt Stephens netted nine points, and D.R. Parsons pulled down six rebounds.

Jason Rice and Andrew Frantz each scored nine points to pace the Huskies in scoring.

Northern dropped to 5-9 overall and 1-5 in WMIL competition.

The Southern junior varsity team whipped the Northern jayvees in the preliminary game, 79-32, behind 16-point efforts by both Cory Bosley and Derek Steffan, and a 14-point performance by Derrick Rhodes. Billy Jones scored 11 to lead the Huskies.

In Tuesday's victory over Westmar, Panther recorded 14 points, four rebounds, six assists, and five steals, as the Rams dominated the contest practically from the opening tipoff.

Southern jumped out to a 12-4 lead by the end of the first quarter, and gave up only two points in the second quarter while scoring 17 to take a commanding 29-6 lead by halftime. They stretched their advantage to 28 points, 43-15, by the conclusion of the third stanza.

Dennis Tressler also reached double figures with 10 points and grabbed five rebounds, while Ricky Reams was credited with five assists.

The tenacious Ram defense held Westmar's leading scorer Bobby Alkire, who came into the game averaging just under 19 points, to just six points.

"Matt Stephens gets most of the credit for defending against Alkire," Coach Bosley said. "He's one of the better players in the area, so controlling him was a major part of our defensive plan."

Leading the Wildcats in scoring was Curtis Broadwater with nine points.

Westmar dropped to 3-11 overall and 2-4 in WMIL games.

The Southern junior varsity was topped in the first game, 56-47, in overtime, despite a 20-point scoring effort by Derek Steffan. Justin McGregor led the jayvee Wildcats with 19 points.

After the Rams face Northern again this Friday on the road, they will prepare for a game at Bishop Walsh on Monday and then start a five-game home stand on Tuesday against Beall.

Southern Smokes Preston By 36; Record Now 17-0

You would have to go a long way to find a girls' high school basketball team having a season comparable to the Southern Rams' run so far, and the SHS squad upped its record to 17-0 with Monday night's 72-36 win at Preston High. The only other undefeated squad in the tri-state vicinity is the 14-0 East Hardy Jackets of Hardy County, W.Va.

Ram coach Don Stemple, while blessed with what he has often referred to as "superb athletes, unselfish players, and excellent students of the game," has to receive a lot of the credit himself. The Southern skipper has gotten the most out of his squad, and has melded a number of top individual performers into a cohesive unit that "just has fun playing the game," as he puts it.

Team lynchpin Ashley Liller, making a strong bid to repeat as Player of the Year, is leading the area in scoring at 21.8 points per game, and is seventh in foul shooting at 76 percent. Sophomore guards Robbin Gregg and Justine Pagenhardt, who, with Liller, round out the Rams' potent three-guard scheme, have recorded an 11.5 ppg scoring average and a league-leading 90.4 free-throw percentage, respectively. Despite battling nagging injuries, forwards Jennifer Bosley and Becca Flanagan have also been turning in consistently strong performances underneath both baskets, and Bosley is third in the area's foul shooting ranks with 83.6 percent.

Southern was in front of the Knights from Monday's opening tip-off to closing buzzer, as the Rams exploded for a 26-7 first-quarter lead, were up 44-14 at the half, and held a 60-28 lead after three quarters of play.

Liller scored a game-high 23 points, sinking eight field goals, including a three-pointer, and hitting six of eight free-throw attempts while dishing out five assists and snagging five steals.

Flanagan recorded a double-double of 16 points and 10 rebounds, and added five steals of her own. Pagenhardt netted 12 points, a showing which included a perfect 4-for-4 free-throw tally that preserved her area-leading foul shooting percentage. The Rams recorded a team free-throw performance of 25-for-31, for an outstanding 80 percent as a unit.

Ashley Lay led Preston with eight points, teammate Jesse Ayersman netted seven points, and Brandy Shaffer had six points.

Preston won the junior varsity contest, but details were not reported.

Tonight the Rams host a slumping Fort Hill squad, which has lost three of its last four contests, then they travel to Tucker Monday and Westmar Wednesday. Each outing features a 6:30 p.m. junior varsity contest, while the varsity units square off at 7:30 p.m.

NHS Boys Fall To Rams, Alco In Road Games

It was a tough week on the road for the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team as the Huskies dropped a 51-28 contest at Southern Friday (see separate story), and were downed at Allegany Tuesday night by a 76-50 margin. NHS's record fall to 5-10 overall, and 1-6 in the WMIL.

Northern hung tight through the opening quarter at Alco, and were down by just four points, 20-16, after the first eight minutes. Allegany opened its lead to a 29-20 margin at the half, and blew the game wide open with a 23-point third quarter that ended with the Campers up 52-36.

Senior NHS forward Josh Swandol paced the Huskies with 14 points on six field goals and two free throws, while classmate Jensen Long hit six field goals to net 12 points from his post position. Aaron Mitchell tallied eight points. Ian Grady scored 18 points for the Campers, who upped their record to 5-11.

The Huskies' junior varsity met with a 71-32 defeat. Eric Johnson led Northern with 10 points.

Northern's return home tomorrow night features a cross-county battle with the area-leading Southern Rams, and on Tuesday the Huskies visit Lonaconing to take on Westmar. The jayvee contests get under way at 6 p.m., followed by the 7:30 p.m. varsity tip-offs.

Soccer Coaching Course Slated For March 2-3

The Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) will host an E license coaching course in Garrett County. The course will be conducted by the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association (MSYSA), with which MSA is affiliated. The course is open to all adults and youth ages 16 and older. Coaches from the Arsenal Soccer Club, Mountain West League, and the surrounding area are all welcome to attend.

"This is a great opportunity for people to obtain their coaching license, learn the basics for coaching youth soccer, and to better educate themselves with the game of soccer. The course is designed to be 'hands on,' with attendees actively participating in the program," said Ron Petrella, MSA president. "Participants should not be intimidated in any way by the course. It is designed for the youth level, and each person should come away with a better understanding of the game and a good philosophy for coaching at the youth level. It should be a lot of fun for the participants."

The cost of the E license course is $50. MSA will pay $40 of the fee for MSA coaches, parents, and Garrett County residents. MSA reserves the right to limit the number of $40 discounts, based on the number of participants.

MSYSA will conduct the course in the gymnasium at Garrett Community College on Saturday and Sunday, March 2 and 3. A classroom has also been reserved. Course times will be approximately 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Registration forms are available at the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library or by contacting Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174.

Forms, along with a check made payable to MSA, should be mailed to: MSA E License, 1115 Broadford Road, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. Applications should be received by Saturday, Feb. 16. Once the application is received, applicants will be contacted with specific information, such as exact times and what to bring to the course.

Applicants are encouraged to register early. Anyone with questions may contact Petrella at 301-334-1174.

Northern Girls Down Visiting Campers By Six

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball squad returned to winning form as the Huskies defeated Allegany, 45-39, in their only outing of the week. The win gives NHS a 6-9 overall record, and a 2-6 WMIL mark.

Northern led from start to finish, running out to a 17-6 first-quarter lead on the way to a 25-16 halftime advantage. The Huskies had rolled up a 34-26 lead by the time the fourth quarter opened.

Sophomore Lyndsi Butler paced the night's scoring with 14 points on five field goals and four free throws, while junior Heather Lander netted 13 points on six field goals and one free throw. Jolene Brenneman and Bridget Frazee, the Huskies' experienced front-court tandem, accounted for 12 rebounds and five steals, respectively. Hobbled junior forward Amanda Frantz, NHS's leading scorer on the season, scored nine points in limited action.

Erin Wilson's 14 Camper points tied Butler for game-high honors. The loss dropped Allegany's record to 6-8.

Northern travels to Bishop Walsh for a Saturday afternoon outing, with a 1 p.m. junior varsity contest preceding the 2:30 p.m. varsity battle. The Huskies return home Monday night to host WMIL powerhouse Beall in a 7:30 p.m. varsity match-up that will get under way after the conclusion of the 6 p.m. JV game.

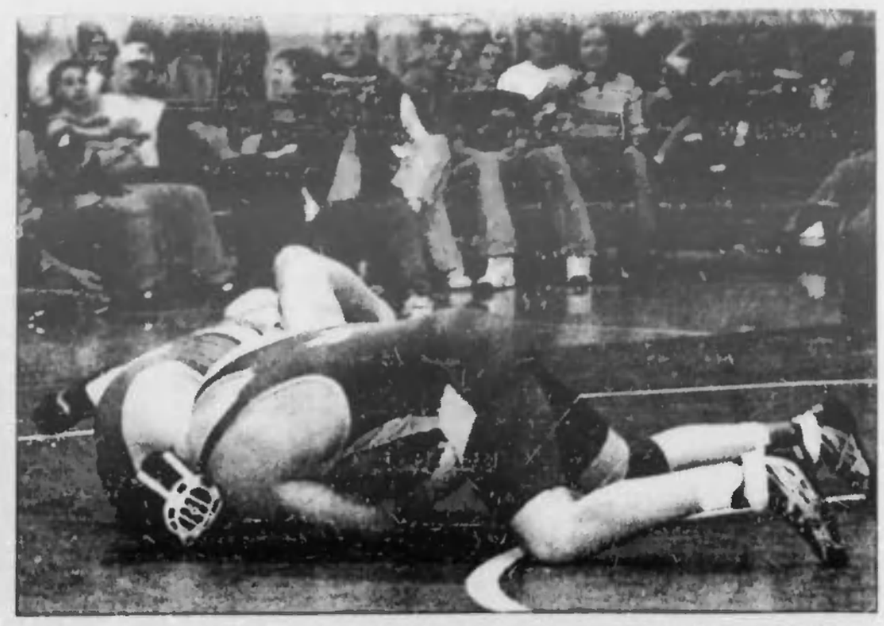
THE OUTCOME IS IN THE AIR — Amanda Frantz (#20) takes a short jumper from the bottom of the lane during Northern High's 45-39 victory over visiting Allegany Monday night. In all probability Frantz connected on her attempt, as the junior forward has been among the area's scoring leaders this season with an approximate 16 ppg average. Fellow Huskies jostling with the Campers for position in front of the basket, from the left, are Bridget Frazee (#44), Jolene Brenneman (#22), and Lyndsi Butler (#34). NHS junior point guard Heather Lander (#4) is pictured below drawing a blocking foul on a Camper, who doesn't have both her feet planted on the floor as the two collide. After a Saturday road outing at Bishop Walsh, the 6-9 Huskies host a powerful Beall squad in a 7:30 p.m. match-up Monday at the Cove.



WINNING A CHAMPIONSHIP In the prestigious Thomas Chevrolet Tournament requires a Herculean effort, as the event always features many outstanding wrestlers from Pennsylvania. Northern High School's heavyweight Trey Brenneman is pictured demonstrating such an effort, as he works toward a 21-8 decision over Erick Zezmanski of Chestnut Ridge High School in the title bout. Other Huskies placing in the top 10 were Darric Kamp, who placed sixth in the 145-pound division, and Kris Knox, who was eighth in the 160-pound division. Pete Stein, who was seeded second in his division, had to drop out of the tourney because of an elbow injury sustained in a first-round bout. As a team, the Huskies placed 18th among 23. Forest Hills captured the team trophy, followed by host Bedford and North Schulykill. The Huskies won the tournament two years ago. Northern recorded a 60-15 victory over Westmar last night. Husky Matmen Crush Wildcats

It was a short night for the Northern wrestling team last night, as eight of 13 bouts against host Westmar were decided by forfeits, seven of which were awarded to the Huskies. Coach Scott Stough's squad coasted to a 60-15 victory.

The only Northern grapplers who had to compete for their victories were Michael Wolf, Dan Ganoe, and Lee Yoder, who all won via pins in the 130-, 135-, and 171-pound divisions, respectively. Huskies awarded forfeits were Mike Pickrel (112), Eric Garlitz (119), Mitchell Guard (140), Darric Kamp (145), Kris Knox (160), John Beachy (189), and Trey Brenneman (275).

Gaining a pin for Westmar was Eric Stowell (103).

The Huskies will be on the mats again this event at Fort Hill and then have a break until the Bi-County Tournament on February 16. Northern also competed this past weekend in the Thomas Chevrolet Tournament in Bedford, Pa. (See photo caption for results.)

Ram Grapplers Whipped By Mountaineers, Red Raiders

It was another tough week on the mats for the Southern High School wrestling team, as the Rams were whipped last Thursday by host Beall, 49-13, and then dominated by Meyersdale on Monday, 54-15, at Meyersdale.

Earning point victories for the Rams in the match against Beall were Joe Ashby in the 125-pound division, Scott Wildesen at 130 pounds, Chris Hayhurst, 140 pounds, and Anthony Oliverio, 275 pounds.

Winning on pins for the Mountaineers, who upped their overall record to 11-1 as a team, were Nathan Jackson (112), Brandon Durney (135), Brian Crowe (145), Nick Durst (160), and Zach Sloane (171).

The only winners among the Rams at Meyersdale on Monday were Wildesen, Hayhurst, Jason Weeks, and Riff Browning. Wildesen (130 pounds), Weeks (145), and Browning (171) all won by decision, while Hayhurst was awarded a forfeit in the 140-pound division.

Gaining pins for the Red Raiders were Don Sanner (112), Mike Phillips (119), Dan Ackerman (125), Steve Zorn (135), Shane Bowker (152), Steve Schrader (160), and Chris Lavan (275).

The Rams, who dropped to 2-10 as a team, will compete this Saturday at Westmar (6 p.m.) and in the regional dual meet next Wednesday.

Individually, there were 44 SMC wrestlers competing, with 25 winning trophies earned for 4th place or better. Individual champions for the SMC were Travis Newton, Jacob Scheffel, Ryan Bennett, Lex Ozias, Ryan Fitzwater, and Justin Ratliff. Four more local wrestlers reached the final round, but fell short of the top and finished second. They were Coy Ozias, Dustin Dolan, and George Scheffel in two divisions.

Third-place winners on Saturday were Brandon Wotring, Matthew Shaffer, Tyler Gregory, Jacob Scheffel, Nick Ashby, Jason Warnick, Justin Ratliff, Jeremy Gregory (two divisions), Chris Tepper, and Sean Sisler. Finishing fourth were Coty Rasel, Gavin Murphy, Lex Ozias, and Woody Knotts.

"These kids did great. Typically, we draw a very tough group of wrestlers to our tournament and this year was no exception. Our wrestlers, both the brand new ones as well as the experienced kids, were outstanding against such tough competition," Coach Darryl Ozias commented. "Their hard work in practice paid off on the mats Saturday."

"The community support for this tournament was great," club president Terry Murphy stated. "Local businesses and individuals came together to help us put on a first-class tournament. On top of that, the parents involved in this program are the best, and did their part to make this tournament a huge success. The Southern Mat Club can not thank these people enough."

The team will be back in action this weekend at a tournament in Williamsport on Sunday.

Southern Mat Club Third In Own Tournament

The Southern Mat Club hosted a youth wrestling tournament this past weekend at the Southern Garrett High School gymnasium. Twenty-five teams from the four-state area were in attendance.

The final team standings for this event found the team from Connellsville, Pa., in first place with 89 points, followed by the team from Parkersburg, W.Va., with 80 points. The Southern Mat Club finished in third with 68 points and the Northern Garrett youth team placed fourth with 59 points.

Rounding out the top 10 were: Winchester, Va., 35; Mountaineer Mat, 27; Albert Gallitan, Pa., 26; Frederick, 26; Elkins, 22; and Hyndman, 18.

NHS Cheer Team Places First In State, Advances

The Northern High Cheer Team, coached by Lisa Carr and Larah Savage, recently took first place at the Maryland State Cheerleading Championships, held at Cole Field House in College Park. The Cheer Team will now advance to a national competition in Atlantic City, N.J., on Feb. 16.

"This is my tenth year coaching, and this is a dream come true," said Carr.

Team members are seniors and co-captains Coty Warn, Amber Weimer and Brooke Butler; juniors Brandy Fazenbaker, Kristen Schefft, Stephanie Hutzel, and Carrie Friend; sophomores Kimmy Beiler and Amanda Friend; and freshmen Tiffany Doerr, Abbi Sisler, Becca Stark, and Janine Beachy.

"All of our long practice hours, bumps, bruises, and muscle pulls were definitely worth it," said Savage.

The team members are currently seeking donations to help pay for their travel and entry fee expenses. Persons interested in helping should mail donations to Northern High School, c/o of Cheer Team, 86 Pride Parkway, Accident, MD 21520.

God saw you getting tired
when a cure was not to be.
So He closed His arms around you,
and whispered, "Come to Me."
You didn't deserve what you went through and so He gave you rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.
And when I saw you sleeping
so peaceful and free from pain,
I could not wish you back to suffer that again.

Our heartfelt thanks to those who expressed loving sympathy at the loss of our Mother,
Mary H. Bolden Helbig

Aerobic Team Set To Compete In National Event

Twenty-seven youth from the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team will travel to Philadelphia on Feb. 8 to compete and participate in the National Aerobic Championships.

The group consists of an 11-member training team who will perform an exhibition routine.

"We are excited to have added a developmental non-competitive team to our sportaerobic program," said Brenda Brosnihan, coach. "This new team is working very hard and is extremely enthusiastic. They will enjoy performing at the event and get to see first hand what sportaerobic competition is about."

Members of the training team are Kelly Bean, Micaela Beckman, Erin Beiler, Chelsea Crosco, Regina Crosco, Kody Fike, Olivia Gaither, Abby Smith, Shayna Sweitzer, Kaitlyn Swift, and Maddy Whittemore.

The 17-member competition team will enter four categories of competition. The team's goal is to earn a spot on the United States team and compete in the world championships this August in Miami.

"We are looking forward to the upcoming competition," Brosnihan said. "This year's team has a lot of returning members and the experiences from last year's events have increased our competitive edge."

Paige Carr, Kellie Shotwell, and Abby Wildesen will enter the junior trio division. Morgan Brosnihan, Jennifer Feaster, Alayna Gaither, Brittany Harvey, Grace Herpel, Anna Kefer, and Sam Taylor will enter the junior team division.

The junior varsity team members include Kira Farley, Kelsey Jones, Rachel Margroff, Kelly Taylor, and Jessica Warnick. Jessie Railey, the 2001 United States silver medalist, will compete in the varsity individual competition. Alissa Garland, the 2001 junior varsity world silver medalist, will enter her first competition in the varsity division.

Other coaches for the team are Amy Sutton and Amanda Bell. The sportaerobic team is currently engaged in various fundraising endeavors to help defray competition expenses. The teams will be performing at the Garrett Community College Lady Lakers basketball game on Sunday, Feb. 3. The game begins at 2 p.m.

SIGNS DONATED — Robert and Rayetta Beitzel of Beitzel Excavating recently donated signs to recognize the achievements of the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team. Signs will be placed in two locations within the Oakland town limits, and another sign will be placed within the town limits of Accident. "We are honored to have a sign that marks the achievements of our teams the past three years," Brenda Broanihan, coach of the team, said. "During this time, Mariana Beitzel, daughter of Robert and Rayetta, made her mark as a national trio team champion and two-time national individual champion. She also earned two top 10 world individual rankings. The sportaerobic team has and is enjoying wonderful experiences from our training and competitions. We are honored to be represented with such a distinguished memento." One of the donated signs is pictured above.

Baseball Essay Contest Open To Student Entries

The Bob Davids Chapter of the Society for American Baseball Research (SABR) is sponsoring an essay contest for all middle school students in Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Virginia. Open to all sixth-through eighth-graders, the contest offers cash prizes of $200, $100, and $50 to the top three essay writers.

"This contest is especially attractive because it allows students to pursue a topic that interests them while they gain practical experience in research techniques," said local SABR member Jan Finkel of Swanton.

The essay topic is left to the writer's own choosing. Entrants are encouraged to do original research on any aspect of baseball that interests them, including, but not limited to, all levels of professional, semi-pro, and amateur baseball in the United States and elsewhere, plus history, biography, statistics, law, business, literature, movies, and music.

The essays should be about 1,000 to 2,500 words in length, but Finkel cautioned writers against adding words just to reach the limit — "the Gettysburg Address, the Bill of Rights, and the Sermon on the Mount are all short," he observed. All entries must be properly documented and typed or computer-printed and double-spaced with the writer's name on each page.

All entries must be postmarked no later than Friday, March 15, and sent with an addressed return envelope and a page with the student's name, school, home address, phone number, and e-mail address to Jan Finkel, 91 Laurel Lane, Swanton, MD 21561.

Students at Northern and Southern middle schools and Bloomington Elementary School may obtain contest materials and rules from their teachers, while home-schooled students and students at private or parochial schools can obtain contest information by contacting Finkel at 301-387-5488 or jfinkel@mindspring.com.

Abuse Charges

and two counts of indecent exposure. Sunny turned himself in at the sheriff's office upon being informed that the arrest warrant had been issued.

A Garrett County District Court preliminary hearing in December resulted in a judge's ruling that probable cause existed for the case to go to criminal trial. Despite concurring with that ruling, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch noted that the odds of obtaining a jury conviction were nil because of the time lapse, and allowed the case to be dismissed.

In other District Court news, a case involving allegations of domestic violence was closed with a not guilty verdict when the alleged victim refused to take the stand and testify against the accused.

Ronald Eugene Tasker Jr., 20, Oakland, had been arrested in August by sheriff's deputies who charged him with two counts of second degree assault, and one count each of stalking, harassment, telephone misuse via repeated phone calls, disturbing the peace, and littering. The arrest stemmed from reports that Tasker had engaged in ongoing domestic violence with an Oakland woman, and had repeatedly threatened her and her young son with additional assaults.

Patrick Sean Murphy, 35, Grantsville, was handed a not guilty verdict pertaining to a domestic violence related charge of second degree assault. The alleged victim refused to enter testimony against Murphy, who had been jailed by Maryland State Police troopers in April after a domestic altercation with a woman in the New Germany area.

John Maxey, 45, and Sandra Jean Maxey, 54, both of Grantsville, were each deemed not guilty of second degree assault after they refused to testify against each other. The man and woman each had initially accused the other of assault during a November domestic altercation at their residence, and both were charged with second degree assault and arrested by state troopers.

Oakland resident Rogetta May Reckart, 30, was exonerated of a second degree assault charge filed at the request of her husband, David Reckart, who accused her of striking him during a domestic incident at their residence. The court ruled the man's accusations groundless.

Tracy Eugene Suter, 31, and Natasha Suter, 25, a Grantsville couple, were both exonerated of charges of second degree assault filed after a domestic incident at their home. They accused each other of striking the other during an October altercation.

Melvin Lee Minnick, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, was deemed not guilty of three counts of rouge and vagabond behavior. He had been arrested by the Oakland Police Department in June for allegedly entering several cars parked at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Receives Funds

requesting funds for a defibrillator.

One of the reasons that Garrett received its check this year, instead of other counties, Burrell said, was due to Gnegy's proposal itself. It was "one of the more well written" of all the proposals that the insurance trust has received, he said. Another reason for the award was because the purchase of the equipment corresponded well with the trust's goal of promoting risk management.

During a medical emergency, Burrell said, if a defibrillator is needed and available for use within the first few minutes, certain conditions are reversible, and lives can be saved.

The total cost of an automated external defibrillator is $5,600, according to Burrell.

Once the apparatus is purchased, Rook will train county personnel how to use it.

attend because of illness.

"The meeting was mainly of a logistical nature, setting up guidelines and procedures to follow as we address the issue," Frantz said, adding that the members are agreed that they will be involved in a lengthy process.

The group reviewed an updated bear population status report provided by DNR. The report reiterates the agency's estimate from last year that up to 337 bears are located in Maryland's three westernmost counties of Garrett, Allegany, and Washington, with an additional 100 bears existing elsewhere across the state.

The report also noted the incidence of bear mortality, which DNR has monitored for the past 20 years. In 1981, according to the report, there were two known bear mortalities in the state, a statistic that had increased to 41 known mortalities last year. That 2001 figure is a 36 percent increase from the previous year, when there were 30 known mortalities in Maryland. Two of last year's bear deaths came as a result of shootings by Garrett County residents protecting themselves or their livestock, and upon investigation DNR declined to seek charges in either case.

The increasing number of bear sightings was cited as well in statistics dating back two decades. While bear sightings in Garrett County have become so commonplace the DNR has stopped logging their incidence, the agency did note that sightings have occurred in locations as varied as Montgomery, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, and Queen Anne's counties. A figure of 20-30 different sows with cubs has been reported in the state's three westernmost counties.

The task force released its mission statement yesterday, which is reproduced above in its entirety.

In addition to the aforementioned members, the task force is rounded out by Tim Lambert of the Maryland Sportsmen's Association, Mike Markariau of the Fund for Animals, Robert Gregory of the Wildlife Advisory Commission, Brooks Hamilton of the Maryland Farm Bureau, Ronald Barry of the Frostburg State University biology department, Jerry Zembower of the Allegany-Garrett Sportsmen's Association, and John Hadidan of the Humane Society.

The Black Bear Task force has sent a tentative date for its next meeting of Thursday, Feb. 28, at 12:30 p.m. at Rocky Gap State Park. The public is invited.

Black Bear Task Force Mission Statement Distributed Yesterday

Note: The Black Bear Task Force mission statement, distributed at yesterday's Cumberland meeting of the group, follows in its entirety:

Maryland's Black Bear Management Plan, written in 1992, expired in December 2001. The Task Force is charged with reviewing past efforts under the 1992 plan, and providing recommendations to DNR on the future of black bear management in Maryland.

The black bear is a charismatic species that evokes a variety of emotions and opinions from the many citizens concerned with bear management. The Task Force will solicit, and consider input from, individuals and groups that may have disparate opinions on bear management. Therefore, cooperation and an open mind will be critical toward the development of a successful management plan.

While statewide species management is a goal of the management plan, special consideration must be given to those areas of the state where citizens are currently living with bears. Additionally, there are many issues that the Task Force will evaluate, including: nuisance bear behavior (agricultural and property damage), habitat loss and degradation, range expansion, and the recreational value of bears.

Furthermore, the Task Force will review land use policies in western Maryland and offer recommendations for minimizing the impacts residential development may be having on bears and their habitats. The Task Force will also address the increasing recreational demands being placed on public land in western Maryland, and the potential impact it may have on bears.

Maryland DNR is depending on the Black Bear Task Force to carefully consider all management options. While DNR is responsible for the management of bears, it is through the recommendations of this Task Force that DNR will come to understand the bear management values important to the citizens of Maryland.

THE COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:11 - Released 1/25/02

The Count Of Monte Cristo is one of those classic works of literature that has been done and done again, to the point that producers usually start adapting it in weird ways, like setting it in the Bronx in the 1950s or something. A recent example of this is Peter Hyams's September release The Musketeer, a Matrix/Hong Kong-flavored adaptation of Alexandre Dumas's other classic tale, whose lackluster performance at the box office, to be fair, can probably be attributed in part to the fact that it was released just 4 days before September 11. But it also just wasn't a very good movie.

At any rate, director Kevin Reynolds and the producers of this version, which stars James Caviezel, Guy Pearce, and elder statesman Richard Harris (still visible in theaters as Harry Potter's Professor Dumbledore), resisted the temptation to tinker with the author's vision, and what results is a straightforward and beautifully accoutered period piece, rife with technical authenticity and eye-pleasing production values. The screenplay, adapted from the original 1845 novel by TV game show producer Jay Wolpert, is unfortunately simplistic, however, with major events covered at breakneck speeds to push us through the whole story in just over 2 hours. An epic saga like this deserves a mini-series (like Josée Dayan's 1998 French TV version), but Wolpert's radical abbreviation of events is presumably the result of a choice not to leave anything out, which would be difficult and probably not very well received.

Caviezel plays Edmund Dantes, a poor, illiterate seaman with fabulous good looks and tons of heart, who is about to be married to his true love, Mercedes (Dagmara Dominczyk), in 1814 France. His luck at netting such a fabulous babe has raised the ire of his jealous friend, Fernand Mondego (Pearce), the son of a count who wants Mercedes for himself. Conspiring with a shady lawyer named Villefort (James Frain), Ferdinand has Edmund fasely accused of treason and sent away to a forbidding, Alcatraz-style island prison. At first confident that God will deliver him from the hell he has been cast into, Edmund spends several years enjoying regular beatings from the cruel warden (Michael Wincott), and finally loses hope, renouncing God and attempting to kill himself. Meanwhile on the outside, the despondent Mercedes, thinking that Edmund has been executed, grudgingly marries Ferdinand and becomes an unhappy countess.

But then Edmund meets another prisoner, an elderly priest (Harris) who is bent on escape. The two form a friendship, and during the next several years they work together in tunneling their way out while the old man teaches Edmund everything from the three R's to swordplay, not to mention the location of a fabulous treasure hidden on the island of Monte Cristo. When Edmund finally escapes, he meets and saves the life of a friendly pirate (Luis Guzmán), and the two discover the treasure. Using his newfound and unlimited wealth, he becomes the mysterious Count of Monte Cristo, and begins an elaborate plot to exact revenge against his enemies.

Besides the oversimplification of plot (and the dialogue, which suffers from a sort of dumbed-down quality and contains some blatant anachronisms), there are other discrepancies, like the complete absence of aging among characters in a 16-year story line. But thank goodness for Richard Harris. While the acting by Caviezel, Pearce, and Guzman is merely adequate, Harris, despite limited screen time, elevates this film's quality to a level better than merely the sum of its parts. ★★★★

SNOW DOGS

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:37 - Released 1/18/02

Snow Dogs is the latest low-budget, medium-quality, live-action Disney children's release to come out of the mouse pipe; it features a strangely mixed cast, with old veterans like James Coburn and Star Trek's Nichelle Nichols (who has played either herself or communications officer Nyota Uhura in nearly everything she's appeared in since 1966), newer faces like Cuba Gooding Jr., continuing his steady descent from talented Oscar-winning actor to Class-1A buffoon, and relative unknowns like the sexily innocent olive-skinned beauty Joanna Bacalso. A silly dogsledding comedy featuring Gooding's mugging, screaming, slapsticky antics stitched together with the requisite childlike attitudes about such things as life, love, and sex in the frozen North, the film features cute characterizations, cute doggies, and a cute ending manufactured to produce the kind of warm fuzzy feeling the folks at Disney do with such annoying regularity. Written by Jim Kouf (Operation Dumbo Drop), Tommy Swerdlow (Cool Runnings), and several others, "suggested" by Gary Paulsen's book Winterdance: The Fine Madness Of Running The Iditarod, and directed by Brian Levant of Beethoven and Flintstones fame, it is as fleeting and insubstantial as a snowflake, and about as much fun.

Operating on the classic fish-out-of-water theme, Snow Dogs introduces us to Miami dentist Ted Brooks (Gooding), who, upon learning he is the sole heir of a recently departed woman from the tiny town of Tolketna, Alaska, also learns from his mother (Nichols) that he's adopted. Stunned, he travels north to assess his inheritance, which consists of a small mountain cabin, some furniture, and a team of Alaskan husky sled dogs. While trying to decide what to do, he meets some of the town's regulars, like "Thunder Jack" (Coburn), a gruff and grizzled old musher, resident hottie Barb (Bacalso), who seems to be the only young woman in the town (wonder what her job is), and several quirky and questionable types with awful teeth played by the likes of Brian Doyle-Murray, M. Emmet Walsh, and Northern Exposure veteran Graham Greene. Feeling that he should give mushing the old college try, Ted spends some time being dragged through the snow by the overachieving dogs and laughed at by virtually all the townsfolk, although Barb does little to hide her attraction for the only man of color in her snow-white town. Finally, Ted decides to call it quits and head home, but some intriguing information about his parentage forces him to return and hit the dogsled trail again, with life-and-death implications.

This is one of those movies that makes you wish you were out playing in the snow rather than watching a movie. It's cute and funny in its way, simplistic, affable, and conveniently resolved, but ultimately better suited for Saturday TV—something to watch on a rainy winter afternoon when you really have nothing better to do. In other words, a typical live-action Disney release. ★★★

KUNG POW: ENTER THE FIST

If you've ever been a fan of Mystery Science Theater 3000 (or its precursor, the short-lived Mad Movies TV show), you might enjoy Kung Pow: Enter The Fist, the brainchild of wacky comedy writer Steve Oedekerk (Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls). Otherwise, don't waste your money. There's no doubt that watching a cheesy old movie, especially a cheesy old kung fu movie, and making fun of it, is for many an enjoyable activity. What Oedekerk doesn't realize is that watching someone else make fun of a cheesy old movie is tiresome and seldom funny. Starring Oedekerk, or rather his head digitally grafted onto the body of an unnamed Asian actor from Yu Wang's 1977 kick-and-punch-fest Tiger & Crane Fist (also called Savage Killers), Kung Pow follows that film through many of its melodramatic scenes, overdubbing the voices of Oedekerk and friends doing silly new dialogue which simultaneously bores the audience and disrespects the original film. The story they concoct is something about a martial arts master, called "The Chosen One," who spends his life on a quest to avenge the deaths of his parents, killed during his infancy by another martial arts master played earnestly by another Fist star. In the middle of this is a wise old master and his comely daughter, who attempt to help The Chosen One get the bad guy with disasterous consequences.

I haven't seen such self-amused trash since Freddy Got Fingered. There is occasionally a bit of original material thrown in, like the inclusion of former Miss Chinatown USA, Jennifer Tung, as a kind of wise oracle with shiny lipstick and one huge breast in the middle of her chest. Although she's featured in the trailer for the film, she barely has any more screen time than what you see in the commercial. And then there's the ninja cow that shoots milk from its udder while suspended in midair, Matrix-style. Gee, I wonder how many times we've seen that bit parodied so far.

Kung Pow is like sitting next to a 14-year-old who thinks he's the funniest person in the world, watching an already bad movie while he tries to make it worse with lame jokes. Unfortunately, Oedekerk succeeds. ★

On Dean's List

Gerry Selzer, registrar at Hesston College, Kan., announced this week that two local, full-time students have been named to the dean's list and honor roll.

Sophomore Todd Brenneman, Bittinger, is on the dean's list (3.9 to 4.0 grade point average). Brenneman is a member of Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

Freshman Shawn Bender, Accident, is on the honor roll (3.5 to 3.89 GPA). Bender is a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

State Announces New Statewide Internet Portal

T. Eloise Foster, secretary of Budget and Management, has announced the launch of Maryland.Gov, the new statewide Internet portal. The portal (www.maryland.gov) offers Maryland citizens and others centralized and universal access to public-sector information and on-line services. Information on Maryland.Gov is organized by topic, allowing fast, efficient access to everything users might want to know about Maryland, according to Foster.

"The Maryland portal demonstrates how technology can connect Marylanders with the information they need and promote the state's assets to those across the nation and the world," said Secretary Foster. "If you are on the Eastern Shore, in western Maryland, or in downtown Baltimore, Maryland government services are only a click away. And for those outside our state, once you have seen Maryland through our portal, you will see why we think that Maryland is the best place in America to live, work, and play."

Among its many distinct features, Maryland.Gov is first and foremost a citizen-centered web site, she said. Developers concentrated on providing visitors with streamlined and efficient navigation, information that is accessible without time consuming and expensive graphics, and an advanced search capability that is easy to use. The portal has direct links to On-line Services, current News and Alerts, and Quick Links to Events, Traffic, Weather, and Kids' Pages.

"Maryland.Gov provides citizens instant access to the information and services they desire, and moves the state toward its goal of offering 80% of government services on-line by 2004," said Liuda D. Burek, the state's chief information officer. "Great care was taken to develop a site that would be efficient and easy to use."

The Department of Budget and Management is responsible for managing the portal. Maryland partnered with Accenture to develop and maintain Maryland.Gov.

Maryland.Gov is being unveiled on the heels of the 2001 Digital State Survey, which ranks the state of Maryland fourth in the nation in providing on-line services to citizens and businesses. The survey focused on eight areas of digital technologies: Law Enforcement and the Courts, Social Services, Taxation and Revenue, Digital Democracy, Management/Administration, Education and GIS Transportation, and E-Commerce. Maryland captured the number one spot in the Electronic Commerce category with a score of 100%.

Local Residents Doing Missions Work Overseas

Jennifer Bender, daughter of Wes Bender of Seabrook and Isolde Bender of Grantsville, is on a six-member team to Southeast Asia. The program is administered by Rosedale Mennonite Missions, Irwin, Ohio, and provides opportunity for youth to receive discipleship training, followed by exposure and outreach in a cross-cultural setting.

Bender was in a program of discipleship training for three months in the inner city of Columbus, Ohio, and departed November 27 for Southeast Asia. She and two other women on the team share an apartment, while the three men on the team are living with separate host families. The team is building relationships across cultural and language barriers, and reportedly finds the local people to be hospitable and friendly. The team will remain in Southeast Asia until the end of May.

Bender is a 2000 graduate of Northern High School, and she attended Rosedale Bible College, Irwin, Ohio, in the 2000-2001 school year. She is a member of Oak Dale Mennonite Church, Salisbury, Pa.

Roger Beitzel, son of Marvin and Mary Beitzel of Grantsville, is on a five-member team to Ecuador. He was in the same discipleship training as that of Bender, and also departed November 27 for Ecuador. He lives with a local family and is serving at the Shekinah Foundation, a ministry that provides housing and vocational training for homeless Ecuadorian children. The team will be in Ecuador until early August.

Beitzel is a 1993 graduate of Northern High School and attended Rosedale Bible College in 1995. He was most recently employed by Appalachian Peasent Association in Oakland, caring for mentally and physically handicapped adults. He is a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

Alzheimer Group Slates Meeting

The Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, sponsors evening family/caregiver support group meetings in Garrett County. The group meets on the last Monday of every month, except December, from 7 until 9 p.m.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Feb. 25, at the Garrett County Health Department, 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland. Support group meetings are free of charge and open to the public.

In case of inclement weather, meeting cancellations will be announced on WFRB and WKHJ.

For more information about the group, persons may contact Donna McClintock at 301-334-7740. Information about other services is also available through the Western Maryland Chapter at 1-800-696-6830 or at www.alzwmd.org.

To Attend Young Leaders Event In Nation's Capital

Rachel Bruch of Grantsville has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference (NYLC), set for Feb. 5-10 in Washington, D.C. The NYLC is a leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Bruch will be among the 350 youth scholars from around the country taking part in the conference.

With the theme of "Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today," Bruch and her fellow NYLC participants will interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media, and the diplomatic corps. Highlights of the program include welcoming remarks from the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Bruch will also meet with a senator, representative, or an appointed member of their staff to discuss important issues facing the nation.

To complement the schedule of special meetings and briefings, Bruch will also participate in a number of leadership skill-building activities, including "If I Were President," a roleplaying activity that assigns students to the roles of president and cabinet members responding to an international crisis. "Testing the Constitution," a judicial simulation, provides hands-on experience as students conduct an in-depth examination of an actual Supreme Court case. The NYLC culminates with the Model Congress, during which scholars assume the roles of U.S. representatives and debate, amend, and vote on proposed legislation.

A senior at Northern High School, Bruch serves as historian and class representative on the NHS Student Council and as secretary of the Girls' Varsity Club. She is a member of the National Honor Society, was an honorable mention recipient in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar program, and is a Who's Who Among American High School Students nominee. The Northern girls' varsity soccer and tennis player was a soccer team captain this past season, and has earned several team awards, including the Huskies' Best Defensive Player in 2000 honor.

Bruch is the daughter of Larry Bruch and Robin Storms.

Bilberry Leaf May Help Diabetes

The bilberry (also called bogberry) is a black, wrinkled fruit that comes from a plant in the same family as the plant that produces blueberries. According to The Review of Natural Drug Products, it was a common practice for World War II British pilots to eat bilberry preserves to improve their night vision. After the war, studies were conducted that confirmed the effectiveness of bilberries to improve visual acuity and facilitate faster visual adjustments between light and darkness.

There is an increasing use of the bilberry leaf in persons with diabetes mellitus. The leaf contains high levels of chromium, a mineral that helps maintain appropriate blood glucose (sugar levels). In addition, the leaf appears to improve the ulcerative dermatitis - a skin condition that may occur in persons with diabetes due to lack of movement in the lower limbs. A significant improvement has been observed in individuals who took products containing bilberry leaf. Studies have demonstrated that capillary fragility (leakage from small blood vessel) due to diabetes or other conditions is benefited from the use of bilberry.

"Uh-oh guys, here comes that "human" again. It must be feeding time. She seems OK, but you never know. Let's hide under the lily pad until the coast is clear. We'll feel safe there."

In today's uncertain society, people have learned to be more cautious, especially of those who offer us the world. Anxiety and hidden agendas dot our social landscape—who can we trust to tell us the truth? Where are we really safe? We cannot and should not live in fear.

We need not live in fear. In Luke 12:1-3 our Lord warned, "Be on your guard against hypocrisy... there is nothing concealed that will not be disclosed, or hidden that will not be made known." God knows our concerns today. In verse 7... "Indeed the very hairs of your head are all numbered." What a friend and protector we have in our Lord.

Find your protection in God's house each week as you study His Word and rest your fears in the strength of unfailing wisdom.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

RUNNING ON 'EMPTY'

February 3, 2002

Background Scripture:
Ruth 1.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 8.

I realize that you may have little, if any, idea of who or what a Moabite is and therefore think that the story of Ruth, the Moabitess, is something quite foreign to your own situation in life. Actually, no one knows the derivation of the terms "Moab" and "Moabite," but the problem is easily solved if you read outsider for "Moabite." Many of us know what it is to be an 'outsider' or to have to deal with them.

The book of Ruth is not so much about "Moabites" as it is about "outsiders." Ruth was a woman of Moab, just one of a number of Israel's neighbors. The relationships with these neighbors was almost always one of suspicion, hostility and often aggression.

Some of this hostility had to do with the fact that Israel worshipped Yahweh, while her neighbors worshipped a host of pagan deities—in Moab it was Chemosh and Ashtor-chemosh, as well as crude fertility gods and goddesses. Israel held them in disdain because the first Moabite was believed to be the fruit of an incestuous relationship between Lot, the nephew of Abraham, and Lot's own daughter.

Resident Aliens

So, it is ironic that, an Israelite, Elimelech, went to Moab with his wife, Naomi, to live there as resident aliens. Why? Verse 6 implies that Israel experienced a considerable famine. Whereas Elimelech's home, Bethlehem, was on the west side of the Dead Sea, the land of Moab was on the eastern shore of it, a well-watered and fertile highlands. Elimelech must have been driven to Moab by dire economic need. While in Moab, Elimelech and Naomi had two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, who, sometime after the death of their father, married two Moabite girls, Ruth and Orpah.

The Book of Ruth opens with Naomi newly bereft of her sons. In five short verses we see a significant change in Naomi. Her name in Hebrew means "my pleasantness" and, given the devotion of her two Moabitess daughters-in-law, we may assume that her name was indicative of her personality. But, now, an outsider in a traditionally unfriendly land, having lost her husband and her two sons, Naomi is bitter—and how could we blame her? First, famine drove her from her homeland to become a sojourner in a traditionally unfriendly land. Then, she lost her husband and her two sons.

Having learned that conditions in Israel were now improved, Naomi determined to return to Bethlehem and, when Ruth and Orpah insist that they accompany her, she says bitterly "Turn back, my daughters, why will you go with me? Have I yet sons in my womb that they may become your husbands?" (1:11) Her words contrast sharply with the affectionate responses and sense of responsibility with which Orpah and Ruth respond. They were from Moab, but they were nevertheless good persons.

A Stranger In Bethlehem

Eventually, Orpah does return to her parental home in Moab, but Ruth refuses to be dissuaded and accompanies Naomi to her ancestral home. Now the roles are reversed because, while Naomi was an Israelite sojourner in Moab, now it will be her Moabitess daughter-in-law, Ruth, who will be the stranger in Bethlehem. Naomi was instantly recognized by her Bethlehem friends and neighbors. "Is this Naomi?" they ask.

But she sets them straight "Do not call me Naomi, call me Mara ("bitter"), for the Almighty had dealt very bitterly with me. I went away full and the Lord has brought me back empty" (1:20,21) While we can understand the emotions behind this bitter outburst, we know that Naomi is wrong. She has not returned empty to Bethlehem. With loyal and loving Ruth, Naomi is not and will not be empty.'

Many of us, perhaps, like Naomi, have suffered one reverse or loss after another and come to the conclusion that God has made us or allowed us to become 'empty.' Often, it is only then, that we discover that He has not left us empty but with a fullness that only grace can deliver and faith can receive.

On Dean's List

Kellie Gank, Hutton, has been named to the dean's list at Fairmont State College for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester. She is majoring in graphic design.

To be eligible for the dean's list at FSC, a student must be a full-time student and attain a semester grade point average of 3.4 or better on a 4.0 scale.

Miss Fire Safety Contest Slated

The Fire Prevention Committee of the Allegany, Garrett Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association announced this week that it is seeking single contestants between the ages of 16 and 24 to vie for the title of Miss Fire Prevention. The contest will be held in April, with the winner representing both counties.

Contestants need not be associated with an individual fire company or auxiliary to apply, but must obtain sponsorship from a fire/rescue company or auxiliary within the two-county area. Competition will be based on knowledge of fire prevention and safety techniques.

Interested persons must complete an application by Friday, March 15. Contest rules, along with an application and a sampling of contest questions, may be obtained by contacting Pat Bowser at 301-746-5576 or Anna May Porta at 301-478-2208.

RIF WINNERS NAMED — The winners of Dennett Road Elementary School's "Reading Is Fundamental" (RIF) poster contest were recently named. The students expressed their imaginative ideas about reading and books through this competition. The overall winner was fourth grader Rachel Flinn. Her poster, titled "Adventures In Reading," used a jungle theme. All 348 students participated in the contest. Rachel's poster will be sent to the national RIF headquarters in Washington, D.C., and a national winner will be chosen in March. She received a $30 gift certificate from the Book Mark'et. The eight first place winners received $10 gift certificates from the Book Mark'et, and the 14 runners-up received RIF books. The first place and runner-up winners are as follows: special education, B.J. Burns; pre-kindergarten, Robbie Browning and Lorianne Kestner; kindergarten, Katharine Drennon and Alex Anderson; first grade, Montana Moats, Taylor Germain, and Sophie Schwab; second grade, Elizabeth Sines, Ashley Wolfe, and Abigail SanJulian; third grade, Caitlin Simpson, Jordyn Livengood, Chloe Anderson, and Katie Anderson; fourth grade, Rachel Flinn, Jeremy Sharpless, and Nick Sharps; and fifth grade, Kelsie Sanders, Morgan Anderson, and Stephanie Dixon. Pictured above, from the left, are Gary Galloway, principal; Jesnine Sisler, Blair Glass, and Judy Devlin, judges; and Rachel Flinn, with her winning poster. Not present for the photo was Belinda Messenger, RIF coordinator.

Driving With Alzheimer's Is Brochure Topic

"Is It Time to Stop Driving?" a new brochure available from the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association, offers guidelines to establish whether it may be time for an individual with Alzheimer's to stop or limit driving, plus steps to take to implement that decision. The succinct brochure imparts information specifically for family members and physicians.

"Driving is a complex activity that requires quick thinking and reactions, good perceptual abilities, and split-second decision-making," an Alzheimer's Association spokesperson said. "People with Alzheimer's disease who continue to drive can be a danger to themselves and their passengers, and can also pose a threat to unsuspecting fellow drivers. An individual's ability to drive can change from day to day when Alzheimer's strikes."

The free brochure is available by contacting the Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, by phone at 1-800-696-6830 or via e-mail at alzwmd@aol.com For additional information about Alzheimer's disease and related disorders, or the services and programs provided by the area chapter, persons may consult the web site www.alzwmd.org.

Diabetes Group Slates Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Diabetes Support Group will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 6:30 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland.

The speaker for this month will be Ann Sherrard, Garrett County Extension educator. Sherrard has take numerous classes on diabetes education and will be available to answer questions.

"One of the goals of the group is to bring a diabetes educator to Garrett County," said Kathy Skipper, spokesperson for the group.

The group meets the second Tuesday of each month and is open to the public.

4-H Club News

NORTH STAR
Ariana Wilt, reporter

North Star 4-H held its first meeting of the year earlier this month at the Accident fire hall. John Cosner led the Pledge of Allegiance, and the 4-H Pledge was led by Duane Rice.

Darlene Schmidt presented the educational program, during which she noted that there are 6.8 million 4-H participants in the United States. The club study was "What do you want to get out of 4-H?" and "What are we going to give back to 4-H?" The role call question was "What is our favorite thing about winter?"

A 4-H officers' meeting was held recently at Northern Middle School, under the direction of Ann Sherrard of the Garrett County Extension Office. Darlene Schmidt, Rachel Schmidt, Ariana Wilt, and Helaina and Jennifer LaMastus represented the North Star 4-H Club.

The craft leaders for 2002 are Nancy Savage and Connie LaMastus. Serving on the bylaws committee are Darlene Schmidt and Lloyd LaMastus. The activity leaders are Bonnie and George Haenftling, Angie LaMastus, Ariana Wilt, Helaina LaMastus, and Kevin Haenftling. The fund-raising committee members are Connie LaMastus, Angie LaMastus, John Cosner, Rachel Schmidt, Ariana Wilt, Lloyd LaMastus, Timmy House, and Danita Paugh.

A sled riding party is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 16, at Darlene Schmidt's house. The alternative date is Friday, Feb. 22.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

This coming Sunday, Emmanuel Lutheran Parish will hold a potluck supper from 2:30 to 4 p.m. and will honor Sharon Lowery for her giving 25 years of service as secretary to the parish. Bring dishes to share and dessert and beverage will be provided. The time will allow those who don't want to miss the Super Bowl to get home in time for the start of the game. Sharon is retiring and the new secretary will be Chris Walter. If you have any parish concerns or wish to have items put in the newsletter or Sunday bulletins, the number at the church office is 301-245-4202. Pastor Pat's home number is 301-245-4776.

It is a big job getting out the weekly bulletins and the monthly newsletter. When I was young, my mother and Harriett Buckel spent part of Saturday every week doing the bulletins. Instead of the modern copying machine, they had to type them and then run them off on an old mimeograph machine. Sometimes there were problems with smeared ink or sometimes not enough ink on the roller. Sometimes their children lent a hand to the task of folding, etc. Of course, we also just had a good time playing with our cousins. I seem to remember the times helping to fold the bulletins on Saturday evenings. I don't know if we have one at Emmanuel or not, but know there is now an automatic folding machine available. In the old days we used bulletins from the LCA with full color art on the front. Now it is just black and white, or actually we use pale blue paper, so I guess it could be called black and blue.

According to my source from the Dung Hill area, Rosella Niner, Bethesda Brethren Church will have a special service on Sunday, Feb. 10, featuring some bluegrass/country gospel music, performed by Ron Haha (no joke) of Dung Hill and Jim Sechls of Meyersdale, Pa. The service will be followed with a covered dish lunch. Everyone is welcome.

A Shrove Tuesday pancake supper will be held at the Bittinger fire hall on February 12, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Menu will be pancakes, mixed fruit, coffee and juice. A goodwill offering will be accepted. Donations will also be gladly accepted. Needed items are pancake mix, butter or margarine, syrup, milk, eggs, juice. If yon are shopping for a church in the Bittinger area, check out the cooking skills of the women of Emmanuel and a few male cooks, such as the notable Rob Vagneti for his famous chili recipe.

A few months ago I mentioned in this column that Rosella Niner's grandson lost his small black pony and I asked her if it had been found yet. She said no, and said that she is sure that someone has stolen it. I am pretty sure that it is not in the Bittinger area, as I always notice ponies in any fields that I happen to pass. I keep my eyes peeled for any small black pony. Can't imagine someone low enough to steal a little pony that belongs to a small child!

Unfortunately, I have heard that horse and pony thefts have become big business recently. I am sorry to say that they are used to meet the meat demand in Europe in the wake of the mad cow and foot-and-mouth diseases. A more pleasant theory that I heard is that long ago a band of wild ponies lived in the wild country around Dung Hill. I never saw them or know anyone who actually did see them. I don't know if it is a rural version of the urban legend of crocodiles living in the sewers of New York.

I hope that the little black pony just took a vacation and is running wild for a spell. Maybe he will decide that it is more fun to live in a barn and have a little boy to love him than to run wild, and maybe he will appear at home soon.

Since I had a love song written about me by an old friend who lived on Dung Hill Road and named "On Dung Hill," I always enjoy driving on that road, and the scenery is great, too. I don't know why the Accident end of that road is named Bowman Hill Road, whereas the Bittinger end is named Dung Hill. Is it because the Bittinger folks are less prim and proper than the Accident people? I never have an explanation for that strange name.

I was saddened to hear of the death of Rick Buckel, who was just in his mid-50s. Rick lived in New Market. Like many in that town he was in the antique business. When I was a horse crazy young girl, Rick took me on a ride on his big chestnut horse at the fair. It was a big thrill to go fast around the race track on a big horse held safely by a nice, strong young man. I think he was my second cousin. Of course, who isn't my second cousin around here? Maybe that is a little exaggerated, but in the Bittinger area there are Cindy Stanton, Sally Poholsky, Vicki Teets Taliaferro, Nancy Garlitz, Judy Simpson, Denny Buckel, Sheila Southerly, many Brennemans, and many more. I wouldn't be surprised to learn that Rodney's and Cindy's first grade teacher, Mrs. Dean, will turn 100 years old on Rodney's birthday this year. I think she was about 55 when she was their teacher.

Next month will involve some big birthdays for a couple residents in the Rock Lodge Road area. My brother, Rodney Glotfelty, and Cindy Stanton will reach the BIG 5-0. That seems impossible, but its just the cruel facts. Ruth DiPaolo will have another February birthday boy: Her son Barry will turn 43. Barry and my mother attended the Maryland Terps and Florida State basketball game at Cole Field House on Saturday. I was not surprised that the Terps beat Florida State by about 20 points. Cole Field House was filled to the brim, which was not unexpected, as the fans want a chance to enjoy games played there for one last season. Cole Field House was the home of many glorious moments in basketball.

In spite of a lovely spread of refreshments after Sunday worship service at Emmanuel to celebrate the birthdays and anniversaries in January, most football fans didn't hang around too long, as they were in a hurry to see the kickoff for the AFC championship game. Of course, it turned out that the Steeler fans didn't have any fun watching that game. We still love the Steelers and the Penguins. No one is more excited about them than Torrey Poholsky, who is the biggest Penguin fan around Bittinger.

A final birthday party for Meredith was hosted by the Diehlman family. They were out of town during Mere's birthday, busy putting a new bathroom in for his father. By the way, for anyone around here who needs a plumber, Steve has now started his own plumbing business. You can reach him at 301-245-4778.

Patty was expecting her mother and father last weekend, but they had to take a side trip to Elkins, W.Va., and then got into a nasty accident where their mini-van was hit by a car that ran a red light. Their van rolled over several times, but fortunately they were not hurt. They are now safe and sound at home in Towson. My girls and their cousin Emma enjoyed the company of their friends, Hannah, Gretel, and little Claire. They certainly are missed when they are away. When they are at home on Peat Moss Road they are either visiting with them, on the phone, or e-mailing them.

Thank goodness my girls have finished the big January job of completing their 4-H record books. This year it seemed less stressful, so they do learn something from it. Meredith grumbled about it. "I don't see why we have to do record books because we don't learn anything from it" she said. "Oh yes, you do." You learn how to keep records for future use and meet deadlines, how to finish a job that you don't want to do. And what a treasure it is to have a fat record book filled with pictures, your story of every year between the ages of 9 and 19. Mine turned out to be a state winner in the horse project, which garnered me a free trip to Chicago to the National 4-H Congress.

Bob and Linda Hewitt have traveled to Glen Burnie for the funeral of Jack Day, husband of Irene Beitzel Day.

LIONS HEAR DIABETES TIPS — Beverly Carvell, nutrition education specialist with the Garrett County Extension Office presented a program on diabetes at a recent meeting of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. Carvell explained the causes, and described the symptoms, of Type I and Type II diabetes and emphasized the importance of diet, exercise, and foot care in managing the disease. "Although there is no cure for diabetes, there are ways to control it," she told the gathering. Assistance is available at the free meetings of the local diabetes support group, which meets the second Tuesday evening of each month at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. The diabetes support group is working through educating the public, private organizations, and insurance companies, along with lobbying legislators, in an attempt to acquire a certified diabetes educator for the county. Shown above, Lion first vice president Luther Parrack, left, presents Carvell a certificate of appreciation as president Robert Stocksieger observes.

Democrats Give Themselves Edge In New Congressional Dist. Map

by Kelley Benham and Candia Dames
Capital News Service

Democrats would gain an edge under a new congressional district map unveiled last week by Gov. Parris Glendening, potentially picking up two seats if historic voting patterns continue.

"This would be more reflective of Maryland's democratic voting patterns," said Glendening spokesman Mike Morrill. "Each race has its own dynamics, though."

The state's eight House seats are currently divided evenly between republicans and democrats. A five-member commission approved the plan 4-1 Wednesday and sent it to Glendening, who asked the state's congressmen for comment by early this week. He could send a final proposal to the General Assembly for approval as early as tomorrow.

The proposed map redraws 1st District boundaries to include republican representatives Robert Ehrlich of Timonium and Wayne Gilchrest of Kennedyville. That leaves Ehrlich's 2nd District seat open and shifts the district democratic, making it easier for term-limited Baltimore County Executive C. A. Dutch Ruppersberger to take the open seat.

Ehrlich could not be reached for comment last week. An aide said Gilchrest would not comment until he has had a chance to study the plan.

The new map also splits the Montgomery County base of Rep. Connie Morella, R-Bethesda, between three districts. Her 8th District would be pushed toward the bottom of the county, while northern Montgomery would be divided between the 4th and 6th districts. An aide said Morella was disappointed that the county was split in three.

"She wanted to keep Montgomery County as whole and intact as possible so its power and influence was not diluted," Jonathan Dean said. "It's pretty clear the intent was to increase the number of democrats in her district."

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller and House Speaker Casper Taylor both said Thursday that the redistricting would make it harder for Morella to hold her seat. But Morella is confident her record of support for issues that Montgomery and Prince George's County residents care about will ensure her success in the new 8th district, Dean said. The current district leans democratic, but Morella has held the seat since 1987, winning her last election with 52 percent of the vote.

Dean also noted that the current plan would force Morella's challengers into a long and expensive primary campaign. Miller wanted to split the district so that Delegate Mark Shriver and Sen. Christopher Van Hollen Jr., both Montgomery democrats, could run in separate districts. The plan released Thursday keeps Shriver and Van Hollen in the same district.

Other democrats were expressing concerns about

Murphy alumnus now stars on Reba

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Christopher Rich

Q: Whatever happened to the boy who played Richie on The Dick Van Dyke Show? I think he is the same actor who plays the ex-husband on Reba. Am I right? –Brenda C. via e-mail.

A: No. Playing the son of Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore on that vintage sitcom was the only acting job Larry Mathews ever did. After the run of The Dick Van Dyke Show, he went back to using his birth name, Larry Mazzeo. Now 46, he works as a stagehand and painter with the International Alliance of Theater & Stage Employees (IATSE).

That is Murphy Brown veteran Christopher Rich, 48, playing philandering dentist Brock Hart on Reba.

Q: A number of years ago there was a police show built around a female detective and the internal affairs departments of a police precinct. Who was the statuesque blonde in the lead role? Her character apparently was fatally shot when the show abruptly left the air. –John T. Collins, Linthicum, Md.

A: John, it sounds as if you are thinking of Under Suspicion, a critically acclaimed CBS police drama that aired during the 1994-95 season, with Karen Sillas starring as Detective Rose "Phil" Phillips.

Q: What is the name of the song in the public service announcement for the United States mail carriers currently running on TV? The singer sounds like Carly Simon. –Bob Phillips, Branchport, N.Y.

A: That stirring anthem is "Let the River Run," the Oscar-winning song Simon wrote and performed for the 1988 movie comedy Working Girl. It's featured on the movie soundtrack.

Q: Whatever happened to Aileen Quinn from the 1982 movie musical Annie? And did the actor who played Ed Masry in Erin Brockovich also play Daddy Warbucks in that Annie? –V.L. Archuleta, Colorado Springs, Co.

A: Quinn, now 30, took several years off to complete her education, earning an honors degree in Spanish from Drew University. She spent six months living with a family in Chile on a college exchange program and also studied Japanese.

Starting in the mid-'90s, the actress began a return to theater in such stage musicals as Oliver!, Fiddler on the Roof and the Cathy Rigby version of Peter Pan. Most recently, Quinn co-starred as Annette in the Broadway adaptation of Saturday Night Fever.

Yes, Quinn's on-screen Daddy Warbucks was played by Albert Finney, an Oscar nominee for his performance as Ed Masry in Erin Brockovich.

CONGRATULATIONS ABOUND

Congratulations to the NHS Cheer Team for taking first place in the state competition on Saturday, Jan. 19. The girls will advance to the "Reach the Beach" national finals in Atlantic City, N.J., on Saturday, Feb. 16.

The cheerleaders are selling hoagies to help fund their trip. The cost is $3.75 each and the delivery date is Thursday, Feb. 7. If you would like to help the NHS Cheer Team go to Atlantic City, buy a hoagie from a cheer team member, or send a donation of any size to:

Lisa Carr, c/o NHS Cheer Team
86 Pride Parkway
Accident, MD 21520

Thank you for your support.

The Husky wrestlers participated in the Thomas Chevrolet Tournament in Bedford, Pa., over the weekend. As a team the Huskies finished 18th out of 23 teams. Individually, three Huskies "placed": Trey Brenneman — first; Darric Kamp — sixth; and Kris Knox — eighth. The Huskies were scheduled to wrestle last night at Westmar (see sports pages.)

The Mock Trial blue team achieved a win in its first trial of the year last Wednesday, Jan. 23, against the Allegany junior varsity. The Mock Trial gold team had a loss.

ATTENDANCE

Students are reminded that loss of credit because of attendance may be appealed. Parents/guardians should address their appeal to the NHS Attendance Committee promptly.

READ TO SKI

Free Wisp ski passes are available. All you have to do is read a book and write a short report. Students should see their homeroom teacher for details.

BENEFIT BAKE SALE

A benefit bake sale was held for Barbie Garde and her family on Wednesday, Jan. 23, during club period. The bake sale items were brought to each club, and the sale was orchestrated by Mrs. Barb Law.

SUMMER JOBS AT THE BEACH

The Ocean City Chamber of Commerce has scheduled its 17th annual Job Fair for Saturday, Feb. 23, at the Ocean City Convention Center. Employers in Ocean City will be hiring over 12,000 seasonal workers for the upcoming summer season. For further information, stop by the Counseling Center.

SENIOR NOTES

Get your baby pictures to the yearbook staff by Friday, Feb. 15. They can be dropped off in Mrs. Lewis's room (216).

GUARANTEED ACCESS GRANT

Applications were recently received in the Counseling Center for the Guaranteed Access Grant. This is a state grant that helps to pay tuition at a Maryland college or university for full-time study. To be eligible for this grant, students must have a minimum of a cumulative 2.5 GPA (approx. 80%) in grades 9 through the first semester of grade 12, complete college prep or career tech program in high school, and have a total family annual income that qualifies under the guidelines. The family income requirements are printed on the application. This is an excellent grant that seniors are highly encouraged to consider. The priority application deadline is Friday, March 1.

MARYLAND HOPE SCHOLARSHIP

Applications are available in the Counseling Center for the Maryland Hope Scholarship Program. There are three different awards in this program that are open to high school seniors: the Maryland Teacher Scholarship, the Science and Technology Scholarship, and the General Hope Scholarship. All three scholarships require that students attend a Maryland college or university and work one year in Maryland for each year that they receive the award. Applicants must have a minimum, cumulative unweighted 3.0 GPA (approx. 85%) in core academic classes (includes English, math, science, social studies, foreign language, and computer science). The award amount is $3,000/year for full-time study at a four-year college and $1,000/year for full-time study at a community college.

ATTENTION JUNIORS — IMPORTANT ECAP INFO

Juniors who are considering participating in next year's Early College Admissions Program at Garrett Community College are encouraged to pick up a GCC Scholarship Foundation booklet in the Counseling Center. ECCAP applicants may apply for the James Nordeck Memorial Scholarship, and be screened for other GCC scholarships, by completing the application in the booklet. The deadline to apply for the scholarships is Friday, March 1.

COLDWELL BANKER HELPS SALEM'S TRUST — Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, McHenry, recently participated as a bronze corporate sponsor in the Maryland Salem Children's Trust's Outapokin' for Maryland's Kids Campaign 2001. Pictured with Louise Richards, executive director at Salem, is Ruth Selb, on the left, manager at Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. Individuals, churches, civic groups, and businesses lent to the campaign's success and helped Salem to reach its fund-raising goal of $25,000, which helps children find a loving home, acceptance, and therapeutic and educational resources at Salem. For more information about Salem's program, persons may call 301-689-8176.

the plan Thursday. Rep. Benjamin Cardin, D-Baltimore, said he has "grave concerns" about changes to his 3rd District, currently a horseshoe-shaped district that would be stretched to the point of breaking in northwest Baltimore. Cardin's district would also sag southward, gaining voters in northern Anne Arundel County and western Howard County.

Cardin estimated the plan would change more than 60 percent of his district. "It appears that this is the highest percentage change for any incumbent member of Congress in the nation," he said in a prepared statement. "I will be working aggressively for modification that will help preserve consistent representation for neighborhoods and constituencies within the 3rd Congressional District."

Meanwhile, Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Frederick, saw his conservative Western Maryland district become even more conservative under the plan. The new 6th District adds the northern halves of Baltimore and Harford counties, as well as scraps of northern Montgomery and Howard counties, while losing a good chunk of generally liberal Howard County.

"Under the proposed map, it will be a welcome back for some residents of northern Montgomery County who were part of the 6th District in the 1980s," Bartlett said.

The 4th District, represented by Rep. Albert Wynn, D-Largo, will stretch into northern Montgomery County, weakening but retaining an African-American majority. The 7th District, held by Rep. Elijah Cummings, D-Baltimore, retains its Baltimore base, but swings its western arm down from Baltimore County and into Howard.

The 5th District of Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, changed little. Cummings, Hoyer and Wynn were unavailable for comment Thursday.

Maryland's population in the 2000 Census was 5,296,486, making the ideal congressional district population 662,061.

Taylor has said that significant changes are unlikely once the plan is submitted to the General Assembly.

Three Injured In Two-Vehicle Accident Monday

Three people were treated for injuries after they were involved in a two-vehicle accident Monday around 4:20 p.m., according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Alden Perando, 58, Oakland, was traveling north on Broadford Road and collided with a vehicle driven by Betty Stewart, 61, Oakland.

Both drivers and a passenger in Perando's vehicle, Catherine Reckart, 44, Oakland, were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated for injuries.

Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. The accident is still under investigation, and charges may be pending, police said.

Senior Reps On SHS Student Council Named

SHS NAMES SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL — The 2001-2002 student council senior representatives for Southern High School were recently announced. They are, in the front row, from the left, Megan Burner and Molly Thayer. In the back row are Brian Fike, Merla Watkins, and alternate Dan Cathell. See story for more details.

The 2001-2002 student council senior representatives for Southern High School, which were elected by this year's senior class last May, are Brian Fike, Marla Watkins, Megan Burner, Molly Thayer, and alternate Dan Cathell.

Brian Fike is the son of Jeff and Pam Fike of Oakland. Fike is a varsity member of the soccer team and is the president of the National Honor Society. He is also an honoree of the Who's Who Among Distinguished Maryland Scholars. Fike plans to attend a four-year college and major in computer science.

Marla Watkins is the daughter of Mark and Evi Watkins of Oakland. She is a member of the tennis team, is a peer mediator, and is the photographer for the yearbook. Watkins is an active member of the Pleasant View Baptist Church Youth Group and serves on its puppet team. Watkins also attended the Gettysburg Yearbook Experience. Watkins plans to go to college but is still undecided where.

Megan Burner is the daughter of Ron and Brenda Burner, Oakland. She is a three-time recipient of the Who's Who Among American High School Students and is a student representative on Southern High School's Accreditation for Growth Planning Team. Burner is a member of the girls' soccer, basketball, and softball teams. She received awards her freshman and sophomore year for Best Midfield Player and for Best Player her junior year. Burner is also an honor roll student. She is a youth soccer referee, a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church, and is the head altar server. Burner plans to attend either Western Maryland College or Frostburg State University and major in elementary education.

Molly Thayer is the daughter of Vivian and Stuart Thayer of Oakland. Thayer is a member of Southern High School's School Improvement Team and a member of the National Honor Society. She is a distinguished honor roll student and is a recipient of the Who's Who Among American High School Students. Thayer is a United States Dressage Federation member and a member of the Pleasant View Baptist Church Youth Group, plus a Children's Church volunteer. Thayer plans to attend a four-year college and major in biology.

Dan Cathell is the son of Carl and Kayla Cathell, Oakland. He is a member of the National Honor Society and is a peer counselor. Cathell took part in the National Youth Leadership Forum for Defense, Intelligence and Diplomacy, the Tri-State Math Competition, and the Westvaco University of Maine Engineering Conference. He received the Woodmen of the World U.S. History Award, the Who's Who Among American High School Students Award, and the State of Maryland Sportsmanship Award. Cathell is also a distinguished honor roll student. He plans to attend an engineering college and one day be a pilot.

Maryland Ranks Eighth Nationwide In Allotments For Poor Children

by Michelle Krupa
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Maryland received $1,933 per poor child in federal welfare dollars last year, the eighth-highest allocation rate in the country, according to a recent study. Only a few states and the District of Columbia collected more relative to their population of needy kids than Maryland, the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities reported last week.

Alaska, Connecticut, and Vermont topped the list, at roughly $2,400 per child. At the bottom of the roster were Alabama, Arkansas, and Texas, which got less than $375 per poor child, about one-fifth of Maryland's allowance, in fiscal 2001. Virginia ranked 43rd, with $729 per child.

But while the study compared funding available to states, it did not measure how well the money was spent — or even how many dollars went directly to poor kids. And child welfare advocates said Maryland, despite its wealth, still has a lot to do.

"If we're such a rich state, I don't know that that degree of advantage is reflected in our cash assistance programs for low-income children,' said Steve Hill, director of the Maryland Budget and Tax Policy Institute. "On the one hand, we have a lot of money per child. On the other hand, some of our policy choices don't reflect that."

State officials said Maryland is well-off, but maybe not as much as the report suggests. Maryland fares well because it has far fewer children living below the federal poverty level — the standard used in the study — than elsewhere in the country, said Richard Larson, policy and research director at the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

"Maryland has the second-lowest child-poverty rate in the country," Larson said. "Compared to population, we have relatively few children in poverty. That's why the numbers look good."

Maryland also gets a hefty federal block grant — about $230 million a year — through the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) program. Its share is greater than many states' because 1996 welfare reform laws gave more cash to states like Maryland that had generously allotted local dollars to cash assistance programs in the mid-1990s.

Not all that money goes directly to poor kids or their families in the form of cash assistance. The block grant is also used for child-care and job-training programs and other initiatives that support working families.

Lynda Meade, director of social concerns for Catholic Charities in Baltimore, said resting on the laurels of a high TANF allocation rate will not help the state's poor.

"I know that Maryland has put a lot of money into support services like child care and after-school programs, but I would simply say that there are still a lot of poor children," Meade said.

Hill added that some state welfare policies are simply not very generous. For instance, only the poorest families can qualify for welfare and other benefits because of extremely low income requirements, he said. Families hovering near the poverty line lack the support they need to build financial security. Meanwhile, a restriction that puts child-support payments for children on welfare into state coffers means less money goes to directly help poor kids, Hill said.

Hill noted that some Maryland policies do aid the poor — including the refundable earned-income credit program for low-income families and the extension of welfare benefits past the 60-month federal time limit.

Maryland has used some of its TANF funds to support the increasing number of families dropping off welfare rolls and going to work, Larson said. Money has gone to funding after-school programs as well as initiatives that aim to prevent teen pregnancy and out-of-wedlock births and to promote two-parent families.

Larson said the state has the luxury of spreading money "into other things" because sharply falling welfare caseloads mean it does not have to spend so much money on cash assistance.

"We've been able to reinvest the money we spent on old programs in services so that people who are on welfare with children can go to work," he said.

As Congress debates the re-authorization of welfare reform laws this year, it will have to decide whether to even the level of federal support between states like Texas and Maryland, said Sharon Parrott, a policy analyst at the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities and one of the report's authors.

"You could do a Robin Hood — take from the rich states and give to the poor ones — but nobody thinks that's a good idea," Parrott said. "[Congress is] not going help by taking money from the New Yorks and the Marylands and Connecticuts and reducing their block grants at all.

"The states at the very bottom . . . really need some more funds to bump them up," she said.

Maryland officials hope Congress will continue to allow states flexibility when handling TANF funds and adjust the block grant for inflation so funding levels keep up with the cost of living, Larson said.

Registration Still Available For Live Simulcast

Registration is still open for participation in Bethel United Methodist Church's "Enlarge My Territory" live simulcast. The event will be held on Saturday, Feb. 9, at Broad Ford Elementary School cafeteria, Oakland, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Bruce Wilkinson, author of The Prayer of Jabez and Secrets of the Vine, and Rick Warren, author of The Purpose Driven Church, will be the hosts for the event.

The registration fee for the simulcast is $25, which includes a four-color workbook and a full day's teaching. Checks should be made payable to Bethel United Methodist Church.

For more information or to register for the simulcast, persons may contact Angie Teagarden at 301-533-1036 or Pastor Mark Hickman at 301-334-4488.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a stereo viewer that was purchased in about 1910 by a distant relative. In addition to the viewer, there are dozens of picture cards depicting scenes in both New York City and California. I find the viewer fascinating and would like to know more about them. — Steve in Atlanta

A. Stereoptican viewers were a source of wonder and entertainment throughout the Victorian era. When seen through the viewer, the scenes appeared to have a depth suggesting what later became known as 3-D. The viewer cards reflected a variety of subject matter, including street scenes of major American cities, famous landmarks and tourist attractions.

Some of the more popular cards were marketed in deluxe boxed sets. Three sets offered by Keystone included images of the Grand Canyon, the San Francisco Earthquake of 1906 and battlefields of the Civil War.

The recent interest in vintage photography has created a growing demand for the stereo or 3-D cards. Collectors are focusing on many of the more historic images, and that has bumped up prices dramatically.

For example, recent prices of stereo cards have included an image of the White House, circa 1880 ($45); Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet ($40); New York City bicyclists in 1905 ($60); and several dramatic poses of stage actress Lillian Russell ($175). These prices reflect a hefty 30 percent increase just in the past year.

Although the value of viewer cards is soaring, the price of the viewer has remained stable. A nice stereoptican viewer can be found in many shops for about $75.

The National Stereoscopic Association, a nonprofit organization for collectors, can provide information about trends and why certain cards are more valuable than others. Its address is P.O. Box 14801, Columbus, OH 43214.

Cat's Puzzling Behavior

Q. I have a male cat, age 9. Two months ago he started attacking his tail, as if he hates it. If I try to pet him he attacks me. He goes through this four or five times a day. He does have very dry skin; could that have something to do with this? If so, could I use Head & Shoulders shampoo on him? I don't know what to do with him. I've raised him since he was 3 days old. My vet said he could have a behavioral problem, but she has never tested him. Can you help me?

A. Thanks for your e-mail. The shampoo issue is an important one. Head & Shoulders should never be used on a cat, because there are perfumes and other things in the shampoo that animals can have a very bad allergic reaction to. Pet stores carry shampoos formulated especially for cats with dry skin.

Because he started chasing his tail recently, fleas and ticks could be a problem, or a urinary tract or other infection near the tail. A cyst or tumor is another possibility.

Has there been any change in the cat's environment? Did you move recently, buy new furniture, or is there a new member in the household? Have you had any emotional issues (breakup, divorce or death in the family)? Those can spur behavioral problems, since cats can be very sensitive to their owners' emotions.

Take your cat back to the vet and have her check for physical or neurological problems. If no physical problems are found, she can prescribe medication to keep the cat calm. If she doesn't do any tests or you don't feel satisfied, go to another vet, especially one who specializes in cats. Medication is the last resort, but it may help you and your kitty.

It may take a little time, but I believe your cat's puzzling behavior can be improved — if not eliminated. Good luck!

Financial Aid Deadline Mar. 1

The deadline to apply for federal and most of Maryland's need-based financial aid is March 1.

To be eligible for federal and state aid, students must complete the FAFSA, available electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov, at libraries, high school guidance offices, or by contacting the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

The Scholarship Administration of the Maryland Higher Education Commission will award more than $80 million in financial aid to Maryland students this year. For more information about financial aid in Maryland, persons may contact the State Scholarship Administration on-line at www.mhec.state.md.us or via telephone at 1-800-974-1024 or 410-260-4565.

ACCIDENT ANGELS SENT TO NEW YORK CITY — Pictured above are some of the angels made by the students and their families of Accident Elementary School who participated in the Angel Project during the month of December. Clapper Publishing organized this nationwide crusade to remember the victims of the tragedy of Sept. 11. The goal of the project was to collect 6,000 angels so that each family who lost a loved one on that day would receive an angel. The goal was exceeded when 152,078 angels were collected from around the country. Of those angels, 158 came from Accident Elementary. All of the angels were sent to New York City for a special ceremony, and 100,000 of those angels were given to volunteers who have been working at "Ground Zero" at the former site of the former World Trade Center Towers.

Opportunities For Study Abroad Offered By FSU

The Center for International Education at Frostburg State University has signed a new affiliation agreement with the School for International Training (SIT), located in Brattleboro, Vt. SIT offers study abroad programs in more than 40 countries, including several countries that U.S. students rarely visit, such as Mongolia, Tibet, Indonesia, Uganda, Cuba, and Madagascar.

Students can register for these programs through FSU, thereby allowing them to take their financial aid and FSU scholarships with them overseas. SIT also offers financial aid in the form of scholarships, grants and special funds.

SIT programs include:

- a home-stay with a family for part of each program, organized in conjunction with the Experiment in International Living;
- intensive language study on many of the programs;
- a thematic seminar which focuses on one of SIT's multidisciplinary subject areas, such as Environmental Studies, Art, Multicultural Studies, or Peace and Conflict Studies;
- an independent study project carried out under the supervision of a host country academic advisor;
- a field-study seminar which teaches field study techniques; and
- a post-arrival orientation conducted by an on-site director, focusing on health and safety issues, cross-cultural concerns and academic requirements.

For more information about SIT, persons may consult the school's web site at www.sit.edulstudvabr oad. A representative from SIT will be visiting Frostburg during FSU's International Festival, which gets under way in late February.

For further information, persons may contact Amy Simes, director of FSU's Center for International Education, at 301-687-3091 or at asimes@frostburg.edu. Information about the center is also available on-line at www.frostburg.edu/admin/cie/cie.

COUNSELING AVAHABLE

To better meet the scheduling, counseling, and post-graduation planning needs of Southern parents/guardians and students, the services of the guidance program will be made available after school. Beginning Thursday, Feb. 7, parents and students can meet with a guidance counselor after school from 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. on designated Thursdays through June 6. These after-school opportunities will include time for parents/guardians and students to review scholarship materials and availability, investigate career and college searches, and gather financial aid information utilizing Internet programs and guidance resources.

Students can also meet with school and college staff to address financial aid, college application concerns, and scheduling issues. Armed forces personnel are also available to meet the needs of the youth interested in entering a career with the armed forces.

Each of the three counselors, Ms. Penny Proudfoot (students A-G), Ms. Michele Pavelko (students H-Q), and Ms. Beverly Sincell (students R-Z) will be available once a month to provide after-school guidance and counseling services to students and parents/guardians. Appointments are suggested.

NEW REQUIREMENT FOR PARKING

In an effort to encourage students to complete service learning requirements for graduation, a new guideline has been added to the prerequisites to attain a parking permit in the upper lot for the fall. In addition to a grade point average minimum, and a tardy and absence maximum that varies according to grade level, students who wish to attain a parking pass must have completed their service learning hours. Keep in mind that all service learning paper work must be approved by the central office. This change will go into effect for the 2002-2003 school year.

ELKS VOCATIONAL SCHOLARSHIP

Applications for the Elks Vocational Scholarship are available. This scholarship is designed for any prospective student (male or female) resident within the lodge of jurisdiction of the Maryland, Delaware, Washington, D.C., Elks Association who is planning to enroll full time in a program of two years or less which will culminate in an associate degree, diploma, or certificate. There are eight $1,000-per-year scholarships available in our local association. For details or to obtain an application, call Robin Spiker at 301-334-4669. Applications are also available in both the Northern High and Southern High guidance offices. Applications for this award must be received by Robin Spiker at Southern High School or at the Oakland Elks Lodge no later than Monday, March 25.

GERALD JEFFEIN SCHOLARSHIP

Applications for the Gerald Jeffein Scholarship must be submitted to the Guidance Office by Friday, Feb. 22. The Maryland Retailers Association will award one $1,000 scholarship to a Garrett County high school senior. Criteria include: academic performance, participation in extracurricular school activities, participation in community and civic activities outside any school requirements, pursuit of a college degree in marketing or other business major, participation in a marketing or business program, and employment in the retail industry.

GUARANTEED ACCESS GRANT

Applications for Guaranteed Access Grants must be submitted to the Guidance Office by Friday, March 1. This program provides a grant from the state of Maryland to qualified students which will help cover costs for full-time study at a Maryland college or university. The amount of the award varies up to $9,200. To apply for this grant, a student must: be a Maryland resident and a senior in high school; have an unweighted cumulative grade point average of 2.5; attend a Maryland college or university as a full-time student, have a family annual income that qualifies you for a GA grant, and complete a college prep program or an articulated tech prep program.

MARYLAND HOPE SCHOLARSHIPS

Applications for Maryland HOPE Scholarships must be submitted to the Guidance Office by Friday, March 1. The Maryland HOPE Scholarship Program includes four different scholarships: HOPE (general) Scholarship, Maryland Teacher Scholarship, Science and Technology Scholarship, and the Community College Transfer Scholarship. These scholarships provide financial assistance to select students who have maintained a minimum 3.0 cumulative grade point average in core courses. You must file the FAFSA by March 1 (filing by mid-February is recommended). You must plan to attend a Maryland college or university and enroll in an ehgible program. In addition, scholarship recipients must agree to work in Maryland for one year for each year the scholarship is received. Students can check in guidance to inquire about the grade point average requirement or for other questions concerning these scholarships.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT TEAM

Information concerning the Southern High School Improvement Team (SIT) is available on the Internet at www.ga.k12.md.us/Schools/SH/. Meeting minutes and dates are available for public viewing. Minutes are posted the week following the meeting. Future SIT meetings are set for Tuesday, Feb. 19, and the Mondays of March 18, April 15, and May 13.

VALENTINE SALES

The Southern High School Peer Helpers are selling Valentine cards and candy. Peer helpers have a sales table set up in the morning and at lunch for purchases, then they will deliver it on Valentine's Day during advisory on Thursday, Feb. 14. ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Sgt. Timothy A. Bulford has been decorated with the Army Commendation Medal for "dutifully completing a military obligation or term of service in a commendable and distinguished manner."

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

For his final assignment, Bulford served as a field artillery surveyor for the 3rd Battalion at Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla.

Bulford is the son of Wallace A. and Joyce L. Bulford, Terra Alta. The sergeant is a 1998 graduate of Preston High School, Kingwood.

Theater Group Will Return To Mountaintop '02

Living for Christ Conferences has announced that the drama troupe Peculiar People will perform at its upcoming get-away weekend conference. Mountaintop 2002 will be held March 1-3 at Lakeview Scanticon Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

Peculiar People is a touring theater company based in Franklin, Tenn. (a suburb of Nashville). "Ruth and Charlie Jones team together to bring a unique blend of comedy and insight to their audiences. Writing their own material, they are both entertaining and inspirational," stated a conference spokesperson.

The Joneses have over 20 years of experience in professional theater and have performed nationwide and in Europe. The main focus of their work is "a desire to renew astonishment at the power of God's grace and recapture a lost wonder and innocence."

"The drama of Peculiar People is wonderful and so poignant," said Anne Robinson, co-founder of the nonprofit, nondenominational sponsor. "Last year, we found ourselves laughing hilariously one minute and moved to tears the next. Ruth and Charlie are truly gifted professionals. Their unique way of showing life-changing truths touched our very souls. We're thrilled that they're returning."

Appearing with Peculiar People at the Saturday evening "Festival in Celebration of the Sovereignty of God" will be award-winning pianist and vocalist Richard Allen Farmer. Dr. Farmer will present a break-out seminar titled "Time Management 101." Peculiar People will also lead a seminar, "Drama and Storytelling In Worship."

The featured speaker for this weekend event is Jerry Bridges, acclaimed author and well-known speaker. Bridges serves on staff with the Navigators Collegiate Ministries in Colorado Springs, Colo. The books he has written include The Pursuit of Holiness, The Practice of Godliness, Transforming Grace, and The Joy of Fearing God. His conference title is "Trusting God When Life Hurts." "We feel this topic is so timely and know it is no accident that the title was in place prior to September 11th," said Robinson.

Registration brochures and information are available through Living for Christ Conferences, 169 East Thistle Place, New Martinsville, WV 26155; 304-455-5322; web site: www.living4Christ.com.

MMEDC Will Hold Meeting At Deep Creek

The Mountain Maryland Entrepreneurial Development Center (MMEDC), in partnership with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, will hold a GrowthNet meeting on February 20 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

GrowthNet, a series of meetings which provide a networking opportunity for regional entrepreneurs, as well as addressing various operating issues associated with managing a business, was launched this month. This will be the second GrowthNet meeting and the first one to be held in Garrett County.

The first meeting was held in Allegany County on January 17 and hosted approximately 30 participants, including entrepreneurs and economic development leaders. The MMEDC received positive feedback from the participants, including Trev Hall of Threewide Corporation Inc., who remarked that the evening's program contained "great content."

Each GrowthNet meeting features speakers from the business community discussing relevant business topics ranging from expanding a business to technological advancements to human resources issues. February's GrowthNet will feature Rick Wilkes of Healthnotes Inc., who will provide the evening's "Everyday MBA" segment. The discussion will focus on information technology and its applications.

Garrett County's information technology coordinator, Frank Shap, will discuss the development of the county's technology infrastructure, and Dusty Huxford of Financial Computer Support Inc. will discuss business growth strategies and successful ways to manage a company in this region.

The cost is $15 per person. Light refreshments will be provided. For further information or to make a reservation, persons may contact the MMEDC at 301-777-9377.

On Dean's List

Several local students were recently named to the Allegany College of Maryland dean's list for the fall 2001 semester.

Local students are Jill E. Speicher, Accident; Katrina B. Glotfelty, Friendsville; and Ginny D. Keller, Tina L. Martin-Selders, Danette R. Tasker, Kista K. Weimer, all of Grantsville.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must earn a 3.8 or higher grade point average on a 4.0 scale and be enrolled in five or more semester hours or course work.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Application for State Discharge Permit 00-DP-0831, NPDES Permit MD0024449:

Garrett County Board of Education, c/o Maryland Environmental Service, 40 South Second Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, has applied for a permit renewal to discharge an average of 50,000 gallons per day (gpd) of treated wastewater from the Northern Middle/High Schools Wastewater Treatment Plant, located on U.S. Route 219 North, Accident, Maryland 21520, to an unnamed tributary of the Cove Run, which is designated as Use III-P water, which is protected for growth and propagation of trout and as a public water supply.

A Tentative Determination has been made to reissue the permit with the following effluent limitations: BOD5, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean and 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean and 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; Total Ammonia as N, 2.0 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean and 5 mg/l daily maximum; fecal coliform, 200 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly log mean value; dissolved oxygen, 5.0 mg/l minimum at any and 6.0 mg/l minimum daily average; and pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5. The use of chlorine or any chlorine containing compounds shall not be allowed in treatment of the wastewater. The permittee shall take temperature measurements of the plant effluent.

Regular effluent monitoring and reporting are required. The effluent limits are set to maintain compliance with State water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by February 13, 2002. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224, Attn.: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by February 13, 2002, will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before February 25, 2002. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-631-3671 or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

User further consents and agrees with all of the following additional terms of Self-executing Contract/Security Agreement In Event of Unauthorized Use: Payment Terms: In accordance with fees for unauthorized use of DAVID MORDEHAI© as set forth above, User hereby consents and agrees that User shall pay Secured Party all unauthorized-use fees in full within ten (10) days of date Secured Party's invoice, hereinafter "Invoice," itemizing said fees, is sent. Default Terms: In event of non-payment in full of all unauthorized-use fees by User within ten (10) days of date Invoice is sent, User shall be deemed in default and: (a) all of User's property and interest in property pledged as collateral by User, as set forth in above in paragraph "(2)," immediately becomes, i.e. is, property of Secured Party; (b) Secured Party is appointed User's Authorized Representative as set forth above in paragraph "(8)"; and (c) User consents and agrees that Secured Party may take possession of, as well as otherwise dispose of in any manner that Secured Party, in Secured Party's sole discretion, deems appropriate, including, but not limited by, sale at auction, at any time following User's default, and without further notice, any and all of User's former property and interest in property formerly pledged as collateral by User, now property of Secured Party, in respect of this "Self-executing Contract/Security Agreement in Event of Unauthorized Use," that Secured Party, again in Secured Party's sole discretion, deems appropriate. Terms for Curing Default: Upon event of default, as set forth above under "Default Terms," Irrespective of any and all of User's former property and interest in property in the possession of, as well as disposed of by, Secured Party, as authorized above under "Default Terms," User may cure User's default re only the remainder of User's former property and interest in property formerly pledged as collateral that is neither in the possession of, nor otherwise disposed of by, Secured Party within twenty (20) days of date of User's default only by payment in full. Terms of Strict Foreclosure: User's non-payment in full of all unauthorized-use fees itemized in Invoice within said twenty- (20) day period for curing default as set forth above under "Terms for Curing Default" authorizes Secured Party's immediate non-judicial strict foreclosure on any and all remaining property and interest in property formerly pledged as collateral by User, now property of Secured Party, which is not in the possession of, nor otherwise disposed of by, Secured Party upon expiration of said twenty- (20) day strict-foreclosure period. Ownership subject to common-law copyright and UCC Financing Statement and Security Agreement filed with the UCC filing office. Record Owner: David Mordehai, Autograph Common Law Copyright© 1970. Unauthorized use of "David Mordehai" incurs same unauthorized-use fees as those associated with DAVID MORDEHAI©, as set forth above in paragraph "(1)" under "Self-executing Contract/Security Agreement in Event of Unauthorized Use."

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Maryland Mining Program will submit an application to the U. S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining, for the funding of abandoned coal mine reclamation projects. The funding will be in accordance with Title IV, Section 405 of Public Law 95-87, Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977.

Qualification for Federal Funding under Title IV is contingent on an approved State Surface Coal Mining Regulatory Program and a State Abandoned Mine Lands Reclamation Plan. Maryland has received Office of Surface Mining approval of both programs. Project funding will originate from the Appalachian Clean Streams Initiative, administered by the Office of Surface Mining.

It is the goal of the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program to promote the reclamation of abandoned coal mine areas in Maryland that have been left in an inadequately reclaimed condition and endanger the safety of the public, degrade the quality of the environment, and/or diminish the beneficial use of land and water resources.

Comments are being solicited on the relative priority of the projects listed below and/or any other abandoned mine problems in the Maryland Coal Region. The Bureau of Mines requests information from the public concerning abandoned mine problems that pose a potential threat to the public health and safety or severely degrade the environment.

A public meeting concerning the proposed projects will be held as follows:

Wednesday, February 13, 2002
7:00 P.M.
Maryland Bureau of Mines
160 South Water Street, Room 107
Frostburg, MD 21532

Further information concerning the proposed projects can be obtained by contacting Mr. Joseph E. Mills, Planning, Research and Development Section, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water St., Frostburg, MD 21532, 301-689-6764, x301. Written comments concerning these projects and the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program will be received at the public hearing and until Wednesday, February 20, 2002. Address all comments to the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Attention: Mr. Joseph E. Mills.

The following is a general description of the proposed reclamation projects, including the location, County, nearest town or physical feature, and nature of the problem:

1. FAZENBAKER ACID MINE DRAINAGE REMEDIATION PROJECT

Location: Approximately 1 mile north of Barton, Allegany County, adjacent to the Moscow Cemetery.

2. McDONALD MINE LIME DOSER PROJECT

Location: Approximately 1/4 mile south of Barton, Allegany County, on the west side of Georges Creek, at the end of Railroad Street Extended.

Problem: Acid Mine Drainage discharging from an abandoned deep mine is impacting the water quality of Georges Creek.

3. NEFF RUN LEACH BED AND SAND DUMP PROJECT

Location: Four limestone leach beds and five sand application sites are located on Neff Run, Matthew Run and Dan's Rock Run, near Midland, Allegany County.

Problem: Acid Mine Drainage discharging from abandoned deep mines and surface mines are impacting the water quality of Georges Creek.

4. CRELLIN BORE HOLE ACID MINE DRAINAGE REMEDIATION PROJECT

Location: Approximately 1 mile west of Crellin, Garrett County, adjacent to Laurel Run.

Problem: Acid Mine Drainage discharging from an abandoned deep mine is impacting the water quality of Laurel Run, Snowy Creek and the Youghlogheny River.

5. NORTH BRANCH CASSELMAN RIVER - AMISH ROAD AMD REMEDIATION PROJECT

Location: Approximately 4 miles south west of Grantsville, Garrett County, and east of Amish Road, adjacent to the North Branch of the Casselman River.

Problem: Acid Mine Drainage discharging from an abandoned deep mine and surface mine is impacting the water quality of the North Branch of the Casselman River.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

ASHER GLADE CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

The Asher Glade Church of the Brethren is in charge of nursing home visitations on Sunday, Feb. 10.

The church will be sponsoring Glen McClelland on his mission trip to Haiti.

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Worship services at the Grace Lutheran Church are held every Sunday at 9:45 a.m. Communion is offered every third Sunday of the month.

A parish pre-Lenten pancake supper will be held Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Grace Lutheran Church from 4 to 7 p.m. There will be a free-will offering to benefit Sandra Wilt. Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8483 will be assisting with disaster matching funds.

RUSH BAPTIST CHURCH

Communion will be given during the morning worship this Sunday, Feb. 3, at the Rush Baptist Church.

There will be a business meeting following the morning worship on Sunday, Feb. 10.

"Love Your Pastor" Sunday will be celebrated Feb. 17 with a covered-dish dinner after the morning worship.

NOTE OF SYMPATHY

Michael Lee Harvey was stillborn at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 26, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown. His parents are Randy Harvey of Gorman and Lacie Dumire of Friendsville. Cards can be sent to Lacie and Randy at P.O. Box 13, Friendsville, MD 21531.

MINI-BUCKS BINGO

The Friendsville Vol. Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc. will sponsor a Mini-Bucks Bingo on Sunday, Feb. 3, at the Friendsville fire hall. FRIENDSVILLE SCHOOL EAGLE NEWS
by Caitlin Spear and Katy Umbel

On January 8, the first pep assembly was held for the new year. Students receiving awards for being on the Right Track were: Samuel Fisher, Abigail Fowler, Emiley Capel, Dillon Russell, Kerah Umbel, Bryan Bowser, Kimberly Riggin, Autumn Frazee, and Austin Smith. Also Student of the Month for each class was presented to: Katie Lowdermilk, Isiah Smith, Derrica Friend, Taylor Sines, Taylor Sisler, Dorsie Fisher, Christina House, Pam Syder, and Katie Lacey.

Parent conferences were held Monday and Wednesday this week. The Scholastic Book Fair was set up in the media center at the school.

There will be no school this Friday, Feb. 1.

On Wednesday, Feb. 6, cessation classes to quit smoking will be held at the Garrett County Health Dept. from 5:15 to 7 p.m. Contact Brenda Frazee for more information.

The Pre-K class members are learning to write their names. Stephanie Frazee from Northern is visiting the pre-K class every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Mrs. Spencer's students are really enjoying their time with Stephanie.

Mrs. Opel's and Mrs. Miller's kindergarten classes are starting to add numbers, and they are continuing their reading lessons.

Second grade is beginning a new science unit. They are really enjoying their new science books.

The third grade science class made models of land forms. They made mountains out of sand and rocks and they also made volcanoes from clay. They experimented on how water changes land forms.

Mr. Hauser's 4th grade started reading Tales of a Fourth Grade Nothing. They are working on compound and simple machines in science, and in social studies they are writing reports on famous people of Maryland.

The 4th and 5th graders in Mrs. Deal's class took their mid-year test in reading.

All of the 4th grade students enjoyed an overnight trip to Hickory Environmental Center January 24-25.

The 5th grade social studies class recently finished Power-Point presentations on the school's I-Book computers.

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES

The Friendsville Fireflies 4-H club met Tuesday, Jan. 22, at the United Pentecostal Church. Samantha Stemple and Laken Smith led the pledges. Ann Sherrard, Garrett County Extension agent, was the guest speaker. Abby Sherrard showed the members how to put a record book together.

Enrollment forms were collected and given to Alice Long. The following officers were installed: president, Beth Long; vice president, Jeffrey Lowdermilk; secretary, Amy Sliger; and reporter, Justin Lowdermilk. Committees were also formed.

The group meets every third Tuesday of the month at the United Pentecostal Church fellowship hall.

The members will be giving speeches at the next meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 19.

COMMUNITY WATCH

The next meeting of the Friendsville Community Watch will be held Thursday, Feb. 14, at the Friendsville Elementary School library from 6:45 to 8 p.m.

VALENTINE DANCE

There will be a Valentine dance at the Friendsville fire hall on Saturday, Feb. 9, beginning at 8:30 p.m. There will be a cover charge at the door, and no one under the age of 18 will be admitted. Refreshments will be served.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A surprise party was held for Sandra Wilt on Saturday, Jan. 26, to celebrate her 40th birthday. Approximately 25 family members and friends attended the event, which was given by her family. The covered-dish dinner was held at the First Christian Church in Friendsville. The decorated cake was baked by Christy Thomas.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Matthew Breydon Casteel was born on his father's birthday, January 8. He weighed 8 lbs., 1.5 oz. His parents are Jeremiah and Jessie Casteel of Friendsville. Awaiting his arrival were his three sisters, Brittany, Laura, and Emiley. Grandparents are Christina Capel and Clifford Schroyer of Friendsville, John and Betty Capel of Baltimore, Doris and Herb Fazenbaker of Grantsville, the late Maxine Casteel, and Wayne Casteel of Pennsylvania. MARKING KING HOLIDAY WITH SERVICE — The Maryland Conservation Corps at Potomac State Forest, students from Northern Middle School, and the Allegany/Garrett County chapter of the National Coalition Building Institute International marked the recent Martin Luther King Day by delivering wood to 12 area families in need of heating assistance. The Martin Luther King Foundation is committed to commemorating the civil rights leader's birthday with "A Day On, Not Off," a nationwide day of service. This is the second year this project has brought these groups together to deliver wood. "Twice as many homes were served this year, and we hope to continue to grow," commented Department of Natural Resources naturalist Caroline Blizzard, who helped coordinate the project.

Bus Safety Bill Hearing Set For Today

Senator John Hafer has introduced a bill in the Maryland General Assembly asking for increased penalties for drivers who fail to stop for school vehicles with activated flashing red lights.

The current maximum fine for an individual failing to stop for a bus with activated flashing red lights is $270 and three points assessed against the individual. The bill requests that the maximum fine increase to $1,000 and the number of points increase to five.

"This issue is a serious problem that requires action," said Hafer. "We are talking about the safety of our children. We have seen the terrible consequences that result from drivers ignoring flashing bus lights."

Hafer said he introduced Senate Bill 311 at the request of Garrett County citizens, following a recent accident in which a 10-year-old boy was fatally struck by a motorist who failed to stop for flashing bus lights. "Bus drivers have commented on the increasing number of motorists ignoring their activated flashing lights," Hafer said.

The bill has been assigned to the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee and was heard at 1 p.m. today, Feb. 7.

Delegates George Edwards, Kevin Kelly and Speaker Casper Taylor are also sponsoring the same bill in the House. The Commerce and Government Matters Committee will hold a hearing on House Bill 276 in Annapolis on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 1 p.m. in the Lowe House Office Building, Room 140. Those interested in expressing support for the bills may call the Judicial Proceedings

ICE FISHING NOT IN THE PICTURE — While an unusually warm winter is welcomed by many mountaintop residents, probably just as many others are not so happy about it. Ice fishermen, for instance, are eager for Deep Creek Lake, shown above, to freeze over again, and cross-country skiers and snowmobilers are anxious for some seasonal snowfall. The ground is white this week, and snowflakes are drifting down today, but temperatures are to rise again over the weekend. Snow lovers can take some comfort in the forecast, though, which is calling for winter weather's return on Sunday evening. And downhill skiers can always find white slopes at Wisp this time of year, no matter what the temperature might be.

Health Dept.'s Tobacco Plan Is "Comprehensive"

Representatives from the Garrett County Health Department updated the commissioners this week on the tobacco use prevention and cessation program for fiscal year 2002.

"[Smoking's] the number one killer in the U.S." said Rodney Glotfelty, county health officer. "If we could reduce the number of smokers, that's the biggest thing we could do at the Health Department." He added that smoking is not allowed anywhere on the grounds of the Health Department's new facility.

Kendra Todd, director of Community Health Education, reported that the department had received $64,000 from the Cigarette Restitution Fund (CRF) for tobacco use prevention and cessation program. A recent CRF survey of county adults and students indicated that Garrett had the most percentage of smokeless tobacco users in the state. And compared to the percentage of smokers in other counties, "we're in the middle of the pack," Todd said.

The money is distributed, based on CRF's formula,

Minnick Receives 12 Years For Assault, Reckless Endangerment

Jeffrey Charles Minnick, 36, Loch Lynn, was sentenced by Judge Jim Sherbin in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to 10 years at the Department of Corrections for a second-degree assault offense. A two-year concurrent sentence was also handed down for a reckless endangerment charge.

Minnick was convicted of the two crimes in December after a three-day jury trial. The jury also found Minnick not guilty of rape, first-degree assault, and false imprisonment.

Minnick was charged last February by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation who investigated the reported rape of a 15-year old. The girl told police she had left her home without her mother's knowledge to meet her boyfriend and had gone to Minnick's apartment to see if he was there. While at his apartment, Minnick was alleged to have choked and raped the girl.

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said she believes the maximum sentence was imposed for the assault charge "due partly to the facts of this case, but more importantly to Minnick's prior record, which includes a conviction in North Carolina for a second degree sexual offense, combined with a common-law robbery and a conviction for second degree burglary and felony larceny that was alleged to also involve sexual conduct."

Pennsylvania Man Gets 25 Years For Child Abuse, Sexual Offenses

A North Strabane Township, Pa., man was sentenced by Judge Jim Sherbin in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to a total of 25 years for four crimes. Eugene Edward Sparks, 39, received a 10-year sentence for child abuse. For a third degree sexual offense, he received a five-year consecutive sentence. For a second-degree sexual offense, he received a 10-year consecutive sentence; and for another second-degree sexual offense, he received a 10-year concurrent sentence. Sparks had pleaded guilty in November, and Sherbin had ordered a pre-sentence investigation report.

Sparks was charged in June by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, who determined that he was having inappropriate contact with a number of children last spring. Working with child protective service workers, the investigators conducted interviews with the victims and persons to whom disclosures were made. Officers with the North Strabane Township Police Department assisted by obtaining a search and seizure warrant for Sparks's home and by seizing a number of items that corroborated the victims' statements. After his arrest, Sparks admitted to many of the crimes alleged, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

After his release from prison, Sparks will be required to register as a child sex offender in any jurisdiction in which he resides.

W.Va. Man Gets 15 Years For Burglary Charge

A West Virginia man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge Jim Sherbin to 15 years at the Department of Corrections for a burglary conviction. Robert Michael Bridges, 25, Ridgeley, W.Va., had entered a plea in August, and a presentence investigation report had been ordered.

Bridges and a co-defendant, Jeremy House, were charged in April of last year by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, who determined the defendants had broken into a Grantsville-area residence. One of the homeowners arrived home during the noon hour and found a strange car in the driveway. After seeing two men emerge

State Senate Committee To Hear Bear Bill

The Maryland State Senate's Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee will host a 1 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 12, hearing on a Senate proposal to implement a black bear hunting season in Maryland. Senate Bill 363, introduced by Sen. John Hafer, corresponds with House Bill 10 currently under study by the other half of the Maryland General Assembly.

Both bills would require the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to implement the recommendations of the 1995 Black Bear Citizens Task Force that former DNR Secretary John Griffin had created to address management and control of nuisance bears. A new Black Bear Citizens Task Force held its first meeting two weeks ago to begin the process of revisiting the issue.

Persons interested in testifying at the Feb. 12 committee hearing on SB 363 should contact Sen. Hafer's Annapolis office at 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3565. Persons interested in registering an opinion via telephone may contact the EHE Affairs Committee directly at 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3661.

Burglary Charges Filed In Wake Of Joint Investigation

A Preston County man has been charged in connection with three Oakland area burglaries as a result of joint investigations by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation and the Oakland Police Department.

Brian Lee Moats, 18, Eglon, W.Va., faces charges with several counts of burglary, felony theft, and malicious destruction of property in connection with break-ins at the Oak-Mar Restaurant, Josie's Restaurant, and the Mtn. Top Christian Assembly of God. Cash registers were taken from each of the two restaurants, and a safe was taken from the church's office. The safe, which did not contain any cash at the time it was taken from the church, was later recovered in a wooded location in the Pleasant Valley area. The two cash registers taken from the respective restaurants, both of which were also recovered, contained a combined total of approximately $600, and were valued at approximately $500 each.

LOCAL WWII VET HONORED BY FRANCE — Bill Ennis, Grantsville, has been awarded the Liberté Medal by the French government. Presented by Congressman Roscoe Bartlett during a Hagerstown ceremony, the medal expresses the French people's gratitude for bravery of the Allied soldiers who took part in Operation D-Day as the liberation of western Europe from Nazi occupation got under way. Ennis is shown wearing the Liberté Medal on his chest, and holding some of the other WWII service awards and decorations he earned as an airman with the Eighth Air Force. Ennis and his wife Jo reside in Goodwill Retirement Village.

United Way Of Garrett County Reports Success

United Way of Garrett County (UWGC), in only its second year of existence, has raised over $55,000 during its current campaign, according to Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, 2002 UWGC campaign chairperson. Noting that the campaign has reached 65 percent of the $85,866 goal set for this campaign, which continues through April 30, Rudy said she is confident that the goal would be met and expressed her thanks for the community's generosity. The donations will help fund a variety of programs, including providing needed medications for the elderly and sending local Boy Scouts to camp.

Two years ago several local residents and businesses were approached with a proposal for the founding of a local United Way chapter to benefit strictly Garrett County needs. A local executive committee was formed, and now 15 member agencies benefit from United Way of Garrett County funding. These nonprofit agencies request funding each year for programming provided in Garrett County for projects that meet a variety of needs such as youth, elder care family services, and addressing disabilities.

Ennis Receives Liberté Medal For D-Day Svc.

by Jeremy Carr

Bill Ennis, a resident of Goodwill's Retirement Village, recently received the Liberté Medal from France in gratitude for what the United States did in securing that nation's freedom. This award was given by Congressman Roscoe Bartlett during Pearl Harbor's 60th Anniversary celebration in Hagerstown.

Ennis was born on Nov. 24, 1920, in New York City. He would go on to enlist in the war in Jan. 1942 on Long Island, two years after he "met Jesus Christ." Later, in 1943, he met his wife Jo, and four dates later they were married. Over the six decades since, the whirlwind courtship has resulted in three sons, 12 granchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

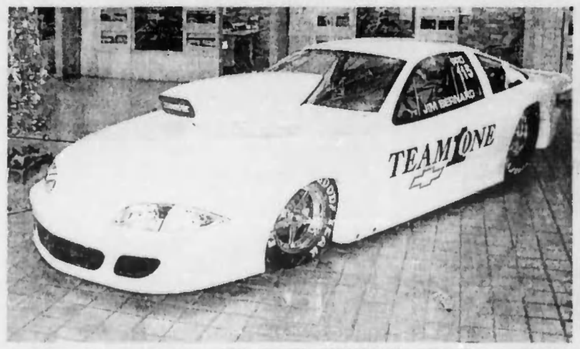
During the war Ennis was a first lieutenant with the 92nd Bombardment group, 407th squadron of the Eighth Air Force. He was stationed in England, where he flew 35 bombing missions over Europe. He also flew two raids on D-Day during the invasion of Normandy, known as Operation Overlord. (France gives the Liberte Medal to those who were a part of this invasion.)

Once out of the war, Ennis said he felt that the Lord called him into service. He began working as a missionary, traveling to various destinations across the United States. While in Texas, he studied Hebrew in order to better understand the Jewish religion. He would spend much of his time passing the word of Jesus to those of the Jewish faith. Finally, in 1986, he retired.

Initially arriving in Berkeley Springs, W.Va., and later arriving at Goodwill in 1998, Ennis said he "lives life to the scriptures." Ennis and his wife feel that "life is very good, even bet-ter in the Village," and say they both "love Garrett County."

These days Ennis spends his time relaxing and working on a book he's been writing for awhile, and also dabbling in oil painting. In addition to the Liberté medal, Ennis has also received the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with three Oak Leaf clusters, European Theater of Operations Campaign Medal (ETO), and the World War II Medal. Only four members of his crew are now living.

Ennis enjoys the reunion of the 92nd Bombardment Group every two years to reminisce about how they survived. He stated he gives all thanks to the Lord and that "the Lord Jesus gets sweeter as the days go by."



JIM BERNARD

AREA DRIVER HITTING NHRA CIRCUIT — Jim Bernard will debut in the 23-race National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) Powerade pro stock drag racing series this weekend at the NHRA Winternationals in Pomona, Calif. The McHenry resident will represent Oakland's Team One Auto Mall in the 500 cubic inch, 1,300 horsepower pro stock Chevrolet Cavalier shown above, a joint venture of Bernard Racing Team, chassis builder Jerry Haas of St. Louis, and racing engine maker Steve Schmidt of Indianapolis. The car is designed to cover the quarter-mile track in 6.75 seconds or less at a top speed of approximately 204 miles per hour. Given the similarity of the cars at the top tier of professional drag racing, the difference often comes down to the reaction time of the drivers. The "Christmas tree" starting lights change from amber to green in 4/100 second, and a driver has to hit the gas at just the right moment to get a good and legal start. Bernard, who has the 1991 U.S. national Professional Stock Motorcycle championship under his belt, has been honing his reaction time since childhood when he began racing motor bikes on area tracks. This weekend's race will be broadcast on the ESPN/ESPN2 cable channels, as will each subsequent competition. Local racing fans can also follow Bernard's progress through the season at www.nhra.com.

Planning Commission Forwards DCL Area Zoning Amendments

Draft Density Reduction Amendment Rejected

After many months of discussion, the Garrett County Planning Commission voted unanimously to forward the approximately two dozen proposed amendments to the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Zoning ordinance to the board of county commissioners for their consideration. The commissioners' discussions of the document will include a public hearing at a date yet to be set.

The past several meetings of the Planning Commission had focused on a draft amendment that would have reduced density allowances for townhouse/condo dwellings in the town residential and town center zoning districts in the lake area. The planning board recommends that the commissioners reject that draft amendment, which was designed in hopes of stimulating the retention and addition of small businesses around the lake.

Co-authored by Planning Office director John Nelson, DCL Property Owners Association representative Fred Thayer, and Chamber of Commerce board member Jonathan Kessler, the amendment in question would have increased the minimum lot area per dwelling to 6,200 square feet, which would have reduced the number of allowable dwelling units from nine to seven per acre of a development project.

Garrett County Community Action Committee director Duane Yoder told the planning commission yesterday that such a proposal would adversely impact a townhome development the GCCAC is proposing to construct in McHenry. The GCCAC has an option to purchase 10 acres of land located off Pysell Road directly behind the Deep Creek Foodland Fresh grocery store. The land is currently owned by store proprietor Hugh Umbel, who also spoke against the draft amendment yesterday.

Yoder outlined the proposed Mountain Village development proposal for the commission, showing plans that described the 80-unit project, which would provide housing to qualified lower-income residents at a projected cost ranging from $320 per month for a one-bedroom unit to $470 per month for a three-bedroom unit.

"We're calculating the rents as being affordable for someone making in the $7 - $9 per hour range," said Yoder. "We feel it's important to maintain an affordable housing presence in the lake area because for small businesses to thrive they have to have a worker pool to draw on. We worried about the 'Colorado syndrome,' in which lower-wage workers in restaurants and shop in resort locations like Vail have to drive up to 50 miles to get to work because they can't afford to live any closer. If that happened here it would hurt small businesses, because they would have a hard time attracting and maintaining employees."

By decreasing the allowable density, the draft amendment would cause GCCAC to increase rents to cover the loss of housing units, Yoder said.

Umbel seconded Yoder's thoughts, adding that as he saw it "this issue stems from the closing of McClive's Restaurant," which has since been razed for a housing development. Umble, Bob Huebner, and Martin Heise, each of whom own tracts of land in the watershed, were in opposition to the draft amendment. They each claimed while the concept of retaining small businesses was an attractive thought, in reality it would take an extremely radical approach to bring that vision to fruition.

POA's Thayer, while noting that the GCCAC project was not in conflict with POA's vision of the lake's future development, added that his organization would still seek lower density figures in the lake area to promote small businesses and stave off over-development and congestion. Thayer proposed that the county commissioners consider including an "affordable housing density bonus" which would allow developers to increase the density of a development provided they set aside a certain portion dedicated to affordable housing.

The final decision to accept or reject the draft amendment as written, or to pursue another tack along the lines of Thayer's proposal, now rests with the county commissioners.

Head-On Crash On Mayhew Inn Rd. Injures Two

A head-on collision yesterday evening on Mayhew Inn Road injured the two drivers, one a McHenry woman who remains hospitalized in critical condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown this morning.

Tracy Lee Wood, 34, was severely injured in the 5:39 p.m. crash, which Maryland State Police Tfc. M.W. DeValk said occurred when her 1996 Plymouth Neon crossed from the eastbound lane into the westbound lane and struck a 1997 Dodge Caravan operated by John William Cobb Jr., 59, Potomac. The mishap occurred west of Skippers Point Road.

Both drivers were initially transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where a helicopter was summoned to fly Wood on to Ruby Memorial while Cobb was treated and released. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the accident scene.

Tfc. DeValk reported that charges are pending.

State troopers investigated another Deep Creek Lake area accident that occurred this morning.

The 7:41 a.m. mishap took place at the intersection of Glendale and Zeddock Miller roads, slightly injuring Robert W. Guthrie, 22, Grantsville, who was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial and treated and released.

According the MSP report, Guthrie was traveling westbound in his 1993 Ford Ranger when he lost control of his truck on wet pavement and struck a telephone pole. Robert W. Wilt, 34, of Oakland, who was following in a 2000 Ford F-150, was unable to avoid Guthrie's truck and struck it in the rear.

No charges were filed by state troopers. Personnel from the Deep Creek VFC and personnel from Allegheny Power assisted at the scene.

Noted Author, Environmentalist To Speak At GCC

Susan Taft, a 25-year whitewater paddling veteran and noted author and environmentalist, will be the featured guest speaker at the upcoming Garrett Community College Adventure Sports Colloquium, set for Tuesday, Feb. 12. The one-hour program will get under way at 7 p.m. in Room 314 of the Continuing Education building on the McHenry campus.

Taft's presentation will focus on her efforts to chronicle whitewater paddling's history in the United States and how the sport's development has aided and influenced river conservation movements across the country. She is the author of The River Chasers, described as the "definitive history of whitewater paddling in the U.S." by Adventure Sports Program director Mike Logsdon. She is planning to follow that work with three other books which will present the history of materials and design in paddlesports, biographies of the innovators in the sport of whitewater, and a biographical-geographical study of whitewater rivers in this country.

After her sister introduced her to canoeing at the age of 8, Taft's interest in that sport led her to enter flatwater marathons by the time she was 21, as well as build her own boats. Since taking up whitewater paddling in her early 20s, Taft has paddled kayak as well as solo open closed whitewater canoes (C-1 and C-2). She continues to paddle kayak and solo open canoe (OC-1), and has run whitewater throughout the U.S.

The Adventure Sports Colloquium presentation is free and open to the public.

DBED Slates Arts Designation Workshop Series

The Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED) will be sponsoring a series of workshops during February for counties and municipalities that want to take advantage of the newly created Smart Growth - Arts and Entertainment District program. The legislation, which was passed during the 2001 Maryland General Assembly session and became effective July 1, 2001, enables local governments to apply for the Arts and Entertainment district designation for areas that are wholly within a Smart Growth/Priority Funding Area. Maryland is the first state to encourage Arts and Entertainment districts in multiple areas around the state.

In preparation for the upcoming application deadline of April 1, the workshops will provide an overview of the new legislation and step-by-step advice on organizing information for the application. The workshops will be held from 10 a.m. to noon. The workshop closest to Garrett County is set for Tuesday, Feb. 26, at Frostburg State University's Hagerstown Center in Washington County.

The completed application packets will be due to the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development on April 1 and will be reviewed by the department. Up to six areas per calendar year (one per county) may be approved by DBED's secretary as Arts and Entertainment Districts. As part of the program's benefits, artists working in the districts can receive some income tax breaks on artwork created or performed in the district. Developers who create spaces for artists to live and work can be exempt from paying certain property taxes on the value of the improvements for up to 10 years. Designated districts will be exempt from some or all admissions and amusement taxes, which vary per county and municipality.

The application packets are available on-line at www.msac.org. Additional details about the workshops or general questions about the Smart Growth - Arts and Entertainment District Program can be directed to Carol Vitale, senior project coordinator for the Division of Tourism, Film, and the Arts, at 410-767-6299.

Allegany Man Gets Six Months For Possession

Trevor Ritchie Lewis, 21, Westernport, was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court after pleading guilty last month to possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Lewis to one year in the Garrett County Jail, then suspended six months of that sentence. After his release, Lewis will be on supervised probation for one year. He must also pay a $1,000 fine.

Lewis was arrested last March by Maryland State Police after he was stopped along Rt. 135 in the Bloomington area for a seat belt violation. While speaking with Lewis, the trooper reportedly smelled the odor of raw marijuana and saw marijuana seeds and residue inside the vehicle. The officer found 17 baggies of marijuana and a hand-held scale when Lewis and his vehicle were searched, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

Related charges, including possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school, were dismissed upon Lewis's plea. "Although there may be a technical violation of the school zone law, there is no evidence of a connection between Lewis and the school," said Thayer Welch. "He was merely stopped along Rt. 135 as he was traveling past a school."

NOW LIVING IN HER THIRD CENTURY is Oakland native Edith Kimmell Starkey, who will celebrate her 105th birthday next Monday, Feb. 11. Mrs. Starkey, who now resides in Harrison, Ark., with her daughter, Velma O'Neill, was born in Oakland on February 11, 1897. She spent her early years on her father's farm, located about three miles from Deer Park. Her father, J.W. Kimmell, was Garrett County treasurer for two terms, and she worked with him in the courthouse. She drove a horse and buggy, and then one of the first Model T Fords. She also spoke on one of the first telephones in Garrett County. During the Depression years, Edith's family moved to Ohio in order to find jobs. There she sold bus tickets on a busy street corner, earning about $3 per day, which was used to help feed her family.

Rig Jacknifes On I-68; Truck Driver Injured

A Virginia man sustained minor injuries when he lost control of his tractor-trailer rig along Interstate 68 near Finzel Monday morning. No charges were filed, although Maryland State Police troopers did deem the driver at fault in the single-vehicle mishap.

Dwayne Edwin Crook, 41, Chesterfield, was traveling westbound on the interstate when he lost control on the snow-covered road surface just west of Finzel Road. His 1995 Freightliner rig jacknifed into a guard rail, and state troopers from the McHenry barrack and personnel from the Finzel scalehouse responded to the accident scene.

Crook was transported by the Frostburg Area Ambulance Service to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

In other state police accident investigations, a Pittsburgh woman was injured slightly when her car went out of control and crashed along westbound I-68 early Saturday morning.

Donna Linville, 58, had just passed Finzel Road when she attempted to change lanes and drove into the grass median. When she tried to gain control over her 1993 Subaru Impreza, she overcompensated and spun the car out of control and into a guardrail.

Linville was transported by the Frostburg Area Ambulance Service to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed by state police.

Police Observe Jeep Weaving, Arrest Driver

Garrett County sheriff's deputies stopped a 1996 Jeep along Route 219 near Lake Shore Drive early Wednesday morning after it was observed weaving and crossing the center line.

The driver, Brittany Jean Bula, 26, McHenry, did not complete field sobriety tests to the officer's satisfaction and was arrested.

She was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving under the influence per se, driving while impaired (DWI), and failure to drive right of center.

Bula was later released on her own recognizance.

In another incident, police charged an Oakland man with drunk driving charges after locating his 1976 Ford truck in a ditch along Crellin Mine Road around 12:30 a.m. Thursday.

Robert D. Canan, 66, was arrested and charged with DUI, DUI per se, and DWI.

He was released after posting $500 bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

In another incident along Crellin Mine Road, a juvenile pedestrian was not injured after being struck by a 1994 Ford passenger car Monday.

Mandy Jo Ashby was eastbound on Crellin Mine Road when a child ran across the road; because of the ice the driver was unable to stop. The child was knocked down but was not injured, police said.

The child was transported by the mother to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and was treated and released.

No charges were filed by deputies in the 7 p.m. incident.

Loch Lynn Man Handed 30 Days For Littering

A Loch Lynn man who pleaded guilty to four counts of littering received a 30-day sentence during a Garrett County District Court hearing earlier this week.

Jerry Lee Wilt, 55, was sentenced to 30 days in jail with 26 days suspended on each of the four counts, with the sentences to run concurrently, and fined $200. The concurrent sentence stipulation will be fulfilled as he spends a total of four days in jail over two weekends.

The charges stemmed from Wilt's December arrest when police initially charged him with 44 counts of destruction of property and littering and dumping trash of less than 100 pounds. When the guilty plea was entered on four counts, the State's Attorney's Office declined to prosecute the other 40 counts.

Wilt had been accused of scattering trash, glass, nails, and screws on the driveways of two Loch Lynn residences between May 2000 and this past December.

Blowing Snow, Icy Roads Cause Several Accidents

Five motor vehicle accidents occurred Monday morning between 7:30 and 10 a.m. because of the winter weather and road conditions, but no injuries were reported, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Michelle Dawn McCartney, 19, Oakland, was traveling south on Broadford Road near Pysell Crosscut Road when she lost control of her 1993 Geo Metro on the icy snow-covered roadway, police said. The vehicle overturned after striking a ditch.

No injuries or charges were filed in the 7:38 a.m incident. Garrett County Roads Department assisted with traffic control at the scene.

An hour later, William Obadiah Cowgill, 27, Oakland, was traveling east on Mayhew Inn Road when he lost control of his 1998 Pontiac Grand Am on the icy snow-covered road. He was not injured when the vehicle ran off the road and struck a tree.

No charges were filed, police said.

A van and a tractor trailer were involved in an accident at approximately 8:45 a.m.

Curtis Cas Hutson, 40, Oakland, operating a 1997 Kenworth tractor and trailer, was pulling out of Nest Lick Acres Road, attempting to turn left onto Route 219. According to the police, he was unable to see a northbound 1999 Chevy van, driven by Ember James Barrick, 59, Oakland, due to extreme white-out conditions from the blowing snow.

The roads were icy and snow covered, and Barrick was unable to stop and struck the trailer of Hutson's vehicle. No injuries were reported, and no charges were filed, police said.

Shortly before 9 a.m., Barbara Anne Sanderson, 40, Philippi, W.Va., lost control of her 1990 Toyota Celica when she was traveling east on Route 50. She ran off the road and struck a mailbox before coming to rest in a ditch.

She was not injured, and no charges were filed, police said.

Lona Jean Filsinger, 48, Swanton, swerved to miss a vehicle that was sliding into her path on Sand Flat Road. Her vehicle then skidded on the icy road and into a ditch.

No charges were filed in the 9:36 a.m. accident.

The Olympic Lesson...

The 2002 Winter Olympics will begin this weekend, and whether or not one is a sports enthusiast, for most people there is considerable enjoyment in watching the competition in the various athletic events. These are the world's finest in his or her chosen sport, and observing the end result of their dedication and extremely hard work in preparation just for a chance to be a part of the games is rather awe inspiring.

But taking away the amazing athletic achievements that are always recorded at the games, there is something extremely valuable about this special gathering every four years, made even more poignant this year because of the events of September 11 and the fact that the 2002 games are being held in the United States.

There is a great lesson to be learned from these world-class athletes, whose focus is on one thing, and only one thing — doing the best they can in their area of athletic expertise. Among the athletes, the many political, cultural, racial, and religious differences are unimportant. While their goal is to defeat their opponents, typically they also greatly value and identify with their opponents. Although they are rivals, they are also members of an elite group, each one of which has selected, pursues, and values the same sport. They are connected with each other in this unique way. Their competition is intense, but usually so is the sense of camaraderie and respect.

Even during previous Olympics, such as those held during the build-up of Nazi Germany and, more recently, when the United States and the Soviet Union were bitter enemies, the relationships among the athletes themselves were basically solid and unaffected by the chasms that existed among their governments.

So athletics, whether or not one enjoys them, is a great leveler of people, regardless of where they live, what language they speak, what color they are, what religion they profess, and what system of government happens to exist in their respective homelands. With so many parts of the world continually in such destructive upheaval, and especially with our own nation having been attacked just five months ago, these 2002 Winter Olympic games should once again prove to be a wonderful break, a refreshing — albeit temporary — escape, from the never-ending turmoil wrought entirely by the selfish, intolerant nature of man.

Let the games begin.

To the Editor:

Next week, as we give valentines and gifts to those we love, is a perfect time to remind ourselves of how precious our children are. In the last several months the country has united to stand against terrorism. We protect our children and keep them close to us, because we have been reminded of what is really important.

But are we doing enough to protect them?

February 10-16 is National Child Passenger Safety Week. The facts speak for themselves: Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for children ages 4 to 14; child safety seats reduce fatal injury by 71 percent for infants and by 54 percent for toddlers; and unrestrained children are three times more likely to be injured than those who are restrained.

So, while you give your kids valentines and candy, help them buckle up correctly. And while you do, remind them that the belts are giving them a hug from you, because you want them to be safe.

And don't forget, older kids often still need a boost in the car. When your child outgrows his forward-facing safety seat, use a booster seat until he is at least 8 years old or over 4 feet, 9 inches tall. Seat belts alone are made for adults. A booster seat raises a child up so the seat belt fits. This will prevent your child from being thrown from the car, or thrown around inside it, during a crash.

And as you buckle the kids, remind yourself that they need you around, too. So buckle your seatbelt, for your kids' sake!

Sincerely,
Diane Lee
Highway Safety Coordinator
Garrett County Health Department

To the Editor:

In response to the Sun paper's Monday, January 21, article on the bear-hunting ban:

I never cease to be amazed by human ignorance and arrogance in thinking that God's creation "Earth" was put here solely for the inhabitance and use by mankind.

Wilderness and wildlife are the major attractions that draw people to western Maryland. When humans encroach on habitats that have been occupied by wildlife long before man set foot there, some isolated encounters are bound to take place.

Yes, Barbara Reed, at times people will be inconvenienced by bears, snakes, birds, skunks, etc., but you have placed yourself in their domain. If you and others like you cannot tolerate interaction with nature, don't destroy it, just move. There is plenty of real estate for you to sell in another county in the suburbs.

If we were to follow Ms. Reed's logic, that if the state can't control bears then there needs to be a bear hunt to kill these so-called "burglars," does that mean that since the state can't control the human criminal element that we should shoot them dead on the spot?! (As I read The Republican, your local paper each week, it seems to me there is a burglary of the human kind in the paper each week. How does this ratio compare to the bear break-ins?)

I can't ever recall hearing of any black bear attacks resulting in a human fatality. Granted, occasional minor property damage caused by black bears searching for food can be annoying at times. However, the degree of death and destruction caused by our human counterparts around the world is so massive it can't be calculated.

The pollution, shortsightedness, and cruelty of mankind have brought hundreds of species of animals to extinction, and hundreds more to the brink of extinction, eventually including humanity itself. The killing of bears is not the answer; we must learn to co-exist with all animal species and with ourselves.

I have worked in Baltimore City for 22 years. The murder rate averages one murder per day. There are more criminals than places to house them. I also have property in Garrett County, where I hope to live someday away from dense populations of cold, calculating, and intolerant people. Wildlife has been equipped with the natural instinct to avoid contact with mankind and for good reason. I know I'd rather take my chances with bears, bobcats, timber rattlers, and copperheads as neighbors any day.

Sincerely,
Russ Subock
Sykesville

To the Editor:

On behalf of Garrett County Lighthouse Inc., a rural mental health care provider, as well as a private nonprofit agency, we want to voice our concern on the severe under funding of mental health. Although Maryland has created a system that is accessible, the system is labor intensive and costly to a rural provider such as Lighthouse.

Why? Authorizations for services are in three-month windows instead of six-month windows, which creates a financial forecasting nightmare. We have no guarantee that we will have any service authorizations beyond the three-month window, but what we do know is that we have expenses beyond the three months, which forces private providers to use financial reserves in order to balance the annual budget.

How does it work? Maryland Health Partners, the administrative service organization designated by the Mental Hygiene Administration, requires that Lighthouse submit, one month before the authorization is due to expire, an Individual Rehabilitation Plan. In effect, the result is even shorter windows of authorizations, which have doubled our support cost. Individual Rehabilitation Plans are faxed over and over in smaller intervals, which increase expenses supported by an inadequate fee for service rate.

Can the rates support the cost or increased expense? The fee for service rate that Lighthouse receives is expected to support the following services: case management, rehabilitation activities, direct care services, medication monitoring services, transportation, clerical services, billing services, administrative cost, building, operational cost, under utilized services, and rising inflationary cost. The result is that it becomes progressively more difficult to balance income and expense with increased cost, shorter windows of authorizations, and delayed authorizations. Rural programs suffer more financial difficulty due to a lower number of patient services, which in turn require us to continue to reduce personnel hours to a bare minimum.

What about increased support cost? Additionally, Maryland Health Partners has had difficulty in handling volumes of Individual Rehabilitation Plans, which has resulted in "lost" plans that have to be re-faxed, which in turn increases expenses, and again delays authorizations. On one occasion, we had to fax five identical plans of care on the same individual, due to lost plans, denial of services, and appealed services. As a private provider of mental health services, authorizations for services are the life preserver that keeps us afloat in the sea of change that is becoming more and more problematic.

What if there is a delay? Individuals who have been denied our services that have been appealed are waiting weeks, not 24 hours, as stated in the Maryland Health Partners policy manual for a response, which again delays authorizations. The result is that Lighthouse has an ethical choice to discontinue services to those in need or to deliver the service and risk non-payment, which further jeopardizes the financial balance.

What can you do? Your assistance is needed to talk to the legislative leadership and to the governor, asking them to prioritize responding to the mental health budget crisis. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski
Chief Executive Officer
Garrett County Lighthouse Inc.

MARDI GRAS

"What is Mardi Gras anyway?" The question came from a member of my Lord's Day school class. In the church newsletter we had advertised a Mardi Gras pancake breakfast. She had heard of the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. My guess is that from what she knew about New Orleans, what they did down there was not something, she thought, we should be doing in church.

Mardi Gras literally means "fat Tuesday," and specifically refers to the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday. There are various explanations of what "fat" signifies. One supposition is that it refers to the fat ox which was, in centuries gone by, paraded through the streets of Paris on that day. Another idea is that it points to the fat (i.e., lard, butter, etc.) which needed to be used up before the beginning of the long Lenten fast.

In token of the second explanation, that day was called "Pancake Tuesday" amongst traditional English communities. Many places in America still have pancake suppers on the Eve of Ash Wednesday. It is in this tradition that my church is having a Mardi Gras pancake breakfast on Saturday morning.

The most proper name for the day before Ash Wednesday, for its religious significance and historical pedigree, is Shrove Tuesday. "Shrove" is a participle form of "shrive," which already in 776 A.D. meant to judge someone's sins.

Over time, "shrive" became a kind of verbal catch-all of repentance. If I shrive my sins, then I am confessing my sins. If a priest shrives me, then he hears my confession. If I am shriven of my sins, it means that I have been absolved from my sins. It is a very forgiving word as to subjects and objects, whether direct or indirect.

This ancient word has a fascinating prehistory at which we can only guess. Linguists tell us that "shrive" ultimately means "to write." The Old English word has counterparts in ancient languages as diverse as Old Norse and Latin. That, in turn, suggests to me that "shrive" is one of those words (like "mother" and "father"), which comes down to us through the mists of time and was part of the vocabulary of prehistoric men and women.

Prehistory is that time before language was written. Perhaps in the emerging image age we shall comprehend better what the world was like without writing, since the image age — the age of the Internet of which television was but the crudest harbinger — increasingly dispenses with writing.

I think that linguists have their guess backward. I think the ancient, prehistorical verb "to shrive" meant "to judge," and that it only came to mean "to write" when writing was invented. In an age when serious writing was chiseled in stone, to write was an awesome thing — as in "awe inspiring." It was to shrive a thing. Writing was the expression of judgment.

Whether the details of this theory are correct, the millennia-long association of writing and repentance is a fact. A suitable exercise for Shrove Tuesday is the writing down of one's sins, especially those besetting sins in which we habitually engage and of our resolve to make this year's Lent a good Lent, a lengthening of our lives toward God.

I have written on other occasions of my growing love for the Catholic Church. One feature that draws me to her is her moderation. She demands a fast of her adherents, but she permits them a feast first. We, the Puritans, had no need of church seasons for we turned the whole year into a Lenten fast.

If we, the Puritans, forgot to feast because we loved a life of fasting, the world forgot to fast because it loved a life of feasting. The excesses of Mardi Gras must necessarily become more egregious in order to be distinguished from the commonplace debauchery and licentiousness of daily life.

The Puritan gentleman fallen in love with a Catholic lady seeks a recovery of feast and fast as a fundamental rhythm of life. This week we eat pancakes, with a good dose of pancake syrup (the thick kind) as preparation for dining on bread and water next Wednesday.

A fat Tuesday is to be followed by a lean Wednesday. On one day we celebrate life lived to its fullest. On the next day we remember that every life ends in death. In that contrast and conjunction is much of life's mystery and meaning.

GOING SOUTH, MEETING THE MOUSE

by Mary Sincell McEwen

PART FOUR:

The Big Golf Ball, Wild Animals, and Rain

Are you still reading? Cheesh. I'm beginning to think this series is similar to subjecting family and friends to hours of vacation slides. But anyhoo, back to our Disney odyssey. We're up to New Year's Day 2002, when we boarded the bus for Epcot, yet another amazing place where the attractions are slick and surprising. The park is the size of about 89 football fields, or so it seems, so the crowd seemed non-existent, in stark contrast to the day before at the Magic Kingdom, where our view for most of the day was of other people's backs.

We began our Epcot day by walking several hundred miles to a ride that my how-to-do-Disney book said was a definite "not to be missed" — the Fast Track. It is a simulated race track on which the cars move at incredible speeds around and around. Well, the kids took one look at it and said, "Are you crazy, Mom? No way!" So much for that.

We walked back over the miles to the center of the park in search of tamer attractions, and thus embarked on several hours of "sit down, ride, and watch" shows. You could spend months in that place just learning stuff — the Living Seas, the Land, Spaceship Earth (more widely known as the giant golf ball), Universe of Energy, and Cranium Command. We were completely astonished by the 3-D Honey, I Shrunk the Audience, which caused Michael to rip his 3-D glasses off his face several times to reassure himself that he was not about to be squashed or zapped by Rick Moranis, who seemed to fly directly in front of our eyes. We also traveled inside a human being, after being reduced in size, of course, in a ride called Body Wars. We rode around inside this person, seeing a splinter from inside her finger, getting stuck in her heart, just everything. When we came out, Alex, who has always been avidly repulsed by all manner of bodily fluids, said, "That was the most disgusting thing I have ever seen in my whole life."

The day sped by as we over-stimulated our minds and bodies. We opted to head back to the hotel a little earlier, and the boys insisted that they were going swimming. The pools were outside, but they were heated, so what the heck? They all three jumped in on Jan. 1. I watched poolside, wrapped in my coat, while John videotaped the three loonies. Mom relaxed, feet-up, in the room, engaged in a Harry Potter book and grandson-free for a while.

Animal Kingdom was our destination on Wednesday. I wasn't sure about that place because I had never been there and knew little about it. My doubts were erased quickly, because it is yet another mind-boggling land of entertainment. The weather was not so entertaining, though. It was sprinkling when we went to breakfast, and by the time we got to the park, the clouds opened up and the rain did pour. I was so proud of myself for packing three ponchos for the boys, but we had to cough up cash to buy some for us three adults. There was no way to avoid it. The water rolled off us in rivers, pouring into our shoes and soaking our sleeves almost to the elbow. Blech. This marked the beginning of Michael's decline. He whined and whimpered, scowled and pouted. He was tired and he wanted to go back to the hotel and go swimming again. He was completely unreasonable, and started an alarming trend of wandering off to sulk where we might not see him. The place was crowded with other wet people, so I had to have my eye trained on his bright orange poncho at all times.

The rain did not diminish the effects of the attractions, though. Even crabby Michael had to admit that the Lion King show was spectacular and the live animals all over the place were fascinating, especially those bright birds that looked like someone had dipped them in red paint. The boys visited with all the Disney characters, dressed in their best safari duds and very willing to sign Alex's autograph book. The safari ride was John's all-time favorite thing. We rode in open-air vehicles right through fields with exotic animals everywhere. I loved it, too, but I did get a bit concerned when we stopped and a rhino started heading our way. "Um, that guy is coming over here," I said quietly. Assessing the situation, I really couldn't figure out what our defense might be if the beast decided to visit close up. I pictured my camera bouncing harmlessly off his horn. "Um, excuse me, but he really is coming over here . . ." At last we rumbled on our way. The rhino, I swear, looked disappointed. You know, they're big.

There was the dinosaur fiasco. Noting it was another "highly recommended" attraction in my how-to book, we went in this ride without a qualm. The qualms came fast and furious, though, as we were jerked and yanked through a terrifying maze of monsters — huge dinosaurs breathing on us and screeching. All three boys were traumatized, I think, but Mom was thrilled. The kids stumbled out, their faces stricken, followed by their exuberant grandmother, who whooped: "Wasn't that wonderful?"

They recovered quickly from their distress, though, and enjoyed the rest of the day, being wowed again by another 3-D masterpiece, It's Tough to be a Bug, starring all the Bug's Life heroes, and bumping along the "Kali River Rapids" in a raft. We were soaked anyhow, so why not? The rain ceased finally and we watched a great Lion-King-esque parade before heading back to Riverside. Nighttime swimming was on the agenda again, along with some more relaxing before yet another day of Disney mania. The marathon was beginning to take its toll, though, as you will see in next week's episode, when Michael says, "Mommy, my throat hurts." Dum, dum, DUM. (← that's supposed to be suspenseful music.)

Maryland One Of Worst States For Low-Weight, Premature Births

by Shannon Canton
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland was among the worst states in the nation for low birth-weight and premature births in 1999, capping a decade in which its standing against other states steadily fell.

A study released Tuesday by the Annie E. Casey Foundation said that Maryland had the fifth-worst rate for newborns weighing less than 5.5 pounds, with 9 percent of babies here underweight compared to 7.6 percent nationally.

The state was sixth-worst for births before the 37th month of gestation, with 13.3 percent of babies in Maryland born prematurely compared to 11.8 percent nationally.

Researchers said the state may have been dragged down by Baltimore, which had the worst rankings of the 50 largest U.S. cities, and by the rising birthrate among blacks in the state.

"One thing that will make it difficult for Maryland to improve is that there is a much higher incidence for pre-term and low-birth weight births for African American women," said Richard Wertheimer, senior research associate for Child Trends and co-author of the report.

Of the 72,000 births in Maryland in 1999, more than 24,000 were to black women. Maryland ranks fifth in the country for the number of minority births, said Dr. Maureen Edwards, medical director for the state's Center for Maternal and Child Health.

Researchers are not sure why African Americans tend to have more premature and low birth-weight babies.

"People tend to blame ...socioeconomic phenomena, but that is not all of the story," Edwards said. She pointed to studies of the military, for example, where everyone has the same access to health care, that still show a racial disparity in low birth-weight.

Edwards said one reason could be that some complications of pregnancy, such as hypertension, are more common among African American women. But low birth-weight is probably due to multiple factors and is most likely not genetic, she said.

Wertheimer also said Baltimore "clearly tends to hold down the performance of the state as a whole."

The 10,000 births in Baltimore in 1999 accounted for 14 percent of the state total that year. Baltimore had more low birth-weight births than any of the cities to which it was compared and more premature births than most.

While Maryland women who gave birth tended to have had higher education levels and were less likely to smoke during pregnancy than in most other states, Baltimore ranked worst in these categories among big cities.

And the city also had the highest percentage of women who smoked during pregnancy, at 17 percent, compared to the 9.8 percent of pregnant women statewide who smoked, earning Maryland a rank of 10th.

Edwards said the state's diversity has to be taken into account when considering its rankings.

"For a lot of these things, we're mixing the population, so the average doesn't necessarily tell the story for the individual woman," she said.

The rate of premature and low-weight births rose both nationally and in Maryland during the 1990s, although the state rate rose faster and remained slightly higher. Part of the increase can be attributed to the rising use of fertility treatments, which have caused more multiple births, Wertheimer said.

Edwards said assisted reproductive technology is widely available in Maryland. Women who once had difficulty with pregnancy can now get pregnant, she said, but the treatment may cause multiple births or the women may not be able to carry a baby to full term.

The report said the percentage of women who received late or no prenatal care in Maryland fell from 4 percent in 1990 to 3.1 percent in 1999.

But Edwards said prenatal care needs to be made more readily available in Maryland, and that transportation, support systems and cultural competence need to be assessed, in addition to increases in funding. The state should be asking if the woman finds prenatal care worthwhile and it meets her own health beliefs.

"We don't have a specific statewide program to address these things," she said.

into four program areas: school-based, cessation, enforcement, and community. Todd said the Health Department tried this year to come up with new ideas for new areas, as well as build upon those already established. "No single approach is successful," she explained about the broad-based effort to reduce tobacco use in the county. "We need to be comprehensive."

New this year, in the school-based program, is an action plan targeted at preschoolers and their parents. According to Todd, by the end of February, more than 400 Head Start children and their parents will learn about the dangers of secondhand smoke. Parents will also be asked to commit to a simple goal, she said, such as not smoking in cars or inside buildings, to protect others from secondhand smoke.

A new cessation program has also been implemented. Mike Wilburn, the department's tobacco prevention coordinator, reported that 38 residents were currently participating in the six-week program. Participants receive individual counseling and attend classes covering various topics, including coping, stress, nicotine addiction, lifestyle changes, and weight-gain concerns. Students who are still in the program after five weeks, Wilburn said, are eligible to receive vouchers for free nicotine patches from participating pharmacists to help them quit using tobacco products.

"We're looking at other grants to expand the program," Todd added.

Wilburn also coordinates the enforcement program. He is currently in the process of identifying businesses that are not in compliance with the Clean Indoor Air Act and the Minor's Access Law. "Our main goal is to educate businesses," he said. "We congratulate those in compliance with the law, and offer training to help others comply." He added that only as a "last straw" are law enforcement officers involved.

Wilburn noted that of the 32 vendors recently checked for compliance with the Minor's Access Law, six were willing to sell tobacco products to minors. High school students in the Esteem program participated in the checks, he said.

The bulk of the CRF funding, $25,843, will be used in the community program, according to Todd. One target of the program is area Little Leagues. Coaches, umpires, and others will be asked to sign pledges not to use tobacco while involved in Little League activities. The Oakland Little League has already adopted a tobacco-free policy, which will be implemented this spring. One of the goals of the plan is to disassociate the use of tobacco, especially smokeless tobacco, from baseball, said Todd.

"There is a misconception that smokeless tobacco is less harmful than smoking," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

Wilburn agreed. "It's like being electrocuted, either by AC or DC [electric current]," he said about the equally negative effects of both products.

$20K ReNew Donation Memorializes Grantsville Resident Betty Gerwig

BETTY ANN GERWIG

A love of people and books that found its expression in the life of Betty Ann Gerwig, who gave the free time of retirement years to the children of Grantsville and the patrons of the Ruth Enlow Library system, will continue to express itself when the new Grantsville Library is built. Gerwig, a resident of Grantsville's Goodwill Retirement Village from 1986 until her death in May at the age of 68, has been memorialized by a $20,000 donation made by her sister and brother-in-law to the ReNew Library Fund for the construction of a new library in the town.

"Grantsville was Betty's home, and the community accepted her with open arms," commented Doris G. Feaster, Gerwig's sister. "She never met a stranger, and she was very dedicated to children." Aside from Feaster, Gerwig also had two brothers and another sister.

Gerwig was a retired public school teacher and Howard County librarian when she arrived in Grantsville in Febuary 1986. She was the first resident of Goodwill Retirement Village, her home until she entered Goodwill's Assisted Living Unit in October 2000.

Retirement was not a matter of "marking time" for Gerwig, who shared her lifetime of experience with her newly adopted community by not only becoming a board member of the Ruth Enlow Public Library, but by also volunteering at the Oakland, Grantsville, and Friendsville branches.

Gerwig also found a concrete way to express her love for children by spending countless hands-on volunteer hours at Grantsville Elementary School. "Miss Betty" became a fixture at the school, and was admired by not only the children but the staff as well. She came in almost every day, even as a volunteer, and gave constant moral support to the other teachers both during and before the school year.

Although she worked mostly with second- and fourth-grade students, Gerwig's generosity made its impact throughout the school. She found relaxation in filing cards in the library and found joy in helping those who needed it, especially by tutoring children, at times even welcoming them into her own home.

Gerwig used her talents to turn the school's story hour into an opportunity for children to exercise their imaginations. While she would often read to the children, at other times she would recite stories from memory, painting vivid pictures for her listeners while at the same time instilling a love of reading.

"It would be easy to simply say that Betty Gerwig's passion was for teaching and helping children," Grantsville resident Lisa Broadwater observed. "But for those who knew her best, her true passion was for life in general, and all that life consists of."

ARE YOU TIRED OF BEING OVERWEIGHT AND LACKING ENERGY?
So was Ruthann until she found Vital-18 10 YEARS ago.
Ruthann, like you, saw an ad similar to this one in her local paper, but was skeptical about trying it. She was on medical leave for a broken knee, so exercise was close to impossible. She tried Vital-18 any way and loved it. Her energy level shot up and the pounds melted away. Her cast fell of due to rapid weight loss and had to be redone. She went from 240 lbs to her goal of 140 lbs in just 6 months. Can you imagine losing 100 unwanted pounds in just 6 months? It is not unusual with the Vital-18. Not only did she lose the 100 lbs but has kept it off for over 10 years by using the Vital-18 once a day, even after having 2 children.
Her success story can be found at www.weightloss-diet.com along with other testimonials, information and store locations. If you want to lose weight but are skeptical about finding a healthy effective diet product that is 100% unconditionally guaranteed to your personal satisfaction, go to your local independent health food store and get a free sample and a free 30 minute audio tape on Vital-18.
Vital-18 is a totally natural product with out any harsh stimulants and is safe for children thru seniors and is even used as a prenatal vitamin. Vital-18 has been inspected by the FDA and the USDA. It is a liquid concentrate containing 72 vitamins, minerals and 19 of the known 22 amino acids essential for dieting. All in natural occurring form.

Vital-18 comes in 3 great tasting flavors, chocolate, berry and butternut.
According to the news obesity is Americas biggest health risk effecting 25% of the population. Vital-18 is a major help with this problem. If you want to increase your life span and your quality of life then try the Vital-18. You have nothing to lose but unwanted pounds, and there is so much you can achieve, such as more energy, more luster to your hair, stronger finger nails and even cuts and scratches heal faster.
You do not experience the normal side effects of dieting such as irritability, hunger, headaches etc.
Are we trying to sell you something? You betcha. A much better life at a bargain price.
The bottom line here is that the Vital-18 has had a 98% customer satisfaction rate since its introduction to the U.S. 13 years ago. It is the most effective and the healthiest diet product available in the U.S., and it should be. It was developed as a govt. project in "Qatar" for better health for their whole nation at an expense of 20 million dollars and 3 years of research. Remember this is a no risk situation. If you are not satisfied with this product for any reason, simply take it back to the store of purchase for a full refund. So go to the following independently owned health food store and get your free sample and audio tape on Vital-18.

Schlosnagle To Seek Another Term As Mayor

Spencer R. Schlosnagle, present mayor of Friendsville, announced his intention to seek another term as that community's chief executive. Schlosnagle, who was first elected at the age of 21, was the youngest mayor ever elected in the state of Maryland.

During his career, Schlosnagle has served on numerous boards and committees. He is the past president of the Governor's Youth Advisory Council, has served as Garrett County's municipal representative on the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland Inc., is a member of Grace Lutheran Church and past president of the church council, and he currently serves on the Maryland Municipal League's Legislative Committee. The mayor has also served on the American Red Cross board of directors, the American Heart Association, the Democratic Central Committee for Garrett County, and the Friendsville Town Council.

In Schlosnagle's tenure as mayor, numerous projects have been accomplished for the town. He cited cooperation of the town council, local citizens, and various organizations, as well as county and state agencies as major components in achieving several of his many goals. The local water and waste water treatment plants, which were once owned and operated by the town, were improved and upgraded with over 1 million dollars worth of state and federal grant monies. "This accomplishment would not have been possible without local letters of support and a local lobbying campaign in Annapolis and Washington," he said.

The mayor noted that, in the past several years, various state and federal grants have facilitated the development and construction of the Friendsville Head Start Center and the Friendsville Community Center. He added that a number of local senior citizens actually traveled to Annapolis to lobby legislators for support of the grant funding.

"We have one of the most beautiful community parks in the tri-state area, which was purchased and developed through Program Open Space funding, as well as a lot of volunteer labor," he said. Last fall, Friendsville was one of 40 statewide recipients of over $95,000 from the Governor's Parks and Playgrounds Program. Additional facility development for the park is scheduled to begin this spring.

Word was received recently that a grant of over $92,000 is forthcoming from the federal Community Development Block Grant Program to assist with the Army Corps of Engineers' stream bank stabilization project. This project will repair and enforce a portion of the bank along Bear Creek where flooding has occurred. The Corps is contributing over $240,000 for this project, which will get under way this fall.

"Despite our relatively small size, the fact that our town has received these numerous grant monies should be a source of pride and accomplishment for citizens of Friendsville," stated Schlosnagle.

He said that the town of Friendsville has worked cooperatively over the past several years with State Highway Administration officials during the $500,000 streetscape project along the state right-of-way through the community. Storm drains, sidewalks, handicap ramps, curbing, gutters, and roadway resurfacing were upgraded. A beautification enhancement to this area included the planting of over 40 low-growing flowering trees along the length of the project area. Additionally, a parklet was completed in the center of town this past summer.

Schlosnagle said that his administration worked diligently to bring medical services back into the community. Through a cooperative effort with Garrett Medical Group, a nurse practitioner now has an active practice in Friendsville. Two doctors are also available, when needed, for the local citizens.

The mayor worked on the town's behalf to bring the Friendship Heights apartment complex to the area, which has increased Friendsville's population, making it the third largest municipality in Garrett County. This has facilitated the lowering of the local tax rate by 8% over the last several years. "The town's general revenue fund is the strongest that it has ever been, and it is my goal to continue to work to keep our community fiscally sound," he said.

The town is currently working with the assistance of the Maryland Department of Planning and the local planning commission to adopt a revised Comprehensive Development Plan and Zoning Ordinance. Public comment will be solicited prior to the final adoption of these working documents.

Schlosnagle noted that community pride is evident every day, and it reaches a high point during the annual "Clean Up, Paint Up Week" that is sponsored by the mayor and town council each spring and fall. Because of both environmental and public health concerns, the town contracts with a scrap metal recycler to collect old appliances and recyclable metal items at no cost to the local residents.

During the holiday season, the town is decorated with nearly 40 recently purchased lighted decorations, thanks in a large part to donations by local residents, businesses, and organizations, Schlosnagle said.

The town is working with the Department of Natural Resources on tree beautification projects. Two years ago, the town received the DNR's PLANT Community Award. "This year, Friendsville has applied for the Gold Level PLANT Community Award, and we are hopeful of achieving this level," stated Schlosnagle.

"Some of my future plans for the town are to initiate a recycling program for our local residents, which not only will cut down on the tipping fees paid to the county landfill but will also serve to protect our environment. We are also looking at ways to encourage economic development in our area, and have been in contact with various local and state officials to request assistance. Currently the town has over 30 businesses and organizations located here. Many are your basic stores, and some are quite unique. We still have room to grow!" the mayor added.

"This administration, from the very beginning, has worked to build, strengthen, and unify our community. We are headed in the right direction for a bright future for all of our citizens. My desire is to follow through with my goals for the betterment of Friendsville," Schlosnagle concluded.

Five Sophomores Elected To SHS Student Council

Five sophomores were elected to Southern High School's student council by their classmates last May. The sophomore representatives are Sara DiSimone, Jason Fike, Sabrina Scheffel, Curt Taylor, and alternate Nora Nichols.

Sara DiSimone is the daughter of Randy and Cheryl DiSimone of Oakland. DiSimone is a member and the secretary of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils and is an honor roll student. She is also a member of the volleyball team.

Jason Fike is the son of Jeff and Pam Fike of Oakland. Fike is a member of the tennis team. He helps with church events and community center events. After high school, Fike plans to go to college and become a computer specialist.

Sabrina Scheffel is the daughter George and Anita Scheffel, Oakland. Scheffel is a member of the girls' soccer, track, and basketball teams. She is also on the Southern High's School Improvement Team. Scheffel is an honor roll student and a representative of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils. She is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church Council and member of the Arsenal traveling soccer league. After high school, Scheffel plans to go to college.

Curt Taylor is the son of Allen and Robin Taylor of Swanton. Taylor is a member of the baseball team. Taylor is also an active member of the Boy Scouts, and belongs to Troop 22. After high school, Taylor plans to go to college and major in chemical engineering.

Nora Nichols is the daughter of Kevin and Abigail Nichols, Oakland. She is a member ot the cheerleading squad and the girls' track team. After high school, Nichols plans to go to college.

Icy Conditions Lead To Single-Vehicle Crash

An Oakland man was injured Monday morning when his car rolled over an embankment after he lost control of the vehicle near the entrance to Swallow Falls State Park. An icy road surface and whiteout conditions contributed to the mishap, according to Department of Natural Resources rangers.

Donald Roger Winters, 55, was traveling northbound on Swallow Falls Road when his 1999 Toyota sedan slid on ice and snow in the curve just prior to Maple Glen Road. The car went off the left side of the road, over an embankment, and struck several trees before coming to rest. Winters was trapped inside and had to be freed by Oakland Volunteer Fire Department personnel. A passenger, Bonette Dodds Winters, 53, Oakland, was not injured and had freed herself from the car prior to the arrival of emergency personnel.

Donald Winters was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for a back injury and released. No charges were filed by DNR investigators.

Werdebaugh Receives Master's

Todd Martin Werdebaugh recently received his master's degree in industrial hygiene from Murray State University, Murray, Ky., graduating with a 4.0 grade point average.

He is currently employed by Washington Group International, assisting with the safety division management of Phillips Oil Refinery in St. Louis, Mo. In addition, he is a specialist in the United States Army Reserve.

He resides in New Baden, Ill., and is a 1994 graduate of Southern High School. Werdebaugh also received his bachelor's degree in environmental occupational safety and health from MSU.

He is the son of Wendy and Dave Berry, and Darrell and Viola Werdebaugh, all of Oakland. He is the grandson of Eleanor Teets, Cranesville, and Alice (Werdebaugh) Moats, Terra Alta, W.Va.

United Way

that all the money raised in Garrett County stays in Garrett County," said Fitzwater. "It's local volunteers who serve on the executive, campaign, and community response committees."

The committee members decide which agencies will be accepted by United Way of Garrett County, and specify how the funds are to be distributed among the agencies. Perhaps even more importantly, these volunteers review annual reports to assure that the orginal goals are being met. "That way there is total local autonomy and accountability," said Fitzwater. "It also goes without saying that we are always looking for new volunteers to help us with these efforts."

Prior to a local United Way being formed, Garrett County received approximately $4,000 each year from County United Way. During last year, the first year of the local United Way chapter's operation, the 15 member agencies received 10 times that amount, or $40,000. This year that amount has already been exceeded by 40 percent, with almost three full months to go.

Contributions to United Way of Garrett County come in several ways. This year several local employers have offered a payroll deduction program, whereby employees may give as little as a dollar a week toward the cause. Others choose to mail checks directly to United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550. Still others have chosen to be billed directly or to place the donation on their major credit card.

For additional information on how programming is supported by the United Way of Garrett County, or to make a contribution, persons may contact the UWGC by phone at 301-359-9697, or via e-mail at cuw@allconet.org.

"The most important thing about contributing to United Way is not how much you give but the fact that you give," Fitzwater commented. "United Way's success is based on a lot of people giving a little. It's Garrett County people helping to meet the needs of Garrett County."

GOSFORD PARK

Rated R - Running Time: 2:17 - Released 12/26/01

A brilliantly executed and densely populated British period mystery, Gosford Park is as close to a Merchant/Ivory film as you can get without Merchant or Ivory. Although set in London with a nearly all-British cast, it is the product of American filmmakers Robert Altman and Bob Balaban, who enlisted the help of British actor Julian Fellowes to help with the screenplay. And that is appropriate, as its story involves an American producer (played by Balaban) who travels to London to get a feel for the society, so that he may use it to flavor his next movie. Directed by Altman (MASH, Cookie's Fortune), it takes place during a weekend party at a British country home during the early 1930s, with a numerous cast of talented actors, a sumptuous and richly detailed setting, and an anonymous murder thrown in for good measure.

As the film begins, we meet the hosts of the party, Sir William and Lady Sylvia McCordle (Michael Gambon, Kristin Scott Thomas), whose sprawling estate contains many more rooms than people and many more servants than guests, especially since most of the guests brought their own servants. Besides the aforementioned American, Morris Weissman (Balaban), producer of the popular Charlie Chan movies, and his valet, Henry Denton (Ryan Phillippe), there are family members, like the elderly and insufferably spoiled Constance (a delightful Maggie Smith), a countess who must deal with the trials of breaking in her inexperienced new Scottish maid, the young and innocent Mary Macreachran (Kelly Macdonald); friends and dignitaries, like Lord and Lady Raymond and Louisa Stockbridge (Charles Dance, Geraldine Somerville) and Lieutenant Commander Anthony Meredith (Tom Hollander) and Lady Lavinia Meredith (Natasha Wightman); and at least one celebrity, American actor Ivor Novello (Jeremy Northam), who just finished the 1932 "talkie" remake of his previous silent film The Lodger (both of which actually did star the real Novello). While the idea of the get-together is obstensibly a pheasant hunt, the primary activities among the guests are eating, drinking, and trading high-society gossip.

Below stairs, the McCordles' butler, Jennings (Alan Bates), and housekeeper, Mrs. Wilson (Helen Mirren), must oversee and choreograph the movements of the incoming servants with that of their own regular staff, like Mrs. Croft, the cook (Eileen Atkins), Elsie, the head housemaid (Emily Watson), Probert, Sir William's valet (Derek Jacobi), Lewis, Lady Sylvia's maid (Meg Wynn Owen), and numerous others. (Even with this voluminous list of names, I have only covered maybe half of the film's speaking parts.) Besides trying not to bump into each other in the hallways, this army of servants engage in their own information trading regarding their employers, and through this we learn the complexity of their relationships and of their lives, despite the oblivious nature of the folks upstairs toward this subject.

After a good deal of time is spent introducing these many characters and engaging in relatively plotless dialogue, the film's moment of conflict arrives when one of the partyers is murdered, just like in Mr. Wiseman's upcoming Chan mystery. Naturally, there are numerous possiblities for a suspect, since the victim was hardly liked by any of the above, including his spouse. In fact, he seems to have been re-murdered by someone else after he was already dead from the first attempt. This ugly development prompts the arrival of Inspector Thompson (Stephen Fry), the classic boor of a detective with wnom few of the guests readily cooperate, and his meek but well-meaning assistant, Constable Dexter (Ron Webster). Their combined act of investigation resides just this side of Monty Python.

In spite of its many humorous aspects, this story is finally a rather tragic one, providing not only a bittersweet story involving some of the servants, but also an intruguing commentary on the separation of the classes that will bring back memories of The Remains Of The Day. Its set and costume design will no doubt be remembered at Oscar time, as will probably some of its actors' performances (Altman in fact already won a Golden Globe for his efforts, and Mirren, Smith, and Fellowes were all justifiably nominated). Although its opening expository period drags on for quite a while, contributing to its overlong running time, before the actual plot kicks in, it is overall a delightful experience. ★★★★½

A WALK TO REMEMBER

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:40 - Released 1/25/02

I don't know if author Nicholas Sparks intended his novel A Walk To Remember to be a long commercial for Christianity, but that seems to be the aim of director Adam Shankman (The Wedding Planner) and screenwriter Karen Janszen, who adapted Sparks's book into a screenplay. A kind of low-rent version of Love Story with overt religious overtones, Shankman's film stars teen pop singer Mandy Moore (whose 1999 song "Candy" led her debut album So Real to platinum status) as a sugary-sweet girl who shows the school tough guy the error of his faithless ways, with all the textual sophistication of an after-school special. Moore, with her famous natural blonde hair dyed mousy brown, exudes the kind of cute necessary to convert even the most hard-nosed atheist, as long as he's a male. Shucks, even I gave it a thought.

Landon Carter (Shane West) is the coolest and most popular guy in high school, and therefore the most likely to get into trouble. At this school (in Beaufort, NC), coolness seems to be inversely proportional to goodness. Naturally, therefore, it follows that Jamie Sullivan (Moore), daughter of judgmental Reverend Sullivan (Peter Coyote), is the least cool kid in the school, despite the fact that she is tirelessly nice and uncommonly beautiful behind her plain clothes and geeky façade. Naturally, Jamie is mistreated by Landon and all his cool friends, who berate her for wearing the same sweater every day, volunteering at the local hospital, and singing in church.

But when Landon gets busted by the cops from some juvenile delinquent (in other words, cool) behavior, he is sentenced to community service, which includes just about all of Jamie's favorite activities—including participating in the school play. Although he is loathe to speak to her, Landon needs Jamie's help to learn his lines. She agrees to help him, on the condition that he promises not to fall in love with her. "This is not a problem," he says, but, of course, her feminine wiles start to work on him, and he begins to question his cool heritage. Soon he is not only enjoying her company, but also renouncing his old friends, buying her a new sweater, and building a telescope so they may spend some quality after-dark time together. But all is not well in the blissful land of teen love. Jamie has a dreadful secret that could not only end their affair, it could endanger the environment, filling the entire world's landfills with wet, soppy facial tissues.

I kid. I kid because I love. Really, this film shows that Moore has some potential as a brunette...I mean, as an actress. She really doesn't do too badly for a person not old enough to drive, especially when you consider the pandering quality of the text she is forced to interpret. And West, who was nothing short of putrid in last year's Get Over It, does much better here. Also present is Daryl Hannah, whose career arc has taken her from high-profile leading roles in Splash and Roxanne to playing some kid's mom in a soon-to-be-forgotten teen romance. Well, it was the obvious next move for her. ★★½

SLACKERS

Rated R - Running Time: 1:27 - Released 2/1/02

Teen sex comedies can be made or broken by their casts, and although Dewey Nicks's film Slackers is not exactly the best quality entertainment one could hope for, it's certainly better than it could (and probably should) have been. It's got funny moments, great-looking girls, and plenty of suggested sex, and hey, what else can you hope for from this kind of flick? Director Nicks, a former fashion photographer making his directorial debut, at least knows how to make his talent look good, and that's one-third of the battle. The second third is cast performance, and this is probably the film's best aspect, with the joyously irreverent interaction of several twentysomethings most of us have at least seen somewhere before. The final third is, of course, writing. The fact that this is only the sophomore effort of screenwriter David H. Steinberg (after co-writing last summer's American Pie 2) is another reason we should be surprised that this film is not an absolute bomb. Isn't it a pity when the best words a film critic can say about a movie are "not an absolute bomb"?

This movie revolves around the undying loyalty of a trio of college ne'er-do-wells, Dave (Devon Sawa, Final Destination), Sam (Jason Segel, Freaks And Geeks), and Jeff (Michael C. Maronna, displaying the kind of quirky charm that made his appearance in that Ameritrade commercial so funny for the first 500 times, until it just got annoying). Over the years, these guys have become experts at every kind of cheating, and their genius has not failed them in college. In the opening sequence, they conspire on a wildly intricate scheme to get the answers of a mid term exam at the seat of their higher education, Holden University. Although the plan goes off perfectly, one little slip-up by Dave leaves the door open for a vengeful geek named Ethan (Jason Schwartzman, Rushmore) to implicate the three. Determined to save themselves from expulsion, the guys make a deal with Ethan. If he will keep quiet about the scam, they'll hook him up with Angela (James King—yes, her name is "James"), the hottest girl in school, whom he has been stalking all year, filling his dorm room with pictures of her, various personal effects he has stolen, and a doll he has fashioned out of individual strands of her sweet-smelling hair. The trouble is, Dave kind of likes Angela himself, and she kind of likes him back. So while Sam and Jeff do everything they can to snag her for Ethan, Dave and Angela fall in love.

For a non-violent movie like this to get an R rating, you know it has to have tons of obscene language and T&A, and it does, with those elements doing their best to flavor what is otherwise and rather bland and uninspired enterprise. But director Nicks knows he's not doing an Oscar-winner here; this film is built on raunchy comedy and college-age guy humor. It's no better than average, but at least these guys know what works, and there are a few surprises, like a good-natured cameo by Cameron Diaz, lampooning the trashy image she's famous for.

Besides the lively interaction of the cast, this film is helped by some interestingly unconventional musical selections, including an orchestral version of The Who's "Baba O'Reilly" (performed by the London Symphony Orchestra), a choral version of the Ace Of Base hit "The Sign," and a version of "3 Is A Magic Number" (one of my personal favorites from the '70s Multiplication Rock cartoon series), by Blind Melon. These are not songs you hear every day. While Slackers is strictly disposable and eminently rentable material, one can't deny the palpable sense of fun in the delivery. ★★★ from the residence, the homeowner contacted police by cell phone and provided identifying information that led to the arrest of the pair. House's charges remain pending before Circuit Court, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

"I am pleased that Judge Sherbin agreed with my position that, while this crime is not seen by many as serious as crimes directly against a person, such as assault and robbery, it is one that strikes at the heart of a person's safety and that place that should be considered their sanctuary," said Thayer Welch. "Burglaries to homes and businesses have a profound effect on the persons involved. I hope anyone who may be thinking about burglarizing houses in Garrett County knows there will be a high price to pay when they are caught."

RUSSICUM, a vocal ensemble based in St. Petersburg, Russia, will present a concert of sacred music at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland on Friday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m. The ensemble is an a capella group consisting of soloists from St. Petersburg and Kiev. Russicum has toured successfully throughout Europe and the United States, receiving standing ovations and requests for repeat performances. In Russia the choir members sing as soloists in various parishes or work as church choir conductors in the service of the Russian Orthodox Church. The principle goals of the group are to preserve the original traditions of the Russian vocal school, as well as encourage young singers in the field of Christian music. A special concern is to show the continuity of liturgical music from early times to today. All are invited to attend the concert at St. Matthew's Church, which is located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets in downtown Oakland. A donation of $5 per person is requested to help defray travel expenses of the ensemble.

Keyser Theatre Group To Present British Farce

When the members of Apple Valley Players Inc. of Keyser, W.Va., met last year to plan their 2002 schedule, they decided to schedule three, possible four, productions to be presented throughout the year.

See How They Run, their first show of the 2002 season, will be presented on the second floor of Keyser Fire Station No. 1, located at the corner of Davis and Mineral streets in Keyser.

See How They Run, a British farce written by Philip King, follows the misadventures of an American soldier during World War II and his former acting partner, who is now married to the vicar. The cast includes a nosy parishioner, the uptight Bishop of Lax, a saucy maid, a bewildered reverend, and a Russian spy.

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. on Feb. 14, 15, and 16, and there will be a 2 p.m. matinee performance on Sunday, Feb. 17.

Advance tickets are currently available at Linda's Hallmark in Keyser, the Book Center in Cumberland, Main Street Books in Frostburg, and the Bank of Romney in Romney, W.Va. Tickets will also be available at the door for $1 more.

For further information, persons may contact Hartman at 301-777-7130.

IN 25 WORDS OR DEATH is the comedy being presented this weekend by the Southern High School Drama Department and Our Town Theatre. The play, which is under the direction of Jane Avery, will be given at Our Town Theatre tonight (Thursday), Friday, and Saturday at 8 p.m. and on Sunday at 2 p.m. (Feb. 7-10). Avery said the show is appropriate for the entire family. Tickets are $5 each, and persons may make reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640. The cast and crew are pictured above. In the front row, from left, are Karen Gallagher (Miss Puce), Katie Richter (Mrs. Van Pelt), Christie Hamilton (Olive Bunker-Hill), Jon Armstrong (Kelton Garwood), Abbie Getty (Hailey Hampton), Katrina Iden (Barbara Driscoll), Ben Peracchio (Carl), and Suzanne Gilbert (Magda). In the back, same order, are Colleen Watson, Jason Snyder, Carrie Johnston, Doug Stevens, and Allison Ulino, all crew members; and Derek Nutter (Nicholas), Andrew Hill (Severled), and Kenny Noland (J.J. Troop). The play is being presented by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc. and is funded in part by the Garrett County and Maryland arts councils.

Tibetan Monks' Program Set At Frostburg State

A taste of Tibet will come to Frostburg State University on Sunday, March 3, when the Tibetan Monks from the Drepung Loseling Monastery will present "Sacred Music Sacred Dance for World Healing" at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall. The show is part of FSU's Cultural Events Series.

According to a program spokesperson, the performance is designed to transport audiences to the exotic world of Tibet with the famous multiphonic singers, who practice a type of overtone singing unique to the Tibetan culture, along with masked dancers clad in colorful costumes and accompanied by traditional temple instruments. The 10 dances are believed to generate energies conducive to world healing.

Sponsored by Richard Gere Productions and the Drepung Loseling Institute Monastery, an affiliate of Emory University of Atlanta, this production is part of the Mystical Arts of Tibet tours endorsed by the Dalai Lama. The monks have appeared at Carnegie Hall and shared the stage with Paul Simon, Sheryl Crow, and the Beastie Boys, among others.

The monks have released two CDs that have achieved a top 10 listing on U.S. New Age charts, and were featured on the Golden Globe nominated soundtrack of the movie Seven Years in Tibet.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $8 for children under 17. Dinner theatre specials are available prior to the performance at the following dinner theatre partner restaurants: Fratelli's Italian Restaurant; Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant; JB's Steak Cellar; Leone's Itahan Restaurant; and Oxford House. Each special includes a uniquely designed meal with non-alcoholic beverages, tax, and gratuity. Dinner theatre specials can be purchased through the CES Box Office.

For information and ticket purchases, and for dinner-theatre menu selections and reservation purchases, persons may contact the FSU CES Box Office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX CES. Order requests can also be faxed to 301-687-7049 or e-mailed to CES@frostburg.edu. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the Performing Arts Center Box Office one hour prior to the performance. For information and ticket availability on the day of the show, persons may call 301-687-4411. All patrons must have a ticket, and all ticket sales are final.

This tour of the Tibetan Monks from the Drepung Loseling Monastery is presented in partnership with the FSU Center for International Education. The Cultural Events Series is supported in part by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Additional information can be obtained by visiting Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series web site at www.frostburg.edu/events/ces.

PAWS Events To Take Place At Our Town Theatre

Our Town Theatre will be the setting for two activities hosted by Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety Inc. (PAWS), which is a newly formed animal welfare group in Garrett County. The events will serve as both fund-raising opportunities for the organization, and a chance for the public to meet with its members. Membership information will also be available at the events.

A family coffee house, "Paws-itively Pets," will be held at the theatre on Sunday, Feb. 17, from 7 to 10 p.m. The evening of entertainment will be centered around the love of pets, according to a PAWS spokesperson. Homemade cat and dog treats and other pet paraphernalia will be available for purchase throughout the evening at the PAWS Boutique. Two large cat and dog gift baskets filled with toys, treats, and gift certificates will be raffled during the evening as well. There will be a $3 admission charge to this event. Children 5 and under will enter free of charge.

Shoppers, visitors, employers, and employees of the downtown Oakland area are invited to eat lunch and help animals as they "PAWS for Lunch at the OTT" PAWS volunteers and friends will be serving hot soup lunches at the theatre on three Fridays, Feb. 15 and 22 and March 1, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The soups will be donated by various area restaurants in support of PAWS. For a donation of $3, diners will receive a bowl of soup, bread, and a beverage of choice. Homemade baked goods will also be available for purchase. Patrons may dine in or carry out.

Proceeds from these events will help support the PAWS "Adopt a Classroom" project. The organization is looking for 20 Garrett County elementary school teachers who are interested in incorporating humane education materials into their regular classroom curriculum. PAWS will provide those teachers with a free year's subscription to the KIND News, a monthly publication of the Humane Society of the United States.

KIND News teaches children to treat each other, animals, and the environment responsibly, with kindness, respect, and compassion, the spokesperson said.

"It has been demonstrated that children who develop empathy and regard for the pain animals can suffer are likely to develop humane attitudes and relationships with people," said Annette Robinson, PAWS president.

Any teacher interested in receiving KIND News through the PAWS "Adopt a Classroom" program may call 301-334-2699. Samples of the magazine may be previewed by interested teachers. Each classroom subscription will also come with a monthly teacher's guide and a copy of the KIND Teacher resource magazine. Deadline for participation in the program is June 1, 2002. for subscriptions that will begin in September.

Machine Tool Class To Be An Option At NHS

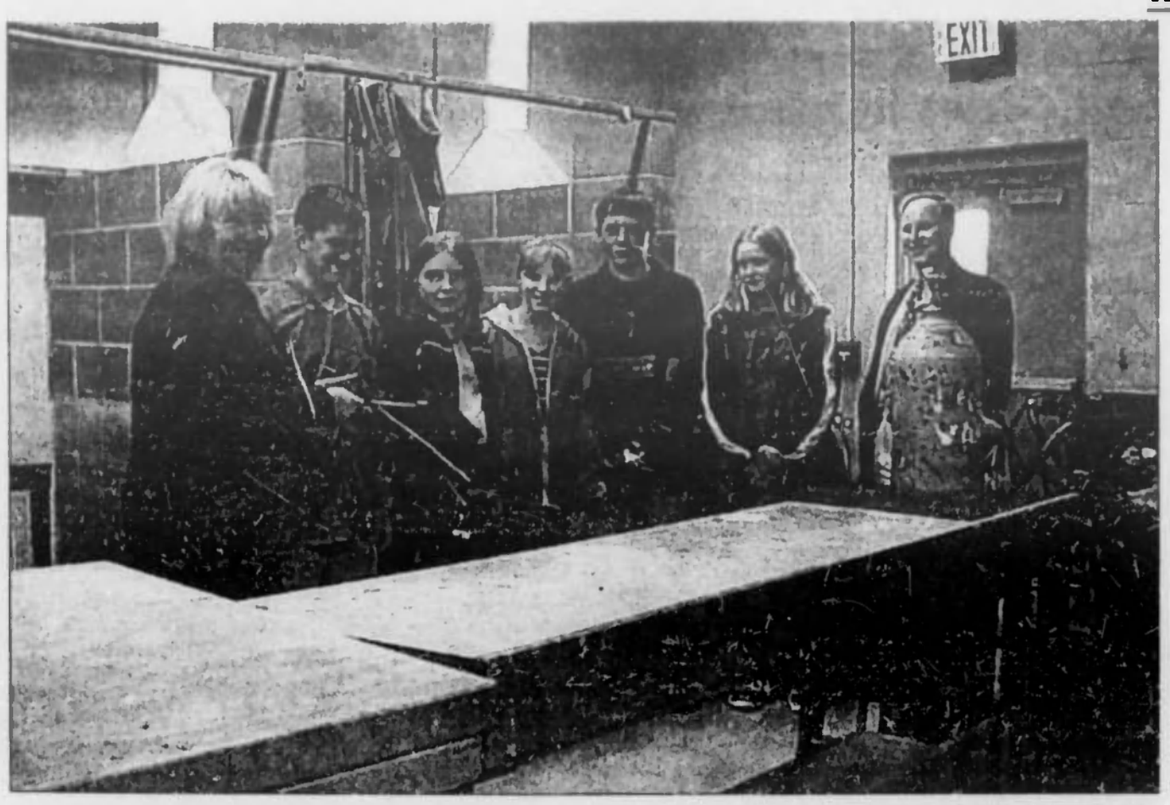
An exciting new career opportunity is being offered to Northern High School students beginning next school year. The machine tool classes, which have been a popular choice at Southern High School, will be expanded to serve NHS because of the increased employment opportunities in the northern end of the county.

This career area is one that has been identified as an employment area of critical shortage, according to Jo Ann Vent, supervisor of career and technology. The availability of skilled workers in machining trades and related technologies has decreased in the region. With new employers locating in the county, competition for well-trained employees has intensified, she added.

"When communities have prosperous, precision manufacturing facilities the benefits are high income employment and stable employment," said Jim Hinebaugh, economic development director. "We are happy that this training program will be offered to residents of northern Garrett County."

Machine trade careers offer high occupational income, high job security, mobility, and excellent advancement opportunities, Vent said. Misperception often exists concerning these careers. As in most career areas of today, this one has become highly technical, and computer skills are often needed, she added.

"This program will not only provide students an opportunity for good entry level jobs, but for those interested in furthering their education, it is excellent preparation for a career in mechanical engineering," Vent said.



A NEW COURSE WILL BE OFFERED at Northern High School next year which has been popular with the Southern High School students. Machine tool classes will be offered to serve NHS because of the increased employment opportunities in the northern end of the county. Eighth grade students recently toured the school as they begin preparing their four-year plan. Pictured above, from the left, are Jo Ann Vent, Nathan McCrobie, Summer Sines, Amber Yoder, Brad Brinegar, Helaina LaMastus, and Dr. Wendell Teets. See story for more details.

The expansion of the machine tool program is a joint effort between area machining businesses, county commissioners, the economic development office, and the board of education.

"Due to limited post-secondary training opportunities in Garrett County, our school system must play a vital role in the development of a skilled labor force in order to meet the challenging needs of our business community," said Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. "The I-Tech computer certification program was implemented two years ago in cooperation with Garrett Community College. We must now expand our machine tool program in order to meet the current and future employment requirements of a growing machine industry in Garrett County. With the support of our board of education, county commissioners, economic development office, and Maryland State Department of Education, we plan to implement the program next year at Northern High. It is critical for our students and their parents to recognize and take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to earn a good living right out of high school while remaining in beautiful Garrett County."

Lawmakers Push For More Sales Tax Holidays

by Kathleen Johnston Jarboe
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Despite difficult budget times, lawmakers hope to bring back tax-free weeks on clothing, backpacks, and perhaps even computers. Seven bills are before the General Assembly for such measures, the first to be heard next week. The bills all follow the model of last year's popular Shop Maryland Week, Aug. 10-16, which relieved consumers of the state's 5 percent sales tax for clothing under $100.

"No one just liked it, they loved it," said Delegate Jean Cryor, R-Montgomery, regarding the week.

The original measure passed overwhelmingly in 2000 with 66 delegates signing on as sponsors of the bill. But the economy has declined since then. And with the state's projected $1 billion deficit, support might not be so strong.

"Remember that we have a budget shortfall," said Senate Budget and Taxation Chairman Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore.

Hoffman said she voted reluctantly for the last bill and would wait for more information before supporting it again.

"It's poor tax policy," Hoffman said. The state loses lots of money and the customer only gets a little money back. Is the juice worth the squeeze?" Hoffman said.

Cautious advocates have recommended the legislation be reconsidered yearly, rather than become a permanent relief measure.

"The bottom line is the bottom line," said Michael Golden, a spokesman for Comptroller William Donald Schaefer. "In times of economic stress, we don't want to take away a revenue source permanently."

While Cryor has agreed to the compromise with the comptroller, she still said the bills are good for the economy.

"If there is any sign you want to give to the people of Maryland to keep their confidence up, this is it. It has a huge good feeling to it," she said.

Last year, people came from out of state to shop and stores often threw additional sales and promotional events to attract shoppers. Payroll and sales tax holidays best stimulate slumping economies, Cryor said, noting a January 2002 Congressional Budget Office report that contained such recommendations.

The bills were initially designed to help businesses near the state's northern and eastern borders where nearby Delaware has no sales tax, and Pennsylvania has no tax on apparel.

Stores lose significant customer business through those tax policies, said Sen. John J. Hafer, R-Allegany.

While national apparel sales increased by 9.25 percent from 1996 to 1998, Tom Saquella, of the Maryland Retailers Association, said such sales in Maryland decreased by half a percent. Saquella has lobbied heavily for the bills. The tax holiday "kept a lot of people shopping in Maryland rather than Delaware," he said.

Critics of the bill say the holiday doesn't gain shoppers, it just shifts the time of their purchases.

The comptroller's office estimated that the August 2001 tax hohday cost the state $5.1 million in revenue, $1.6 million less than expected.

Proponents said the revenue is not lost since the shopping would have gone elsewhere and additional purchases of taxable items are made while shopping.

"It's a paperless coupon. It lures people into the store," Cryor said.

The comptroller's office did not have figures to show whether revenue is not lost, because stores participated poorly in their studies, Golden said. Yet the comptroller still wrote that the week was a success in his assessment.

"We feel there was spillover effect," Golden said. While people were shopping, they went to other stores where items were taxable and bought things with their savings.

Sales increased by 10 percent compared to last year in stores directly affected by the holiday, according to the office's figures.

Schoolchildren Push Walking As Official Exercise

by Diana Mota Morgan
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Four years ago, milk became the official state drink, and the Astrodon johnstoni, the official dinosaur. And last year, the calico joined them as the official feline.

This year, grade-schoolers want to add another emblem to the litany -walking, the official Maryland state exercise.

In October, the third-grade classes at East Silver Spring Elementary wrote Delegate William A. Bronrott, D-Montgomery, and Sen. Ida G. Ruben, D-Montgomery, about their idea and reasons for the bill. Ruben, General Assembly watchers may remember, last year sponsored the failed state shrub bill.

Walking helps you make new friends and "it's good for your body," one student wrote. Another said, "you might find cool rocks or... caterpillars" when you walk.

"Because some colleagues cringe at designated symbols," Bronrott said, at first he was "a little hesitant" to sponsor the bill. But Bronrott said it's a great way to promote the state and good health. If the legislation passes, Maryland may be the first state to have a state exercise, he said.

"The state can use walking as a way to market Maryland — show off our cities, towns and parks," Bronrott said. Also, "it's low impact, gives high results, and it's free."

Wednesday, six representatives from the school participated in a bicycle and pedestrian symposium at the House of Delegates, working the room to gain support for their bill. The group handed out "Maryland Walks, Support HB 439" stickers, hoping to catch the ears of delegates as they entered and exited hearings.

The inspiration for the bill was third-grader Will Smith. Will, 8, thought of it while looking at the state symbols online with his father, Bill Smith, of Silver Spring.

"I noticed we didn't have a state exercise," Will said. "And I thought we should."

Both father and son have a strong interest in walking, especially since the family doesn't own a car, and neither parent drives. The elder Smith started Walk to School Day in Montgomery County three years ago. It's a nationwide annual event to promote walking.

The younger said he wants more people to walk "to help their respiratory system."

"If people find out walking is the state exercise they'd be a lot more encouraged to walk," Will said.

Smith introduced the idea to his son's class, and the third-grade team of teachers, along with the principal and reading specialist, thought it would be a great project for the entire third grade.

This experience "is making the classroom a real life experience," Melissa Gersh, Will's teacher, said. "Before this the students didn't know what a bill was or understand the process."

Bronrott shares Will's concern for a healthier Maryland. "Many children as well as teen-agers and adults, are leading sedentary lives."

Making walking the state exercise, he said, will "encourage (the development) of safe and walkable communities" and "get people out into their communities."

Pupils will testify at the bill hearing scheduled for Feb. 20.

Rams Down FH, Alco, Tucker To Take 20-0 Run Into Final Week

By this time next week the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team will know if it will be the first Garrett County squad — boys or girls — to record a perfect season in the history of the consolidated Southern and Northern high schools. The Rams rolled into the final week of the regular season this week by destroying Fort Hill last Thursday 70-38, storming Allegany Monday by a 59-41 margin, and taking one of their hardest-fought battles of the year last night from a determined Tucker County team, 63-55.

There was no stopping the SHS onslaught against the Sentinels last Thursday night, as the Rams ran out to a 23-10 first-quarter lead before embarking on a 21-4 romp through the second half that gave them an insurmountable 44-14 halftime lead. Southern was up 56-21 as the final period got under way.

Ashley Liller was a one-woman wrecking crew for the Rams, just missing an incredible quadruple-double by racking up 26 points, hauling down nine rebounds, handing out nine assists, and snagging 10 steals. The guard hit nine field goals and sank eight of her 10 free throws.

Southern teammate Robbin Gregg tallied 21 points on seven field goals, two of which came from three-point range, and five successful free throws out of eight attempts. Becca Flanagan contributed nine points on three field goals and three-for-three foul shooting. As a team the Rams hit 18 of their 26 free throws. Becky Vance led the Fort Hill (8-9) line-up with 10 points on two field goals and six foul shots.

SHS's junior varsity squad had set the tone by vanquishing its Fort Hill counterpart by 24 points, 43-19, to open the evening. Danielle Hickman and Kayla Nazelrod each recorded 12 points for the Rams.

Southern got the early jump on Allegany Monday night, running up a 20-10 first quarter lead, going up 30-17 at the half, and taking a 46-27 advantage as the final stanza began.

Liller netted 16 points during the contest, Gregg contributed 15 points, and Flanagan and Pagenhardt recorded 11 and 10 points, respectively. The Campers (6-11) were led by Casey Wilson's 12 points and nine rebounds.

The Alco hosts took the JV contest from the Rams by a 41-31 margin, as the Campers got big scoring performances in Whitney Payne's 19 points and Lavista Nines's 17 points. Hickman recorded 12 points for SHS.

Last night at Tucker was every bit the showdown it was expected to be. Still smarting after being manhandled during a 22-point Ram victory in the second game of the season, the Mountain Lions and their fans were primed for revenge on their home floor.

Tucker got off to a fast start, whipping their packed gym into a frenzy by rolling up an 11-7 first quarter lead and taking a 22-20 advantage into the halftime locker room. The game was still nip and tuck through the third quarter, which ended with the Rams wresting the lead away from the hosts, 40-38.

The Rams' strength at the foul line came to the surface in the final stanza, as the Mountain Lions were forced to foul in order to get at the ball. Southern's players marched to the free throw line repeatedly during the final eight minutes, as Liller sank 10 of 12 foul shots, and Pagenhardt honed her area-leading foul shooting accuracy by hitting all four of her attempts.

On the night, SHS went 20-for-29 from the charity stripe, taking full advantage of Tucker's 22 fouls. The value of Southern's accuracy from the free-throw line was underscored as, in a contest that ended the final quarter with only two points separating the combatants, the Rams tallied an overall 20 points from the line, while Tucker only recorded four points on free throws.

Liller had a superb night, leading all scorers by far with 29 points. She hit eight field goals—one a three-pointer—and connected on 12 of 16 free throws overall while hauling down eight rebounds, dishing out five assists, and recording five steals. Pagenhardt added 14 points and seven assists, Gregg had eight points, and Flanagan contributed seven points. Tucker's leading scorer was Kelly Snyder, who netted 19 points before sacrificing herself with a fifth foul in the fourth quarter.

Tucker took a convincing win during the preceding JV contest, running out to a 41-24 victory to prime the Mountain Lion fans. Jasmine Scheffel recorded nine points for Southern, and Tracy Teets netted 12 points for Tucker.

Southern goes for win #20 at home Monday night against Westmar. Should they win that contest, the Rams will attempt to put the finishing touch on a perfect regular season in the campaign's Wednesday night finale against visiting Beall, their toughest WMIL opponent this year.

Huskies Hampered By Small Roster In Losses To BW, Beall

It was an emotional rollercoaster this week for the Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team, which started its slate off by losing by a 63-43 margin to a sub-.500 Bishop Walsh squad Friday. The Huskies regrouped to put together three outstanding quarters of play Monday, and looked on the verge of upsetting fifth-ranked Beall, before the bottom fell out and they dropped a 49-44 contest. Injuries and foul trouble were the nemeses for the NHS squad, which was none too deep to begin with, as the Huskies' record sank to 6-11.

Northern fell behind early and hard against host Bishop Walsh Friday night as the Spartans rolled up a 26-8 first-quarter lead. The Huskies found themselves down 28-17 at the half and 54-31 at the opening of the final period.

Guard Heather Lander paced NHS with a 15-point performance on five field goals and five-for-six foul shooting. Forward Amanda Frantz had 11 points on four field goals and a three-for-four free-throw tally, and fellow post player Jolene Brenneman contributed three field goals for six points. BW's Karen Knight led all scorers with 24 points.

The varsity contest mirrored the preceding junior varsity match-up, which NHS lost by a 40-18 margin. Kayla Kamp's eight points led the Huskies, while the Spartans got eight points each from Kristina Sensabaugh and Karen James.

Monday night's match-up with fifth-ranked Beall had all the makings of a major upset for the Huskies for three quarters of play. Despite missing the services of Frazee, who was sidelined with an injury, NHS took a narrow 12-10 lead after one quarter. Northern exploded during the second stanza to run up a 31-20 halftime lead, and looked firmly planted in the driver's seat after taking the score to 40-28 as the fourth quarter got under way.

The tide turned in a big way during the final eight minutes, however, as the Huskies' lack of depth — only six players remained after hot-shooting Frantz was sidelined with five fouls — left a tiring NHS squad running ragged against Beall's fast-breaking offense and pressuring defense. The Mounties went on a 21-4 run to catch, and pass, the Huskies for their five-point win.

Although she fouled out, Frantz led all scorers on the night by netting 21 points on eight field goals (including a three-pointer) and four free throws, while also snagging three assists. Brenneman tallied 12 points on six field goals, hauled down eight rebounds, and dished out three assists. Beall's Kacey Kahl had 13 points and teammate Jessica Conway recorded 10 points for the Mountaineers (15-3).

Beall took the jayvee game, 38-30, as Sara Harris scored 13 points. Kamp paced the Huskies with 10 points.

The Huskies travel to Salisbury tomorrow night and Hancock Monday before returning home Wednesday to host BW's Spartans in a rematch.

NHS Falls Hard To Westmar By 29-Pt. Margin

The Northern High School boys' basketball squad was bombed into submission by Westmar's long-range shooting Tuesday night, as the Huskies fell 83-54. The defeat leaves NHS with a 5-11 record. A homecourt battle slated for Friday night against Southern High was canceled because of a power outage at the school.

The host Wildcats started turning the lights out on the Huskies early Tuesday, as Westmar hit seven three pointers in the first quarter. The second stanza opened with the hosts holding a comfortable 25-12 lead, which they upped to a 42-20 margin by halftime. Northern was down 63-33 by the end of the third quarter.

Rico Alston led the Huskies in scoring with 13 points from his post position, as he hit three field goals and sank seven of eight free throws. Forward Andrew Frantz recorded 12 points, and Aaron Mitchell had 11. Westmar's Andrew Nicol led all scorers with 24 points, hitting five three pointers. The Wildcats connected for a total of 14 of the long-range shots.

Northern's junior varsity fell by a 49-34 tally despite a fine 18-point performance by the Huskies' Eric Johnson. The Wildcats' Aaron Schockey paced all scorers with 19 points.

NHS is slated to play on the road in all three of this week's outings. The Huskies travel to Salisbury tonight, Union tomorrow night, and Bishop Walsh Tuesday.

HUSKIES NIPPED BY BEALL — Despite dominating the first three quarters of Monday night's match-up with visiting Beall, the Northern High girls' varsity squad fell by a narrow five-point 49-44. Senior forward Jolene Brenneman (#22) netted 12 points, and is shown above to the left scoring over some tough defense. Junior forward Amanda Frantz (#20), in perfect position for a rebound in the first photo, is also pictured to the right capping a fast-break lay-up for two of her game-high 21 points. Sophomore Lyndsi Butler is pictured below as she gets off a short one-handed jumper, with Brenneman and guard Heather Lander (#4) both perfectly positioned in the lane for any possible rebound. Decimated by injuries and foul trouble, NHS's already small line-up wasn't able to stem the Beall tide in the pivotal final stanza. Frantz was forced to the bench with five fouls, and standout forward Bridget Frazee missed the entire game with an injury. The 6-11 Huskies are slated to visit Salisbury tomorrow night before returning to Accident next Thursday, Feb. 14, for their home finale against Bishop Walsh.

Rams Top BW, Beall To Up Overall Record To 14-3

Strong individual performances by Chad Panther and Dennis Tressler propelled the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team to its 13th and 14th victories of the season this past week, and extended the Rams' current win streak to 11 games.

Panther led the area's top-ranked Rams with 22 points in a 67-53 victory over host Bishop Walsh on Monday, and Tressler finished with a game-high 20 points in an easy 63-36 Western Maryland Interscholastic League win over visiting Beall on Tuesday. Southern, 14-3 overall and a perfect 8-0 in WMIL games, will host Tucker County this Friday.

The Rams were in a tight game with the fourth-ranked Spartans of Bishop Walsh until the third period, which is when Panther led a scoring surge to send his team into the final stanza with an 11-point advantage, 47-36. Southern scored the first 10 points of the second half, and Panther recorded nine of his total in the third period.

The teams played evenly in the first half, with the Rams up by only two, 15-13, at the end of the first quarter, and the score knotted at 25-25 at intermission.

The Spartans staged somewhat of a rally in the fourth period, but could get no closer than seven points.

Bishop Walsh finished with a 22-21 edge in field goals, and a 57-36 advantage in shots, but the Rams converted 25 of 36 free throws while the Spartans connected on just seven of nine opportunities.

Ricky Reams and Dennis Tressler joined Panther in double figures, with Reams scoring 13 points and Tressler recording 11 points and 11 rebounds, plus two blocks.

Dado Papic was the scoring leader for the Spartans (8-12), as he netted 21 points. Jayme Bradley and Eric Perlozzo added 13 and 10 points, respectively, and Marco Calic had six rebounds and a block.

"The level of our intensity in the first half was not very good, so we challenged our players to really pick it up in the third quarter," stated Ram head coach Tom Bosley. "Your performance in the first few minutes of the second half is always important. Our kids accepted the challenge and played well the rest of the way."

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious in the preliminary game, 52-35, behind a 17-point effort by Corey Tressler. Ian Hollingsworth paced the BW jayvees with 11 points.

The varsity Rams had a much easier time 24 hours later in their game with Beall, as they moved out to a 12-7 advantage by the end of the first quarter, stretched their lead to 30-15 by halftime, and took a commanding 49-25 margin into the final period.

Tressler scored 14 of his game total of 20 in the first half of action, and he and Ricky Reams went 9-for-9 front the foul line in the Rams' 19-point third quarter.

Also finishing in double figures was Panther with 12 points. Matt Stephens contributed nine points, Reams had seven points and four assists, and Bryson Meyers pulled down seven rebounds.

The Mountaineers, who dropped to 9-9 overall and 2-6 in WMIL standings, were led by Ryan Harper, who recorded 14 points and seven rebounds. Jared Kline grabbed a game-high eight rebounds.

The victory was also the Rams' 30th straight WMIL win at home.

The Southern junior varsity won the first game of the evening, 43-29, with Corey Tressler and Robbie Stemple leading the Ram jayvees in scoring with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Pacing the Beall jayvees was Ryan Harris with 10 points.

Following Friday's home game against Tucker County, the Rams will host #2 ranked Fort Hill next Tuesday and then play a make-up game at Northern next Wednesday. The Northern-Southern game was originally slated for this past Friday, but the contest had to be postponed because of an electrical failure at Northern.

Quality, Mettiki, Patterson Take Rec. League Wins

The hoops action in Recreational Basketball League play of the weekend featured a big win as Patterson Boat crushed Garrett Mine Supply 51-34, while Quality Machine downed Markwood Citgo 59-49 and Mettiki Coal defeated Monumental Insurance 54-47. The lucky number for the day was 20, as the lead scorers of each contest netted that figure in leading their squads to victory.

It was Mike Fazenbaker's 20 point-tally that sparked Patterson Boat to its big win over Garrett Mine, which got 10 points apiece from Jason Shreve and Ryan White. Quality Machine was paced by Jeremy Skiles and Stan Eggleston, who netted 20 and 19 points, respectively, while Jerry Meyers recorded 12 points for Markwood Citgo. Mettiki's triumph saw Kevin Liller hit for 20 points, while teammate Stan Skiles contributed 15 points. Billy Braithwaite had 19 for Monumental Insurance in the losing effort.

The league slate for this Sunday pits Patterson Boat against Monumental Insurance at 6 p.m., followed by a Markwood Citgo vs. Garrett Mine showdown at 7 p.m., and a Mettiki Coal vs. Quality Machine battle at 8 p.m.

GCC Sets Youth Basketball Camp

Garrett Community College will host a basketball day camp for third through eighth graders on Saturday, Feb. 23, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the college gymnasium. The hoops clinic will take place in conjunction with the Maryland JUCO Women's Basketball State Tournament, set for Feb. 22-24 at GCC.

The day camp will provide instruction in developing the fundamentals of basketball skills. GCC women's basketball head coach Steve Willison and assistant coach Thea Garland will supervise the clinic, with assistance from members of the current Laker women's basketball squad.

The cost is $10 per participant, which must be forwarded to the college prior to the camp. No on-site registrations will be accepted the day of the clinic. Enrollment will be limited to the first 40 registrants.

In addition to guaranteeing a slot at the camp, the registration fee aiso provides for a camp T-shirt, a ticket to attend both semi-final games of the Maryland JUCO Women's Basketball Tournament, and a coupon for a hot dog and popcorn from the GCC concession stand while in attendance at the game.

Parents interested in enrolling their child can mail a check made out to Garrett Community College Women's Basketball to Ann Wellham, GCC Athletic Director, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541. Persons may also call Wellham at 301-387-3052 for additional information and a registration form.

Ram Grapplers Record Easy 54-12 Victory Over Wildcats

With the majority of their points recorded on forfeits, the Southern High School wrestling team had no problem coasting to a 54-12 team victory over host Westmar on Saturday.

There were only five actual matches on the mats, and the Rams won four of them. Freshman Scott Wildesen recorded his 20th personal win of the season in the 130-pound division, which tied him with state champion John Hayhurst for most ever wins at SHS by a freshman. Wildesen pinned his opponent, as did Riff Browning in the 171-pound bout.

Earning decision wins for the Rams were Joe Williams in the 135-pound class and Anthony Oliverio in the 275-pound bout. Oliverio avenged an earlier loss to Westmar's Jesse Dowling this season with his 9-7 victory.

Westmar's Jeremiah Diehl won via a pin in the 152-pound clash.

This was the final regular season match for the Rams, whose next competition will be the Bi-County Tournament at Fort Hill on February 16.

FORT HILL (45)

189 - James Summers (FH) pinned John Beachy, 3:27.
275 - Trey Brenneman (N) pinned James Divelbiss, 2:44.

Fort Hill Ends Huskies' Amazing WMIL Streak

A 14-year streak of dominance by the Northern High School wrestling team over Fort Hill came to an end last Thursday night in Cumberland, where the Sentinels recorded a 45-28 victory. In fact, it was the first Western Maryland Interscholastic League match that Husky coach Scott Stough ever lost in his 14 years at the helm of the NHS program.

Earning pins for the Huskies were Dan Ganoe in the 135-pound division, Darric Kamp in the 145-pound bout, Jordan Brenneman in the 152-pound contest, and Trey Brenneman in the 275-pound division.

Northern's Mitchell Guard won his match on points in the 140-pound class.

Gaining pin victories for the Sentinels (12-10) were Jared Skelley (103), Roy Payne (112), Lance Dicken (119), Chris Brown (130), Josh Tart (171), and James Summers (189).

The loss, which was also the first in over two years to a Maryland team, dropped the Huskies to 11-3 in regular-season matches.

The Huskies, who concluded their regular season with this match, will return to action February 16 in the Bi-County Tournament, to be hosted by Fort Hill.

Northern Youth Mat Club Wins Many Trophies

Nineteen members of the Northern Youth Mat Club captured many trophies in the Berlin Brothers Tournament, held Saturday in Berlin. Those included four first-place trophies, six second places, three thirds, and three fourths. There were 19 teams in the competition.

Northern club members earning first place honors were: Jason Opel, age 7-8, 75 pounds; Josh Duckworth, 9-10, 75 pounds; Andrew Ganoe, 11-12, 110 pounds; and Brandon Opel, 11-12, 120 pounds.

Second-place trophies were captured by Kameron Kamp, Cody Rodeheaver, Cooper Corley, Zachary Watkins, Ryan Finzel, and Eddie Lytle, while third places were won by Kody Osselburn, Jacob Bosley, and Adam Finzel. Finishing fourth were Tyler Gilpin, James Donahue, Andrew Reynolds, and Tyler Kamp. Dustin Day earned a first place in a consolation round.

Other Northern Youth Mat Club members who competed were Sean Kamp, Matthew Grady, and Carson Kamp.

The club will travel to Meyersdale and Hyndman for tournaments this Saturday.

TYING A SCHOOL RECORD for most victories as a freshman wrestler at Southern High School on Saturday was Scott Wildesen, who is pictured above controlling Wayne Perkins of Westmar in the 130-pound division. Wildesen later pinned Perkins to record his 20th personal win of the season, which ties the record set four years ago by two-time state champion John Hayhurst. Also recording a pin in the match for the Rams was Riff Browning, pictured below just moments before he defeated Westmar's Mike Hamilton in the 171-pound class. Southern won the match, 54-12. LAKERS FALL TO HAWKS - The Garrett Community College Lakers are enjoying an excellent season, but found the Hawks of Hagerstown Community College too much for them Saturday evening in McHenry. The visitors, who were sporting a 17-4 record, were flying high off a big upset victory over nationally ranked Allegany College of Maryland, and they returned to Hagerstown with a 95-83 Maryland JUCO Conference win over the 17-5 Lakers. Above left, GCC's Sam Brown drives the lane around a Hagerstown defender. At right, Kortaa Hall, fifth leading scorer in the conference, goes up for two of his 20 points for the evening. Teammate Jontae Harrington led the Lakers in scoring with 21 points. Garrett will return to action this Saturday at Anne Arundel CC. Photos by John McEwen.

LAKERS TAKE TWO OF THREE — The women's basketball squad of Garrett Community College took two weekend contests over visiting Takoma Park and Rockingham, then dropped a 69-59 decision to Montgomery-Rockville Tuesday night in McHenry. Some of Tuesday's action is captured here, as freshman center Charlena Reeves (#45) is shown passing up a contested shot to hit sophomore guard Crystal Kimble (#22) for a wide-open lay-up. Angel Kendal (#10), the Lakers' high scorer for the game with 16 points, can be seen in the background. Kristen Maynard (#30) is shown below finding Donna Lyles (#40) at the top of the key. GCC will carry a 10-10 record into tomorrow night's contest at Catonsville.

Lakers Crush Catamounts Before Falling To Hawks

It was a .500 week for the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as Coach Denuis Gibson and the Lakers cruised to a 95-65 victory in a previously unscheduled encounter with host Potomac State College last Thursday, but then dropped a 95-83 Maryland JUCO Conference decision to visiting Hagerstown Community College on Saturday.

The split left the Lakers with an overall record of 17-5 and their JUCO mark at 9-3. They will play two more Maryland JUCO games this coming week on the road, at Anne Arundel CC this Saturday and at Essex CC next Wednesday.

Kortaa Hall led the Lakers in scoring against Potomac State last Thursday with a 17-point effort, while Darren Stackhouse recorded 14 points and pulled down 10 of GCC's 48 rebounds. Jontae Harrington finished with 13 points, while Duke Cooper contributed nine points, eight rebounds, and seven of his team's 25 assists. Jason Williams also reached double figures with 10 points.

The Lakers, who held a seven-point advantage at intermission (32-25), picked up the pace in the second half and were ahead by as many as 26 points in the final minutes.

Joe Harden netted a game-high 28 points for the Catamounts, who dropped to 11-9 with the loss. Martellus Braxton hit 19 points, and Neilon Harvey grabbed a team-high eight rebounds.

The Hagerstown Hawks came to McHenry flying high after upsetting nationally ranked Allegany College of Maryland the previous Sunday, 90-78. They were also sporting an overall record of 17-4 and a JUCO mark of 12-1.

The Lakers stayed within arm's length of the Hawks through the first half and trailed by just five, 48-43, at halftime. They fell further behind in the second half before rallying late in the contest, but they could get no closer than seven points.

Harrington and Hall were the scoring leaders for the Lakers, recording 21 and 20 points, respectively, while Stackhouse had 11 points and eight rebounds, and Cooper contributed 10 points, plus five assists. Hall also grabbed eight rebounds.

Hagerstown's Mark Jennings equaled Harrington's effort in scoring with 21 points, Darius Hargrove was close behind with 18 points, Jenarvis Draughn scored 18 points, and Anthony Thompson provided 14 points and a game-high 18 rebounds.

"I was proud of the way we came back in the second half," stated Coach Gibson, "but overall we looked like a tired team. We had some opportunities to tie the score, but we missed the shots."

Kortaa Hall is currently fifth in scoring in the Maryland JUCO with just under 22 points per game. Herrington is fifth in rebounding with nearly nine per outing, and Cooper leads the conference in assists with just under nine per contest.

Streaking Lakers Down Takoma, Rockingham; Fall To Rockville

Holding true to Coach Steve Willison's prediction that the tide would turn for the Garrett Community College women's basketball team during the second half of the season, the Lakers took two big wins at home over the weekend to climb over .500. After dropping a third contest Tuesday, Garrett has a 10-10 record.

GCC put a whipping on Takoma Park Saturday, 76-51, then downed Division I Rockingham (N.C.) the following day in a come-from-behind 58-53 thriller. A Tuesday night contest pitted Garrett against Montgomery-Rockville, a contest the Lakers lost by a 69-59 margin.

The Lakers, who held a 34-26 halftime lead over Takoma Park Saturday, exploded with a 42-25 second-half run en route to their 25-point victory. Crystal Kimble paced the way with 18 points for the contest, and Juakeena Bell recorded a double-double of 12 points and 10 rebounds. Mindy Miller contributed 10 points, and Donna Lyles pulled down a team-high 11 rebounds. Takoma Park's Ebony Bowers led all scorers with 30 points.

Sunday's visit by Rockingham saw Christi Edgell and Miller take the Lakers' reins and lead their squad to victory with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Although Garrett had entered the second quarter on top by a 31-26 margin, the Lakers fell behind during the stanza and were down by four points with four minutes to play. Miller and Kimbell stepped up to connect on several big shots, and they and their teammates forced several turnovers, to swing the momentum back to the Lakers. Teammate Lyles snagged a GCC-high 10 rebounds. Rockingham was led by 17 points from Renate Hicks.

Tuesday night's 10-point loss to Rockville came in spite of a balanced Laker offensive effort. Four Garret players hit four double figures—Kendal with 16, Bell had 12, Edgell scored 11 (including a trio of three-pointers), and Kimble had 10. Lyles worked the boards for a Laker-high nine rebounds, and Kendal dished out four assists. Rockville's Ogunniy led all scorers with 25 points.

The Lakers travel to Catonsville tomorrow night, then return home to take on CCAC Allegheny Monday and Howard on Wednesday.

Snowflake Chase Produces "Sweat Equity" For BBBS

The Uno's Snowflake Chase 5-mile race and 2-mile funwalk to benefit the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers Big Sisters took place at Deep Creek Lake State Park during, appropriately enough, one of this winter's rare snowstorms. The January 19 event drew a record turnout of 174 total participants that ranged in age from 9 to 75, and hailed from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Ohio. The proceeds raised by the athletes' "sweat equity" resulted in a $675 donation for the county's BBBS chapter.

"The out-and-back courses, on a snow-covered State Park Road, provided quiet winter scenery for the 'out' portion of both events," commented Dave Ritchie, one of the fund-raiser's organizers, "but the trip back was straight into a stiff head wind of blinding snow."

Among the 119 competitors lining for the start of the 5-mile run were defending men's and women's overall champions Ed Frohnaphel and Heather Bury, both of Morgantown, who each set a new course record last year. The men's field of challengers included Frostburg's Jaron Hawkins and Dennis Mickey of Ridgeley, W.Va., and Hagerstown's Maria Spinnler in the women's race.

The course began with a long uphill grade, and by the top of this first hill a lead group had formed that included each of the five afore-mentioned racers. The lead changed several times as the women helped push the pace at the front of the lead group, which passed the first mile mark at a six-minute pace.

During the second mile, Frohnaphel and Hawkins surged ahead, running side-by-side. The duo was able to build a small gap on the rest of the field, except for Bury, who was right on their heels. After the 5:54 second mile, the two leaders began to pull away from Bury, and by the 2.5-mile turnaround she had been passed by Mickey as he moved into third place.

The return route turned into a heated race for the overall win, as Hawkins pulled ahead on the climbs and Frohnaphel closed the gaps on the downhill. Hawkins' strategy of "working the hills" paid off as the Frostburg State University student eventually pulled away to break the tape in first place at 29:31.

Frohnaphel hit the line for second overall at 29:43 followed by Mickey (30:12) in third. Finishing fifth overall and setting a new women's course record was Bury at 31:04. Spinnler also bettered the previous course record of 31:48 with a finishing time of 31:26, good enough for eighth overall. If Spinnler, just a few weeks shy of masters status, returns next year, she will surely shatter the current women's masters course record of 37:32. Rounding out the top three for the women was La-Vale's Maureen Hall with a time of 34:23.

The men's masters category of the 5-mile run went to the 46-year-old Frohnaphel, while the women's masters title was claimed by Becky Cosner, 42, Oakland, who turned in a 39:44.

Fifty-five entrants took part in the 2-mile funwalk event, and the winner's laurels went to Frostburg's Art Siemann, who tallied a time of 21:36. Finishing second overall, and first in the women's funwalk category, was Suzanne Wilburn of Oakland with a 22:17. Among the participating walkers who earned a Snowflake patch were a contingent from the Garrett County Health Department's Walk-A-Weigh program.

The post-race festivities included an awards ceremony at Uno's restaurant, which provided pizza and beverages for participants.

SNOWFLAKE CHASE CHAMPS — Participants in the annual Snowflake Chase fund-raiser for the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers Big Sisters had to dodge real snowflakes on the Deep Creek Lake State Park course recently. The men's overall winner of the 5-mile run, shown directly above, was Jaron Hawkins of Frostburg, who turned in a time of 29:31. The women's overall 5-mile run title went to Morgantown's Heather Bury, right, who broke the tape at 31:04, bettering her own women's course record of last year by 40 seconds. The 2-mile funwalk was won by Frostburg's Art Siemann and Oakland's Suzanne Wilburn, respectively, in the men's and women's categories. Pictured below is Dave Ritchie, left, one of the race's organizers, as he presents the $675 raised by the charity event to Garrett County BBBS coordinator JoAnn Fletcher.

Ritchie distributed random prizes and presented the donation check to JoAnn Fletcher of the Garrett County BBBS chapter.

Learn-To-Ski Clinic Slated At Wisp Resort

Ski Bash 2002, a learn-to-ski clinic for individuals of all ages with physical disabilities, will take place Feb. 13-15 at the Wisp Resort, McHenry. The three-day event is presented by Baltimore Adapted Recreation and Sports (BARS), in cooperation with Three Rivers Adapted Sports in Pittsburgh and Three Trackers of Ohio.

Disabled clients who require specialized instruction will learn to ski in a variety of ways, including sitting down, skiing on one leg, and being led by a sighted guide. Volunteer ski instructors utilize all new adapted techniques and ski equipment to create a "fulfilling and quality experience" for the client.

Clinic hours are from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The McHenry House Lodge will be the staging area for volunteers, disabled skiers, and their families.

Persons with disabilities who are interested in learning to ski or need additional information may call 410-329-6897.

Wisp Ski Club Expanding; Next Event Saturday

The Wisp Ski Club, which has been reorganized recently after many years of dormancy, now has over 70 members, according to Ruth Umbel, president. She said that she has been receiving an average of 10 calls per week from persons either wanting to join or obtain more information.

The club will hold a tailgate party this Saturday, Feb. 9, at the base of chairlift #1, beginning at 3 p.m. All are invited to bring something to share, as well as other persons who may be interested in joining.

"People are really exciting about our planned ski activities for children, under the direction of Paige Quigley," Umbel said, adding that Tonya Vernon is in charge of fundraising, and Anna Myers, vice president, will host the club's March get-together at her home.

Persons with questions about the club may telephone 301-387-5035.

Lions Seek Teams For Winter Blast 2002 Events

Teams are being sought by the Deep Creek Lions Club for two different events for the Winter Blast 2002, scheduled for Saturday, March 2.

The tug of war and the food and beverage race are open to the public. Prizes will be awarded to non-business teams and traveling trophies will be awarded to the business teams.

Teams consisting of men and/or women with a gross weight of 2,000 pounds, including jackets and boots are needed for tug of war. Every other team member must be on either a pair of skis or a snowboard. The winner of each tug will continue on and compete against the winner of another tug until there are two teams remaining.

The final competition between the two remaining teams will be held Sunday, March 3. The entry fee for each team is $50, and the proceeds will go to the Deep Creek Lake Lions charity fund.

Teams for the food and beverage race are also being sought.

Five-person teams will compete with other restaurant/tavern teams for the "coveted traveling trophy" and "bragging rights."

The teams consist of five men and/or women, who are either on skis or snowboards. Each team is required to have both skiers and snowboarders. The entry fee for each team is also $50, and will benefit the Deep Creek Lake Lions charity fund.

Each team member will be required to ski through two slalom gates carrying a tray full of cups of liquid. The tray will be passed to each coworker until all team members have gone through the gates. Time elapsed and amount of liquid left in the cups will determine the winning team.

Persons with questions regarding either of these events or wanting to register may contact Jay Kamineck, Lion member, at 301-387-6386.

Youth Invited To Enter Stamp Design Contest

Youngsters in Maryland and throughout the United States are learning the importance of wetland environments to waterfowl and other wildlife while participating in the Federal Junior Duck Stamp Program and Scholarship Competition. The national contest is sponsored by the United States Department of the Interior, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Locally, the Maryland state contest is sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Patuxent Research Refuge, Prince George's Arts Council, and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The 2002 Maryland Federal Junior Duck Stamp design contest is open to all students, kindergarten through 12th grade. Public and private school teachers utilize the Junior Duck Stamp curriculum to conduct classroom activities related to conservation and wildlife art. Students then create stamp designs which feature species of North American waterfowl.

The contest deadline for postmark of entries is Friday, March 15. Information and contest materials are available at http://duckstamp.fws.gov. Those who have problems accessing the web site may call 301-497-5761 or 301-454-1461.

Junior Duck Stamp entries are judged by age group. All first-, second-, and third-place winners, as well as honorable mention winners, receive show ribbons. The Prince George's Arts Council awards the Best of Show entry a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, and all other first-place winners receive a $75 savings bond. All students receive a certificate for their participation. The Maryland Best of Show entry will compete in the national contest. The first-place national winner will receive a $2,500 cash award and a free trip with a parent and art teacher to Washington, D.C. The national winning design is used to print the Federal Junior Duck Stamp.

Maryland's winning entries will go on a statewide tour to sites including: National Wildlife Visitor Center, Laurel; Ward Museum of Waterfowl Art, Salisbury; Havre de Grace Decoy Museum; and the 2002 Waterfowl Festival, Easton.

DEATHS NOTED

The body of Mark G. Snyder, 61, was brought to Eglon for interment in Maple Spring Cemetery. Mr. Snyder was born February 15, 1940 at Virginia Beach, Va. and died January 28, 2002, at the Allegany Nursing Home, Cumberland. He was the son of the late Marshall and Ruth Snyder Lee and the grandson of the late Hurley and Minnie (Arnold) Miller, who were residents of Oakland. He was also preceded in death by a sister, Roberta.

Garland A. Lewis, 79, dicd Jan. 11, 2002, in Norfolk, Va., at the home of his daughter. He had resided in Aurora for several years until becoming too ill to stay alone. He was a son of Daniel Fuller and Ina Elizabeth (Lewis) of Crellin and was preceded in death by five brothers and three sisters. He is survived by two daughters, Sandra Lee Fleet of Norfolk and Peggy Ann Austin of Virginia Beach, Va., five grandchildren and one great-grandson. There will be graveside services at a later date in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

Bonnie Newcome Harvey, 99, of Keyser, died Jan. 27 at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland. She had resided at Frostburg Village Nursing Home since 1999. Born Nov. 9, 1913 in Grafton, she was a daughter of the late John and Nettie Marquiss Newcome. Her husband, the late Rev. Wilson Ward Harvey, was a native of Eglon. He died in 1998.

Mrs. Harvey spent her years as an educator, first in West Virginia public schools and later as biology instructor at Potomac State College in Keyser. She was preceded in death by three brothers, Lawrence, Fred, and Allen, and was the last surviving member of her immediate family. She is survived by one son, John Harvey, Keyser; one daughter, Sarah Susan (and Dr. Ronald) Haggerty, Ft. Ashby; two grandchildren, her sisters-in-law, Kathryn Harvey, Clarksburg, and Mary and Cecil Selders, Russel, Ky., and nieces and nephews.

Services were held at first United Methodist Church in Keyser on January 30, with interment in the Woodsdale Cemetery, Grafton.

George "Jibs' Sell, 95, Pine Grove, died Saturday, Jan. 26. He was a son of the late George and Mary (Lantz) Sell who were residents of Aurora, and spent his childhood there. He maintained an interest in this community throughout his life.

PERSONAL MENTION

Lewis Durst of Amboy was hospitalized Tuesday afternoon at Preston Memorial Hospital following a vehicular incident. Tests to determine a diagnosis continued Wednesday after which he was released to return home.

Phra Paugh of Eglon is recuperating at his home from a recent injury to his thigh and subsequent surgery.

Joe Luizzi, formerly of Horse Shoe Run, is now a patient in the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland and reportedly is in "serious" condition.

Ellis and Marie Teets of Horse Shoe Run made a weekend visit to the home of their daughter and family, Merlin and Martha Reish, Harrisonburg.

Mt. Grove VFD is preparing for a move of its fire department facilities to the Horse Shoe Run location on State Route 24 and would appreciate help with its remodeling work. Those who can help may contact Orville Kight.

Wilma Mae Teets and Lois Strawser of Union District joined Iris Jennings and Patty Snyder of Kingwood, where they then joined a larger group at Bridgeport to attend the West Virginia Retired School Employees Day at the Legislature. A breakfast with legislators was held Thursday morning, Jan. 31, and they were able also to meet with their county representatives later.

Emily Lewis of Martinsburg spent the weekend in Eglon with her parents, Tom and Linda Lewis, and her sister, Sara.

To celebrate the Feb. 1 birthday of Arthur Forman and the Feb. 2 birthday of Fred Forman, both Amboy, the families joined for a dinner at Melanie's Restaurant, Aurora, on Saturday afternoon, then adjourned to the Fred Forman home for cake and ice cream. Also attending were Fred's wife, Doroth; Arthur's wife and daughter, Janice and Lora; A. J. DeLauder, and Mike, Teresa and Victoria Meany, the latter of Gaithersburg, Md. On Saturday evening the Meanys and Fred Formans attended a performance of "The Diary of Anne Frank," presented at Preston High School, and in which Mrs. Meany's son, A. J. DeLauder, was performing.

Grace and Clifton Bachtel hosted a Sunday soup and sandwich dinner at their home for their Sunday School class from Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run. Others attending were Eugene and Bernadine Bachtel, Robert and Letha Helmick, Beatrice Ball, and Jack and Brenda Cassidy. Guests were Arthur and Coleen (Hauser) Santopietro of Tuckerton, N.J.

Ressie Conrad of Aurora received word of the Jan. 30 death of her sister, Lorene Williams, who had been critically ill with lung cancer.

Mary and Erwin Stemple, Stemple Ridge, were weekend visitors with their son and daughter-in-law, Kevin and Jamie Stemple, Martinsburg.

LEIGHTON SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT SHARES GOALS — The Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship, founded by the families of Leighton and Barbara Flinn, is helping fund a Garrett Community College education for Laurel Ellison of Accident. Ellison met with members of Leighton's family during a recent League of Women Voters of Garrett County board and dinner meeting, and spoke about her goal of eventually obtaining a four-year degree in early childhood education from Frostburg State University. Shown from the left are Leighton family members Edith Brock, Dr. Herbert Leighton, and Ann Leighton, along with Ellison and League of Women Voters president Henrietta Lease.

GCC Scholarship Recipient Meets With Benefactors

Garrett Community College student Laurel Ellison, the inaugural recipient of the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship, met with members of Leighton's family while attending a League of Women Voters of Garrett County dinner and board meeting recently. The League's local chapter was founded in large part due to the efforts of Leighton and her long-time friend Barbara Flinn, whose family joined with the Leighton family to establish the scholarship last year following the death of the noted civic leader.

Administered by the GCC Foundation, the annual scholarship is awarded to a full-time Garrett student who earned a cumulative high school grade point average, and maintains a college GPA, of at least a B; enrolls in a transfer program in either early childhood education, elementary education, secondary education, business administration, social or behavioral science, or fine and performing arts; and intends to eventually continue his or her education at a four-year college or university. Preference is given to a female resident of Garrett County.

Ellison is a fifth semester Garrett student majoring in early childhood education, and she plans to attend Frostburg State University following her graduation from GCC. She resides in Accident with her husband Chad and their 2-year-old son West.

Ellison attended the League's dinner meeting, which was held at the Board Room Restaurant in Oakland, and shared her educational background and goals for the future with the gathering. She told the group that her number one goal is "to positively influence young minds while stimulating their creativity and academic ability." Her presentation at the event was a condition of the scholarship, and she will also be asked to participate in a League activity in the near future.

"The board members enjoyed meeting Laurel and hearing about her work at GCC and her goals for the future," said League president Henrietta Lease. "Dorothy [Leighton] would have been proud of how hard Laurel has worked at GCC and how important her family and her education are to her. We look forward to meeting and working with future recipients of this scholarship."

The deadline for applications for the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship for GCC's 2002-03 academic year is Friday, March 1. Current Garrett students interested in applying may contact the GCC Foundation office at 301-387-3100.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge #192 AF&AM will meet Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the lodge at First and Liberty streets, Oakland. Degree work is planned. A light supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. before the meeting. All Master Masons are welcome and encouraged to attend.

"College Goal Sunday" Event Slated At ACM

College Goal Sunday, a one-day event that offers parents and students professional assistance in completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), will take place this Sunday, Feb. 10, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Allegany College of Maryland. The Cumberland site is one of 11 locations across the state and in Washington, D.C., where free assistance will be available to assist students with the form, which is required by students seeking aid for study at most colleges, universities, and private career schools.

Students who are 23 years of age or younger should attend any of the 11 locations with a parent and bring proof of 2001 income and benefits information, such as a completed IRS federal income tax return or a W-2 Form for both the student and parent. Students who are 24 years of age or older do not have to be accompanied by a parent, but must bring proof of their own income and benefits. If parents are unable to attend, students may come alone and bring a form of their parent's 2001 income and benefits information.

"The FAFSA can seem intimidating for parents and students," a spokesperson for College Goal Sunday said. "We hope this program will encourage and help students take advantage of the financial aid that is available to them."

College Goal Sunday has been endorsed by Maryland Secretary of Higher Education Karen Johnson and State Superintendent of Education Nancy Grasmick, as well as the U.S. Department of Education and the Delaware-D.C.-Maryland Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators. Maryland has allocated more than $80 million in financial aid for students seeking a higher education this year, and the FAFSA is described as the key to the largest source of dollars for college.

College Goal Sunday is funded through grants issued by the Lumina Foundation for Education and USA Funds, two non-profits with a particular interest in higher education. For further information, persons may call 1-866-482-4625 or consult the web site www.go2goal.org.

Black Cohosh for Menopausal Symptoms

Cimicifuga racemosa, also known as black cohosh or squaw root is a relatively safe and effective herb that can relieve some menopausal symptoms, including hot flashes. Studies have often involved standardized extracts of the plant - 40 drops or 2 tablets taken two times a day. One study concluded that black cohosh produces hormone-like effects and some euphoria. Large doses may cause nausea, vomiting, dizziness, reduced pulse rate, miscarriage, and/or premature birth. Therefore, black cohosh generally should not be used during pregnancy. The herb has been used for decades in Germany to treat uterine disorders and symptoms of menopause. It grows in open woods from Tennessee to Ontario.

Compounds in black cohosh responsible for relieving menopausal symptoms are referred to as phytoestrogens. The herb may be used in persons with hormone-sensitive cancers and other conditions in which estrogen replacement therapy usually should be avoided. Black cohosh provides an alternative to conventional hormone replacement.

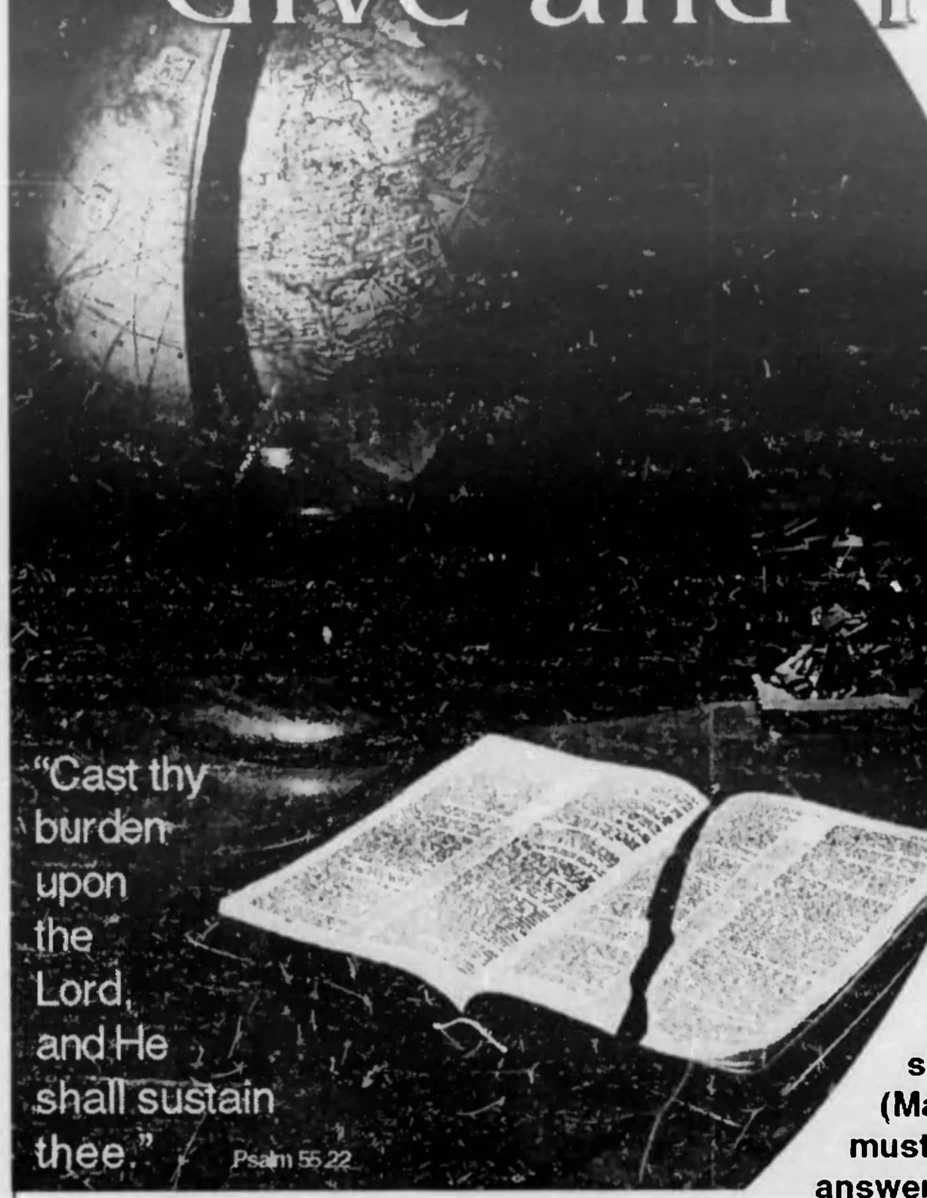
Give and Take



The Bible clearly instructs us to give our problems to God... to "cast" them upon Him. Yet, do we give them to God or merely lend them to Him, only taking them back when the answer is not immediate, or if it is not the one we desire? Once again the Bible speaks to us... "Whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive." (Matthew 21:22) We must believe that God's answer is the correct answer, though it may not seem so at the time. It has been said, "Everything in the universe is subject to constant change, and everything is on schedule." Is that a contradiction? Perhaps, but in a strange way it makes sense.

When you visit God's house each Sabbath, you will become increasingly aware of the spirit of God at work in your life. You will come to know peace, trusting Him with every care. Give Him your problems and take Him at His word.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MOABITE BLOOD

February 10, 2002

Background Scripture: Ruth 2 through 4.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 126.

In Biblical days people did not have surnames. The people of Bethlehem probably called Naomi's daughter-in-law "Ruth the Moabitess." We do not know the meaning of the word 'Moab', but "Ruth" is derived from the same Hebrew root as "friend" or "companion." If that is so, then Ruth was very suitably named.

Normally, of the two words, 'Moabitess' and 'friend', the former would be the most important: she was a foreigner. It would have been the same if she had been an Edomite, Ammonite, or Canaanite. Initially, ethnicity was believed to be more important than personality. Having the "right" blood or the "wrong" blood was very important. So, Ruth was initially suspect because she was of Moabite blood.

To overcome that liability, Naomi played the "family" card. Too old to work herself, Naomi based their survival on kinship. As kin to Boaz, she hoped that Ruth would be allowed to glean in his fields. Gleaning was a means of providing for those less fortunate, permitting them to gathering what was left of the crop after harvesting.

The Moabite Woman

Boaz observed Ruth gleaning in his fields and asked his workmen to identify her. Note the answer that they gave him: "It is the Moabite maiden, who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab" (2:6). His workmen say "the Moabite woman," not "a Moabite woman." She was the Moabite woman about whom the town was talking because of her loyalty to their kinswoman, Naomi.

Boaz is attracted to Ruth. Perhaps it is because of her loyalty to Naomi. Perhaps he was impressed by her pluck in subjecting herself to a back-breaking and perhaps dangerous task. ("Have I not charged the young men not to molest you?"). Ruth is so incredulous at his invitation to glean exclusively in his fields, that she asks: "Why have I found favor in your eyes, that you should take notice of me, when I am a foreigner?" Answers Boaz: "All that you have done for your mother-in-law since the death of your husband has been fully told me..." (2:11). So, Ruth's personality won out over her ethnicity. Although she has Moabite blood, she displayed the kind of loyalty, responsibility and love that Israel's God asked of all Israelites.

David's GreatGrandmother

Do we also see romance here? Whether it was in Naomi's mind from the time they returned to Bethlehem or occurred to her when Boaz shows interest in Ruth, Naomi sees the possibility of an even deeper attraction on his part: "Wash therefore and anoint yourself, and put on your best clothes and go down to the threshing floor" (3:3). When Boaz fell asleep on the threshing floor, Ruth was to quietly lie at his feet.

In the middle of the night when he awoke, Boaz is startled and Ruth says to him: "I am Ruth, your maidservant, spread your skirt over your maidservant, for you are next of kin" (3:9). Her invitation for him to spread his robe over her is an invitation to take her in marriage. This was Levirate marriage: the next of kin had the right and obligation to protect the property and honor of a kinsman who died, maintaining the family line (Lev. 25:25, Deut. 25:5,6). Despite her Moabite blood, Boaz married Ruth and she bore him a son, Obed, who would be the father of Jesse, the father of David the King.

Although Nehemiah and Ezra were pronouncing strong prohibitions against the marriage of Israelites and foreigners, the author of Ruth is bringing a different message to Israel. Ruth, a foreigner, is exemplary in her loyalty and love of her Israelite mother-in-law. Later, when David ascended the throne and became the model Israelite king, it was to be remembered that his great grandmother was a woman of Moabite blood.

TV-PIPELINE

A former Lancelot stars in ABC's Alias

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: Who plays CIA agent Michael Vaughn on Alias? He looks very familiar. –Kim in Massapequa, N.Y.

A: That's Michael Vartan, who ignited TV screens as Lancelot in last season's TNT movie The Mists of Avalon.

A native of Fleury, Normandy, France, the 33-year-old Vartan also is recognized for his guest appearances on Ally McBeal and Friends, as well as his feature film roles in Never Been Kissed, The Next Best Thing and It Had to Be You.

Michael Vartan

Q: I recently saw an episode of The Lone Ranger on cable in which the voice of the actor in the title role did not sound "right." I was surprised to note that Clayton Moore's name did not appear in the end credits, because I thought he had played the character during the show's entire run. Who else played it? –B. Forest, Norwood, Mass.

A: Moore played John Reid, the Lone Ranger, for most of the show's 224 episodes during its original 1949-57 ABC run, but actor John Hart took over the role for more than two dozen new episodes during the 1952-54 seasons.

Q: Is Jennifer Connelly of A Beautiful Mind the same actress who starred several years ago in Labyrinth? What has she been doing since then? –Cyl and Sue via e-mail.

A: It's the same beautiful actress, who hasn't exactly been hiding her light under a bushel. Still, Connelly didn't find a lot of satisfaction in the "window dressing" roles she got in such films as The Rocketeer, Mulholland Falls and Inventing the Abbots.

Things began to turn around for the actress with her performance in Martin Scorsese's 2000 box-office dud Waking the Dead, followed by her shattering turn as an upper-class junkie in the searing feature Requiem for a Dream.

Her touching work in A Beautiful Mind makes her prime Oscar bait in this year's Academy Awards race.

Q: I've been a huge Pretender fan since its debut on NBC, on through its syndicated run on TNT, and I've always wondered: What is the real building that is used to represent The Centre? Where is it located? I have seen it in other shows as well, and I'm going to be very disappointed if you say it's just a prop or a model. –Mike Arndt via e-mail.

A: TNT publicist Michelle Kern responds that the exterior of The Centre is actually the Water and Power Department in Toronto.

In Focus

Reggie and Otto Rocket (voiced by Shayna Fox and Joseph Ashton) take center stage in the first Rocket Power movie, Race Across New Zealand, Saturday, Feb. 16, on Nickelodeon.

The gang of young athletes travels Down Under to compete in an extreme race. They learn about the Cook Strait and the Southern Alps as they mountain bike, windsurf and snowboard in the New Zealand Junior Waikikamukau Games.

The winner will be crowned prince or princess of Waikikamukau.

Poison Center Has New 800 Phone Number

Maryland residents should now call 1-800-222-1222 to connect to the Maryland Poison Center and local poison experts with the knowledge and resources to respond to emergency poisoning situations or to answer any questions involving poisons or drugs.

The Maryland Poison Center, operated by the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy through its local hotline, has helped protect Marylanders from dangerous poisoning situations since 1972. Today, the Maryland Poison Center, in concert with the American Association of Poison Control Centers, is launching a national 800 number — 1-800-222-1222.

When calling in-state, the new national hotline will pinpoint the caller's location and automatically route them to the Maryland Poison Center. The hotline is a one-stop connection to the same experts that local doctors, nurses, and emergency medical personnel trust in emergency situations when access to critical poisoning information is essential. The hotline offers free, confidential advice 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"By making the number easier to remember and more accessible for everyone, the Maryland Poison Center will expand its user base and ultimately increase the number of people we can help," said Bruce Anderson, director of operations. "When facing a dilemma involving poisons or drugs, Marylanders should now simply call this toll-free number to communicate with expert pharmacists, doctors, and nurses. Our goal over the next year is to make the new hotline as familiar to the public as 9-1-1 or 4-1-1."

The Maryland Poison Center has joined with 65 other poison centers across the country and the American Association of Poison Control Centers to launch this new hotline.

Maryland callers to 1-800-222-1222 will be routed automatically to an expert at the Maryland Poison Center. If the caller needs to go to a hospital, the center staff will contact the hospital to provide treatment information for the hospital staff.

Experts at the Maryland Poison Center handle nearly 60,000 calls each year. In 2001, they handled more than 30,000 poison exposure cases resulting from everything from household cleaners to spider bites. More than 75 percent of these poison exposures were treated on the site where they occurred — generally the patient's home — with the help of an expert from the Maryland Poison Center on the phone.

The Maryland Poison Center, a leader in providing poisoning and overdose care to Marylanders since 1972, is a service of the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy. The center provides poisoning triage, treatment information, education, and prevention services.

KITZMILLER KIDS COLLECT FOR TROOPS OVERSEAS — These Kitzmiller After School Program participants are shown with the items they collected for the American Red Cross Tri-State Operation LovePaks project. The children went door to door in their community seeking donations, and were met with a warm and receptive response from neighbors, Kitzmiller Elementary School teachers, the mayor and town council, and a number of community organizations including the Kitzmiller Lions Club, Mt. Bethel United Methodist Church, the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary, and the Kitzmiller Senior Meal site. After collecting the items, the children took a bus to deliver them in person to the Red Cross office in Cumberland. In addition to the LovePaks, a total of $270 was collected to assist with shipping costs.

Local Students On Dean's List At Bridgewater

Dr. Arthur C. Hessler, vice president and dean for academic affairs, recently announced the dean's list for the fall 2001 semester at Bridgewater (Va.) College. Four local students have been named to the list.

Jennifer Sanders, who has a 4.0 GPA, is a sophomore majoring in information systems management and the daughter of Dennis and Linda Sanders, Oakland. Jared Fike, a freshman majoring in economics and business administration, is the son of Carl and Suzie Fike, Oakland. Maria Harsh, a freshman majoring in biology, is the daughter of David and Rita Harsh, Terra Alt, W.Va. And Beverly J. Sebold, a junior majoring in business administration, is the daughter of Larry and Brenda Sebold, McHenry.

Students on the dean's list have attained a 3.4 or better quality point average of a possible 4.0 for the 15-week semester. All of the Bridgewater students named to the dean's list are nominated for The National Dean's List, the largest publication in the United States recognizing the academic achievements of college students. Each student selected for The National Dean's List is notified and eligible to compete for 25 scholarships of $1,000 each, according to a Bridgewater spokesperson.

Valentine's Dance Slated In Crellin

A Valentine's dance and party will be held on Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Crellin Community Building from 5 until 8 p.m. All ages are welcome; however, children under 10 years must be accompanied by a parent.

Hot dogs, chili dogs, chips, and soda will be available for 25 cents each. For more information, persons may contact Shirley LaRue at 301-334-0957.

MMEDC Slates Legal Seminar

Mountain Maryland Entreprencurial Development Center (MMEDC), as part of the New Venture Investment Series, will host a training seminar on Friday, Feb. 22, from 10 a.m. until 12 p.m. The seminar will be video-broadcast at Garrett Community College, Frostburg State University, and Hagerstown Community College.

"Corporate and Legal Documents" will examine what legal documents are necessary when launching or investing in a new venture, including organizing or incorporating a company, providing corporate governance, and defining shareholder rights and responsibilities. The featured speaker at the event will be Newt Fowler of Venable Attorneys at Law.

The New Venture Investment Series is a continuing program of the MMEDC, and in the past has included topics such as capital formation, deal structuring, and corporate valuation.

The cost of the training seminar is $25. For further information about the event or any MMEDC program, persons may call 301-777-9377 or e-mail info@mmede.org.

MPT To Profile Restoration Of North Branch

The successful restoration of the North Branch of the Potomac River to a prime fishing resource will be highlighted this weekend on Maryland Public Television's Outdoors Maryland. The nature and outdoor recreation program is slated to air at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, with a repeat broadcast set for 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 16.

Garrett County residents Ken Pavol and Gary Yoder will host the segment, titled "The Valley Paradise," which will feature a fishing float trip on the North Branch section that flows through western Allegany County from Westernport to Cumberland. Pavol, western Maryland fisheries biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, and Yoder, program development and publicity agent for DNR, will explain the waterway's return to a prime fishing resource.

Once severely polluted by waterborne emissions from the Westvaco paper mill, the North Branch below the mill now supports a thriving population of smallmouth bass, which DNR reintroduced in the late 1980s. The species has proliferated and joined the ranks of other recovering gamefish populations, including largemouth bass, rainbow trout, and brown trout. Ongoing pollution control measures implemented at the paper mill are credited in large part for the river's recovery.

Outdoors Maryland, produced by Michael English, is a collaborative effort of MPT and DNR. Maryland Public TV is a not-for-profit, state-licensed public television station. For information on the organization and its programming, persons may visit the MPT web site at www.mpt.org.

Scholarship To Be Presented By Class Of 1959

The Northern High School class of 1959 will present a one-time scholarship to a graduating senior at NHS at the annual awards assembly to be held in May. The $1,200 award is the eighth such award to be presented.

Applications are available at the guidance counselor's office. The scholarship is open to any student who will be entering an accredited junior college, four-year college, or professional or technical school for the 2002 fall semester.

Academic standing and financial need are not necessarily prerequisites; however, the applicant is required to maintain an academic status within the 50th percentile of the graduating class. Preference may be given to the student who has not been selected for any other sizable scholarship grants.

The class of 1959 is close to establishing a self-perpetuating scholarship fund to be turned over to the high school, a spokesperson said. Committee members encourage businesses, organizations, and individuals to support the cause, and contributions are tax deductible. Checks should be made payable to NHS Class of 59 Scholarship Fund and mailed to the secretary/treasurer Wilma Hanlin Wilburn, 94 Main Street, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Other committee members are the president, Gary Hetrick, Sharpsburg, Ga., vice president, Charles "Butch" Strauss, Peachtree City, Ga., second vice president, Dick Miller, Frostburg, and assistant secretary/treasurer, Richard Stanton, Owings Mills.

Savage Named To FSU Dean's List

Andrea R. Savage, daughter of Kevin and Renee Savage, Mtn. Lake Park, has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester. She is a freshman at the university.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must take a minimum of 12 credit hours and earn a cumulative semester grade point average of at least 3.4. Savage earned a 4.0. She has completed 26 credit hours and is a member of the Honors College of FSU. She is majoring in early childhood/elementary education.

The student is employed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources at Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks.

Polk Named To SC Dean's List

Amber Polk, McHenry, has been named to the dean's list at Shepherd College for the fall semester.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must maintain a 3.4 grade point average for the semester and carry at least 15 hours of course work or be in a professional block.

Located in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle, Shepherd College is a public-supported college offering associates' and bachelors' degrees. Shepherd is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Northern High School Selects Students Of The Month

NHS NAMES STUDENTS OF THE MONTH — Pictured above, from the left, are the recipients of the Student of the Month award at Northern High School. In the front are Student Council adviser Michelle Harman, Margaret Mastej, Matthew Bass, Amy Umbel, and Carol Miller of M&T Bank. In the back are Robert Glotfelty, Jacquetta Brenneman, Jordan Halsig, and Todd Foley. Not pictured are Jordan Brenneman and Kria Knox.

The Northern High School Student of the Month awards are given to students who display exceptional academic dedication as well as outstanding performance in athletics and extracurricular activities, and who have an overall good attitude toward school and others. Each month one student from each grade is selected by faculty to receive the honor. This year the Student of the Month program is supported by both M&T Bank and Railey Realty.

The Students of the Month for February are Margaret Mastej, Matthew Bass, Amy Umbel, Robbie Glotfelty, Jacquetta Brenneman, Jordan Halsig, and Todd Foley.

Jacquetta Brenneman, a sophomore, also known as Jackie, lives in Grantsville with her parents, James and Christine Brenneman. She participates in many activities including the marching band, concert band, a cappella choir, and mock trial.

She is currently co-president of the Students For Christ Club. Some of her other activities include AYSO soccer for 10 years, Bible quizzing, and participating in the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church youth group. Brenneman is also a AYSO soccer referee.

Resident tuba player Robert Glotfelty, sophomore, resides in Accident with his parents, Rodney and Marci Glotfelty. He enjoys coin collecting, photography, and cross country skiing.

Glotfelty is also the president of the Bittinger 4-H Club as well a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church youth group. In school, he participates in marching band, concert band, jazz band, and mock trial. Last year, he was awarded the Outstanding Student of the Year award.

Anty Umbel, senior, resides in Friendsville with her parents, Ernest and Julia Umbel. She participates in many activities, including varsity soccer while she was in ninth and tenth grades, and the Art Club for the past two years.

Umbel also participates in a youth group, church choir, the Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors team, as well as being a missions committee member. In her spare time, she enjoys drawing, painting, pottery, woodcarving, and reading.

She has been presented with numerous awards, including the Young Edison Award, Yale Science Association Award, People's Choice, and first place in Accident's I.D.E.A. art show. She will be attending Eastern Mennonite University this fall.

Junior Jordan Brenneman lives in Grantsville with his parents, Ronald and Beth Brenneman. He participates in football, wrestling, baseball, and 4-H. He not only attends Glade Mennonite Church, but also plays on the softball team. Brenneman likes to hunt and to play computer games. He was awarded second place in the 135 lb. weight class in the Bi-County Wrestling Tournament.

Kristopher Knox, a senior, enjoys all sports and is a member of the football and wrestling teams. He also participates in the 4-H Club. He has received the Minds in Motion award and is currently employed at McDonald's. He is the son of Roger and Donna Knox, Accident.

Freshman Margaret Mastej participates in guard and volunteers at Assateague National Park in the summer. While not occupied with band, she enjoys reading and playing piano.

Mastej has been presented with several awards, including the Woodmen of the World History Award and the Special Achievement Award. She is the daughter of Jennifer and Robert Pletta, Friendsville.

Jordan Halsig, also a junior, participates in the marching and concert bands, Envirothon, and a cappella. She has also performed for Pandora's Box. She also enjoys practicing her bassoon, baritone sax, and piano.

Halsig has been awarded first place in environmental science at the Regional Science Fair, as well as the Intel Excellence in Environmental Science Award. She is the daughter of Mark Halsig and Marci McClive, Accident.

Senior Todd W. Foley resides in McHenry with his parents, Patricia and Larry Foley. He plays in the band, is on the School Improvement Team, is president of the National Honor Society, and plays tennis.

Foley also works with the Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors, S.T.E.A.M. team, and is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. He has been presented with many awards, including the Woodmen of the World U.S. History Award, Top Chemistry Student, Biology Student of the Year, Bausch & Lomb Science Award, first place talent show winner, and Minds in Motion.

At the Science Fair, he received the Young Edison Award Scholarship, U.S. Army Award of Achievement, and the Creativity n Atmospheric Science Award.

Matthew Bass, Bittinger resident and son of Kevin and Carol Bass, is involved in many in- and out-of-school activities. He is a member of the baseball and basketball teams, and also takes part in the marching and concert bands.

Outside school, he takes part in the Bittinger 4-H Club and raises a market hog every year to be sold at the fair, volunteers with the Adopt-A-Highway program, and provides entertainment at nursing homes.

Bass also participates in the Bittinger Lutheran Youth Group, which is involved in many volunteer activities throughout the year, such as carolling and collecting donations for Hospice. He won second place in the school for the University of Maryland Mathematics Competition.

Stopped For Loud Exhaust, Driver Gets DUI Charge

Garrett County sheriff's deputies initially stopped a vehicle along Oakland Rosedale Road near West Liberty Street for a loud exhaust, and ended up arresting the driver for drinking and driving early Friday morning.

Nicholas Shane Fogle, 18, Oakland, was placed under arrest after failing field sobriety tests. He was charged with driving under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI).

Fogle was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $500 unsecured bond, a jail spokesperson said.

A New Market, Va., man was also arrested for DUI early Sunday morning, police said.

Jeremy Scott Waggy, 27, was stopped by deputies along Hutton Road just west of Gank Road, and failed field sobriety tests, police said.

He was arrested and charged with DUI, DWI, and exceeding the speed limit.

Waggy was released from jail after posting $10,000 unsecured bond.

HELPING FEED THE CHILDREN — Debra Savage, a realtor at Long and Foster, recently pledged $100 for every million dollars worth of properties she sells to Love's Way Food Center, located in Loch Lynn. The food center, which supplies approximately 20,000 pounds of food per week to the needy in a 25-mile radius of Oakland, recently lost the donated truck it was using. "We would have faced a major setback if not for supporters like Debra Savage," said Bill Taylor, director of LWFC. "We are greatly thankful for this help and especially are pleased when neighbors help neighbors." Pictured above Savage presents Taylor with a $500 check.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q • I was raised on a dairy farm • and began collecting glass milk bottles during the 1950s. I now have several hundred in my private collection and would like to know if they have any value. — Kelly, Naperville, Ill.

A • Milk was sold in glass bottles • until about 50 years ago. Breakable bottles were replaced by the less-fragile cardboard cartons during the 1950s, with the paper containers quickly becoming the industry standard. Most of the glass bottles were either recycled or destroyed, making them scarce. Collectors immediately took notice, and the demand for older and unusual bottles began to build.

What makes a glass bottle valuable? First, look for bottles that are embossed with the name and location of the dairy. This gives the container a regional identity, important with serious collectors. Also, check out unusual designs.

Some of the rarer bottles have cream tops, a bulblike area near the stopper that allowed cream to float to the top. Unusual colors or patriotic slogans are also a big plus. For example, green-tinted glass was sometimes used by dairies in New England and can often sell at well above the $30 mark. Bottles with WWII slogans such as "Win the War" or "Keep 'em Flying" are crossover collectibles, since they appeal to both bottle and WWII collectors.

According to the sixth edition of "Garage Sale and Flea Market Annual" (Collector Books, $19.95), recent prices for milk bottles have included an amber Homestead Farm container ($8.50); Borden's with Elsie the Cow logo ($6); and a Haskell Dairy bottle from Georgia embossed with "Back the Attack, Buy More Bonds" slogan ($50).

An excellent club for collectors is the National Association of Milk Bottle Collectors, 4 Ox Bow Road, Westport, CT 06880.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Eleanor Roosevelt ate three chocolate-covered garlic balls every morning.

• Mohammed II, Sultan of Turkey from 1451 to 1481, was a very determined man. After briefly leaving the dinner table one night, he returned to find that the melon he had intended to eat for dessert had vanished. To determine what had happened to it, he interrogated 14 royal attendants. When they all denied knowledge of the theft, he had the court physician disembowel each of them to look for melon seeds. None of the stomachs bore any trace of melon.

• It was Yogi Berra who said, "When you come to a fork in the road, take it."

• The name Shirley means "bright clearing."

• Helen Rowland's definition of love: Woman's eternal spring and man's eternal fall.

• If you're ever lost in the woods and starving, remember this: You can survive for a while by chewing on your shoes. Leather has enough nutritional value to sustain life for a short time. This is assuming, of course, that you're not wearing sneakers.

• Between 1918 and 1919, the flu killed 25 million people worldwide.

• The father of our country, George Washington, once ran up a $200 bill eating ice cream in a New York City ice-cream store.

• William Shakespeare and Cervantes died on the same day — April 23, 1616.

• A newborn baby's head accounts for about one-quarter of its weight.

• Every day, the combined output of the dairy cows in the United States totals almost 50 million gallons of milk.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 17, 1801, after one tie vote in the Electoral College and 35 indecisive ballot votes in the House of Representatives, Vice President Thomas Jefferson is elected the third president of the United States over his running mate, Aaron Burr.

• On Feb. 16, 1894, infamous gunslinger John Wesley Hardin is pardoned after spending 15 years in prison for murder. After his pardon he became an attorney, but his past caught up with him, and the following year he was shot in the back as revenge for one of his many murders.

• On Feb. 15, 1898, a massive explosion of unknown origin sinks the battleship USS Maine in Cuba's Havana harbor, killing 260 of the American crewmembers aboard. In 1976, a team of American naval investigators concluded that the Maine explosion was likely caused by a fire that ignited its ammunition stocks, not by a Spanish mine or act of sabotage.

• On Feb. 11, 1960, Jack Paar, host of NBC's "The Tonight Show," walks off the program in protest. Parr was infuriated when censors cut a joke about a "water closet," claiming it was in poor taste. He did not return to the show for a month.

• On Feb. 14, 1962, the first televised tour of the White House airs. First lady Jackie Kennedy hosted the tour.

• On Feb. 13, 1991, Sotheby's announces the discovery of a long-lost manuscript of "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain. The manuscript, which had been missing for more than a century, was the first half of Twain's original version, heavily corrected in his own handwriting.

• On Feb. 12, 1999, the five-week impeachment trial of President Clinton comes to an end, with the Senate voting to acquit the president on both articles of impeachment: perjury and obstruction of justice.

A Solution for Lonely Pets

A few weeks ago, I printed a question from a reader who wanted to get a dog, but worried about how his long hours away from home would affect a pet.

Well, two readers offered a great solution for his dilemma. Here's their advice:

• "My wife and I read your column regularly in the Main Street News (Essex, Conn.) and appreciate your advice. Recently you gave advice to a reader concerning the purchase of a dog despite the fact that the owner will be absent quite a few hours during the day. Your response was for him to get a pet sitter who can "stop by at midday during the week." May I offer one more option? Why not get a companion for the dog? That is, have two dogs — or perhaps a dog and a cat. My wife and I are a professional couple, and we did that very thing. We have two dogs!

• "As someone who grew up near a major thoroughbred breeding farm for racehorses, I learned early on how the breeders dealt with loneliness among the horses in the stables. They would put goats and/or dogs in with the horses for companionship, and it worked out quite well. And they still do it!"

A companion pet is a fantastic idea! Even apartment dwellers can consider this option; if they are pressed for space, a dog/cat or cat/cat combination would be ideal.

I suggest checking your nearby animal shelter for a second pet, or contacting your veterinarian (who usually knows of pets looking for a new home). In each case, make sure that a trial period is allowed, in case things don't work out — especially with shelter animals, who are often victims of trauma or abuse.

Thanks to my readers for helping each other out!

Area Roadwork Projects Among Quality Honorees

Two road resurfacing projects that took place in Garrett County last year are among the winners of the Maryland Quality Initiative (MdQI) Awards of Excellence. Fourteen award-winning projects were recognized in 23 categories during an awards ceremony in Hunt Valley last week.

Recognized as the top hot mix asphalt resurfacing project for a roadway surface was the work done to resurface Garrett Highway from Gortner Road to Monte Vista Road. The $785,000 project was carried out by the Keystone Lime Company, of Salisbury, Pa. The SHA-designed project was supervised by Maryland State Highway Administration engineer William Rizer and paving foreman/superintendent Richard Critchfield.

Cited as the best hot mix asphalt resurfacing project for a streetscape were the improvements made to Md. 742 in Friendsville, a $488,000 project also performed by Keystone Lime. The SHA engineer was Charles Keister, and the paving foreman/superintendent was Kenneth Metheny.

"We are proud of SHA's partnership with private industry to deliver quality highway projects that reflect and respect the surrounding community and environment," commented SHA Administrator Parker F. Williams.

The MdQI award selections were made by a panel of judges representing the Maryland State Highway, the Maryland Transportation Authority, the Federal Highway Administration, and the construction industry. Comprising representatives from the public and private sectors, MdQI was developed in 1990 to foster excellence in the quality of state road construction projects.

C.P. MARTIN SPONSORS PARENTHOOD LUNCHEON — C.P. Martin Food Services sponsored the inaugural LifeSkills Celebration of Parenthood luncheon, held recently at the Mental Health Center (MHC) office located along Weber Road in Oakland. The LifeSkills after-school program assists families and schools by providing rehabilitation services for children and adolescents. The program's monthly luncheons provide parents of the participants with the opportunity to discuss effective parenting strategies. The recent luncheon's topic was the "30-Minute Investment," as parents were encouraged to devote at least 30 minutes to their children each day. This "investment" may come in the form of special activities, homework assistance, talking over dinner, working together on chores, playing games, taking a walk, or any number of creative ways for spending time with one's children. Pictured above, from the left, are LifeSkills staff member Brandon Moran, C.P. Martin representative Clarissa Elsey, and MHC program director Jeff Graham. For more information about the Mental Health Center or the LifeSkills after-school program, persons may contact Graham at 301-334-9002, or visit the MHC office at 111 Weber Road.

Garrett Offering Intro To Digital Photography Class

"Entry-Level Digital Photography," a two-evening course, will be offered at Garrett Community College from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, Feb. 19 and 21. The instructor will be Torrey Witt, a local business owner and professional photographer.

The course will present an introduction to digital photography through discussion of digital resolution, shooting, printing, and image management. Students may bring their own camera, or wait to see which camera will better suit their needs. Most of the class will be delivered via a lecture format.

For more information, or to register for the class, persons may call GCC's Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080 or 301-387-3089.

Crop Production Numbers For '01 Are Announced

Maryland corn, soybean, hay, and tobacco production all decreased in 2001 compared to the previous year, according to the Annual Crop Production Report released by the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Information for the report was gathered from over 700 Maryland farmers.

Corn for grain production totaled 35.8 million bushels, down 11 percent from 2000's production of 62.8 million bushels. The 2001 corn for grain yield averaged 136 bushels per acre, 19 bushels per acre lower than 2000's record high yield of 155 bushels per acre. This year's corn for grain yield is the third highest on record. Corn for grain was harvested on 410,000 acres.

Corn for silage production was estimated at 1.1 million tons, 20 percent less than in 2000. Corn for silage was harvested from 75,000 acres in 2001.

Soybean production is 20.1 million bushels, down 9 percent from last year and the second highest production level on record. Yield is estimated at 39 bushels per acre, also the second highest on record, down 4 bushels from 2000's final estimate of 43 bushels per acre. Soybeans were harvested from 515,000 acres, unchanged from last year.

Alfalfa hay production for 2001 is estimated at 202,000 tons, down 29 percent from 2000's production level of 286,000 tons. Alfalfa hay yield was estimated at 3.1 tons per acre, down 1.3 tons per acre from 2000.

All other hay yield averaged 2.0 tons per acre, down 0.5 tons per acre from a year ago. All other hay production totaled 320,000 tons, a decrease of 25 percent from 2000's level.

Grain Producers Encouraged By Wheat Exports

Soft red winter wheat, the class of wheat grown by Maryland's farmers, is increasingly destined for foreign shores. Millers and bakers in countries that have never imported the red wheat before have discovered that it is an excellent quality and a profitable choice, with the result that exports this year are on track to nearly double the level of three years ago.

The U.S. grows six classes of wheat, and of those, soft red winter wheat is the only class that has experienced steady export growth since 1998. Soft red winter (SRW) wheat is used to produce a wide range of confectionery products and crackers, and is blended to make breads.

In addition to growing the crop that is increasingly in demand, Maryland's grain producers contribute to this extraordinary achievement through their support of U.S. Wheat Associates (USW), the industry's export market development organization. With support from the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB), other state associations, and matching funds from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, USW has been pushing hard to introduce the benefits of U.S. wheat to new buyers around the world.

Mike Clark, president of the MGPUB and a grain producer in Howard County, said, "At our annual funding meeting this month, our board of directors was pleased to approve a grant to support both the U.S. Wheat Associates and the U.S. Grains Council. These organizations help expand our overseas markets. Individual states simply don't have the manpower to develop these important markets. Expanding our export business can make a huge difference when selling a crop, and after years of low commodity prices, new markets are especially important."

A lot of foreign buyers like what they see in American grown soft red winter wheat, according to Clark. For instance, following on the heels of technical assistance and crop quality information provided to the grain traders and millers in Spain, exports this year are unprecedented, reaching almost half a million tons, or over 18 million bushels, where no sales had occurred in decades.

Maryland wheat producers are also closely watching the southern Asia country of Sri Lanka, where exports of soft red winter wheat are up by a third. USW has been working closely with Sri Lanka government officials as they privatize the country's milling industry. They recently brought the country's first private mill owner to the United States to resolve issues on grain inspections and to familiarize him with the many varied aspects of the U.S. grain market and contract specifications.

Egypt continues to be a huge importer of soft red winter wheat, buying nearly 55 million bushels since June of 2001. Export sales to countries in the Western Hemisphere are also up, rising 25%, as buyers in Mexico increase their purchases to the point where they are the second largest purchaser of SRW, following Egypt.

When Brazil dropped a ban on U.S. wheat early last year, its first purchase was soft red winter, and it continues to be the wheat of choice. Drew Stabler of Montgomery County, a member of the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board, hosted a Brazilian trade team at his farm last year, when USW brought to the U.S. those buyers representing the majority of Brazil's milling industry.

"I think I can speak for farmers everywhere when I say we are grateful for any progress we can make toward future exporting. As everyone has heard, our supplies are high and commodity prices are low. By improving trade relations with countries like Brazil, Sri Lanka, and Mexico, it helps all countries involved," Stabler said.

Maryland Grain Board Completes Funding Process

After almost three full days of meetings, the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB) completed the yearly process of allocating checkoff funds. Such funds are provided in the form of grants to help promote research, education, and the market development of grain.

"It is never an easy job," stated Drew Stabler, longtime board member for MGPUB and a grain farmer in Montgomery County. "Because the checkoff funds are based on a percentage of our net income, the level of funding will differ each year due to changes in market prices and yields. Though our board realizes all the grants applied for have value, we really have to weigh the benefits of each when deciding which projects to fund and at what level."

Grant recipients must submit a report at the end of each year. This allows the MGPUB board to see exactly how monies were used and is a great source of information for further funding.

Many of the research projects have proven to be of great value for Maryland farmers. Currently, a study by Virginia Tech to develop a variety of hulless barley is under way. It is the hope of the MGPUB that Maryland growers will soon have a variety of hulless barley that is extremely productive and easy to handle. As barley is the small grain feedstock being considered for the proposed ethanol plant in Maryland, its addition to the market should be timely, Stabler said.

"We are very excited about this project. As our barley markets have diminished, this can make a significant difference to how much barley is grown. Barley is a very abrasive crop, but eliminating the hull makes this a much easier crop to deal with. Barley serves as a great cover crop, and its potential to be used in an ethanol plant gives it much more value," added Donnie Tennyson, MGPUB member and a farmer in St. Mary's County. "This type of research project can really make a difference for Maryland farmers."

Another project of great interest is the research done by Dr. Ken Staver of the Wye Research and Education Center. His four-year study investigated the effects of nitrogen-based poultry litter applications on both phosphorus and nitrogen transport in field-scale watersheds in conventional and no-till settings. Although data will continue to be collected on this project through April of this year, several preliminary findings were presented. Both nitrogen and phosphorus concentration in run-off increased sharply when poultry litter was applied to no-till corn fields even though soil erosion was negligible. In addition, nitrogen availability from the poultry litter was reduced under no-till. N-based applications of poultry litter for two cycles of the corn/wheat/soybean rotation increased soil phosphorus concentrations from the optimum range to the level where the phosphorus index will be required.

Stabler stated, "As we are in the midst of some nutrient management problems, studies of this nature can really make a difference in showing what does and doesn't work with nitrogen apphcations. Our board believes that using checkoff funds for this kind of valuable research can help both farmers and nutrient management consultants make effective decisions."

Along with research, the MGPUB funded grants for many programs involving school-age children, beginning with elementary schools and going through high school. In many cases, children in the counties represented have very little or no exposure to agriculture. These focused presentations allow children to experience first-hand the importance of grains and agriculture to their lives.

Market development is another huge area of importance for MGPUB funding, according to Stabler. These are mostly large, national organizations representing individual states in a collective manner, such as the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), U.S. Wheat Associates, and U.S. Grains Council. These organizations work to develop new markets at the national and international level and offer individual states a much larger voice.

A prime example of the power of these organizations would be last year when President Bush denied California's request to opt out of the federal reformulated gasoline (RFG) oxygen requirement. The NCGA was instrumental in providing and presenting sound research on why the RFG requirement was beneficial and should be left in place. This denial opened the door for many millions of dollars in ethanol production.

The Maryland Grain Utilization Board completed its meeting by funding 34 different grants for a total of $335,000. A complete report will be available in the coming weeks, giving a breakdown of dollars spent in each category: research, market development, and education.

There are two educational workshops coming up in March that you may be interested in attending.

On March 5 there will be a Cattle Pasture Management workshop. Dr. John Comerford, Penn State University will provide instruction on planning and implementing a rotational grazing system. Harry Strite, Washington County farmer, will talk about his experiences for installing water systems for rotational grazing and Chad Walker, Kiwi Fence Company, will illustrate the fencing components for rotational grazing.

On March 12 there will be a Horse Pasture Management workshop. Dr. Les Vough, University of Maryland, will discuss rotational grazing for horses including limited and full pasture access. Dr. Amy Ordakowski, University of Maryland, will be instructing on the nutritional needs of horses on pasture followed by Chad Walker on fencing for horses.

Both workshops will be held at the Frostburg Appalachian Environmental Lab from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M. The lab is close to Interstate 68, Exit 33, Midlothian Road. Reservations can be made by calling my office at 301-334-6960 or Bill Knepp at the Allegany office at 301-724-3320.

State Tourism Executives Tour Garrett County

Members of the executive staff of the Maryland Office of Tourism Development spent two days last week touring Deep Creek Lake, Wisp Ski Resort, and area towns at the invitation of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. As guests of the chamber, the 10-member team also visited various businesses and scenic areas in the county.

Upon arrival in the county, an executive briefing was provided to the group by chamber president Ken Wishnick, who summarized the county's primary tourism attractions, competitive advantages, and marketing strategies. BumBle Q's Restaurant provided a "down-home" barbecue lunch, which was followed by a "whirlwind tour" led by chamber marketing manager Deb Clatterbuck. The tour included Simon Pearce, an overview of downtown Oakland by Mayor McCain, Muddy Creek Falls, and dinner at the Deer Park Inn with chamber board members Jerry Geisler and Hugh Umbel. The day's events concluded with snow tubing at Wisp. The use of two mountaintop rental homes for the state visitors was donated by Railey Mountain Lake Vacations.

Day 2 of the visit began with Rent-A-Chef Larry Roby providing a gourmet breakfast. The group then traveled to the northern area of the county and toured local attractions along the National Road before returning to Baltimore.

"We're just as pleased as can be that this impressive group of state officials was able to make the time to enjoy some Garrett County hospitality and to learn more about our tourism products," said Wishnick. He pointed out that these people are "very important partners" in marketing Garrett County as a tourism destination worldwide.

"The Maryland Office of Tourism Development generates $18 million a year in editorial coverage and spends millions more on travel shows, advertising, publications, and other forms of tourism marketing. By all of us focusing on Garrett County for two days, we have greatly strengthened what was already an excellent working relationship," Wishnick said.

Lenten Fish Dinners Slated At St. Peter's

St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church, Oakland, has scheduled its annual series of Lenten fish dinners for 4:30-6:30 p.m. each Friday during Lent (with the exception of Good Friday) from Feb. 15 through March 22. The dinners will take place at the parish hall, located at 208 South Fourth St.

The dinner menu features an 8-oz. haddock fillet with cheese served on a roll, along with french fries, cole slaw, stewed tomatoes, homemade desserts, and hot and cold drinks. Carryouts will be available. The cost is $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under, and all proceeds will benefit the St. Peter's 150th anniversary fund.

Cancer Society Unit To Meet

The American Cancer Society/Garrett County Unit will hold its monthly meeting next Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 5:30 p.m. in Room 315 of the Continuing Education Building of the Garrett Community College. The newly certified unit welcomes all community members who are interested in fulfilling the mission of the American Cancer Society — the elimination of cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service.

GCC Financial Aid Reps Will Visit Southern

Garrett Community College financial aid representatives will be visiting Southern Garrett High School four days this month to answer questions about financial aid and to assist students and their parents in filling out financial aid forms.

GCC Financial Aid director Pat Bennett notes that students do not have to be going to GCC to obtain assistance from GCC financial aid representatives. They will assist students with questions about the FAFSA and about Maryland state scholarship programs as well.

Students and parents may report to the Southern guidance office to meet with the representatives during the following dates and times: Thursday, Feb. 7, 2-4:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Feb. 12, 4-6:30 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 20, 2-4:30 p.m.; and Monday, Feb. 25, 4-6:30 p.m.

Persons with questions may call the guidance office at 301-334-1660.

A NEW PUMPER/TANKER was recently placed into service by the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department. The 2001 HME, which replaces a 1985 GMC tanker, is equipped with a six-man cab, a 60 series Detroit diesel engine with five-speed Allison automatic transmission, a 1,500 gpm pump, a 1,600-gallon tank, 1,550 feet of hose, a 2,100-gallon dump tank, and a deck gun. The unit was built by 4 Guys Inc. of Meyeradale, Pa. The GVFD members noted their appreciation to the Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club for its recent donation. Officers serving the Gorman VFD this year are: Isadora Skeweris, president; Raymond O'Haver, vice president; Helen Neel, secretary/treasurer; Mike Stayer, chief; Gregg Savage, deputy chief; Bruce Brown, second assistant chief; Robbie Kitzmiller, captain; Johnny Mayne, lieutenant; Danny Moon, EMS captain; Helen Neel, EMS assistant; Danny Riley, safety officer; and Ruff Neel and Raymond O'Haver, co-chaplains.

Children's Dental Health Month

by Cynthia Bowman, Registered Dental Hygienist
Garrett County Health Department

National Children's Dental Health Month (NCDHM) was first observed as "Children's Dental Health Day" on Feb. 3, 1941, in Cleveland, Ohio. During that time, the week of Feb. 3-7, 1941, became Children's Dental Health Week in Akron, Ohio.

The first national observance of Children's Dental Health Day held by the American Dental Association was observed on Feb. 8, 1949, which became a weeklong event in 1955. By 1981 the week was extended to a monthlong program named "National Children's Dental Health Month."

Since 1941 NCDHM has grown from two cities into a nationwide event. The observance is designed to promote good oral health habits through demonstrations, poster contests, and displays in the community.

The Garrett County Health Department is promoting the month with radio and newspaper ads, a poster contest in the elementary schools targeting kindergarten through third grades, having displays in the community, and going to day care centers and Head Start programs to discuss and demonstrate why we need to keep the "sugar bugs" away. The Health Department also provides a dental education program for students in pre-kindergarten through third grade, which is given in the fall and spring.

The Health Department is always making strides in promoting dental education and access to dental care among children in the county. Be sure to check out future news articles for tips on dental health throughout the month. For questions regarding your child's dental needs, please call 301-334-7660. "We are here to give you 'Something to Smile About.'"

4-H Celebrates A Century Of Youth Development, Achievement

President George W. Bush and Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman joined 4-H members from Maryland and Texas to officially inaugurate 4-H's 100-year anniversary at a White House meeting on Jan. 18.

"As a former member of 4-H, I know first-hand the value of this outstanding youth development program," said Veneman. "For 100 years, 4-H has provided unique opportunities for its members to learn, to grow, and to work cooperatively in their communities and for their country. President Bush's continued support of 4-H and other youth development programs demonstrates this administration's commitment to young people and to their education."

There were 12 camera crews from NBC News at the event, recording Bush's every move for a day-in-the-life special, The Bush White House: Inside the Real West Wing. The show, aired two weeks ago just before the real West Wing, included the 4-H ceremony.

In one century, 4-H has grown from humble beginnings into the premier youth development program in the United States and one of the largest and most successful in the world. More than 6 million boys and girls nationwide participate in 4-H annually. Nearly 45,000 Maryland young people are 4-H members, including about 400 from Garrett County.

While early 4-H youth programs were targeted primarily for farm boys and girls, 4-H today reaches youth in suburbs and cities, according to Ann Sherrard, 4-H educator for Garrett County. Its purpose, however, continues to be to enable young people to acquire skills they will find useful for a lifetime, she said.

The Maryland 4-H program focuses on seven life skills: making decisions, acquiring knowledge, taking personal responsibility, thinking creatively, communicating, understanding oneself, and getting along with others. Youth across Maryland gain these skills by participating in clubs, special interest groups, contests, workshops, camps, school enrichment programs, and other 4-H opportunities.

To celebrate its century of service, 4-H has been conducting a series of events called "Centennial Conversations" at the local and state levels. The purpose of these events is to gather ideas and information that will help 4-H set its course for the next 100 years.

Each of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City conducted local conversations last fall. The ideas gathered there were shared with nearly 200 people at the Maryland Centennial Conversation, held on Jan. 8 in Baltimore.

Teenage and adult participants used the local suggestions to formulate five recommendations that will be taken to the National Conversation, to be held in Washington, D.C., late this month. Delegates to the National Conversation will consider the recommendations of the states and territories to develop a national action plan.

For more information about the 4-H centennial, persons may visit a web site at www.4hcentennial.org.

"The centennial celebration of 4-H is documentation that quality lasts. As long as young people are our greatest natural resource, 4-H will provide educational opportunities for young people and their families that will benefit them and their communities for a lifetime," Sherrard said. "The 4-H motto, 'To Make the Best Better,' says it well. Through 4-H, young people become confident, caring, and contributing members of society. That has been true for the past 100 years and will continue to be true in the next century."

Maryland Cooperative Extension, the outreach unit of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, is the parent organization of 4-H. Information about joining 4-H locally can be obtained by calling the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960. The Maryland Cooperative Extension's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, or national origin.

It still saddens us to think of that day when the Lord took you by your hand and said, "Let us be on our way." He took you to your new home far into the sky, where there will be no more tears to shed from thy eye.

Although it's hard sometimes to still deal with the hurt and pain left in our hearts, soon, we know, there will be a day that we're together once again and will never part. So until that day when we meet in heaven above, Peace be with you Dad. We send you up our love.

St. Mark's Sets Lenten And Holy Week Schedule

The observance of the Lenten season will begin at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland with a worship service on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 13, at 7 p.m. The Rev. Dr. L. Alex Black, Bishop Emeritus of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, will officiate. The service will include a litany of confession, the imposition of ashes, and the sacrament of holy communion.

Mid-week Lenten services will continue on the following Wednesdays, from Feb. 20 through March 20, at 7 p.m. The order of worship will be the Service of Evening Prayer, plus meditations, which will include dramatic presentations and music presented by the members of the high school Sunday school class, under the direction of Richard Hill and Don Sincell. The basis for the meditations will be stories from the Old Testament, including the Creation story, the Great Flood, the Test of Abraham, the Deliverance of Israel through the Red Sea, and the Valley of the Dry Bones.

There will also be special music by St. Mark's adult choir.

Each mid-week service, including the Ash Wednesday service, will be preceded by a soup supper, beginning at 5:45 p.m. A free-will offering will be received at each meal, to be used for scholarships for youth to attend Camp Luther in June. St. Mark's will apply for matching funds for up to $450 through Lutheran Brotherhood, Western Maryland/West Virginia Branch #8483 in support of this effort.

Holy Week services will include a 7 p.m. Maundy Thursday service on March 28 with Holy Communion, officiated by Bishop Emeritus Black; and a Good Friday Tenebrae service at 7 p.m. on March 29, with music led by the adult choir.

The congregation of St. Mark's invites all to attend these special services, as well as the soup suppers.

Dangers of Oral Cancers Topic Of Health Workshop

A group of 34 medical and dental care professionals took part in a recent training workshop titled "Review of Oral Pathology: Defining Abnormal," which was presented by Dr. Howard Strauss at the Garrett County Health Center.

An estimated 29,800 new cases of oral and pharyngeal cancers are diagnosed nationwide, and the cancers result in 8,100 deaths annually, Strauss told the gathering. "While these cancers represent 3 percent of all cancers in the United States, they have one of the lowest 5-year survival rates of any of the major cancer sites," Strauss noted, adding that the overall 5-year survival rate is 53 percent.

The presentation included slides of patients with oral cancers and other suspicious lesions, and a description of the processes of diagnoses and treatment. "An oral exam poses little discomfort for patients but is essential for early diagnosis," stated Strauss. "Although dentists and dental hygienists generally perform this type of examination, other health care providers such as physicians and nurse practitioners can provide oral cancer examinations as part routine physicals. Screens by such primary medical care providers are essential since many people in high-risk groups visit them more frequently than a dentist or dental hygienist."

"The U.S. Prevention Services Task Force recommends that clinicians include a careful examination for oral cancer in asymptomatic individuals who use tobacco or alcohol," a GCHD spokesperson stated. "Since Garrett County has one of the highest percentages of tobacco and alcohol use rates in Maryland, it is important that we try to address the problem through education, prevention, early detection and diagnosis." He underscored that statement by noting that Maryland's oral cancer death rate is 15 percent higher than the national rate.

Garrett County Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty spoke at the workshop's outset, when he provided an overview of some of the Health Department's oral health initiatives. These initiatives include the "Something to Smile About" program for children and pregnant women, and the new oral cancer prevention program. Glotfelty also thanked those in attendance, including members of the Allegany/Garrett County Dental Society, and the Garrett County Medical Society for their continued support of health department prevention, screening, and treatment programs.

Persons interested in being screened for oral and pharyngeal cancers should see their dentist or health care provider, or contact the Garrett County Health Department's dental clinic by calling 301-334-7660 or visiting the department's web site at www.garrettheal th.org.

Deadline For Scholarships At GCC Announced

Area high school students planning to attend Garrett Community College, as well as those who are already students there, are reminded that the deadline to apply for GCC Foundation scholarships is March 1 for the 2002-03 year.

There is no fee to apply for GCCF scholarships. Patricia Bennett, GCC's director of financial aid, and Erin DiBacco and Alyce McDowell, GCC financial aid counselors, will assist anyone with the GCCF scholarship application process. They can be reached via telephone at 301-387-3038, 301-387-3057, and 301-387-3012, respectively.

One of every eight students enrolled at GCC for the current academic year was awarded a scholarship by the GCC Foundation, as both competitive merit and need scholarships are available. Scholarships are offered for residents of Garrett County, as well as other localities, and they are offered for both full- and part-time students. Persons who submit the GCCF scholarship application are considered for every scholarship that is administered by the foundation.

An annual book of GCCF scholarships is available from the GCC financial aid office, as well as GCC's Oakland and Grantsville centers. Reference copies are available in local high school guidance offices and in all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library system, as well as the GCC library. The book may also be viewed on the GCC web site at http://mail.gcc.cc.md.us/foundation.

Students interested in applying for a GCC Foundation scholarship for the 2002-03 academic year are urged by the GCC financial aid staff to begin the process immediately.

ACS, GCMH Helps Women Look Good, Feel Better

The American Cancer Society and Garrett County Memorial Hospital are offering a "Look Good, Feel Better" class for women who are currently going through cancer treatment. The free class will be held in the hospital's Community Services Center on Monday, Feb. 25 at 5 p.m.

This class is a 12-step skin care and make-up program. Women will receive tips on skin care and make-up techniques to use during and after treatment. Wig demonstrations along with a make-up kit are provided for each participant.

The American Cancer Society, Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetology Association developed this class for women. To register for the class, women may contact Deana Chester at 301-533-4295.

An "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the community center this Saturday, Feb. 9. On the menu are buckwheat cakes, pancakes, whole-hog sausage, and sausage gravy, served with apple butter, applesauce, strawberry jam, and butter and syrup. The dinner will begin at 4 p.m. Carry-outs will be available. The cost is $5 for adults, half-price for children, and free for those under age 5. Chairman Carolyn Livengood stated she will serve until the batter runs out. The March dinner will also be buckwheat cakes.

GIRL SCOUT COOKIES

The delivery date for Girl Scout cookies is Monday, Feb. 18. Persons may still purchase cookies by contacting a local Girl Scout or leader Rita Savage at 301-387-6686.

DEER AND TURKEY COUNT

Rob McBee of Swanton Grocery reported the total deer and turkey count for last year and this year. The total deer count for 2001-2002 was 793, down from the 2000-2001 count of 1,022. This count included muzzleloader, bow, and rifle seasons, which ended Jan. 31. The turkey count for last year, 2000-2001, was 60 birds, 48 in the spring and 12 in the fall. This fall season count was 16.

SENIOR MEALS

The January birthday cake was served at the community center on Jan. 29. Mareva Teets's birthday was Jan. 9. A piece of cake was saved for her. Health nurse Sandy Sulton will be at the center on Monday, Feb. 11, to do blood pressure checks. The Valentine's Day dinner will be Tuesday, Feb. 12. The seniors will vote on a king and queen of hearts. There will be cake and punch, a candy jar, favors, and decorations, with "sweethearts" Ray and Carol Sweitzer providing special music for the occasion. Persons may sign up by calling Bonita at 301-387-9191.

DIABETIC SUPPORT GROUP

The regular meeting of the Garrett County Diabetic Support Group will be Tuesday, Feb. 12. It will be held at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland at 6:30 p.m. (Use the back door off the parking lot.) Ann Sherrard of the Garrett Co. Extension Office will speak on the requirements, duties, and need for a diabetic educator in Garrett County. Diabetes information will be available for persons directly or indirectly affected by diabetes. All are welcome.

OTTERBEIN CHURCH VALENTINE DINNER

A Valentine Sweetheart dinner will be held Saturday, Feb. 16, at the Swanton Community Center at 5 p.m. There will be food, games, and music. The cost is $5 plus two guests per couple. Persons may contact Carol Sweitzer for tickets at 301-387-6864. The dinner is sponsored by the Committee on Outreach.

RAY BOLTZ CONCERT

Steve and Lucinda Davis express appreciation for the highly favorable response they have received from the area concerning the Christian music concert in Kingwood, W.Va., set for March 14. Christian music singer Ray Boltz will be featured at the Craig Civic Center at 7 p.m. There are some tickets still available; persons may contact Lucinda at 304-329-2566.

DANIEL

Arrangements have been made for a school bus trip to Lancaster, Pa., on May 14 to see the theatrical performance of Daniel. Grantsville will be one of the pick-up and drop-off spots. For tickets, persons may contact Lucinda Davis at 304-329-2566.

PERSONALS

Carrie Lohr, North Glade Road, had surgery at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., on Friday.

Robert Winters, at home recuperating from an illness, was visited on Saturday by Pastor Meredith Ball.

The home of Stanley and Beverly Rhodes completely burned on Jan. 21. They are staying with Stanley's parents at 210 West Second Ave., Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. They may be reached at the Stan and Betty Rhodes residence at 301-334-8452.

Orval and Mareva Teets were visited during the week by Pastor Meredith and Maxine Ball, Robert and Fannie Rizer, and John and Linda Fleming.

Friday evening guests of Ray and Carol Sweitzer were Marty Duncan and Jim Miller of Frostburg. They spent the evening playing gospel music together.

Jeff and Regina Sweitzer were Saturday evening guests of Bob and Marla Mayles, Pine Hill Road. Bob and Marla are relatively new to the community. They bought the property of Scot and Lori Robine across from the Jack Rexrode homeplace. Bob works as a policeman for DNR. They have two sons, 5-year-old Matthew and baby Michael.

A Superbowl gathering of approximately 15 was held at the home of Bret and Heather Winegardner on Sunday. The gourmet dishes were prepared by June and Charlie McClosty, independent kitchen consultants for Pampered Chef.

The Lohr sisters, Karen, Patty, and Dawn, daughters of Pat and Lewis Lohr, returned on Jan. 30 from their eight-day cruise to the Caribbean Islands. They boarded the Carnival Spirit of the Carnival Cruise Lines in Miami on Jan. 22 and traveled to three islands. Going on land at Martinique, the sisters went through the rain forest to the volcano, Mt. Telee. On the island of Barbados, they viewed the beach and waves from the Bathsheba Mt. overlook. The sisters visited a butterfly fern on the island of St. Martin. There were varieties of butterflies from all over the world. They saw banana trees, sugar cane, and impatiens growing in the wild just like clover. The girls said they made many friends, one from Chicago, one from Michigan, one from the Czech Republic, and one from Hungary.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Grove and sons Toby, Colton, and Jordan were among the 4-H members who attended the ski day at the Wisp on Friday.

Friday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and daughter Beth were Linda Thomas and son Keaton.

Cherry Desserts Contest Slated For February 16

A cherry desserts contest and judging will be held Saturday, Feb. 16, in conjunction with the third annual Cherries and Chill Festival at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Persons wanting to enter a dessert in the contest should bring the dessert to the Spruce Forest Artisan Village Church on Feb. 16 between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. The contest is limited to one entry per category and the entry is free. Each entrant must bring one of each item; in the case of cookies, breads, and candies, one batch is required.

The contest begins at 10 a.m., at which time all entrants must leave the church until 11 a.m. Local "dessert connoisseurs" will taste each item, rating texture, taste, and appearance. Following the judging, the church will be open to the public.

There will be one winner per category in both amateur and professional categories, and Best Dessert Grand Champions will receive ribbons and Penn Alps Restaurant gift certificates. The public tasting ends at noon or until samples last. Complimentary beverages will be provided by Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

Categories include cakes and cheesecakes, cookies, candies, breads and muffins, pies, and ice cream. All entrants must bring recipes printed on 3x5 index cards. Recipes are not required from those entering in the professional category, although all recipes will be included in the Cherries and Chill cookbook. All desserts must include either frozen, dried, fresh, jar, candied, or canned cherries.

"Although pre-registration is not required, we do ask that you call ahead for more details and to verify weather conditions," said Trish Morgan, spokesperson for Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

For more information, persons may call 301-895-3332, or e-mail tmorgan@spruceforest.org.

In Memory of Ernest "Jake" Wotring
"Our Grandfather" February 13, 2001

I had a wish for one more day, that our time would just stand still but our time together has run out, it was out of our hands This was God's will.

I am broken but not angry, its just so hard to let you go.
Love can make you selfish; but pain can make you grow.

I shall treasure every moment, every minute that we shared
I'll keep them locked in a special place hidden beneath my tears

I will be strong, and you'll be proud for my strength has come from you
Unconditional was love, the kind only known by few

In this end comes a beginning, for we will never again be apart.
Your memories will live through me as your love lives in my heart.

Together we weep as one, your tears fall from my eyes
You whispered the day had come It was time to say "goodbye."

How could you go? When there's so much I need to say.
Grant me this one wish— please give me one more day

So many years I let slip by So many pages left unread.
The love I kept inside, are the words left unsaid.

A picture of your face in a frame within my mind
Timeless are the memories of the love you left behind.

I'll take you with me — beside me is where you will stand
I'll never again walk alone, for we'll be walking hand in hand

I had a wish for one more day, that our time would just stand still.
I realize now, in the love you gave, my wish has been fulfilled

Sadly missed by your grandsons, Monk and Fat Boy

COUNCIL CANDIDATE

Frani King has announced that she is running for the position of town council member in the February 12 election.

"I have enjoyed serving previous terms, and I feel I have helped our town accomplish many things," she said. "I believe I have listened to the people of our town and have treated all with respect and dignity.

"We have worked hard to receive many grants for our town and the park. We are looking forward to the future and hope to regain jobs and businesses," she said.

King is employed at Friendsville Elementary School and resides at 935 Second Avenue.

"I am always open to our townspeople to contact me with any concerns or suggestions," she said. "I have enjoyed working with the youth of our town, for they are our future leaders."

She added that all support for her in next week's election "will be greatly appreciated."

LIBRARY NEWS

Sherry Friend has donated a copy of Band of Brothers by Stephen Ambrose in memory of Raymond Schlosnagle. Dave and Mimi Demaree have donated a copy of Field Dressing, Butchering Deer, and Animals at Work in memory of Floyd Frazee. Kevin Frazee and the Poor Boys Hunting Club have donated a copy of Whitetail Hunting; Tactics of the Pros in memory of Floyd Frazee.

The book sale continues: now through Thursday, Feb. 14, prices are $1 for hardbacks, and 25 cents for paperbacks and magazines. From Saturday, Feb. 16, through Thursday, Feb. 28, prices are 50 cents for hardbacks and 10 cents for paperbacks and magazines. Beginning March 2, some items will be given away.

The library still needs shoe boxes.

FRIENDSVILLE COMMUNITY WATCH

The Friendsville Community Watch met on Jan. 10, at the Friendsville Elementary School. A new set of officers was elected for 2002-2003 and are as follows: John W. Wilson, president; JoAnn Ross, vice president; Carol Wakefield, treasurer; Rachel Deigert, secretary, and Lori Wilson, public relations.

In November during the Holiday Light-Up Night, photos with Santa were provided by the Community Watch. Over 180 photos were taken. Appreciation was extended to all who helped and participated to make it a success.

The after-school program is still being held every Monday at the Friendsville Elementary School. If there is no school because of a holiday or inclement weather, the program will be canceled for that day. There are various activities that the children participate in. Volunteers are needed to help with the program. Those interested in helping, are asked to contact Brenda Frazee or John Wilson.

The Teen Rec Program was "a huge success" last year and it will be starting again this year in April or May. More information will be announced as it becomes available.

Other topics that were discussed were the donations that were given to various organizations, such as Meals on Wheels and the Tender Hearts for Tots toy program. Also, a list was made of concerns that will be discussed with a deputy.

Friendsville Community Watch meetings are held every second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. in the media center at the Friendsville Elementary School. The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 14. Anyone who wants to learn more about the community watch is urged to attend. A deputy is present at all meetings to hear concerns and to answer any questions that anyone may have.

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES

The Friendsville Fireflies 4-H Club meets every third Tuesday of the month at the United Pentecostal Church Fellowship Hall. The members will be giving speeches at the next meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 19.

Co-Curricular Events Slate Noted By GCC

A schedule of varied co-curricular activities for the spring semester at Garrett Community College has been released by Sally Staley, coordinator. The activities, each of which are open to the public, share a multicultural theme.

Three free events will take place this month. Susan Taft, environmentalist and author of The River Chasers, will present a program on river conservation and the history of white-water paddling in the United States at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 12, in Room 314 of the Continuing Education building.

Dr. Craig Abrahamson will discuss his GCC Art Gallery photography exhibition, "Faces of Cuba," during an artist's reception and gallery talk slated for 7-9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 15. A former GCC psychology professor and current faculty member at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va., Abrahamson recently returned from a bicycle tour of Cuba.

The Shepherd College jazz ensemble "11 O'Clock" will round out the month's slate with a 7 p.m. performance in the college auditorium on Thursday, Feb. 28.

The March line-up gets under way with Our Town Theatre's production of The Man Who Came to Dinner, set for Wednesday through Sunday, March 13-17 and 20-24. Tickets will be available for $5 per person for the play, which will be performed on OTT's Oakland stage. The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will present Footworks in the GCC auditorium on Friday, March 22, and tickets will be available to students for $5 per person. The GCC Wildlife Club has slated its spring trip to Arizona for Monday through Friday, March 25-29. Students who participate in the trip will receive four co-curricular credits. Interested persons should contact Kevin Dodge, director of the Natural Resource and Wildlife Technology Program, at 301-387-3328.

A naturalist-guided wildflower hike through the Lostland Run area of Potomac-Garrett State Forest will take place at 2 p.m. either Sunday, April 21, or Sunday, May 5. There is no fee to participate, and persons interested in taking part are asked to contact Dodge as soon as possible with their choice of activity date.

The Ahn Trio music group will perform in the GLAF-sponsored concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 28. Admission for students will be $5. A second Our Town Theatre production, Social Security, has been tentatively scheduled for performance dates in late April and early May, with a $5 admission charge for students. A bus excursion to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., is set for Friday, May 3. The cost is $12 for students, and $22 for members of the public. The second Write Away writers' conference, scheduled for Saturday, May 11, will be free of charge to GCC students and high school students.

The Chautauqua performances of Friday through Monday, July 5-8, have also been approved for co-curricular credit. The theme for this year's Chautauqua series, sponsored by the Maryland Humanities Council, is "America on a Soap Box." The event will feature performers re-creating the personalities of noted historical figures Teddy Roosevelt, H.L. Mencken, Emma Goldman, and Ida B. Wills-Barnett. The performances will take place under the Chautauqua's lawn tent on the college campus.

The Maryland State Arts Council and the Garrett County Arts Council have provided funding to support these co-curricular activities at GCC. For further information, persons may contact Staley at 301-387-3102.

Notes From Bittinger

CHURCH NEWS

The Bethesda Church of the Brethren invites the public to a worship service at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday, Feb. 10. The service will feature James Sechler and Ron Hahn singing and playing country/gospel music. Following the worship service a covered dish dinner will be served.

Shrove Tuesday pancake supper will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 6:30 p.m., sponsored by Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Donations of pancake mix, butter, milk, eggs, juice, and mixed fruit are still needed. Volunteers and cash donations are also welcome. A service of the burning of the palms from last year's Palm Sunday service to make ashes for the Ash Wednesday service on Wednesday night will be held.

An Ash Wednesday joint service with the Accident Lutheran Parish will be held Wednesday, Feb. 13, at Emmanuel Lutheran Church at 7 p.m. Weekly Lenten services will continue each Wednesday thereafter during the Lenten season at various Lutheran churches.

A potluck supper was given on Sunday afternoon in honor of Sharon Lowery who has retired after 25 years of service to the Bittinger Lutheran parish as secretary. A large number of friends and family from all three churches in the Parish came to thank Sharon for her years of service and to enjoy the wonderful food.

Personals

JoEllen Graham, St. Albans, W.Va., spent several days with her sister, Beulah Moon, after attending the memorial service for "Rick" Buckel. They spent a night with Brad Moon in Westminster, and also visited their brother, Max Buckel, and wife "Bee" in Adelphi.

Larry, Ellen, and Brad Moon were recent dinner guests of Beulah Moon to celebrate Larry's birthday.

Harriett and Ken Buckel and Ferne Beachy were visitors recently of Mrs. Estella Bittinger.

Lea Stanton and Amy Schomberg were last weekend visitors of Lea's parents, Cindy and Sam Stanton.

Carol and Emma Bass and Ruth DiPaolo visited Mrs. Marge Sheirer at the St. Vincent dePaul Nursing Home in Frostburg last week.

MY VIEWS

Only one week ago after I had already finished writing my column, I happened to see a picture so beautiful that I want to include it in this week's column. It was such a lovely spring-like day that I felt I had to get out of the house, but nowhere in particular that I wanted to go. Since I wrote about Dung Hill and it was on my mind, I headed in that direction.

After I passed through Bittinger on Rt. 495 under a perfect cobalt blue sky with a soft warm wind blowing in through my open window, it seemed like real spring. As I have said before, I know that kind of weather is only a temporary respite from real winter. I hit the "nail on the head" on that, as anyone who is in Bittinger this Monday would realize that the real winter weather is back. I can barely see the barn through the blowing snow.

Anyway, last week as I passed the Owen Stanton farm I looked over the corn field that was harvested, with just a few gold, cream, and white husks and leaves among the stubble. I noticed someone driving the most beautiful pair of ponies in Bittinger and possibly over all of Garrett County. They are deep gold with pale cream or white mane and tails, and four white stockings. They are either Halfingers or a Belgian pony cross. They were just pulling a wooden cart and not doing any work. It was the first I ever have seen them doing anything except looking pretty and grazing in a lush green pasture along a split-rail fence. It looked like a training session. They certainly looked lovely in that field with their mane and tails the same color of the corn that I had remembered. Their mane and tails blowing in the gentle wind made them look like the wispy cirrus clouds that I believe are called "mare tails."

The Stanton family has long attempted to live like their forebearers, who produced most of their needs on their own farm. Mabel always has a big, abundant vegetable garden. Like our ancestors, they produce their own sugar in the maple sugar camp. Now it looks like they want to reduce their purchase of gasoline for their tractors and turn to horse power, power that is generated by homegrown grass and corn, and also produces their own fertilizer, a perfect circle with the added advantage of beauty, less noise than tractors, and making working the land pure pleasure.

I salute the Stanton family. I have always admired the beauty of their farm and I lust for those two beautiful ponies. Since it was too late to include in my column last week, instead I did a quick watercolor sketch of it. A few weeks ago I did a full-scale finished painting of a beautiful winter scene on Rock Lodge Road along Cherry Creek, with the hemlock bowed low with snow and the rocks in the creek covered by snow along with the rushing water. Since we recently had a drenching of rain, I am sure that the spring will be even gushing more, and hopefully our ground water supply in Bittinger will be in good shape, especially with this new decent snow cover.

This renewed winter weather was not in time to make the 4-H Ski Day at the "Wisp" more enjoyable last Friday at the Wisp, but the rain and wind did not deter my girls or their cousin, Blakely Glotfelty, and her brothers to go ahead and use their cut-rate lift tickets. The Bass kids opted for the alternative option of this Tuesday evening skiing at Wisp, where they will enjoy the fresh powder of snow. The kids all enjoyed the warm weather for the skiing, but Caitlin did not enjoy the strong wind while on the chair-lift.

Caitlin attended another overnight birthday party this past weekend for Jamie Haydel. Dana Hannibal, their other best friend, also attended. This year, unlike the past years, the party did not feature cross-country skiing. I know that I was glad to have taken advantage of the trip to Pysell Road to do some grocery shopping, because if this weather keeps up like it is, for awhile I won't be able to get out much. Yes, this is real winter!

This Monday afternoon the west wind just blasts against my living room window. The window is no match for the cold wind, as it feels to me like I am outside in it. It does keep the snow outside, thank goodness, or else I would have two-foot drifts in my room. I can't believe that only a few days ago I pulled the drapes closed to keep the bright sunshine out of my eyes. Today the wind sounds like a train. I am sure that my lane will be closed probably throughout another six weeks of winter that the groundhog predicted. We can't expect spring before at least mid-March.

I was surprised to see a program on the Discovery channel about a possibility of another ice age. Does that make any sense with all the talk about global warming? But the program showed year-round snow covering south as far as Garrett County. If anywhere else gets year-round snow covering, it will be in Bittinger. I think in my lifetime I have seen at least a little bit of snow in every month of the year. I could just cry, because I can't run off to my car so I can meet my girls from the school bus. But it is almost impossible for me to get a coat on by myself, and I surely can't run to the car.

The storm tonight brought a piece of luck for a few over-extended kids in Bittinger. The 4-H meeting scheduled for tonight that was supposed to feature public speeches was canceled due to the weather. Claire and her age group friends have been busy with their school science projects. A speech tonight was just too much to deal with, and hopefully they will get busy and start working on them before the next meeting. But it is true that "the weather out there is frightful." According to Gary Buckel, we are supposed to get temperatures of 10 degrees or below tonight (Monday).

Read. Then Recycle.

Cosmetologists Needed To Help Cancer Patients

The American Cancer Society and Garrett County Memorial Hospital are offering a training class for licensed cosmetologists to become certified to work with the "Look Good Feel Better" program for cancer patients in Garrett County.

The free class will be held in the hospital's Community Services Center on Monday, Feb. 25, from noon until 4 p.m., with lunch provided. This class will train the cosmetologist in a 12-step skin and makeup program that is centered on women who are undergoing treatment for cancer.

The American Cancer Society, Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetology Association developed this class. To register for the class, persons may contact Deana Chester at 301-533-4295.

On Dean's List

Justin D. Sleeman and Nathan R. Sleeman, both of Friendsville, were recently named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester. Neither has yet declared a major.

To be eligible, a student must undertake a minimum of 12 credit hours and earn a cumulative semester grade point average of at least 3.4 on a 4.0 scale.

Named To U.Md. Fall Dean's List

Haley Gillespie, McHenry, has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Maryland, College Park. The freshman is an honors program student studying communication and business in the university's College of Arts and Humanities.

Haley is a 2001 graduate of Southern High School, and achieved an academic standing in the top 5 percent of her graduating class. She is the daughter of Kam and Wayne Gillespie.

On Dean's List

Casey Vanderbilt-Beachy, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester.

To be eligible for the dean's list at FSU, a student must complete a minimum of 12 credit hours and earn a cumulative semester grade point average of at least 3.4 on a 4.0 scale.

Aspirin May Protect Against Alzheimer's

Daily aspirin has been reported in many studies to help prevent heart attacks and strokes. Earlier this year we reported that taking an aspirin every other day or at least 3 times a week also may prevent ovarian cancer. A recent study of almost 7,000 individuals 55 years of age or older indicates that long term use of nonsteroidal antiinflammatory medicines (such as aspirin, ibuprofen, and naproxen) may protect against development of Alzheimer's disease (AD). During 6 to 7 years of follow-up only 394 of the 7,000 persons evaluated developed Alzheimer's. The longer a nonsteroidal medicine was taken, the less the risk of Alzheimer's, with 2 or more years of use producing the best results. Study researchers indicated that the medicines taken during the study did not protect against vascular dementia (AD is a different type of dementia).

Alzheimer's disease accounts for over 60% of all dementia (memory and personality deterioration) in the elderly. Several medicines are available to help AD sufferers. However, currently there are no prescription medicines on the market that can either cure AD or affect its rate of progression.

This sale is estimated to cut 94,610 BD FT of live hardwood sawtimber according to the International ¼" Saw Kerf Rule (FC-78), and 50 cords of hardwood pulpwood, more or less. All tallied trees 11" D.B.H. and larger with at least one 16' log to an 8" top D.I.B. with less than 50% defect were tallied as sawtimber.

Timber is located on the East side of Lower New Germany Road back the state forest access road above Blue Lick.

1. Timber will be shown at 9:00 a.m. on MONDAY, February 11, 2002. Anyone interested in seeing this timber may meet at the intersection of Lower New Germany and Avilton/Lonaconing roads at the above date and time.

2. Contract/Bid Forms will be available at the showing or from the Savage River State Forest Headquarters, 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536, or phone 301-895-5759.

3. A Security Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid submitted must be posted upon submission of the bid to the Maryland State Forest & Park Service.

4. The operator must be a registered Forest Product Operator in Maryland for the current year and hold a Certificate of Erosion and Sediment Control (Green/Gold Card) training to be awarded successful bidding.

5. A Performance Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid submitted must be posted upon acceptance of the contract by the State of Maryland. The Security Bond may be applied to cover the Performance Bond.

6. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. No adjustments on the basis of volumes will be made with buyers.

7. Bidder may pay 50% of bid price on acceptance of the contract, with the remaining 50% payable within 90 calendar days from bid acceptance. If buyer selects this option, the delayed payment must be covered by a payment surety bond in form acceptable to the State.

8. Bids will be received up until 1:00 PM on MONDAY, February 25, 2002.

ASSIGNEES' SALE OF
THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON BEING KNOWN AS
623 E. HIGH STREET
OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD 21550

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a Mortgage from Lena L. Kelser, dated November 5, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 755, folio 879 and duly assigned for the purpose of foreclosure, default having occurred in said Mortgage, the undersigned Assignees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 2002 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT PROPERTY DESCRIBED as follows:

All that certain property situated in Oakland in the County of Garrett, and State of Maryland and being described in a deed dated 7/24/93 and recorded 7/26/93, among the Land Records of the County and State set forth above, and referenced as follow: 608/742. Being more fully described as follows: Parcel 787, Block 7, Oakland, Map 111.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

Terms of Sale: The Assignees reserve the unqualified right to withdraw the premises at any time before sale. If any dispute arises among the bidders, the Assignees shall have the sole and final discretion either to determine the successful bidder or to reoffer and resell the premises.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, and encumbrances of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements. The Assignees do not guarantee or covenant to deliver or in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser.

A deposit of $6,500 in cash, certified check or some other form of exchange acceptable to the Assignees, will be required from the purchaser at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price, together with interest on such balance at the rate of 9.99% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement, must be paid in cash at settlement which shall be held within ten (10) days following final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, unless said period is extended by the Assignees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest.

All state and local ad valorem real estate taxes, other public charges, regular and special assessments and the like shall be adjusted to the date of the foreclosure sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Ground rent, if any, shall also be adjusted to date of sale. The purchaser shall pay all state and local transfer taxes, including the Agricultural Transfer Tax, if any, recordation taxes and fees, title examination costs, attorneys' fees, conveyancing fees, notary fees and all other incidental settlement costs.

If the purchaser defaults, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Assignees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the premises at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. If the Assignees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
Notice of Applications Received for State Permits and Opportunity for Hearing

Issue Date: February 8, 2002, in The Republican

The Water Management Administration is reviewing the application for a State Permit listed below. The applications and related information are on file at the Administration; arrangements may be made for inspection and copying. Opportunity is afforded individuals to provide written comments to request a public informational hearing, or to be placed on an interested persons list for any listed application. Any further notices about actions on an application will be provided only by mail to those individuals on a mailing list of interested persons. Comments or requests for an informational hearing must be received in writing by the Administration on or before February 22, 2002. All inquiries and requests should include your name, address and telephone number, and should be addressed to Matthew Pajerowski, Chief, Water Rights Division, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224. Telephone: 410-631-3591.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA2000G007/1- George Creek Inc., P.O. Box 187, Bloomington, MD 21533, has applied to appropriate and use an annual average of 447,000 gallons per day (gpd) of ground water and 626,000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The water is to be used for mine dewatering, and taken from the sump, in the Barton coal seam of the Conemaugh Formation, of a proposed deep coal mine, to be located 0.3 mile southwest of the junction of Aaron Run Road and Michaels Run Road, 2.3 miles northwest of Franklin, Garrett County, Maryland.

Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration. It is expected that several of 14 nearby domestic water supplies may be impacted by the proposed mining activity. The applicant will be required to replace any unreasonably impacted water supplies.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Trustee's sale of valuable fee-simple property improved by premises known as 979 FIRE CLAY ROAD, GRANTSVILLE, MD 21536. By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from DONN S. UPOLE AND KELLY L. UPOLE, dated April 12, 2001, and recorded in Liber 836 at Page 0428 among the land records of the COUNTY OF GARRETT, in the original principal amount of $82,000.00 with an interest rate of 7.000%. Upon default and request for sale, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front of the Courthouse for the COUNTY OF GARRETT, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, on February 15, 2002 at 3:30 p.m., all that property described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

33.619 ACRES, MORE OR LESS, ALONG SIDE OF FIRE CLAY ROAD DESIGNATED BY TAX PARCEL ID #03-023206 BEING THE SAME PROPERTY DESCRIBED IN DEED RECORDED IN LIBER 753, FOLIO 661 AMONG THE LAND RECORDS OF GARRETT COUNTY, STATE OF MARYLAND.

Said property is in fee simple and is improved by a dwelling and is sold in "as is condition" and subject to all superior covenants, conditions, liens, restrictions, easement, rights-of-way, as may affect same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $8,200.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 7.000% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid within TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowner association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title, the purchaser's only remedy is return of the deposit. RAM Notes

compiled by Heather Savage

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

The Leadership Academy would like to offer suggestions to live by. The following are weekly suggestions for all students and staff to make as a part of our everyday lives at Southern High School: Feb. 4 - Feb. 8, "Show pride in yourself," and Feb. 11 - Feb. 15, "Respect Yourself."

"RANDOM ACTS OF MATURITY" (RAM) RECOGNIZED

The new character program, "Random Acts of Maturity" (RAM), recognized another student awardee this week. Recognized RAM students help others, promote positive attitudes, lead by example, and show maturity in our school community.

Christie Hamilton was nominated Jan. 11 as the RAM student of the week by Heather Savage. Christie was chosen for the maturity she shows in the classroom. That maturity was heard recently in her radio message publicized on WKHJ for S.T.E.A.M., the student anti-tobacco group. The thoughtful way she dealt with an important matter showed outstanding character. Christal Wolfe was nominated Jan. 25 as the RAM student of the week by Susan Henline. Christal makes an effort to be helpful in class, especially to the other students. In addition to being a good student and completing her own work on time, she goes the extra mile and helps others with their work as well.

ADVERTISERS NEEDED

The school newspaper, the Acorn, is helping Southern celebrate 50 years of success with a special 50th anniversary edition featuring the sports, history, remodeling, and pivotal people since the class of 1951. If you or your business would like to advertise in this historic issue, please contact Heather Savage at 301-334-9447 or e-mail for information to acorn@ga.k12.md.us.

PARENTS CAN HELP WITH AFTER-PROM

The next After-Prom planning meeting will be tonight, Feb. 7, at 6:30 p.m. in Mrs. Bender's room. Meetings last approximately one hour. We need parents to help select a theme, organize decoration ideas, and address fundraising letters. Please consider coming out to help with this effort. Our tradition won't be able to continue without the help of parents interested in providing a safe prom night for their kids. Anyone with questions can contact Lisa Bender at the school.

2002 YEARBOOKS ON SALE

Any individual or business wishing to order a 2002 yearbook should contact Erin White at Southern High School. The cost is $52, which includes tax. The deadline to order and pay for a book is April 15, 2002.

MSDE RELEASES SCHEDULE OF 2002 SUMMER CENTERS

The Maryland State Department of Education recently announced the schedule of upcoming Maryland Summer Centers for students entering grades 3 through 12. Summer Center programs offer unique instructional experiences for students who are gifted and talented and give students the opportunity to work in settings and with resources not available during the regular school year. Centers are located throughout the state and offer one- or two-week residential and non-residential programs with a focus on the arts, sciences, mathematics, technology, leadership, and history. Activities are designed to encourage critical thinking, creativity, and problem-solving while challenging students academically. Tuition ranges from $50 to $650. A limited number of full and partial scholarships are available for those who need financial assistance. Brochures and application forms are available from schools and local gifted and talented education coordinators. Information and an application form may also be found on the web site of the Maryland State Department of Education at www.msde.state.md.us under programs. Applications must be postmarked by Monday, April 1, except for Fine Arts Centers, which have earlier deadlines and may require an audition.

GCC REPRESENTATIVES AT SOUTHERN TO DISCUSS FINANCIAL AID

GCC financial aid representatives will be visiting Southern High School four days this month to answer questions about financial aid and to assist students and their parents with filling out financial aid forms. Students do not have to be going to GCC to obtain assistance from GCC financial aid representatives. They will assist students with questions about the FAFSA and about Maryland state scholarship programs as well. They will be in the Guidance Office. Students and parents can drop in during the following dates and times: Thursday, Feb. 7, 2-4:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Feb. 12, 4-6:30 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 20, 2-4:30 p.m.; and Monday, Feb. 25, 4-6:30 p.m. If you have any questions, call the Guidance Office at 301-334-1660.

FEBRUARY RAM PARTNER OF THE MONTH: OUR TOWN THEATRE

Five years ago Oakland was introduced to Our Town Theatre. Since that time, Garrett County has been witness to over 120 productions involving countless members of the community, from students to adults, promoting positive social interaction and self-growth. The board of directors of OTT has worked tirelessly since its inception to create a community theatre where Garrett County citizens can enjoy the tremendous array of artistic talent available locally.

In addition to vibrant plays and productions, which involve not only actors and actresses, but also stage and lighting crews, costume designers, and many other volunteers, OTT also lends itself to a diverse array of other activities. These include adult and teen coffeehouses, improvisation nights, recitals, meetings, parties, dances, classes, and other community delights.

Our Town Theatre is run by a board of directors headed by Jane Avery, who serves as the artistic director. She develops lists of activities, in conjunction with members of the board, to be voted on to develop a schedule of events. The theatre operates as a nonprofit organization. Therefore donations are needed to keep the theatre supplied with its many necessities, such as costumes, lighting, props, and programs.

OTT exposes students and children of the community to diverse cultures, develops their sense of presentation, raises their self-esteem, and cultivates friendships. Students of the community are encouraged to participate in the productions as actors, technical crewmembers, costume designers, and concession participants. Also, students of Garrett Community College are given the opportunity to participate in the wide range of theatrical activities offered at OTT while earning college credit at the same time. These students are encouraged to gain first-hand theatrical experience, build personal portfolios, and earn an associate of arts degree in fine arts: theatre, from GCC.

Our Town Theatre has become one of the most vital parts of the Garrett County community since its founding over five years ago. This culturally in-tuned organization has helped to open the community to various socially stimulating activities, the opportunity to grow, learn, and meet new people, and the open-mindedness to take on new challenges and accept other's cultures and ways of life. With the support of the community, Our Town Theatre is here to stay.

Thank you, Our Town Theatre; your support is appreciated!

PEER HELPERS SELLING VALENTINES

Peer Helpers are selling Valentine packages for $.50 and $1. If you are interested in purchasing one for your son or daughter or someone you know here at school, call Mrs. Pavelko at 301-334-1660. The valentines will be delivered in school by the peer helpers to the recipients on Valentine's Day during advisory period.

Junior Class Representatives Named To SHS Student Council

Serving as junior class representatives for Southern High School's student council are Erica Irwin, Jason Johnson, Kristen Oxford, Lyndsie Rush, and Britney Ashby. They were elected by the student body last May.

Erica Irwin of Oakland is the daughter of Sam and Tina Dick. She is a varsity cheerleader, a member of the yearbook staff, and is listed in Who's Who Among Distinguished High School Students. Irwin is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, where she works with Stephen's Table. She plans to attend college when she graduates.

Jason Johnson of Oakland is the son of Joe and Carol Johnson. He is listed in Who's Who Among Distinguished High School Students. Jason plans to attend college after high school.

Kristen Oxford is a junior who has been a student council representative for three years. She is a member of the girls' soccer and softball teams. Oxford has also attended the Garrett Technology Camp. She resides in Oakland and is the daughter of Doug and Sue Oxford. She plans to attend Frostburg State University and major in education.

Lyndsie Rush has been a student council representative for two years. She is the daughter of Kim and Tim Rush of Oakland. She is currently serving as vice-president of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils. Rush attended the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Conference. She was a distinguished honor roll student in the ninth grade and an honor roll student in the tenth grade. Rush has been selected as math student of the month and is an Accreditation for Growth Planning Team student representative. She also serves as class reporter. Rush is a member of the Pleasant View Baptist Church children's and puppet ministries. Her future goal is to attend Frostburg State University.

Britney Ashby is the daughter of Jim and Joanne Ashby of Oakland. She is a member of the tennis team and is an honor roll student. Ashby takes part in honors and merit classes. She attends the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Ashby plans to attend college.

GROUND WILL BE BROKEN this summer for a major expansion/renovation project at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, a model of which (pictured) is now on display in the hospital's main lobby. This, the first major project undertaken by the hospital since 1980, will include construction of a new, larger, more efficient emergency department; relocation and modernization of the helipad; relocation and expansion of the same-day surgery unit; renovation of the lobby and admissions area; expansion of the laboratory; and expansion of the radiology department. "The additional space and improvements are necessary for our hospital to continue adequately serving the health care needs of area residents and visitors," stated Donald Battista, president and CEO. "These changes will help us meet the challenges of adding increasingly complex medical technology." Battista said that construction should be completed by the spring of 2004. Partial funding for the project will come from the GCMH Foundation, which is currently conducting a capital campaign. The model of the project was created by Fara Lippincott of Hayes Large Architects, Altoona, Pa. Additional information about the project can be obtained by telephoning the GCMH Foundation office at 301-533-4176.

WORKING TOGETHER TO STOP BUS VIOLATORS — The Garrett County Health Department and the Board of Education are working together to stop and prosecute drivers who do not stop for school buses. Diane Lee, highway safety coordinator for the health department, is finalizing a $10,000 grant through the Maryland Highway Safety Office to supply three or possibly four buses with cameras, which are mounted on the stop sign arm of the buses. Every time the arm is activated, the two black and white cameras on the arm will record the time, the speed of the bus, and the license plate number of any vehicle violating the flashing red lights. "We will be the pilot for the state," Lee said. "They want to use our data to see what the numbers really are." According to Lee, after buses in North Caroline starting using these cameras, the number of drive-bys decreased by 66%. Art Refosco, transportation supervisor, thanked Barbara Michael for doing "a lot of the leg work." He added that he hoped good things will come of this increase in bus safety. "I have seen too many close calls with my own children," said Michael. "I think this will start to make a difference. Hopefully people will stop and think." Pictured above, from the left, discussing the implementation of the cameras are Barbara Shaffer of the transportation department, Refosco, Dr. Teets, Lee, and Michael.

MSPAP Test Scores Low In County, Staff Puzzled With Explanation

As the Garrett County Board of Education begins to assess the overall decline in the test scores of the 2001 Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP), the staff said they feel in order to solve the problem, they must first define the problem.

Dr. Wendell Teets told the staff that they must keep the numbers in perspective.

"We were the highest ever last year," he said. "We are not satisfied with this year's results, but some of the highest performing schools dropped a lot too. We are doing some things right, but we have to understand what we are doing wrong."

Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, added that the system has an "excellent instructional staff." "We believe we can make a difference, but we need to look at the numbers over time, not just year to year," she said.

The board plans to improve reading and writing programs, have formal walk-throughs of the classrooms, and do a work analysis with the state education staff.

Dr. Pat Mullinex, coordinator of research, evaluation, and information, stated that there were positive points in the results. "Garrett County students continue to meet all functional test and attendance standards," she said. "Although our 2001 MSPAP scores declined overall compared with 2000 results, we are proud of individual schools which continue to meet some of the state standards, including Crellin third graders and Bloomington eighth graders."

"These schools have much to be proud of," she added. "Route 40 Elementary School came very close to meeting the 70% standard. They were at 65.6% satisfactory.

A school meets the excellent standard on the MSPAP only when 70% or more of its students achieve at satisfactory or above and 25% or more of its students achieve at the excellent level.

Garrett County's composite scores fell to 41%, which is slightly below the state average. "We are 20th of the 24 school systems that dropped," Dr. Mullinex

Commissioners Adopt New Building Code

The Garrett County commissioners this week adopted a new building ordinance, primarily based on the International Building Code (IBC), version 2000, and the International Residential Code 2000. The new ordinance was adopted as part of an effort to standardize building codes nationwide, using the IBC as a minimum standard guideline, but allowing for local addenda.

The new county code, however, is essentially the same ordinance that the county has been using since 1997, with only two changes. One of changes concerns the clarification of accessory buildings and additions. The commissioners decided to keep the local standard requiring residents to obtain permits before constructing detached accessory buildings more than 150 square feet.

John Nelson, director of Planning and Zoning, pointed out that there has been confusion over the interpretation of the IBC's recommendation on accessory buildings. The IBC suggests that structures more than 120 square feet be required to have permits, not 400 square feet as many understood. Nelson said the 400-

GCC Alternative Ag. Tech. Center Receives Grant

Garrett Community College has received a $22,000 grant to continue operation of its Alternative Agriculture Advanced Technology Center through the current year. The funding was awarded by the Maryland Agricultural Education and Rural Development Assistance Fund Grants Board, and was approved by the state Board of Public Works.

The grant marks the second year the college has received financial assistance authorized by the Forum for Rural Maryland to support the alternative agriculture program. The funds will be used to purchase feed for the goats, rabbits, and fish, supplies for the greenhouse, and to support special projects of the agriculture program and the salary of the center coordinator, according to Jim Allen, GCC's director of technology.

This spring the center will host a demonstration project and a series of special workshops, which are being planned by agriculture instructor Willie Lantz. The demonstration project, "Managing for Success and Profitable Enterprise," is a pilot program for western Maryland meat goat pro-

FAA Gives GC Airport Plan "Green Light"

The Garrett County commissioners heard an update this week on the county's Airport Layout Plan (ALP) from URS airport consultants. Michael J. Waibel, senior airport planner, reported the airport plan received the "green light" for federal air space use from the Federal Aviation Administration in December. The firm will submit a final plan to the FAA the first of March, he said.

"It's starting to get exciting," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg. "We're going to start doing something soon."

The consultants will also be requesting $7.7 million from the FAA to fund 90 percent of the airport project. The funds would be used over a five-year period for capital improvements, such as new runway construction and repaving. The remaining 10 percent of the funding — $7,700 — would be paid by the county and the state.

"Lots of airports will also be asking for funding," said Waibel "We need to let the FAA know that the county is committed to the project."

"Fast track it," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel. "Ask the FAA to move

Mental Health Funding Dilemma Affecting Garrett Lighthouse Inc.

by Mary Sincell McEwen

There is a funding dilemma in the state of Maryland that is threatening the way of life for millions of people with mental illnesses, including many hundred in Garrett County. The depth of the problem is disputed among political leaders, with some maintaining that the situation is not as dire as others believe it to be, and others proclaiming it a potential disaster.

Regardless of how the situation is perceived, the Garrett County Lighthouse is feeling the effects, along with most mental health clinics in Maryland.

Lighthouse serves about 140 local people who struggle with various forms of mental illness. The facility offers a day program to the "consumers," who are transported from their homes to the center for counseling, socialization, medication supervision, and/or occasional field trips. Lighthouse provides a haven to the consumers, which is a relief to their families.

Lighthouse also provides home visits for medication monitoring, as well as Safe Harbor, a short-term 24-hour care facility for persons in crisis. The staff offers respite care, residential services, geriatric care, and crisis care.

Nearly all of the Lighthouse consumers' services are paid for through Medicare or Medicaid. The facility receives around $50 per "unit" of care, which is anything from a home visit for medication monitoring to a

Grantsville Area House Destroyed By Fire Tuesday

An unoccupied one-story house located in a remote area off Dung Hill Road near Grantsville was leveled by fire early Tuesday.

According to a report from Steven Wendling, deputy state fire marshal, the house was owned by Cheryl Snyder and had been vacant for approximately six months. Volunteer firefighters from the Grantsville, Bittinger, and Accident fire departments were summoned to the residence at 5:39 a.m. after Steven Snyder, son of the owner, noticed a glow in the area of the house when he awoke Tuesday morning.

By the time the blaze was discovered the house was fully engulfed in flames, and little remained standing by the time the first fire units arrived at the scene. The loss was estimated to be $50,000.

Wendling's report said that the fire was deemed accidental, originating in the area of a woodstove in an adjacent garage. The stove was being used to supply supplemental heat to keep the pipes from freezing while the house was vacant.

Firefighters remained on the scene for about 1½ hours. Also responding was the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

SHA To Increase Speed Limits Of Three Roadways

After completing a series of studies, the Maryland State Highway Administration has announced that it will be increasing the posted speed limit to 45 miles per hour along three state-maintained highways in Garrett County. The increases are not to go into effect until road signs have been upgraded in the affected locations, which is slated to take place by the end of this month.

The specific speed limit increases will affect: Md. Route 39 (Hutton Road) between the West Virginia state line and the eastern limits of Hutton; Md. Rt. 495 (Bittinger Rd.) from south of Orendorf Rd. to north of Brenneman Rd.;

NORTHERN CHEER SQUAD OFF TO NATIONALS — "We're Number One!" is a familiar refrain from the sidelines of high school athletic events, but when the Northern High School varsity cheerleaders shout it, they mean it. The Husky cheer team won last month's Maryland State Championship in the Small Varsity Squad category after beating eight other entrants in the College Park event. The Huskies are now slated to take part in Saturday's National Cheerleading Tournament in Atlantic City, N.J. "This is a dream come true, and shows that hard work does pay off," said NHS cheerleader coach Lisa Carr, in her 10th year at the Huskies' helm. The NHS squad is shown above with its state championship trophy. Kneeling from the left are head coach Carr and her three senior co-captains, Coty Warn, Amber Weimer, and Brooke Butler, along with assistant coach Larah Savage. In the second row are Amanda Friend, Carrie Friend, Stephanie Hutzel, Kimmy Beller, and Tiffany Doerr. In the third row are Kristen Schefft, Brandi Fazenbaker, Becca Stark, Abbi Sisler, and Janine Beachy. The Huskies' accomplishment is every bit as remarkable as any "sports" team championship, for cheerleading is an athletic pursuit that requires fitness, mobility, and dedication. "All of our long practice hours, bumps and bruises, and muscle pulls were definitely worth it," squad member Savage commented. "It was great to look up in the stands and see all our parents and fans yelling for us for once — it gave us a huge adrenalin boost!" added Warn. The NHS cheerleaders are accepting support to help defray this weekend's travel costs and tournament entry fees, and donations may be sent to the NHS Cheer Team, c/o Northern High School, 86 Pride Parkway, Accident MD 21520.

GBI Makes Two Arrests Connected To Burglaries

Investigators with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation has recently made additional arrests pertaining to two burglaries in the Oakland area.

Brandon Lee Ford, 20, Oakland, was charged with the April 2001 burglary of Red House School Country Mall. James Eugene Reed, 20, also of Oakland, was charged with the September 2001 burglary of the Dollar General Store.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies and GBI detectives arrived at the country mall, located south of Oakland, after management discovered someone had broken in and stolen the cash register.

In the burglary of the Dollar General Store, a small safe containing more than $5,000 in cash and checks was stolen. The safe was later recovered from a stream in the Potomac State Forest, authorities said. While investigating the burglary, authorities discovered that entry was gained in the business by a hole that was cut through a side wall.

Ford is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $10,000 bond, and Reed is being held on $15,000 bond, according to the jail spokesperson.

BOARD RECOGNIZES SECOND NATIONALLY CERTIFIED TEACHER — The Garrett County Board of Education recently recognized Gayle Farrar, science teacher at Southern Middle School, for becoming certified by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS) in early adolescent science. She is the second staff member to achieve this honor as a result of hard work, portfolio development, and extensive knowledge testing in her field, said Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Farrar's name will be added to the plaque in the board room which honors the county's National Board Certified Teachers. "This isn't a very east task," said Jack Rickman, principal. "She is very devoted to her job. She is a role model." Farrar added that she was pleased with the process of becoming certified. "The process was very broad, yet extremely focused. It always came back to the student," she said. Pictured above, from the left, are Camilla Rawe, board president; Dr. Teets; Farrar; Jack Rickman; and Bill Ewing, assistant principal.

Chamber Forms Strategic Marketing Alliance With Appalachian Crossroads

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce each year receives 40,000 to 50,000 requests to mail copies of its Vacation Guide. Requests come from the Internet, from calls related to direct advertising, and from the mail. As a result of a new partnership the chamber formed with Appalachian Crossroads, all new inquiries will be combined into a single database and shared with chamber members on a subscription basis.

"The key to successful strategic marketing is repetition of the message. The more often people hear about Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake, the more likely they will be to visit. We believe it is no longer enough for the chamber to just distribute Vacation Guides; we must turn a higher percentage of inquiries into actual visits. The chamber will send out the initial mailing with a Vacation Guide and then encourage our individual members to follow up in the weeks that ensue with their own promotional material," said Ken Wishnick, chamber president.

Appalachian Crossroads has provided mailing and fulfillment services for the chamber for the past year. This current agreement will take the working relationship between these two organizations "to the next logical level," according to Wishnick, who said he is more than satisfied" with the quality of service provided.

Chamber members subscribing to the new service will have the option of customizing their data. This would allow companies to screen for specific criteria such as geographic areas or only to responses to ads from certain publications. Subscribers will also be able to contract for their own direct mailings. For example, an accommodation could choose to have their own brochures sent out a week or two after Vacation Guides are mailed and only to inquiries from a specific area, such as Baltimore-Washington.

The chamber will also include e-mail addresses in the database whenever this is available. Plans are also under way for an e-marketing program to send special seasonal messages to visitors to alert them to special packages and events.

Doris Bittinger, who coordinates the trainees in Appalachian Crossroad's mailroom and office support program, said the contract with the chamber has proved to be successful.

"The chamber has supplied our trainees with a good consistent flow of work. I think this marketing product and this new venture will benefit both organizations. We are looking forward to this project and working in even closer cooperation with the chamber," she said.

Driver, Infant Sent To GCMH After Accident

The driver of a 1995 Ford van and her 8-month-old passenger were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment after their vehicle was involved in an accident late Sunday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jason Randall Hinebaugh was traveling westbound along Maryland Highway near Turkey Neck Road and illegally passed another westbound vehicle. He then lost control of his 1994 Hyundai and traveled into the eastbound lane, colliding with the Hardesty vehicle, according to the report.

Hinebaugh was arrested for driving while impaired (DWI), reckless driving, and various other traffic violations, police said.

Hardesty and the infant were released after treatment.

Two other incidents led to two more DWI arrests by deputies.

Kenneth Leroy Hartman, 36, Oakland, was stopped early Saturday morning along Garrett Highway just north of Oakland and failed field sobriety tests.

He was arrested and charged with failure to drive right of center, driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), and DWI.

Hartman was released from the Garrett County Jail on his own personal recognizance, according to a jail spokesperson.

Just after midnight Sunday deputies made another arrest after a traffic stop along Garrett Highway in the Red House area.

George Thomas Stewart, 28, Kitzmiller, was arrested and charged with DUI and failure to drive right of center.

He was later released on his own recognizance after appearing before a District Court commissioner.

"DON'T MONKEY AROUND, BUCKLE UP!" — In observance of National Child Passenger Safety Week, a free child safety seat check will be held in the parking lot of McDonald's in Oakland on Saturday, Feb. 16, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. All those with children from infant through 12 years old are encouraged to come and have trained child safety seat technicians make sure their children are riding as safely as possible. The little stuffed monkey shown above will be given to children who are in child safety seats or booster seats. The event is sponsored by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Health Department and will be broadcast live on WKHJ radio station. See page C-8 of this issue of The Republican for more information about the event and child safety seats.

After-School Grant Plan To Be Discussed

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. (GCPCF), a Maryland Local Management Board, is working on a grant application to the Department of Human Resources for funding for a local after-school plan.

GCPCF, along with the After School Advisory Committee, will host a planning meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 19, at the Garrett County Health Department conference room from 1 until 3 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to review the application guidelines and to begin to develop and/or refine the local plan. This is a 2-year grant. The fiscal year 2001-2002 level of funding is $142,000 per year, with more than 500 youth served at 14 locations throughout the county.

The public is invited to attend and at the beginning of the meeting may make comments concerning after-school program development. Individuals who cannot attend the meeting but who wish to make suggestions may do so by calling 301-334-1189 or by sending an e-mail to sao@gcnet.net.

"The Partnership as well as its interagency partners are making every effort to ensure that local youth are provided safe, nurturing, out-of-school environments that improve resiliency, competencies, and skills that lead to healthy behaviors and decision-making," said Susan Athey-Oxford, director of GCPCF.

Events Slated For Cherries, Chill Festival

A variety of activities has been planned for the third annual Cherries and Chill Festival at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville to be held on Feb. 15 and 16, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Saturday activities begin with a Cherry Desserts Contest in the heated Village Church, where entrants bring already-prepared cherry desserts for judging in six categories. There is no cost to enter, and certificates, ribbons, and gift certificates will be awarded. Serving as the Celebrity Dessert Connoisseurs will be Fred Holliday, Garrett County commissioner; Ken Wishnick, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president; Robin Bissell, M.D., Greater Grantsville Business Association president; and Steve Schlosnagle, Garrett County Arts Council executive director. Registration will be from 8:30 until 9:30 a.m., with judging behind locked doors.

Following the judging, the public will be invited inside to taste the desserts. The winners will be announced and awards will be presented at that time.

In addition to the dessert contest, visitors will be able to meet the artisans.

"Our colonial village consists of authentic, restored log cabins, which are heated for our visitors' comfort, and inside, folks will find artisans who hand-craft, showcase, and market their artworks," said Trish Morgan, village administrator. "For example, on campus during the festival, visitors will have the opportunity to meet the world-renowned bird sculptor Gary Yoder, whose works have garnered numerous regional, national, and international awards. Joining Gary at the festival will be Lynn Lais, potter; Jody Best, blacksmith; Connie Stark, teddy bear artist and herb specialist; Peggy Nixon, slate painter; Ann Jones, weaver; Meriam Brode, basketweaver; and Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, stained glass artists.

Visitors are asked to stop in the Village Office upon arrival, where hostesses will offer complimentary hot chocolate and chances to win a variety of door prizes. The Miller House and Compton School will also be open for tours.

Weather permitting, activities for children will also be scheduled for Saturday, including a cherry hunt and snow-building contest.

"Complementing the Cherries and Chill Festival at Spruce Forest will be the neighboring Penn Alps Restaurant, which will feature a full dinner menu, as well as the renowned 'all-you-can-eat' hand-carved prime rib and steamed shrimp country buffet from 4 to 8 p.m. both evenings," said Morgan.

On Saturday morning, the restaurant will feature a breakfast buffet from 8 to 11 a.m. and the festival brunch buffet from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Also adjacent to Spruce Forest Artisan Village is the Elliott House Victorian Inn, and innkeepers Wayne and Donna Kelley will feature a "Presidents' Day Weekend and Valentine's Day Weekend" package which includes two nights' lodging, a dozen red roses, and full cooked breakfasts.

The Elliott House Chocolates and Gift Shop will also be open during the festival.

The festival is sponsored in part by Penn Alps and the Maryland state and Garrett County arts councils. Admission to all activities is free. For more information or directions, persons may call Morgan at 301-895-3332.

Oakland Woman Pleads Guilty To Sex Offenses

Rebecca Bittinger, 22, Oakland, pleaded guilty last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to three counts of fourth degree sexual offense. For each of these offenses, Bittinger received one year in the Garrett County Jail, to be served consecutively. Judge James Sherbin then suspended the sentences and placed Bittinger on supervised probation for two years and required her to complete mental health counseling.

Bittinger was originally charged with a variety of third degree sexual offenses and perverted sexual practices. The charges were filed by Oakland City Police last June after officers reportedly determined that she had engaged in a relationship with two underage persons in the month of May. After recently reviewing the facts and evidence available in the case, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch amended the charges to fourth degree sexual offenses, to which Bittinger pleaded guilty.

Slick Roadways Lead To Single-Vehicle Crashes

A pair of single-vehicle accidents that occurred during the snowstorm of Monday morning were attributed to slick road surfaces by the Maryland State Police. No charges were filed in the mishaps, which resulted in minor injuries for four individuals.

The first accident took place shortly after 4 a.m. at the intersection of Glendale and Bittinger roads. A 1996 Ford F350 pickup truck operated by Johnny Mayne, 32, Oakland, was unable to stop as it approached the stop sign at the end of Glendale Road, and slid off the road, down an embankment, and struck a tree.

Mayne and one of his two passengers, Randy Mellinger, 32, Oakland, were transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where both were treated and released. A third passenger, John Graham, 36, Oakland, escaped injury. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

A 10 a.m. mishap along Interstate 68 sent both occupants of a Ford F150 pickup truck to the hospital. Gojko Arbutina, 53, and his passenger Anka Arbutina, 48, both of Rahway, N.J., were traveling east on the interstate when the truck went into a skid, struck an embankment, and overturned.

The Arbutinas were transported by the Frostburg Ambulance Service to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where both were treated and released.

Staff Puzzled

said. "Our drop was not unique."

The unusual fluctuations delayed the official release of the report. Independent researchers reviewed the test before releasing it. Rodney Durst, board member, commented that when attending a state meeting, Dr. Nancy Grasnick, state superintendent, was "also troubled" by the results.

Dr. Teets noted that two of the schools show steady improvement. Four additional schools were within a few students of meeting a standard with more than 60% of their students at the satisfactory level, he said.

The dropout rate was also up slightly from last year.

"This is an area that is being examined closely by all our schools and is targeted specifically for reduction in the school improvement plans of the two high schools," Dr. Teets said.

Dr. Mullinex and Dr. McCartney agreed that the reasons behind the drops in the overall scores are puzzling.

For instance, Dr. Mullinex noted that two years ago the third graders were at a satisfactory level, and as fourth graders they were reading at a 7th grade level, but this year as fifth graders they scored well below the state level.

The MSPAP tests students in third, fifth, and eighth grades in reading, writing, language usage, mathematics, science, and social studies.

She added that the area of reading is a concern, but noted that the students continue to remain strong and exceed both the state and national averages in almost every area for the Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills (CTBS).

This test is given to second, fourth, and sixth grade students in reading, language, mathematics, language mechanics, and mathematics computation.

The county also performed well above the state average in the Independence Mastery Assessment Program (IMAP) for special education students.

"This speaks very well of our special education department," Dr. Mullinex said. The students were scored on a portfolio and a videotape of tasks that they perform.

"Overall we are not pleased with the performance of the schools," Dr. McCartney concluded. "We need to do better. But I believe we have an excellent instructional program and we are serving our students well."

Schlosnagle Reelected To Mayoral Post

Spencer R. Schlosnagle will serve his ninth consecutive team as mayor of Friendsville, as he was reelected by a better than 4-1 margin in Tuesday's municipal election.

Schlosnagle, who first became mayor at the age of 21 in 1986, received 112 votes, while his opponent, former mayor James R. Spear, garnered 26 votes.

Reelected to the town council were incumbents Terry Spear with 77 votes, Frances King with 75, and James Lininger with 67. Jess Whittemore was close behind with 64 votes, and Frances Fike-Friend received 61 votes.

Just over 58% of the town's registered/eligible voters participated in the election, with 138 persons casting ballots.

Tubing, Reggae Set To Benefit Special Olympics

Unlimited tubing and "groovin" reggae will kick off the inaugural Wisp Tubes of Fire Mountain Reggae Fest from 6 p.m. until midnight on Friday, Feb. 22, at the Bear Claw Snow Tubing Park at Wisp Resort to benefit the Special Olympics.

The event will feature four hours of unlimited tubing, "jamming to the reggae at the bottom" with the Maryland reggae band Mama Jama, raffles, games, and giveaways. Admission is $20.

Mama Jama is "one of the most popular" reggae bands in Maryland, and has performed with James Taylor, Tina Turner, and Jimmy Buffett.

The Wisp Tubes of Fire Mountain Reggae Fest is part of Special Olympics Maryland Mountain Madness, which will also include the fourth annual Deep Creek Dunk at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 23.

The events will culminate with the opening ceremonies for Special Olympics Maryland on Sunday, Feb. 24, featuring thousands of athletes from across Maryland competing in such skill events as cross-country skiing and alpine skiing.

911 Calls Lead To Arrest Of Oakland Man

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested an Oakland man after they responded to a residence along White Church Road in reference to 911 calls.

Investigation revealed that Mark Lewis Riley, 34, allegedly assaulted his girlfriend and was in possession of drugs, police said.

He was arrested and charged with second-degree assault, possession of marijuana, and possession of marijuana paraphernalia.

Riley was released from the Garrett County Jail on his own recognizance.

Maryland State Police, Gorman Volunteer Fire Department, and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the 3:40 a.m. incident on Friday.

In another incident, a Loch Lynn man was arrested on drunk driving charges after his vehicle was stopped for several traffic violations.

Paul Kip Burns, 31, did not pass field sobriety tests to the deputies' satisfaction, and was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired, and failure to stop at a stop sign.

He was released from jail after posting $500 bond.

In a separate incident, Chloie Jean Holtschneider, 35, McHenry, was arrested and charged with DUI, failure to drive right of center, and driving without a license.

She was released on her own recognizance, police said.

Battling a Stigma...

Advancements in drug therapies and medical technology continue at an impressive rate, paving the way for more and more people to survive once fatal illnesses and injuries. Many researchers believe that within the next several decades the average life span in the United States will approach triple digits.

Of course, one of the downsides to all of these advancements, and Americans' insistence that they want to live forever, is that they require huge expenditures of money, resulting in a continuous rise in the cost of health care and health insurance. For many the cost is already beyond their means, and businesses that provide health insurance for their employees are hardpressed to be able to continue to afford this benefit. The level of care and number of services provided by health insurance plans are also being reduced in an attempt to cut costs.

While the reduction of services in the area of physical health is a concern of just about everyone, not nearly as many people seem to be concerned about the reduction of services in the mental health arena, except those who happen to be mentally ill themselves, have a mentally ill loved one, or are employed in a mental health profession. In recent months the amount of state and federal money available to assist those with mental illnesses has been dwindling. The future of some agencies that provide mental health is literally on the line, and their demise would be devastating to their mentally ill consumers, their families, and even the communities in which they live.

The case management provided by these agencies may include everything from drug therapy to counseling to day care to employment. Prior to the availability of these services, many mentally ill people, through no fault of their own, were wandering the streets, sitting in jail because of their criminal activity, and destroying the lives of the other members of their families. A loss of these services would simply return them to this one-way street of misery.

We as a society just can't seem to rid ourselves of this stigma about mental illness. We have no problem justifying care for someone who has heart disease, diabetes, or traumatic injuries. Yet we try our best to ignore mental illness, unless and until we are personally confronted with it, and we think of it more as a demonization of some kind instead of an illness. We ignorantly assume that a mentally ill person can choose to do something about his bizarre behavior, which is equivalent to assuming that a person with an untreated compound fracture of the leg can simply choose to walk.

Everyone is ranting and raving about the cost of physical health care and loss of services. but not nearly enough people are lining up to address the same crisis that is facing the mentally ill folks in our society. Yes, there is only so much money to go around, and yes, all effort must be made to eliminate the waste that certainly exists in our health care system. But all of us must elevate the level of our concern for the mentally ill and start insisting that treatment of these patients is just as important as treatment of those with physical health problems.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Now that the country is involved in the excitement and drama of the Winter Olympic Games, I would like to bring to mind the name of Baron Pierre de Coubertin of France, who single-handedly resurrected the Olympic Games in 1896 in Athens, Greece, with eight nations participating. This, after a 1,500-year hiatus since the original games.

The Baron committed his life and fortune for 16 years to establish the modern games and the International Olympic Committee, also to keep them going every four years.

So as we enjoy the games, periodically remember the efforts of the Baron, and the fact that one person can make a difference for the good of humankind.

Sincerely,
Paul Shogren
Oakland

To the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the Garrett County Humane Society and the Garrett County Animal Shelter. We are concerned about companion animal overpopulation in this country, and we are doing something about it during the month of March.

Each year shelter workers are forced to euthanize approximately 5 million homeless cats and dogs. That's one every 6½ seconds. Although many of these animals are healthy and adoptable, the sheer number of them outweighs that availability of good homes. America's taxpayers bear the cost of picking up, housing, and ultimately euthanizing these potential pets. Millions more cats and dogs never even make it to the shelters. They are abandoned by guardians, breed uncontrollably, and ultimately die from starvation, exposure, disease, or some other human-inflicted cruelty.

Fortunately, there is some good news. The Garrett County Humane Society and the Garrett County Animal Shelter are jointly sponsoring Spay Neuter Awareness Month during March. This is the second year for this event. The first year was a true success. Its simple objective is to encourage every Garrett County citizen to take responsibility for having at least one cat or dog spayed or neutered. Altering the beloved animals with which we share our homes prevents the births of unwanted kittens and puppies and, by extension, needless suffering and death.

Our community can help fix this sad situation by participating in Spay Neuter Awareness Month. For more information about this observance, call 301-746-5725 or 301-334-3553. By working together we can make the routine deaths of millions of companion animals a distant memory.

Sincerely,
Candy M. Virts
Animal Shelter Assistant

To the Editor:

To quote a few words from a letter you recently published, I too never cease to be amazed by human ignorance and arrogance. In my opinion, a pretty good example of that is someone who would say they consider a wild animal probably weighing several hundred pounds that smashed its way into a person's home, an "inconvenience" or an "interaction with nature"! Minor property damage? Not if it were my kitchen!

Personally, I think the bears must have hired Bill Clinton's press agent. If we had several hundred giant rats roaming the county causing damage wherever and whenever they please, the powers that be would undoubtedly call out the National Guard to exterminate the varmints causing the problems! But not to worry, that was just Yogi and Boo Boo that paid you a visit last night. Don't you know you shouldn't be living here in Jellystone Park anyway if you're going to complain about having the doors torn off your outbuildings as I have, or your livestock killed by these beasts as have many others? Perhaps that's the real reason for the "wall to wall" fast food outlets in Oakland. The state could pay us to "eat out" every night so the bears won't smell our cooking and be tempted to "crash the party" at our place!

But seriously, folks, while I'm not sure that a bear hunt is going to solve all our problems on this issue, sooner, rather than later, the state has to face up to the reality that many people in and around this county have no intention of having their private property overrun and damaged by an ever expanding bear population, no matter what the government says. If nothing is done you can believe that, as the Sun article stated, the "three-S rule" or worse will continue to be applied more and more. With a hunt the state would at least have some idea of how many bears they're losing. Now, many are being taken down by means that, the way I've heard it, are a lot less humane, if you will, than a well-placed rifle shot.

Hunt or no hunt though, in my opinion we should be more concerned with restoring and upholding the rights of citizens to defend their homes, farms, and property from these unpredictable varmints without feeling threatened by our government for doing so.

Finally, let me say that I don't know anyone planning to take the previous writer's advice to move away anytime soon because of this issue. However, if I were a person so concerned about an intruding giant rat — oh, excuse me — bear being "murdered," as one writer put it some months back, then perhaps I might ponder whether I really wanted to relocate here to live among the intolerant, arrogant, freedom-loving residents of this part of Appalachia "we-uns" sometimes call Garrett County!

SAINT? VALENTINE

Beyond the curtain of history, human beings were sacrificed in Rome on this day. By 296 B.C. goats and a dog had taken their place. Two priests were led to the altar, where their foreheads were touched with the knife, bloody from the recent sacrifice. The knife blades were then wiped with wool which had been dipped in milk. At that moment two men were required to laugh.

Thongs were cut from the skins of the sacrificed animals. The priests took the thongs and ran with them around the city, striking people with them. Women, especially, were glad for the trivial blow since it was believed to prevent sterility. Thus the land was cleansed and the fecundity of man, beast, and earth was secured for another year. The thongs were called februa. So much the Encyclopedia Britannica tells us.

February was the month for purification of a kind that ensured birth and growth. From a modern, scientific point of view, we can think of it as a time when bad things were cleared out in order to give good things room to grow. Fast forward to the third Christian century. The Roman government was persecuting Christians. Valentine was a common given name. Two Valentines, one a priest and the other a bishop, are thought to have been martyred in Rome on February 14. Perhaps there were two, perhaps one, perhaps none. The evidence for the martyrdom of Valentine or Valentines is sketchy, at best. The witness is the same: in that era a Christian was always in danger of becoming a sacrifice.

When Christianity came above ground during the next century the old purification rites were not so much abandoned or condemned as quietly converted. During that period it seems likely that some of the traditions relating to procreation were shifted from the old pagan observance to the feast of Saint or Saints Valentine.

St. Valentine became very popular in England, and yet no church is known ever to have been dedicated to him. The association of courtship with this day goes back to Geoffrey Chaucer in the 14th century. While Chaucer lived a long time ago, more than a thousand years stand between him and St. Valentine, a murky period for discerning the development of traditions on this day.

From the time of Chaucer onwards, however, there is plenty of indication as to observance of St. Valentine's Day in England. The original valentines were folded pieces of paper inscribed with the names of individuals of the opposite sex, from which each drew his lot. So common was the word "valentine" used in respect to a lottery, that members of parliament drew valentines to see which desk each would get.

The lovemaking of St. Valentine's Day had a random quality to it, something preserved today in the Sadie Hawkins dances. At my son's school, they call the dance near St. Valentine's Day the Morp, which is "prom" in reverse. It is a day when backwards is forwards and anything might happen.

The Roman Catholic Church caused some furor in 1969 when St. Valentine, along with many other saints, was deleted from the Roman Calendar. In one of my constant references for matters liturgical we find this explanation, "The result was unexpectedly severe criticism. It was said that some saints had been abolished or demoted; these saints had been the victims of liturgical reform."

The book goes on to insist that there is another list, of martyrs, from which St. Valentine was never deleted. Be that as it may, the appearance was that Valentine had been de-sainted. Perhaps that is one reason we hear the day increasingly referred to as "Valentine's Day," rather than as "St. Valentine's Day."

It is odd, and interesting too, when the Catholic Church imitates the mistakes of the 17th century Puritans. The Puritans were great on throwing out a holy day because there were pagan bits and pieces sticking to it. The problem was that they managed to throw out the holy day, but they never could get rid of the pagan bits and pieces.

Valentine's Day without sainthood leaves us with remnants of an ancient fertility festival from which St. Valentine tried, posthumously, to rescue us. What St. Valentine gives us with his martyrdom on this day is the message that love is not random. Love is not something to be drawn out of a hat. Love always costs something, and sometimes costs everything.

GOING SOUTH, MEETING THE MOUSE
by Mary Sincell McEwen
PART FIVE:
Sore Feet And Sore Throats

Okay, it was Day 4 at Disney World and all six of us — John, Mom, Rob, Alex, Michael, and I — were getting tired. Rolling out of bed on Thursday was a task. We had pushed ourselves for days and our bodies were starting to complain. But we ignored them as best we could and struck out again, this day headed back to the Magic Kingdom to do the second half of the park, and then on to Epcot to catch the Illuminations: Reflections of Earth spectacfantasmicwonderful nighttime show. I, frankly, was getting a little weary of spectacfantasmicwonderful stuff, but I was determined for us to see all we could possibly see, no matter what. While still lying in bed that morning, I dreamed about how nifty it would be to be fabulously rich, so rich that you could work in a few lazy days in your Disney odyssey. Just days to lie around, sipping mint juleps apd wading in the hot tub. But we aren't there financially, so forget the sipping and wading.

When one plans a trip to Florida, one pictures warm sunny days and new tans. Well, scratch that. Thursday was sunny, yes, but there was a biting wind that ripped right through our jackets. It was downright cold. We put on layers and headed out, but there was another nagging problem. Michael was not his chipper self, and indeed looked pained at breakfast. "I can't swallow," he said, "'cause it hurts my neck." He meant his throat, of course, and for a kid who never complains, I knew this was a loud alarm. So I rushed to the Disney general store and bought some Disney acetaminophen and shoved several into his mouth. That did the trick for exactly four hours, when he clamped his hands around his neck again and teared up. Whooboy, this was not good. Four more pills, four more good hours. We went about our day, but I worried constantly, mother that I am.

During the pain-relieved hours, we had some fun. Buzz Lightyear's Space Ranger's Spin was great, especially since we all just love Buzz. And there was a life-size part-robot/part-hologram of him near the entrance of the ride who talked to us about our mission, which was to blast all the Zurgs we could find as we rolled through the spacey place. What fun! And who racked up the most points of all six of us? Yours truly, thanks, chiefly because I was the only one who actually heard what we were supposed to shoot at. Michael still says that was his favorite ride. And we visited the old Carousel of Progress, dated yet engaging, and the Timekeeper show, one of those movie-screens-all-around deals that was not so much engaging as nauseating.

When you're a kid, driving a car is a far-away dream, so one of the biggest attractions for small people is the Indy Speedway, consisting of little race cars that the kids drive while the parents ride along, asking questions like "Are we there yet?" It's dead boring for adults because we drive all the time, but for kids it's a different story. So we waited in line for about an hour to ride this thing, with the six of us split up as follows: Hannah and Robert, Michael and John, and Alex and me. The boys all drove, although they had many nervous "what if" questions before getting behind the wheel. We started around, finally, with Alex and me out in front. After what seemed an eternity, we came to the end and got out. I heard a young woman say, "I wonder if they know that lady is stuck in the middle of the track?" Alex looked at me and I looked at him. "Where's Hannah?" he asked. Oh jeez. We looked for the rest of our group and saw no one for a while. Finally they all four came up, wind-blown and giggling. "Our car died," Rob shouted to me. "Michael and Dad had to push us!" And it was true. The car just stopped and there sat Mom and Rob, helpless. John came up behind them and nudged them along to the end, all the while preserving the episode on videotape. A cinematographic gem.

Having Mom with us was convenient when it came to rollercoasters. John and I based our early relationship on trips to places like Kennywood, where we rode coasters non-stop. So Mom stayed with the boys while John and I rode the Thunder Mountain Railroad for old time's sake. We tried to ride Space Mountain, but it broke right before we got there. We stood in line for a little while, until John mused, "Wonder if there are people stuck in the dark on that thing?" Yikes! "Let's go," I said. "We'll ride it next time."

We said goodbye to the Magic Kingdom and boarded the monorail to Epcot, and were on it for about three minutes before Michael fell fast asleep. He had a 10-minute nap as we sailed along, and then we had to almost shout in his car to wake him up to get off before the door clamped shut. He was miserable, so John rented a stroller for him. That cheered him, even though his big-for-6-year-old frame barely fit into the seat. Alex was content to push him, fast, and that worked fine. But the rest of the evening was a bit of a bust. We were freezing and the show wasn't to start for two hours. We were hungry, but every restaurant had a wait-time of an hour or more. At one point I yanked off my coat and wrapped it around Michael, which prompted Mom to immediately buy me a sweatshirt. In all those countries at Epcot, we ended up feeding the boys at the American restaurant, for pete's sake. We did stay for the Illuminations, which was indeed fantasgreat, but we were glad to get back to the hotel and get warm. No swimming that night.

As Michael readied for bed, I noticed a red rash developing on his face and neck. Oh, great. So it's not just a sore throat, it's probably strep throat. One more day — do we make him tough it out or do we find a doctor? I was acutely homesick for the Garrett Medical Group as I tucked my baby in bed. What to do, what to do?

Next week: Conclusion (it's about stinkin' time!): The Magic of MGM, Antibiotics, and Sleeper Cars.

MSP Files Auto Theft Charges In DJJ Escape

Two boys who had escaped from the Savage Mountain Youth Camp of the Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice in January face a vehicle theft charge filed Maryland State Police investigators, who also charged them with theft from another vehicle.

The pair, 17 and 14 years old, escaped from the DJJ facility, located in Garrett County near Lonaconing, on Jan. 17 and allegedly stole a vehicle from G&P Auto Services in the Grantsville area. They have also been charged with theft from another vehicle parked along Twin Churches Road. The suspects drove the G&P vehicle to Hagerstown, where it was recovered, and the boys were arrested shortly thereafter.

Funding Dilemma

day of activities at Lighthouse. The price per hour is higher than $50, and the consumers are supposed to pay the difference, but most do not because of severe financial situations.

This funding from Medicare/Medicaid is to cover a variety of services, including case management, rehabilitation activities, direct care, medication monitoring, transportation, staff payroll, administration, and operational costs. While insurance rates and living costs have risen each year, the fee-for-service rate has not gone up for some time.

When the state faced the current budget crisis, the government sought to make mental health care more efficient. In an effort to better screen the services being offered, the Maryland Health Partners (MHP) was hired by the Maryland Mental Hygiene Administration. MHP began to examine what services were being provided to whom, and then began "weeding out" people who were, in the opinion of MHP, not in need of as many services as they were receiving. For example, an individual who received seven units of service per week may have been cut to three per week.

These cuts in authorized service units have adversely affected most mental health clinics across the state. As of the end of January, clinics have closed in five Maryland counties and in Baltimore City. More are expected to close within months, according to reports. Lighthouse officials do report, however, that the facility is not on the verge of closing.

"No, we are not closing our doors," said Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski, Lighthouse CEO. "But we have cut our services dramatically, and our staff is suffering because of the budget limitations."

Obtaining authorizations for units of service has become a much more complicated process as well. Paper work, delays, and the appeals process are all increased, Adams-Noroski said, and the authorization for service is provided in only three-month increments.

"We base our budget on our authorizations. If we only know three months' worth, how can we set a budget for an entire year?" Adams-Noroski said.

Delegate George Edwards has been in contact with Lighthouse officials and has offered some possible relief in that area, he said. In a conversation with Oscar Morgan, executive director of the Mental Hygiene Administration, the delegate learned that the period of authorization approvals will be increased from three to six months. While that will relieve some of the paperwork woes, many others remain.

According to a report from the Community Behavioral Health Association of Maryland (CBH), the mental health system in Maryland is beyond the breaking point, as nearly 80,000 Marylanders, 42% of whom are under age 21, are using a system set up to serve 50,000. This situation tied to the recent crackdown on authorizations by the MHP has caused an explosion of paperwork and appeals for denied authorizations. The local Core Services Agency (CSA), Mountaintop Mental Health Associates, has been busy helping local consumers submit appeals to the MHP.

"There's no question that the appeals have increased dramatically in recent months," said Trish Yoder, executive director of the CSA, who said she believes the state is "making sure the most needed services are getting to the most needy." She said people do have recourse through the CSA.

"I don't believe people are being left out in the cold, even though they may feel that way," Yoder said. She noted that the CSA's Drop-In Clinic schedule has been expanded from two days to four days. The center is open on Fridays from 1 to 5 p.m., Saturdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1 to 5 p.m.

She said the office will help any consumer with the appeal process.

"The CSA is helping with appeals, and in fact we've been able to get everyone who was denied back into some level of services," she said.

However, the appeal process can be lengthy, and sometimes fruitless, for consumers. Adams-Noroski said many individuals who actually need regular care are being denied services.

A FAULTY FLUE was apparently the cause of a fire in downtown Terra Alta, W.Va., yesterday which resulted in minor damage to this house being rented by Jared Beckman, formerly of Oakland. Firefighters from Terra Alta and Oakland VFDs were summoned to the residence just before noon and extinguished the blaze quickly. Beckman, who is a registered nurse at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, resides there with his wife Joy and their 15-month-old daughter Christy. There were no injuries reported.
